☞ Jefferson Davis is of the opinion that the Democrats of the North and the "Conservative Republicans" of the South represent all there is left of the principle of self-government.

☞ The whaling schooner Susan N. Smith of Boston was lost in the hurricane of August 28. All hands were drowned with the exception of the captain and four seamen, who, after remaining on the wreck, which was on her beam ends, for eight days and nights, without food or water, were taken off and carried into London by an English barque. The captain's wife and two children were drowned in the cabin.

☞ The corn canning factory at North Yarmouth, Me., fills on an average 1500 cans daily. The whole number of cans filled this year by the company will exceed 300,000.

POSTHUMOUS CHARITY.—Two widely-known men have lately died,—men who had been much blamed for some of their acts, and assailed with reproaches, or accusations of having been influenced by unworthy motives, while living; but no sooner is it made known that they are done with the world, than it is at once assumed by many that the world should be done with them,—or should remember them only to praise their virtues, no matter whether they are more than counterbalanced by vices, or not. This is supposed to be charity,—but it is really lying. It is unjust to other and better men, it is unjust to posterity, and it is immoral. A base action is not made noble by the death of the actor; and, as evil deeds live long after the evil doers have returned to dust, so part of the punishment for committing such deeds is found in the condemnation of those who come after.

Besides this, such undeserved praise has no effect, other than to make those appear ridiculous who spend most of their breath in reviling those they dislike, while they live, and use up what remains in fulsome adulation, as soon as they are dead. No one is deceived by it. When we have for years heard a man abused as the blackest of villains, and are then suddenly informed on the same authority that he is purer than the angels, we are at once inclined to think there must have been a mistake somewhere, at some time. Yet we are required to swallow both stories, particularly the last, on pain of being accused of want of charity, &c. "Let the dead rest," is hurled at the head of any one who dares to express a genuine opinion of the demerits of another, if that other be but dead. No matter if the fruit of his action is carrying misery to thousands, or his teachings poisoning the minds of millions,—he is dead; deal with him tenderly; be charitable; "if you cannot speak well of him speak not at all—let the dead rest." Such cantingmawkish, namby-pamby affectation of charity is sickening. As though an act deserving of scorn and detestation while its author lived would become righteous and admirable as soon as he died. Bah!

Some of the remarks on the deaths of Senator Fessenden and Ex-President Pierce furnish good examples of this style of "charity." The first, after a public life so spent as to win the confidence of the friends of freedom and right, betrayed,—not merely his party, but the cause of justice, equality and honesty. For this he was stormed at and accused of unworthy motives, (bribery even, by some,)—but no sooner was he dead than a cloud of incense arose which completely hid the black stain from view. Ex-President Pierce has for years been credited with being an aristocrat, traitor and rebel. He is dead,—and though it may not be necessary to reiterate these charges or bring forward proofs to support them, yet there is no need to bow down and worship as a god, a man who was not regarded as particularly good while living. Had a personage who now bears an indifferent name in history lived in more modern times, and had his record endorsed by some of our modern editors, instead of the unvarnished tale of scoundrelism which we now have, we should probably read something like the following:

DEATH OF AN EMINENT MAN.—We grieve to record the death of the honorable and upright merchant and righteous man, Hon. Judas Iscariot. Long and favorably known to our citizens and the public, as a true gentleman, courteous and kind in all his dealings, his demise leaves a void which will be hard indeed to fill. Rest his soul.

PAKEHA.

—Little four-year-old Massie had long been vainly endeavoring to pucker his mouth into shape for the whistling of a national tune he had heard upon the street. At last he went to his mother in despair, exclaiming, "Ma, I's so little I can't make a hole big enough for Yankee Doolum to dit out!"

—"Off she goes," said a lady, speaking of the train as it was starting. "You have mistaken the gender madam," said a gentleman, "this is a mail train."

A PACIFIC RAILWAY

GOLD LOAN $6,500,000.

We beg leave to announce that we have accepted the agency of the

KANSAS PACIFIC RAILWAY COMPANY,

For the sale of its

NEW SEVEN PER CENT.
Thirty Year Gold Loan,
Free from Tax.

This Loan amounts to $6,500,000.

First Mortgage Land-Grant and Sinking Fund Bonds,

secured upon the extension of the Railway from near Sheridan, in Kansas, to Denver, Colorado, a distance of 237 miles of which 12 miles are completed, and the rest is under construction. It is also a Mortgage upon the Road, the Rolling Stock and Franchise of this first-class Railway, besides now running through the State of Kansas,

And in successful operation for 437 miles

west of the Missouri River, and earning already enough to meet all of its expenses and existing obligations, besides MORE THAN THE INTEREST UPON THE NEW LOAN. In addition to this the Bonds are also secured by a first mortgage of the

GOVERNMENT LAND GRANT OF THREE MILLION ACRES,

extending in alternate sections on either side of the track, from the 394th mile post in Kansas to Denver. The proceeds of the sale of these lands are to be invested by the Trustees in the 7 per cent Bonds, themselves up to 120 in U. S. Bonds, as

A SINKING FUND FOR THE REDEMPTION OF THE BONDS.

The Lands embrace some of the finest portions of the magnificent Territory of Colorado, including a coal field and pinery. The company also holds as an asset another tract of

Three Millions of Acres in the State of Kansas,

and although not pledged as a security for this Loan, their possession adds largely to the Company's wealth and credit. We estimate the Value of the Company's property, covered by this mortgage at $23,000,000 net, while the Loan is merely $6,500,000.

The Bonds have

THIRTY YEARS TO RUN,

from May 1, 1869, and will pay

SEVEN PER CENT. INTEREST IN GOLD, semi-annually, on May 1 and Nov. 1, and are FREE FROM GOVERNMENT TAXATION, the Company paying the tax.

The principal of the Loan is made payable in Gold, in the City of New York, but each coupon will be

PAYABLE IN FRANKFORT, LONDON OR N. YORK at option of the holder, with notice, at the following rates:

On $1,000 Bond in N. Y. $35 (gold) each half year.
" London....£7 s5. 10. "
" Frankfort..87 flr. 50 krtzs., "

The Agents of the Loan, before accepting the trust had the conditions of the Road, and the country through which it runs, carefully examined. They are happy to give the Loan an emphatic endorsement as a

FIRST CLASS INVESTMENT,

in every respect perfectly sure, and in some essential even

Better than Government Securities.

The Bonds will be sold for the present at

96, and accrued Interest, both in Currency,

the Agents reserving the right to advance the rate.

The attention of investors is invited to these well-secured bonds, which we recommend as one of the most profitable investments in the market.

Gold and Government Securities taken in payment at their market value, without commission.

MARK TWAIN ON JOURNALISM IN TENNESSEE.

[From the Buffalo Express, Sept. 4th.]

The editor of the Memphis Avalanche swoops thus mildly down upon a correspondent who posted him as a Radical: "While he was writing the first word, the middle word, dotting his i's, crossing his t's, and punching his periods, he knew that he was concocting a sentence which was saturated with infamy and reeking with falsehood."—Exchange.

I was told by a physician that a Southern climate would improve my health, and so I went down to Tennessee, and got a berth on the Morning Glory Ana Johnson County Warwhoop, as an associate editor. When I went on duty I found the chief editor sitting tilted back in a three-legged chair, with his feet on a pine table. There was another pine table in the room, and another afflicted chair, and both were buried under newspapers and scraps of sheets of manuscript. There was a wooden box of sand, sprinkled with cigar stubs and "old soldiers," and a stove with a door hanging by its upper hinge. The chief editor had a long-tailed black cloth frock coat on, and white linen pants. His boots were small and neatly blacked. He wore a ruffled shirt, a large seal ring, a standing collar of obsolete pattern, and a checkered neckerchief with the ends hanging down. Date of custom, 1848. He was smoking a cigar and trying to think of a word. And in trying to think of a word, and in pawing his hair for it, he had rumpled his locks a good deal. He was scowling fearfully, and I judged that he was concocting a particularly knotty editorial. He told me to take the exchanges and skim them through, and write up the "Spirit of the Tennessee Press," condensing into the article all of their contents that seemed of interest.

I wrote as follows:

SPIRIT OF THE TENNESSEE PRESS.—"The editors of the Semi-Weekly Earthquake evidently labored under a misapprehension in regard to the Ballyhack Railroad. It is not the object of the company to leave Buzzardville off to one side. On the contrary they considers it one of the most important points along the line, and consequently can have no desire to slight it. The gentlemen of the Earthquake will of course take pleasure in making the correction.

John W. Blossom, Esq., the able editor of the Higginsville Thunderbolt and Battle Cry of Freedom, arrived in this city yesterday. He is stopping at the Van Buren House.

We observe that our cotemporary of the Mud Springs' Morning Herald has fallen into the error of supposing that the election of Van Werter is not an established fact, but he will have discovered his mistake before this reminder reaches him, no doubt. He was doubtless misled by incomplete election returns.

It is a pleasure to note that the city of Blatherville is endeavoring to contract with some New York gentlemen to pave its well nigh impassable streets with the Nicolson pavement. But it is difficult to accomplish a desire like this since Memphis got some New Yorkers to do a like service for her, and then declined to pay for it. However, the Daily Hurrah still urges the measure with ability, and seems confident of ultimate success.

We are pained to learn that Colonel Bascom, chief editor of the Dying Shriek for Liberty, fell in the streets a few evening since, and broke his leg. He has lately been suffering with debility, caused by over-work and anxiety on account of sickness in his family, and it is supposed that he fainted from the exertion of walking too much in the sun."

I passed my manuscript over to the chief editor for acceptance, alteration or destruction. He glanced at it, and his face clouded. He ran his eye down the pages, and his countenance grew portentous. It was easy to see that something was wrong. Presently, he sprang up, and said:

"Thunder and lightning! Do you suppose I am going to speak of those cattle in that way? Give me the pen!"

I never saw a pen scrape and scratch its way so viciously, or plow through another man's verbs and adjectives so relentlessly. While he was in the midst of his work, somebody shot at him through the open window, and marred the symmetry of his ear.

"Ah," said he, "that is that scoundrel Smith, of the Moral Volcano — he was due yesterday." And he snatched a navy revolver from his belt and fired. Smith dropped, shot in the thigh. The shot spoiled Smith's aim, who was just taking a second chance, and he crippled a stranger. It was me. Merely a finger shot off.

Then the chief editor went on with his erasures and interlineations. Just as he finished them a hand grenade came down the stove-pipe, and the explosion shivered the stove into a thousand fragments. However, it did no further damage, except that a vagrant piece knocked a couple of my teeth out.

"That stove is utterly ruined," said the chief editor.

I said, I believed it was.

"Well, no matter—don't want it this kind of weather. I know the man that did it. I'll get him. Now here is the way this stuff ought to be written."

I took the manuscript. It was scarred with erasures and interlineations till its mother would not have known it, if it had had one. It now reads as follows:

"SPIRIT OF THE TENNESSEE PRESS.—The inveterate liars of the Semi-Weekly Earthquake are evidently endeavoring to palm off upon a noble and chivalrous people another of their vile and brutal falsehoods with regard to that most glorious conception of the nineteenth century, the Ballyhack Railroad. The idea that Buzzardville was to be left off at one side, originated in their own fulsome brains — or rather in the settlings which they regard as brains. They had better swallow this lie, and not stop to chew it, either, if they want to save their abandoned, reptile carcasses the cowhiding they so richly deserve."

"That ass, Blossom, of the Higginsville Thunderbolt and Battle Cry of Freedom, is down here again, bumming his board at the Van Buren."

"We observe that the besotted blackguard of the Mud Springs Morning Howl is giving out, with his usual propensity for lying, that Van Werter is not elected. The heaven-born mission of journalism is to disseminate truth—to eradicate error — to educate, refine and elevate the tone of public morals and manners, and make all men more gentle, more virtuous, more charitable, and in all ways better, and holier, and happier—and yet this black-hearted villain, this hell-spawned miscreant, prostitutes his great office persistently to the dissemination of falsehood, calumny, vituperation and degrading vulgarity. His paper is notoriously unfit to take into the people's homes, and ought to be banished to the gambling hells and brothels, where the mass of reeking pollution which does duty as its editor, lives, and moves, and has its being."

"Blatherville wants a Nicolson pavement—it wants a jail and poor-house more. The idea of a pavement in a one-horse town, with two gin mills and a blacksmith shop in it, and that mustard plaster of a newspaper, the Daily Hurrah! Better borrow of Memphis, where the article is cheap. The crawling insect, Buckner, who edits the Hurrah, is braying about this pavement business with his customary loud-mouthed imbecility, and imagining that he is talking sense. Such foul, mephitic scum as this venomous Buckner, is a disgrace to journalism.

"That degraded ruffian, Bascom, of the Dying Shriek for Liberty, fell down and broke his leg yesterday—pity it wasn't his neck. He says it was "debility caused by overwork and anxiety!" It was debility caused by trying to lug six gallons of forty-rod whiskey around town when his hide is only gauged for four, and his anxiety about where he was going to bum another six. He "fainted from the exertion of walking too far in the sun!" And well he might say that—but if he would walk straight, he would go just as far, and not have to walk half as much. For years the pure air of this town has been rendered perilous by the deadly breath of this perambulating pestilence, this pulpy bloat, this steaming, animated tank of mendacity and gin, this Bascom? Perish all such from out the sacred and majestic mission of journalism!"

"Now that is the way to write—peppery and to the point. Mush-and-milk journalism gives me the fan-tods."

Concluded to morrow.

The Chronicle.

The Charms of Married Life.

If in that chair yonder, not the one your feet lie upon, but the one beside you, closer yet, were seated a sweet-faced girl, with a pretty little foot lying out upon the hearth, a bit of lace running round the swelling throat, the hair parted to a charm over a forehead fair as any of your dreams; and if you could reach an arm around that chair-back without fear of giving offence, and suffer your fingers to play idly with those curls that escape down the neck, and if you could clasp with your hand those little white taper fingers of hers, which lie so temptingly within reach, and so talk softly and low in the presence of the blaze, while the hours slip without knowledge and the winter winds whistle uncared for; if, in short, you were no bachelor, but the husband of some sweet image, would it not be far more pleasant than a cold, single night sitting, counting the sticks, reckoning the length of the blaze and the height of the falling snow?

Surely imagination would be stronger and purer if it could have the playful fancies of dawning womanhood to delight it. All toil would be torn from mind labor if but another heart grew into this present soul, quickening it, charming it, cheering it, bidding it ever God speed. Her face would make a halo rich as a rainbow, a stop of all such noisome things as we lonely souls call trouble. Her smiles would illumine the blackest of crowded cares and darkness that now seats you despondent in your solitary chair for days together, weaving bitter fancies, dreaming bitter dreams, that would grow light and thin and spread and float away, chased by that beloved smile. Your friend, poor fellow, dies—never mind; that gentle clash of her fingers, as she steals behind you, telling you not to weep; is worth ten friends. Your sister, sweet one, is dead—buried. How it makes you think earth nothing but a spot to dig graves upon. It is more; she says she will be a sister, and the waving curls, as she leans upon your shoulder, touch your cheek, and your wet eyes turn to meet those other eyes—God has sent his angel. Surely! Your mother—alas! she is gone! Is there any bitterness to a youth, alone and friendless, like this? But you are not homeless, you are not alone—she is there, her tears softening yours, her grief killing yours; and you live again to assuage that kind sorrow of hers. Then these children—rosy, fair-haired; no, they do not disturb you with their prattle now—they are yours.

Toss away there, on the green sward; never mind the hyacinth, the snowdrops, the violets, if so be any are there; the perfume of these healthful lips is worth all the flowers in the world. No need to gather wild bouquets to love and cherish; flower, tree, gun, all are dead things; things livelier hold your soul. And she the mother, sweetest and fairest of all, watching, tending, caressing and loving, till your own heart grows pained with tenderest jealousy, and ours itself with loving. You have no need of a cold lecture to teach thankfulness; your heart is full of it. No need now, as once, of bursting blossoms, of trees taking leaf and greenness, turning thought kindly and thankfully; forever besides you there is bloom, and ever beside you there is fruit, for which eye, heart and soul are full of unknown, unspoken—because of unspeakable—thank-offering.—Exch.

WHAT'S IN A NAME.—If the hotel registers prove anything it is that a large majority of the travelling public coincide with Shakespeare, when he remarks, casually, that "A rose by any other name—

Would smell as sweet."

It is a fact that twenty-five per cent of the signatures entered on the registers at any of the leading hotels are unintelligible, while fifty per cent, at least, require careful examination in order to translate them. For instance, Thomas Jefferson comes along, engages a room and enters his name. The clerk looks at it, gives it a careful scrutiny and renders it Ilras Ojyfensar. Then William Hopkins runs a pen along the next line, and the clerk gives up in despair after struggling to make something else than Nthhrorn Tlosrlcirz of it. Richard Jones' name appears as Brictorl Yaref, Frederic Sniffkins as Snolonic Lupzhrrvs, Charles Smith as Adaibf Jruilta, and so on ad infinitum.

But it is not uninteresting to puzzle over the funny looking characters which stand for letters in some one's name—that have the appearance of having been set up in ten pin alley, bowled at and "all down but one." If a man's character is indicated by his chirography, there are more cross-grained, shiftless, happy-go-lucky old codgers and young lunk-heads in the world than we ever dreamed of.—Norwich Adv.

—The latest conversion to temperance is due to a photographer in Wheeling, who took a picture of a drunkard as he lay in a gutter. The portrait was exhibited to the victim of intemperance when he became sober, and a pledge placed before him at the same time received his signature.

—Vinnie Ream and the Pope are at work to "bust" Pere Hyacinthe.

PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER, as an internal remedy has no equal. In cases of Cholera, Summer Complaint, Dyspepsia, dysentery, Asthma, it cares in one night, by taking internally, and bathing with it freely. It is the best liniment in America. Its action is like magic, when externally applied to bad sores, burns, scalds and sprains. For the sick headache and tooth ache, don't fail to try it. In short, it is a Pain Killer. 4ws7

WHAT ARE
DR. J. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA Vinegar Bitters?
THEY ARE NOT A VILE FANCY DRINK, Made of Poor Rum, Whiskey, Proof Spirits, and refuse Liquors, doctored, spiced, and sweetened to please the taste, called "Tonics," "Appetisers" "Restorers," &c., that lead the tippler on to drunkenness and ruin, but are a true Medicine, made from the Native Roots and Herbs of California, free from all Alcoholic Stimulants. They are the GREAT BLOOD-PURIFIER and LIFE-GIVING PRINCIPLE, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the system, carrying off all poisonous matter, and restoring the blood to a healthy condition. No person can take these Bitters according to directions and remain long unwell. $100 will be given for an incurable case, providing the bones are not destroyed by mineral poisons or other means, the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair.
FOR INFLAMMATORY AND CHRONIC RHEUMATISM, AND GOUT, DYSPEPSIA, or INDIGESTION, BILLIOUS, REMITTENT, and INTERMITTENT FEVERS, DISEASES OF THE BLOOD, LIVER, KIDNEYS, and BLADDER, these BITTERS have been most successful. SUCH DISEASES are caused by VITIATED BLOOD, which is generally produced by derangement of the DIGESTIVE ORGANS.
Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins, cleanse it when it is foul, and your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood healthy, and all will be well.
These Bitters are not a gilded pill, to delight the eye or please the fancy, but a medical preparation, composed of the best vegetable ingredients known.
They an Alterative, Tonic, Diuretic, Sedative, Diaphoretic, and Gentle Purgative.
"The Life of all Flesh is the Blood thereof." Purify the blood and the health of the whole system will follow.

"Ingenio Stat Sine Morte Decus."
ROCKY MOUNTAIN BITTERS
IS a very superior Regulating Tonic, imparting vigor and strength to the constitution—a thoro' PURIFIER OF THE BLOOD,
a regulator of nervous force, and a powerful sustainer of health against the encroachments of disease.
The invalid and convalescing seeking restoration, and yearning for the healing virtues of some magic balm, will find in these Bitters a hidden mysterious power, which QUIETLY RESTORES, yet resolves to reveal to the senses anything but taste and color.
It is a pleasant Bitter, free from all nauseous properties odor, entirely vegetable, being mainly grown at the base of the mountains from which they derive their name, and is particularly adapted to all forms of
DYSPEPSIA OR INDIGESTION,
manifesting themselves by the following symptoms: headache, nervousness, loss of memory, low spirits, giddiness, dimness of sight, dullness of hearing, and ringing noises in the ears, eructations, of belching of wind, tightness of breathing, weight and oppression of the chest, uneasy feeling about the heart, palpitation, &c.
Also for Liver Diseases, Disorders of the Kidneys, Restlessness and loss of Muscular Power, these Bitters will be found almost a specific; and as a preventative of
FEVER AND AGUE
or a restorer of the natural powers of the system, when broken down by continued ague attacks; it has no equal.
Being stimulating, (but not intoxicating), they refresh and invigorate both mind and body, heighten the sensibility, clear and sharpen the faculties, and bestow alacrity and cheerfulness of spirit.
CAUTION.—There have been, and still are several parties manufacturing and selling so-called "Langley's Bitters," many of which are worthless. As a guide against such, I would say that in 1866, I secured my copy-right, in the United States Court, a trade mark and name. "Rocky Mountain Bitters," and all Bitters of my manufacture are put up in dark, long neck, quart bottles with red label printed with gold; also, direction label, bearing my seal and directions printed in red, with a red cap and my seal printed in gold, over the cork. Beware of all others, and ask for "Rocky Mountain Bitters."

The News.

M. Sainte-Beuve, the eminent French scholar, is dead.

The President has appointed a colored man postmaster of the city of Manchester, opposite Richmond, Virginia.

Three hundred and fifty Mormons, principally from England, arrived at Omaha on Monday, and left on Tuesday for Utah.

In seven counties in Virginia the revenue officials have recently destroyed forty-seven illicit stills, with a capacity of 3160 gallons per day.

A Nashville dispatch says Andrew Johnson is not as strong as he was a week ago; knowing men assert that he will be beaten for Senator.

Riots are threatened in Paris.

A signal tower on the Mine Hill Railroad in Pennsylvania caught fire on Tuesday night, and the watchman, his wife and two children were burned to death.

A dispatch from Bombay says that a letter has been received from Dr. Livingstone, dated on the 8th of July, 1868, in which the doctor informs him that he believes he has discovered the source of the river Nile at a point situated between 10 deg. and 12 deg. south. Dr. Livingstone was in good health at the time of writing to Mr. Kirke. Intelligence of a still later date, to hand from Zanzibar, states that the trade caravan had arrived there, and reported that Dr. Livingstone had reached Ajije, on the road to the coast, in safety.

Admiral Farragut continues in a very low state at Chicago.

THE ELECTIONS. — A special to the Boston Advertiser from Philadelphia says Geary is re-elected Governor of Pennsylvania by about 8000 majority. The Republicans will never run such a risk again in carrying such a heavy weight as Geary has proved himself. Had it not been for the new registry law in Philadelphia the democrats would have been successful. The Republican press give Judge Williams and President Grant's administration the entire credit of the victory. The democrats have but little sympathy for Packer, stating that if he had spent more of his princely fortune in Philadelphia he would have been elected. The temperance vote is not yet announced. It did not affect the democracy much. Judge Williams leads Geary by about 3000 votes.

A Columbus, Ohio, dispatch says the returns and opinions of both parties indicate that Hayes, Republican, is elected by about 3000 majority. The House is democratic and the Senate Republican. The democrats claim that the vote is so close that it will require the official count to determine who is elected governor. Sixty-eight counties have been heard from. Hayes' loss on last October is about 5000. The legislature is very close. A dispatch from R. D. Harrison, chairman of the Ohio State Central Committee, says:—"Hayes is elected by from 8,000 to 10,000 majority. The legislature is close, but I think Republican."

The Republican State ticket is chosen in Iowa by from 25,000 to 30,000 majority. The legislature will be composed almost entirely of Republicans.

The latest returns from Ohio indicate that Hayes has over 5000 majority for Governor.

The N. Y. World acknowledges the defeat of Pendleton, but claims that the legislature is tied, there being one majority for the Democrats in the House and one majority for the Republicans in the Senate.

Geo. Merrill's (Republican) majority in Iowa is 35,000.

☞ J. R. Barrett & Co., proprietors of Barrett's Vegetable Hair Restorative, at Manchester, have gone into bankruptcy. They state that the manufacture of the Hair Restorative will undoubtedly be continued as heretofore, and the name of the party who succeeds them will be ascertained about the 12th of November. Their list of creditors is as long as the moral law, which requires all men to pay their debts in full;—and consists largely of gulled printers.

The law of the State provides that children under certain ages shall not be employed in manufacturing establishments unless they attend school a given time each year. Formerly overseers were particular in obtaining certificates of attendance before hiring children, but for a few years past there has been less attention given the matter, and cases are often found in which children are employed through the entire year, or for a large portion of it, without going near a school-room.

General Sheridan has sent his acceptance to the invitation to be present at the dedication of the soldiers' monument at Claremont on the 19th.

J. D. Bridgman, of Charlestown, lost his trout from his breeding ponds. He has spent three year in successful breeding and experimenting. He was offered over $2000 for them but a few weeks ago. The loss was caused by the giving away of a mill dam above, which came down to the railroad and set back, overflowing and letting the trout out of the pond.

The Mount Washington railroad suffered no damage during the late storm.

Jared M. Davis was on Tuesday last sentenced to two years in Manchester jail for taking letters from the mail car on the Sullivan Railroad in February last.

Mr. John Albin, a highly respected citizen from Henniker, while in his grist mill on Tuesday last, stepped into the cob cruncher, which was under the floor and uncovered, terribly mangling his leg. It was amputated above the knee.

A NOVEL WAY OF CATCHING SHARKS.—Up the coast, they have discovered a new method of catching sharks. A short time since a crew of men, engaged in driving piles for a pier or wharf, were very much annoyed by a shoal of sharks which made it unsafe to work in the water. Many of the piles had been driven so that the upper ends were on a level with the water at low tide. One of the workmen conceived a novel way of getting rid of these dreaded monsters, and during an hour when they were not at work the crew acted upon the suggestion. They swung the pile driver into position, and tying a piece of bait to the head of a pile which was about two feet under water, laid in wait for a bite. Soon a monster shark made his appearance, and turning on his back, made for the bait. The man stationed at the monkey-weight let it go just as the shark's head was over the pile, and the effect was quite disastrous to the big fish. In this manner the men killed a large number of the sharks.—San Francisco Times.

STEERING BY STEAM.—A NEW APPLICATION OF MACHINERY.—A correspondent who was present at the occasion of a recent trial of steam steering apparatus with which the small steamer North Star, of Muskegon, has been supplied, writes as follows:

The experiment was such a complete and marked success mechanically, and seems in its principal to foreshadow such immense benefits to steam navigation, that it deserves the earnest and instant attention of the public. While the arrangement of the machinery connected therewith is simplicity itself, the result on the motions of a vessel is instantaneous, and as powerful as can be desired. Instead of a cumbrous wheel in the pilot-house, a lever like the starter of a locomotive stood up from the floor, which worked either way from side to side by no heavier pressure than could be given by the thumb and finger, but which made the North Star, a long, narrow river boat, almost turn on her center, and then as instantly reverse with the same promptitude of action, of a different application. A doubt having been expressed as to whether, by the same machinery, she could be "held" on the same steady course for a length of time, the steersman fixed on a mill chimney two miles distant, and made for it. After getting her from the previous violent swayings into true line, he dropped the bar and let her run for it, until all on board were satisfied of the truth of her course. Where the steam rudder is left there it stays, and no power less than that able to overcome all the steam force of the boilers can shift it till again manipulated by the lever. Numerous experiments were made in turning, backing, twisting, and all with astonishing results. The steering power was instantaneous in its action. When standing still the rudder could be put down with such force as to swing the vessel a point or two.—St. Louis Dispatch.

FACTS FOR THE LADIES.—Nearly six years ago, I ordered one of your Sewing-Machines, and since then I have done with it, not only all the ordinary family sewing, but also all our millinery and mantua making, beside frequently encroaching upon the tailor's peculiar province; and this for a family of eight adults. Several of them were grown, engaged in business or professional life. I have wrought on various kinds of material, from Swiss muslin and silk to heavy beaver cloth and morocco, and have kept the best-dressed, every stitch of which, piecing, quilting and binding, was done on the machine. When I purchased, I was a perfect novice, never having worked on any kind of a machine. The agent was miles away, and could not then as now, offer Wheeler & Wilson Machines near by. Still though I never had five minutes instruction, I found no trouble in learning myself. It is as complete, by under my control as the needle in my hand, and has never needed any repairs. Only two needles have been broken. One No. 2 needle did all the sewing, coarse and fine, for ten years. It is indeed our "household pet." It has paid for itself more than once in the sewing-bills which it has saved. MRS. M. A. GAGE.

Mr. Speer has been many years experimenting on the improvement of the wine by a peculiar method of fermentation. The Fall and its Danger.

Animal as well as vegetable life is powerfully affected by the great atmospheric change that takes place in the Fall. But for the flowers, the foliage and the herbs of the field there is no help. Their time has come and die they must. It is otherwise with man. For him the means of renvigoration have been provided by skill and science. To recruit his exhausted energies and forify himself against the disorders generated by the sudden depression of temperature and the unwholesome exhalations of Autumn, let him tone his nervous system, invigorate his digestion and give edge to his appetite with HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS. He may then face the morbid influences of the season fearlessly. The chilling night dews and the heavy morning mists of Fall have no power to make him shiver and burn, to affect his liver, to disorder his stomach or his bowels, to crack his joints with rheumatism, or to render any latent element of disease in his system active and dangerous.

To the sufferer from general debility, whether constitutional or arising from other causes—this potent vegetable specific is earnestly recommended. And let it be remembered that physical weakness opens the door to all maladies. Vigor is the chief defence of the human structure against all causes of disease, and HOSTETTER'S BITTERS may be truly pronounced the safest and surest of all invigorants. Unlike the most genial of all vegetable tonics, and is admirably adapted to the wants and weaknesses of the more delicate sex, as well as to the ailments of men.

ASIATIC CHOLERA IN CHINA.

TUNGCHOW, China, Aug. 23, 1866.

MESSRS. PERRY DAVIS & SON:

Dear Sirs—During a long residence in China, I have used your invaluable Pain Killer, both in my own family and among the Chinese, and have found it a most excellent medicine. In the summer of '62 and '63, while residing in Shanghai, I found it an almost certain cure for Cholera, if used in time. Indeed using it in a great many instances, I do not remember failing in a single case. For three years I have been residing in this place, more than fifty miles from a physician, and have been obliged often to fall upon my own resources in cases of sickness. The Chinese come to us in great numbers for medicine and advice. Being without medical knowledge ourselves, the few simple remedies we can command are so much in advance even of their physicians, that we have almost daily applications. We allow them to come because it brings us in contact with them, and opens a door to usefulness. In diarrhoea, colic, vomiting, cholera, coughs, &c., your Pain Killer has been my chief medicine.

Yours, very truly, T. P. CRAWFORD.

Through without medical knowledge ourselves, the few simple remedies we can command are so much in advance even of their physicians, that we have almost daily applications. We allow them to come because it brings us in contact with them, and opens a door to usefulness. In diarrhoea, colic, vomiting, cholera, coughs, &c., your Pain Killer has been my chief medicine.

CONSUMPTION.

DR. SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP for the cure of Coughs, Colds and Consumption.

DR. SCHENCK'S SEAWEED TONIC for the cure of Dyspepsia and all the Debilitated Conditions of the Stomach.

DR. SCHENCK'S MANDRAKE PILLS for Disease of the Liver, or to act as a gentle Purgative.

All of these three medicines are often required in curing Consumption, though the Pulmonic Syrup alone has cured many desperate cases. The Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills assist in regulating the Stomach and Liver, and help the Pulmonic Syrup to digest and search through the blood vessels, by which means a cure is soon effected.

These medicines are conscientiously offered to the public as the only safe, certain and reliable remedies for Pulmonary Consumption, and for all those morbid conditions of the body which lead to that fatal disease. Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia are often forerunners of Consumption, and when they manifest themselves they require the most prompt attention.

The Pulmonic Syrup is a medicine which has had a long probation before the public. Its value has been through a period of more than thirty-five years, had all which time its friends and its sales have been constantly increased, and the most obstinate skepticism can no longer doubt that it is a remedy which may be used with confidence in all cases which admit of a cure.

If the patient will perseveringly follow the directions which accompany each bottle, he will certainly be cured, if his lungs are not too much wasted to make a cure possible. Even in cases supposed to be incurable, many friends and physicians have despaired, the use of the medicine has saved the life of the patient, and restored him to perfect health.

Dr. Schenck himself was cured in precisely such circumstances, and many others have been equally fortunate by judiciously making a timely use of Dr. Schenck's remedies.

Dr. Schenck does not say that all cases of Pulmonary Consumption are within the reach of medicine, but he emphatically asserts, that often when patients have the most alarming symptoms, such as a violent cough, creeping chills, night sweats, and general debility, even to such a degree that they are obliged to lie in bed, and when they are given up by their physicians, they may still be cured. No medical treatment can create new lungs, but when the lungs are not much diseased, and to some extent destroyed, a cure may be effected by Dr. Schenck's medicines.

Scrofulous diseases these medicines are equally efficient. Dr. Schenck has photographs of a number of persons who have been nearly covered with running sores, and now all healed up. The above named purifying medicines, which must be done to heal cavities in the lungs.

In the treatment of Consumption, it is of the utmost importance to give vigor and a healthy tone in the system. Hence it is necessary to strengthen the appetite of the patient and improve the digestion. Proper nourishment is required, together with such means as will make the food easily digestible. The articles most suitable for this end of consumptive patients are designated in Dr. Schenck's Almanack, which are distributed gratuitously. In general, the most nutritious articles are to be preferred; but the digestive organs must be strengthened in order to make either food or medicine serviceable. This requirement is met by the Sea Weed Tonic, and for this purpose it was designed.

When the digestive powers are put in good order, the food has its proper effect, the system of the patient is invigorated, and the lungs begin to exercise their functions in a normal and healthy manner. Then the healing powers of the Pulmonic Syrup will complete the cure.

Pulmonary Consumption is almost always complicated with Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint. Schenck's Mandrake Pills are intended to remove obstructions from the liver and restore its healthy action. They have all the efficacy which is ascribed to calomel or "blue mass," and are warranted not to contain a particle of any mineral poison. These pills cure the the most obstinate costiveness, sick headache, piles, billious affections, and all other diseases which arise from a torpid or obstructed condition of the liver. One box of these pills will prove the efficacy of the medicine.

In Consumption, the Sea Weed Tonic and Mandrake Pills are invaluable auxiliary medicines. They relieve the sufferings of the patient and assist the Pulmonic Syrup in effecting a cure. They have been found useful in advanced stages of consumption, where the lungs were almost entirely destroyed, and all symptoms, according to the judgement of physicians, indicated speedy death. Lists of patients who were actually in a dying condition have been preserved for months by the use of Schenck's three great remedies.

DR. SCHENCK'S Almanac, containing a full treatise on the various forms of disease, and mode of treatment and general directions how to use his medicine, can be had gratis or sent by mail by addressing his Principal Office, No. 15 North Sixth Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

Price of the Pulmonic Syrup and Sea Weed Tonic, each, $1.50 per bottle, or $7.50 the half dozen; Mandrake Pills, 25 cents per box. For sale by all druggist and dealers.

THE LATEST DISCOVERY

In Medication.

The great difficulty which physicians have been laboring for centuries to overcome, has at length been obtained. A vegetable cathartic and alterative more efficient than any mineral preparation of the same class, and as agreeable to the taste as ordinary candy, is now offered to the sick in the form of a Lozenge.

DR. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S

is the most important medicinal novelty that modern chemistry has produced. It contains two botanical extracts, perfectly harmless in themselves, but endowed with the medicinal properties of mercury, and destined in this pleasant form to supersede and banish from general use, the nauseous pills and portions of which that dangerous excitant is the main ingredient. More than were made by the inventor of this precious remedy before it was brought to its present state of perfection. The Lozenge is harmless in its operation, and altogether the medicinal taste of its curative components has been extinguished by chemical art, their virtues remain as active and potent as ever.

One thousand experiments

In Dyspepsia, Biliousness Constipation, Sick or Nervous Headache, Piles, Dropsy, and the irregularities to which the fairer sex are subject, the Lozenge will be found infinitely more effective than any of the horrible and disgusting compounds usually administered in such cases. As an antibilious specific and general aperient, they have no equal either among advertised preparations or the prescriptions of the regular pharmacopoeia.

☞ It is guaranteed that no one who has once tried DR. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S Liver and Stomach Lozenges, will ever again take a purgative powder, or draught or pill.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

☞ The Overseers of the City Farm have this week sold 100 tons of pressed Hay, to Mr. Hoyt of Boston, for $20 per ton, delivered at the wharf of steamer Enterprise in this city.

DEATH OF MRS. A. P. PEABODY.—Mrs. Peabody, wife of Rev. A. P. Peabody, D. D., (formerly of Portsmouth) Preacher to Harvard University and Plummer Professor, died on Thursday at her residence in Cambridge, after a long and painful illness.

☞ The Auction Sale at the March Farm was continued Thursday, much of the Furniture being sold. The sale will continue this (Friday) morning at 10 o'clock,—when the balance of Furniture, bedding, linen and cotton goods; also the carriages, horses, oxen, pigs and other live stock, hay, &c.; also the York Farm, houses and house lots, will be sold.

NAVAL.—The Dictator has been ordered to Key West. The Miantonomoh will go into commission on the 20th, and the Nantasket went into commission on Tuesday.

The Kearsarge was at Sydney, New South Wales, on the 9th.

U. S. steamer Monongahela is hourly expected at this Station. The Penobscot has been moved for her reception.

The Speedwell is to convoy the U. S. S. Dictator to Key West.

☞ Mr. Benj. DeRochemont of Gravelly Ridge has a fine bay mare, four years old, of good promise, and is naturally a little proud of her. And Mr. Joseph Hoyt of Newington, having offered to wager $25 that she cannot trot a mile on the Piscataqua Track in three and a half minutes,—naming the Secretary of the Track as stakeholder and referee,—Mr. DeRochemont promptly staked the money in our hands, with the offer to double it, if Mr. H. desired; but Mr. Hoyt backs down, and declines to cover the money. F.

PORTSMOUTH SAVINGS BANK.—J. M. Tredick Esq. having declined the Presidency of this institution, (with its million and a half dollars of deposits,) to which he was elected a few days since —Hon. William Simes was chosen thereto at the meeting of the corporation on Wednesday. George L. Treadwell Esq. was desired for the position by many—and fortunate indeed is the monetary institution which can secure either of the three gentlemen named. The place is one of much honor and responsibility, but we believe without pay, under the absurd law of the last Legislature, which limits the expenses of any Savings Bank to $4000, if we recollect right. Mr. J. F. Shores Jr. is to be Cashier or Treasurer.

ACCIDENT.—On Thursday forenoon, as Mr. Joseph Atchinson, a plumber in the Bureau of Construction at the Navy Yard, was engaged in making a joint in connection with a small gasometer used for soldering pipes, the gas took fire from a hot iron which he held and the gasometer exploded, terribly mutilating Mr. Atchinson about the face, and violently prostrating an assistant. The wounded man was at once removed to the hospital, where he was attended by Surgeon Gorgas of the Navy and Dr. Wentworth of Kittery, but he remained unconscious up to the time of his death, which took place at 3 o'clock P. M. The other man who was near the gasometer when it blew up, complains only of deafness in one ear. His escape was providential.

How Jo SOLD HIS DOG. — Jo Cose is a well known "dry one," whose home is near the West End tabernacle of learning, and who is noted for his rare wit. He had a spaniel, a diminutive dog, who was always under foot at home, and must therefore be disposed of by drowning or otherwise. Jo took him away and hoping to find some one who would take the canine off his hands, secured seats for two and made a trip up in the country over the C. & P. R. R.

A stranger took a shine to the animal and asked the owner what he would sell him for. "Fifteen dollars," says Jo. "How old is the pup." "Fourteen months," says Jo. "What's the matter with his eyes," interrogated the stranger. "Cutting his teeth," says Jo. "Well, I want the dog, but not $15 worth." "How many dollars' worth do you want him," replied Jo. "Two dollars," ventured the dog-fancier. "The dog is yours," answered Jo, "I won't stand on $13 in a dog-trade." Having paid over the $2 and taken possession of the four legged property, the purchaser insisted on knowing its exact age. "Nine years," replied Jo, and the listeners laughed immoderately as Jo sauntered away with his hands in his pockets and his pipe in his mouth, from which arose volumes of smoke.

ODD FELLOWS. — The annual meeting of the Grand Encampment of the State was held at Manchester the 12th inst. The officers of the State organization and delegations from subordinate Lodges were present in good numbers. The Grand Scribe made report, stating that during the year just closed there was a gain of 300 members. Encampments have been instituted as follows: No. 10, "Monadnock," at Keene; No. 11, "North Star," at Hillsboro'; No. 12, "Morning Star" at Lebanon; No. 13, "Webster" at Franklin; No. 14, "Granite," at Raymond; No. 15, "Great Falls," at Great Falls. For Nos. 13, 14 and 15, which have existed under dispensations, charters were granted.

R. W. Grand Scribe—Joel Taylor, Manchester.
R. W. Grand Treasurer—L. R. Peacock, Concord.

Representative to Grand Encampment of United States—George W. Varney, of Rochester.

The following appointments of Deputies were made by the Grand Patriarch; Strawberry Bank, of Portsmouth, Thornton Betton; Granite, of Raymond, Josiah S. James; Great Falls Encampment, of Great Falls, R. H. Stacy.

☞ Anna Dickinson's theory is that God made woman a little lower than the angels, and man a little lower than woman, and that every woman should be acquainted with the important fact. Miss Dickinson views Mormonism not as a particular evil, but as an instance merely of the ascendency of the lords of creation, and the shameful subjugation of the true masters or mistresses of the universe, women. She goes in for repudiation, that is, she repudiates the side-saddle for women, and thinks the masculine saddle preferable. She knows whereof she speaks, having tried both. But she hasn't tried a husband, we believe, though she would be pretty likely to be rather a "trying" wife, one would think, to hear her talk now—but you can't always tell about such things, from the talk beforehand. She may work well in double harness, yet.

☞ The two trotting mares Nellie Locke and Empress (Topsey) are racing or hippodroming down east—at Bangor, Rockland, &c. They are both good and game animals, but Nellie can beat the bay every time. Empress is old,—must be nearly 20 years, while Nellie is improving.

☞ Br. John E. Butler, editor of the Biddeford Journal, has started on an overland tour to the Pacific.

☞ Miss Craig, whose heart Sprague smashed all to pieces, has got $10,000 of her verdict money.

☞ The N. Y. Republic wants A. T. Stewart for Mayor of that city.

☞ The New Hampshire Gazette for this week, is now ready for delivery at the Chronicle office. Price 5 cts. per copy—$2. per year. Contains all the Local and other reading from the Daily Chronicle.

A PACIFIC RAILWAY

GOLD LOAN $6,500,000.

We beg leave to announce that we have accepted the agency of the

KANSAS PACIFIC RAILWAY COMPANY,

For the sale of its

NEW SEVEN PER CENT.
Thirty Year Gold Loan,
Free from Tax.

This Loan amounts to $6,500,000.

First Mortgage Land-Grant and Sinking Fund Bonds,

secured upon the extension of the Railway from near Sheridan, in Kansas, to Denver, Colorado, a distance of 237 miles of which 12 miles are completed, and the rest is under construction. It is also a Mortgage upon the Road, the Rolling Stock and Franchise of this first-class Railway, besides now running through the State of Kansas,

And in successful operation for 437 miles

west of the Missouri River, and earning already enough to meet all of its expenses and existing obligations, besides MORE THAN THE INTEREST UPON THIS NEW LOAN. In addition to this the Bonds are also secured by a first mortgage of the

GOVERNMENT LAND GRANT OF THREE MILLION ACRES,

extending in alternate sections on either side of the track, from the 394th mile post in Kansas to Denver. The proceeds of the sale of these lands are to be invested by the Trustees in the 7 per cent Bonds, themselves up to 120 in U. S. Bonds, as

A SINKING FUND FOR THE REDEMPTION OF THE BONDS.

The Lands embrace some of the finest portions of the magnificent Territory of Colorado, including coal field and pinery. The company also holds as an asset another tract of

Three Millions of Acres in the State of Kansas,

and although not pledged as a security for this Loan, their possession adds largely to the Company's wealth and credit. We estimate the

Value of the Company's property, covered by this mortgage at $25,000,000 net, while the Loan is merely $6,500,000.

The Bonds have

THIRTY YEARS TO RUN,

from May 1, 1869, and will pay

SEVEN PER CENT. INTEREST IN GOLD, semi-annually, on May 1 and Nov. 1, and are FREE FROM GOVERNMENT TAXATION, the Company paying the tax.

The principal of the Loan is made payable in Gold, in the City of New York, but each coupon will be

PAYABLE IN FRANKFORT, LONDON OR N. YORK at option of the holder, with notice, at the following rates:

On $1,000 Bond in N. Y. $35 (gold) each half year.
" London....£7 s5. 10. "
" Frankfort..87 fir. 30 krizz., "

The Agents of the Loan, before accepting the trust had the condition of the Road, and the country through which it runs, carefully examined. They are happy to give the Loan an emphatic endorsement as a

FIRST CLASS INVESTMENT,

in every respect perfectly sure, and in some essential even

Better than Government Securities.

The Bonds will be sold for the present at 96, and accrued Interest, both in Currency,
the Agents reserving the right to advance the rate.

The attention of investors is invited to these well-secured bonds, which we recommend as one of the most profitable investments in the market.

Gold and Government Securities taken in payment at their market value, without commission.

MARK TWAIN ON JOURNALISM IN TENNESSEE.

[From the Buffalo Express, Sept. 4th.]

Concluded from Yesterday.

About this time a brick came through the window with a splintering crash, and gave me a considerable of a jolt in the middle of the back. I moved out of range—I began to feel in the way. The chief said:

"That was the Colonel, likely; I've been expecting him for two days. He will be up right away."

He was correct. The "Colonel" appeared in the door a moment afterward, with a dragoon revolver in his hand. He said:

"Sir, have I the honor of addressing the white-livered poltroon who edits this mangy sheet?"

"You have—be seated, sir—be careful of the chair, one of the legs is gone. I believe I have the honor of addressing the blatant, black-hearted scoundrel, Colonel Blatherskite Tecumseh?"

"The same. I have a little account to settle with you. If you are at leisure we will begin."

"I have an article on the 'Encouraging Progress of Moral and Intellectual Development in America' to finish, but there is no hurry. Begin."

Both pistols rang out their fierce clamor at the same instant. The chief lost a lock of hair, and the Colonel's bullet ended its career in the fleshy part of my thigh. The Colonel's left shoulder was clipped a little. They fired again. Both missed their men this time, but I got my share, a shot in the arm. At the third fire both gentlemen were wounded slightly, and I had a knuckle chipped. I then said I believed I would have to go out and take a walk, as this was a private matter and I had a delicacy about participating in it further. But both gentlemen begged me to keep my seat, and assured me that I was not in the way. I had thought differently up to this time.

They then talked about the elections and the crops for a while, and I commenced tying up my wounds. But presently they opened fire again with animation, and every shot took effect; but it is proper to remark that five out of the six fell to my share. The sixth mortally wounded the Colonel, who remarked, with fine humour, that he would have to say good morning now, as he had business up town. He then enquired the way to the undertaker's, and left. The chief turned to me and said:

"I am expecting company to dinner, and shall have to get ready. It will be a favor to me if you will read proof and attend to the customers."

I winced a little at the idea of attending to the customers, but I was too bewildered by the fusilade which was still ringing in my ears to think of anything to say. He continued:

"Jones will be here at three—cowhide him. Gillespie will call earlier, perhaps—throw him out of the window. Ferguson will be along about four—kill him. That is all for to-day. If you have any odd time, you may write a blistering article on the police; give the Chief Inspector rats. The cowhides are under the table; weapons in the drawer; ammunition there in the corner; lint and bandages up there in the pigeon holes. In case of accident, go to Lancet, the surgeon, down stairs. He advertises; we'll take it out in trade."

He was gone. I shuddered. At the end of the next three hours I had been through perils so awful, that all peace of mind and all cheerfulness had gone from me. Gillespie had called, and thrown me out of the window. Jones arrived promptly, and when I got ready to do the cowhiding, he took the job off my hands. In an encounter with a stranger, not in the bill of fare, I had lost my scalp. Another stranger, by the name of Thompson, left me a mere wreck and ruin of chaotic rags. And at last, at bay in the corner, and beset by an infuriated mob of editors, blacklegs, politicians, and desperadoes, who raved, and flourished their weapons about my head, till the air shimmered with glancing flashes of steel, I was in the act of resigning my berth upon the paper, when the chief arrived, and with him a rabble of charmed and enthusiastic friends. Then ensued a scene of carnage such as no human pen, or steel either can describe. People were shot, probed, dismembered, blown up, and thrown out of the window. There was a brief tornado of murky blasphemy, with a confused and frantic war dance glimmering through it, and then all was over. In five minutes there was silence, and the gory chief and I sat alone and surveyed the sanguinary ruin that strewed the floor around us. He said:

"You'll like this place when you get used to it." I said:

"I'll have to get you to excuse me. I think may be I might write to suit you, after awhile; as soon as I have some practice and learned the language, I am confident I could. But to speak the plain truth, that sort of energy of expression has its inconveniences, and a man is liable to interruption. You see that, yourself. Vigorous writing is calculated to elevate the public, no doubt, but then I do not like to attract so much attention as it calls forth. I can't write with comfort when I am interrupted so much as I have been today. I like this berth well enough, but I don't like to be left here to wait on the customers. The experiences are novel, I grant you, and entertaining too, after a fashion, but they are not judiciously distributed. A gentleman shoots at you, through the window, and cripples me; a bombshell comes down the stovepipe for your gratification, and sends the stove-door down my throat; a friend drops in to swap compliments with you, and freckles me with bullets till my skin won't hold my principles; you go to dinner, and Jones comes in with his cowhide, Gillespie throws me out of the window, Thompson tears all my clothes off, and an entire stranger takes my scalp with the easy freedom of an old acquaintance; and in less than five minutes all the blackguards in the country arrive in there war paint and proceed to scare the rest of me to death with their tomahawks. Take it altogether, I never had such a spirited time in all my life as I have had to-day. Now I like you, and I like the calm, unruffled way of explaining things to the customers, but, you see, I am not used to it. The Southern heart is too impulsive—Southern hospitality is too lavish with the stranger. The paragraphs which I have written to-day, and into whose cold sentences your masterly hand has infused the fervent spirit of Tennessee journalism, will wake up another nest of hornets. All that mob of editors will come—and they will come hungry, too, and want somebody for breakfast. I shall have to bid you adieu. I decline to be present at these festivities. I came South for my health—I will go back on that errand, and suddenly. Tennessee journalism is too stirring for me." After which, we parted, with mutual regret, and I took apartments at the hospital.—Mark Twain.

DEATH OF A MODERN SAMPSON.—Capt. John W. Russell died in Franklin County, Kentucky, last week aged seventy-five years. The Louisville Courier-Journal says: "He was famous among the western pioneers for his intrepidity. He served in the war of 1812, was a member of the State Senate and an intimate personal and partisan friend of Henry Clay. He was for many years a Mississippi steamboat captain. The incidents of his force or will and power of command would fill a volume. On one occasion in New Orleans he had a personal rencontre with the pirate Lafitte, and, unarmed, whipped him and ejected him from a ball-room. On another, while landing at Natchez, a passenger of his boat was robbed by the gang which then infested the portion of the town bordering on the river, and known as 'Natchez under the hill.' By surrounding with his crew the house in which the robbers took refuge, he passed a cable around it, and under the threat of pulling it, with the inmates, into the river, he compelled restitution of the money, and made himself a terror to the thieves and gamblers who then infested the river towns. Of his great strength, persons who knew him only in his later years, when enfeebled by age, would have had but little conception, though when in his prime it was known from Pittsburg to New Orleans he had lifted a shaft weighing 1647 pounds, and that he had carried entirely across the deck of the boat an anchor of 1242 pounds weight."

NOTES ON LEGS.—Some enthusiastic Frenchman once declared the human leg to be the most philosophical of all studies. "Show me the leg," says Gautier, "and I will judge the mind;" and it does seem quite natural that the leg should indicate the disposition as the shades of the hair should indicate the temperament. What sloth, for instance, does the limb betray? What a shrew is the possessor of a limb like a walking-stick? But what a gentle woman is she of the arched instep, the round ankle, and the graceful pedestal, swelling to perfection, and modulated to lightness! What dogged obstinacy the stumpy leg with the knotty calf exhibits! What an irresolute soul does the lanky limb betray! How well the strong ankle intimates the firm purpose; how well the flat ankle reveals the vacant mind. Young men about to marry—observe. The dark girl with a large leg will become fat at thirty, and lie abed until midday. The brunette, with slender, very slender limbs, will worry your soul—but with jealousy. The olive-skinned maid, with the pretty round limb, will make you happy. The blonde with large limbs will degenerate at thirty-five into the possession of a pair of ankles double the natural size and afflicted with the rheumatism. The fair-haired damsel, with thin limbs, will get up at half-past five in the morning to scold the servants, and will spend her nights talking scandal over tea. The little rosy girl with a sturdy, muscular, well-turned leg, will be just the girl you want. If you can find a red-haired girl, with a large limb, pop the question at once. The short lady should always possess a large and ample one. No doubt these hints are reliable, and the prevailing fashions make them quite practicable and available.

A MAIDEN'S "PSALM OF LIFE."—Tell us not in idle jingle "marriage is an empty dream," for the girl is dead that's single, and things are not just what they seem. Life is real, life is earnest, single blessedness a fib; "Man thou art, to man returnest," has been spoken of the rib. Not enjoyment and not sorrow is our destined end or way, but to act each to-morrow finds us nearer marriage day. Life is long and youth is fleeting, and our hearts light and gay, still like pleasant dreams are beating wedding marches all the way. In the world's field of battle, in the bivouac of life, be not like the dumb-driven cattle—be a heroine—a wife. Trust no future howe'er pleasant, let the dead past bury its dead! act, act in the living present! heart within and hope ahead. Lives of married folks remind us that we can live our lives as well, and departing leave behind us such examples as shall "tell;" such examples that another, wasting time in idle sport, a forlorn unmarried brother seeing, shall take heart and court. Let us, then, be up and doing, with a heart on triumph set: still contriving, still pursuing, and each one a husband get.

—The so-called New England Labor Reform League met at Worcester on Sunday last, justifying such a use of the day by the allegation that the "Protestant churches especially have apostatized from the true faith, and are undeserving of the support of Christians." One of the speakers is reported as saying that Charles Sumner — for his alleged want of sympathy, we suppose, with the working classes — was "fated to be damned to a lower political hell than ever Daniel Webster was." There is in the labor movement much that commends it to the sympathy of all right-thinking men; but such folly as this is only calculated to awaken either pity or disgust.—Independent.

—At a cabinet meeting, when solving enigmas was one of Old Abe's methods of entertaining the members, he said to them, "What is that which did not come last year, but which will come next year?" Secretary Welles, in great distress of mind, started up and said, "I hope, Mr. President, it is not my removal, which the public is clamoring for?" Mr. Lincoln was so amused that he at once promised to retain him until the end of his term; and that is the reason the venerable man was not removed.

Animals—cruelty to whom is now the theme of frequent reproach and of benevolent safeguards—are the delight of the young, as any one may convince himself who will accompany a child to a menagerie. A discussion as to their comparative and possible education has lately attracted notice. Very seasonable, therefore, is the appearance from the press of Charles Scribner & Co., New York, of a most pleasant and instructive little treatise with apt and original illustrations, devoted to the "Intelligence of Animals." It is a book to charm and enlighten both young and old.

—A Western Justice ordered a witness to "come up and be sworn." He was informed that the person was deaf and dumb. "I don't care," said the Judge, passionately, "whether he is or not. Here is the Constitution of the United States before me. It guarantees to every man the right of speech; and so long as I have the honor of a seat on this bench it shall not be violated or invaded. What the Constitution guarantees to a man I'm bound he shall have."

WHAT ARE
DR. J. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA Vinegar Bitters.
THEY ARE NOT A VINOUS MOCKING FANCY DRINK, Made of Poor Rum, Whiskey, Proof Spirits, and refuse Liquors, doctored, spiced, and sweetened to please the taste, called "Tonics," "Appetizers," "Restorers," &c., that lead the tippler on to drunkenness and ruin, but are a true Medicine, made from the Native Roots and Herbs of California, free from all Alcoholic Stimulants. They are the GREAT BLOOD-PURIFIER and LIFE-GIVING PRINCIPLE, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the system, carrying off all impurities, and restoring the blood to a healthy condition. No person can take these Bitters according to directions and remain long unwell. $100 will be given for an incurable case, providing the bones are not destroyed by mineral poisons or other means, the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair.
FOR INFLAMMATORY AND CHRONIC RHEUMATISM, AND GOUT, DYSPEPSIA, or INDIGESTION, BILLIOUS, REMITTENT, and INTERMITTENT FEVERS, DISEASES OF THE BLOOD, LIVER, KIDNEYS, and BLADDER, these BITTERS have been most successful. SUCH DISEASES are caused by VITIATED BLOOD, which is generally produced by derangement of the DIGESTIVE ORGANS.
Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins, cleanse it when it is foul, and your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood healthy, and all will be well.
These Bitters are not a gilded pill, to delight the eye or please the fancy, but a medical preparation, composed of the best vegetable ingredients known.
They are Alterative, Tonic, Diuretic, Sedative, Diaphoretic, and Gentle Purgative.
"The Life of all Flesh is the Blood thereof."—Purify the blood and the health of the whole system will follow.

"Eugenio Stat Sine Morte Decus."
ROCKY MOUNTAIN BITTERS
IS a very superior Regulating Tonic, imparting vigor and strength to the constitution—a thoro'
PURIFIER OF THE BLOOD,
a regulator of nervous force, and a powerful sustainer of health against the encroachments of disease.
The invalid and convalescing seeking restoration, and yearning for the healing virtues of some magic balm, will find in these Bitters a hidden mysterious power, which QUIETLY RESTORES, yet refuses to reveal to the senses anything but taste and color.
It is a pleasant Bitter, free from all nauseous properties odor, entirely vegetable, being mainly grown at the base of the mountains from which they derive their name, and is particularly adapted to all forms of
DYSPEPSIA OR INDIGESTION,
manifesting themselves by the following symptoms: headache, nervousness, loss of memory, low spirits, giddiness, dimness of sight, dullness of hearing, and ringing noises in the ears, eructations, or belching of wind, tightness of breathing, weight and oppression of the chest, uneasy feeling about the heart, palpitation, &c.
Also for Liver Diseases, Disorders of the Kidneys, Restlessness and loss of Muscular Power, these Bitters will be found almost a specific; and as a preventative of
or a restorer of the natural powers of the system, when broken down by continued ague attacks; it has no equal.
Being stimulating, (but not intoxicating), they refresh and invigorate both mind and body, heighten the sensibility, clear and sharpen the faculties, and bestow alacrity and cheerfulness of spirit.
CAUTION.—There have been, and still are several parties manufacturing and selling so-called "Langley's Bitters," many of which are worthless. As a guide against such, I would say that in 1866, I secured my copy-right, in the United States Court, a trade mark and name, "Rocky Mountain Bitters," and all Bitters of my manufacture are put up in dark, long neck, quart bottles with red label printed with gold; also, direction label, bearing my seal and directions printed in red, with a red cap and my seal printed in gold, over the cork. Beware of all others, and ask for
"Rocky Mountain Bitters."

Portsmouth, N. H.

SATURDAY, OCT. 16, 1869.

THE ELECTIONS.—Ex-Gov. Harriman received a telegram from the chairman of the Ohio Republican State Committee on Friday, thanking him for his valuble services there during the campaign just closed. Both branches of the legislature are Republican, ensuring the ratification of the 15th Constitutional Amendment. Gov. Hayes has 10,000 majority.

New Hampshire Items.

Rev. E. F. Parsons, of Derry, has sought and received a dismission from pastorship of the Congregational church there, where he had ministered for 18 years on a small salary;—and had become Principal of Pinkerton Academy in the same town.

David Atwood, a good old man of 90 years, died at Bedford Oct. 12; he had always lived there.

The tannery of Mr. Moulton, in North Weare, was destroyed by fire a few weeks since. Just across the road, in his front yard, was a row of apple trees. These were so badly scorched that the leaves all dried up. Now on the burnt side of two of the trees, new leaves, buds and blossoms have come forth. From the same cause also, a large rose bush, which shed its perfume long ago, is now in full blossom.

Col. John L. Kelley, of Manchester, thrust his hand through a window on Wednesday, and inflicted a severe wound on his wrist by attempting to save himself from falling, as he slipped from his carriage at his shop door.

New Publications.

The New England Historical and Genealogical Register, for October, has a table of Portsmouth Marriages in the olden time, with much valuable and curious matter, as usual.

American Year Book for 1869,—a second copy just received from O. D. Case & Co., Hartford, Conn. It was noticed favorably in our columns some time since; and is one of the most valuable books for daily reference.

The Probe, No. 4, for October. Spicy number, about strong drinks.—By Joseph Parrish, M. D., Media, Penn., at the Sanitarium.

UNDERGROUND EXCURSION. — The Manchester Mirror says that on Monday, a jolly son of the Green Isle, having imbibed rather too freely of stimulating fluids, made his appearance, and declared that he was going on an exploring expedition to China or some more undesirable locality. Peering into the unfinished sewer, he said "Good-bye, b'ys," and pushed in before the workmen had time to suspect his intentions. He made his way rapidly to Merrimack Street; and so did the men outside, with the intention of fishing him up, when he reached the cess-pool at that point. But he was too fast for them, and passed Merrimack and Laurel streets in advance of them, but was stopped at Central Street and drawn up as "merry as a cricket," but a little vexed that they wouldn't let him complete his underground excursion.

WORK AT THE NAVY YARD bids fair to be good through the winter. The Monongahela, daily expected at the Yard, is to be thoroughly repaired, we hear, and there is ground to hope that other vessels will be sent here for repairs during the next six months, as Hon. Aaron H. Cragin of this State is to be Chairman of the Naval Committee in the United States Senate, now that Mr. Grimes of Iowa has resigned. We hope and believe that Senator Cragin's efforts in behalf of the workmen at the Yard will be continued in his new position; ourmechanics may ere long thank him that through his instrumentality the Yard is to be rated among the "first class."

☞ The Auction Sale at the March estate closed on Friday. The total result is estimated from $10,000 to $12,000. The York Farm and houses and lots advertised, were not put up, but will be sold at a future day, to be announced. The hay also was reserved, and disposed of at private sale probably. The sale was very judiciously and successfully conducted by Auctioneer Morse, under direction of Atty's Small and Goodall; and the matter has excited much attention and no little regret in this community, that such summary proceedings should be necessary.

☞ Those interested will observe the advertisement of Agents wanted to sell Chamberlain's American Commercial Law, a new work, which we are confident will be found much better suited to the wants of business men than any book designed for a similar purpose ever before published.

LIVE AND LEARN.—The man of science is always a student. This I have on good authority—heard it at a scientific lecture last winter. I, therefore, am a man of science, being a student,—for I am learning to write. I have long been able to express my ideas on paper; unfortunately, however, other people could never decipher the characters I made, and I was troubled to do it myself if I happened to forget the subject on which I had written. But what decided me to attempt an improvement of my chirography was the following circumstance. I sent to a gentleman in Boston, a note reading

Dear Sir:—I lost your dog Jerry, and will send any sum of money you may demand as a recompense; please answer by return mail. PAKEHA.

Next day I received the following reply:—

Dear Sir:—Your note expressing love for my daughter Jessie, and asking her hand in marriage, is received. My dear boy, your affections are reciprocated, and I shall welcome you as a son-in-law. F. SMIGGELS.

I wrote an explanatory note, earnestly declining to give up my condition of single cussedness, and assuring Mr. S. that I was a constant sufferer from indigestion, croup and yellow fever, besides having periodical attacks of consumption, rheumatism and quack medicines,—which only obtained me an assurance that "the ceremony should take place as soon as possible, but I must not be unreasonably hasty;" so, as next-to-the-last resort—the last one is to run away to sea—I determined to learn to write well enough to be able to decline the proffered matrimonial honor, without having to visit Boston in person to explain the letter.

For this purpose I started to go to the "Spencerian writing-school" in Congress Block. Three evenings in succession I missed the door, and found my way to the billiard room on the next floor above; but the fourth time I tried I found the school, and presented myself to Mr. Montgomery as a candidate for chirographical honors. He received me graciously, and requested me to write something in a copy-book, to be kept as a specimen. I complied, and having carefully inscribed "This is a specimen of my hand-writing before learning to write," I held it up before his eyes, enquiring, "There! what do you think of that?" "That's very well done indeed," said he, dubiously, after studying for a few minutes; "now won't you please to write something?" "Thunder! that's writing," said I. "Is it! O! I beg your pardon; now we will proceed with the exercise."

I got along gloriously. I have only taken one lesson, yet so much progress have I made that I find it very difficult to read a newspaper article which I wrote last week—in fact, I can't make head or tail of it now. Two or three more lessons will enable me to polish off my Boston father-in-law in good style.

But writing is not my only study; I attend a Terpsichorean Academy,—which means that I am learning to shake the light fantastic foot. I had a number of reasons for going to dancing-school. One was that I didn't know how to dance, and wanted to learn. Then a man who dances can laugh watchful "mammas" to scorn, and flirt with and make desperate and determined love to their daughters, right under their very noses—that's another reason. Another great inducement to begin this study, I found in the reflection that a man who can dance enjoys one glorious privilege from which the non-dancist is debarred, viz.; he can hug up another man's wife, in public, right before the husband's eyes, and not a word be said about it; whereas if the unhappy fellow who doesn't dance attempts anything of the sort, even in the most private and decorous manner possible, the husband is as likely to make an unpleasantness about it as not. I knew this is so, for I've seen it tried.

I also hoped to secure enough artificial polish in the dancing school to cover up a portion of my natural diffidence, and put me more at ease in society. This result, I am happy to say, bids fair to be accomplished; for, though I have taken but two lessons, I make bold to assert that no man could offer a cooler apology to any one than I did to the man whom I bumped against and knocked under a chair, on the second evening; and Chesterfield himself would be delighted at the easy grace with which I lead my partner to her seat after treading on her foot or tripping her up—practice makes perfect in all things, and no mistake. PAKEHA.

VACCINATION OR NO VACCINATION seems to be agitating the public mind in some of the large cities, and the most eminent physicians are disagreeing as to its safety. By reference to our list of deaths the opponents of vaccination, will find an additional reason for their want of faith.

ESCAPED.—Alanson J. Shorey, (well known in this city,) who was tried at the May term of the U. S. Court for smuggling silks and other goods from Canada, convicted and sentenced to the Concord jail for one year, has escaped from that institution. He was allowed outside the jail to work, and forgot to return at the appointed hour. He was sent out to whitewash a fence, and is supposed to have misunderstood his orders, and gone to Canada to whitewash one. The rogues will not miss that patron saint of counterfeiters and whisky-thieves—Andrew Johnson—so much after all, if all jailers become as confiding as the one at Concord.

SALE OF PEWS.—The sale of pews at the Methodist Church last Thursday evening was very satisfactory to the Society. There were eight purchases of choice of pews amounting to $242 the highest being for $75. Ten pews were sold at $100 each, one at $120, and nineteen others were disposed of, the lowest amount being $40. Fifteen unsold pews were rented. Fifteen more pews will probably be sold at once, and applications for renting cover nearly all the balance. The aspect of the condition of the financial affairs of the Society is very promising. The front of the meeting-house has been handsomely painted in blocks, and is greatly improved in appearance.

☞ One of our correspondents in Rye, under date of Oct. 15, says:—

The farmers are busy now securing a beautiful crop of potatoes, corn, and a fair supply of apples. A large amount of seaweed has been thrown up on the beaches this Fall,—and the teams are constantly hauling it on the tillage for a top dressing.

☞ Rev. Mr. Skinner is to preach tomorrow at the Universalist Church in this city. Rev. G. W. Bicknell, who was recently called to be the Pastor, has signified his acceptance, and is to begin his ministry here in November.

THE FATHER OF TURNIPS.—Owing to the drought, Mr. S. W. Moses has at his store, a Ruta Baga Turnip raised by Mr. Joseph W. Garland of Rye, weighing eighteen pounds. Turnip it if you can.

☞ Gov. Claflin of Massachusetts has appointed Thursday Nov. 18, as Thanksgiving Day—same day appointed by the President.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

The Fall and its Danger.

Animal as well as vegetable life is powerfully affected by the great atmospheric change that takes place in the Fall. But for the flowers, the foliage and the herbs of the field there is no help. Their time has come and die they must. It is otherwise with man. For him the means of revivigoration have been provided by skill and science. To recruit his exhausted energies and fortify himself against the accidents generated by the sudden depression of temperature and the unwholesome exhalations of Autumn, let him tone his nervous system, invigorate his digestion and give edge to his appetite with HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS. He may then face the morbid influences of the season fearlessly. The chills and fevers and heavy malarious miasms will have no power to make him shiver and burn, to affect his liver, to disorder his stomach or his bowels, to rack his joints with rheumatism, or to render any latent element of disease in his system active and dangerous.

To the sufferer from general debility, whether constitutional or arising from other causes,—this potent vegetable specific is earnestly commended. And let it be remembered that physical weakness opens the door to all maladies. Vigor is the chief defence of the human structure against all causes of disease, and HOSTETTER'S BITTERS may be truly pronounced the safest and surest of all invigorants. It is the most genial of all vegetable tonics, and is admirably adapted to the wants and weaknesses of the more delicate sex, as well as to the ailments of men.

Holloway's Ointment.—STIFF JOINTS.—One of the most remarkable attributes of HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT is the rapidity and certainty with which it relaxes contracted ligaments and sinews. Joints that have been stiff for years have repeatedly been restored to activity by a persevering use of this matchless balm. The Ointment should be used in applying it in such cases, so that its annealing influence may thoroughly penetrate the contracted fibres. Sold by all Druggists.

ASIATIC CHOLERA IN CHINA.

TUNGCHOW, China, Aug. 23, 1866.

MESSRS. PERRY DAVIS & SON:

Dear Sirs—During a long residence in China, I have used your invaluable Pain Killer, both in my own family and among the Chinese, and have found it a most excellent medicine. In the summer of '62 and '63, while residing in Shanghai, I found it an almost certain cure for Cholera, if used in time. Indeed using it in a great many instances, I do not remember failing in a single case. For three years I have been residing in this place, more than fifty miles from a physician, and have been obliged often to fall upon my own resources in cases of sickness. The Chinese come to us in great numbers for medicine and advice. Without medical knowledge ourselves, the few simple remedies we can command are so much in advance even of their physicians, that we have almost daily applications. We allow them to come because it brings us in contact with them, and opens a door to usefulness. For diarrhœa, colic, vomiting, cholera, coughs, &c., your Pain Killer has been my chief medicine.

Yours, very truly, T. P. CRAWFORD.

Comfort and Bliss or Pain and Agony.

DR. TOBIAS' CELEBRATED VENETIAN LINIMENT, whose wonderful cures, sure and instaneous action, in cases of Chronic Rheumatism, Headache, Toothache and Ague, Bowel Colic, Cramps, Dysentery, etc., have astonished the civilized world, is no new catch-penny; but an article that has stood the test of twenty years. The enormous sale and rapidly increasing demand is at once the surest evidence of its usefulness and popularity. No family should be without a bottle in the house. Hundreds of dollars and many hours of suffering may be saved by its timely use.

Colic, Cramp, and Dysentery yield at once to its paincurative properties. It is perfectly innocent, and can be given to the oldest person or youngest child. No matter if you have no confidence in Patent Medicines—try this, and you will be sure to buy again, and recommend to your friends. Hundreds of Physicians recommend it in their practice.

Sold by the Druggists and Storekeepers. Price Fifty Cents and One Dollar. Depot, 10 Park Place, New York. o1

FRIGHTFUL DEVELOPMENTS!

BRANDRETH'S PILLS remove all from the system which nature needs no longer.

The wonderful cures effected by Brandreth's Pills have arrested the attention of enlightened physicians. Upwards of five thousand now use them in their daily practice, and two hundred have given their written testimony as to their innocence and value, as cleansers of the bowels and blood. Their untold value to those living in settlements where doctors can only be had at great expense. For if you are sick, you have only to take one or more doses of Brandreth's Pills to get cured. CONSUMPTION.

DR. SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP for the cure of Coughs, Colds and Consumption.

DR. SCHENCK'S SEAWEED TONIC for the cure of Dyspepsia and all the Debilitated Conditions of the Stomach.

DR. SCHENCK'S MANDRAKE PILLS for Diseases of the Liver, or to act as a gentle Purgative.

All of these three medicines are often required in curing Consumption, though the Pulmonic Syrup alone has cured many desperate cases. The Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills assist in regulating the Stomach and Liver, and help the Pulmonic Syrup to digest and search through the blood vessels, by which means a cure is soon effected.

These medicines are conscientiously offered to the public as the only safe, certain and reliable remedies for Pulmonary Consumption, and for all those morbid conditions of the body which lead to that fatal disease. Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia are often troublesome complications, and when they manifest themselves they require the most prompt attention.

The Pulmonic Syrup is a medicine which has had a long probation before the public. Its value has been through a period of more than thirty-five years, in all of which time its reputation has constantly increased, and the most obstinate skepticism can no longer doubt that it is a remedy which may be used with confidence in all cases in which admit of a cure.

If the patient will perseveringly follow the directions which accompany each bottle, he will certainly be cured, if his lungs are not too much wasted to make a cure possible. Even in cases supposed to be incurable, whom friends and physicians have desponded, the use of the medicine has saved the life of the patient, and restored him to perfect health.

Dr. Schenck himself was cured in precisely such circumstances, and many others have been equally fortunate by judiciously making a timely use of Dr. Schenck's remedies.

Dr. Schenck does not say that all cases of Pulmonary Consumption are within the reach of medicine, but he emphatically asserts, that often when patients have the most alarming symptoms, such as a violent cough, creeping chills, night sweats, and general debility, even to such a degree that they are obliged to lie in bed, and when they are given up by their physicians, they may still be cured. No medical treatment can create new lungs, but when the lungs are very badly diseased, and to some extent destroyed, a cure may be effected by Dr. Schenck's medicines.

Also in Scrofulous diseases these medicines are equally efficient. Dr. Schenck has shipped some of a number of persons who have been nearly covered with running sores, and now all healed up. This shows its purifying properties, which must be done to heal cavities in the lungs.

In the treatment of Consumption, it is of the utmost importance to give vigor and a healthy tone to the system. This is the means is necessary to strengthen the appetite of the patient and improve the digestion. Proper nourishment is required, together with such medicine as will make the food easily digestible. The articles most suitable for the diet of consumptive patients are designed in Dr. Schenck's Almanac, which are distributed gratuitously. In general, the most nutritious articles are to be preferred; but the digestive organs must be strengthened by exercise to make either food or medicine serviceable. This requirement is met by the Sea Weed Tonic, and for this purpose it was designed.

When the digestive powers are put in good order, the food has its proper effect, the system of the patient is invigorated, and the lungs begin to exercise their functions in a normal and healthy manner. Then the healing powers of the Pulmonic Syrup will complete the cure.

Pulmonary Consumption is almost always complicated with Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint. Schenck's Mandrake Pills are intended to remove obstructions from the liver and restore its healthy action. They have all the efficacy which is ascribed to calomel or "blue mass," and are warranted not to contain a particle of any mercurial poison. These pills cure the the most obstinate costiveness, sick headache, piles, billious affections, and all other diseases which arise from a torpid or obstructed condition of the liver. One box of these pills will prove the efficacy of the medicine.

In Consumption, the Sea Weed Tonic and Mandrake Pills are invaluable auxiliary medicines. They relieve the sufferings of the patient and assist the Pulmonic Syrup in effecting a cure. They have been found useful in advanced stages of Consumption, where the lungs were almost entirely destroyed, and of symptoms, according to the judgement of physicians, indicated speedy death. Lives of patients who were actually in a dying condition have been restored to health by the use of Schenck's three great remedies.

DR. SCHENCK'S Almanac, containing a full treatise on the various forms of disease, his mode of treatment and general directions how to use his medicine, can be had gratis or sent by mail by addressing his Principal Office, No. 15 North Sixth Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

Price of the Pulmonic Syrup and Sea Weed Tonic, each, $1.50 per bottle, or $7.50 the half dozen; Mandrake Pills, 25 cents per box. For sale by all druggist and dealers.

THE LATEST DISCOVERY
In Medication.

The great difficulty which physicians have been laboring for centuries to overcome, has at length been obviated. A vegetable Cathartic and alterative more efficient than any mineral preparation of the same class, and as agreeable to the taste as confectionery, is now offered to the sick in the form of a Lozenge.

DR. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S

is the most important medicinal novelty that modern chemistry has produced. It contains two botanical extracts, perfectly harmless in themselves, and possessing all the cathartic properties of mercury, and destined in this pleasant form to supersede and banish from general use, the nauseous pills and portions of which that dangerous excitant is the main ingredient. More than

One thousand experiments

were made by the inventor of this peerless remedy before it was brought to its present state of perfection. The Lozenge is harmless in its operation, and altogether the medicinal taste of its curative components has been completely overcome, medical art, their virtues remain as active and potent as ever.

For Dyspepsia, Biliousness Constipation, Sick or Nervous Headache, Piles, Dropsy, and the irregularities to which the feminine sex are subject, this lozenge will prove infinitly more effective than any of the horrible and disgusting compounds usually administered in such cases. As an antibilious specific and general aperient, they have no equal either among advertised preparations or the prescriptions of the regular pharmacopœia.

☞ It is guaranteed that no one who has once tried DR. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S Liver and Stomach Lozenge, will ever again take a cathartic powder, or draught or pill.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

IN BOARD OF ALDERMEN, Thursday Evening, (Ald. Spinney and Slater absent,) Jas. D. Butler, Esq., of Frink & Butler, appeared as attorney for Mr. Wm. Plaisted, asking that the Board would appoint a committee of conference on his claim for payment of expense of removing street-sprinkling tank, &c., from Pleasant St.,—Mr. B. expressing the hope that the matter might be settled without a law-suit. After considerable discussion, Ald. Nowell and Pendexter were appointed, to report at the next meeting, what arrangement can be made. Mr. Plaisted's claims is $91.

The Com. on Claims reported back for payment, the claim of Howard D, Lowd for $40.25, for infected clothing and bedding burned by the City Physician. They recommended that no more clothing be burned, as contagion might pass in the smoke; some members of the Board of Health state that the clothing might be washed — but the Aldermen seemed mostly to prefer burying. The recommendation was adopted.

Miss Sarah H. White, of 42 Court St., complained of the nuisance of pigs in rear of the Irish rookery corner of Court and Atkinson Sts. Ald. Cotton also reported as a nuisance, the pigs of Mrs. Conner on Gates St. And Ald. Cotton and Nowell were appointed a Com. to abate the same, and all similar nuisances—which it is devoutly to be hoped they will be able to do.

Permission was given to C. H. Rollins, on Court St., and T. S. Nowell, on State St., to lay sidewalks.

Ald. Clark asked if Mr. Ward's sidewalk on McDonough St. had been repaired by the Com. on Sts. and St. Commissioner, as authorized by the Board several weeks since. Neither of the Com. being present, they were excused from further charge in the matter, and Ald. Clark and Pender given power to act.

The City Clerk stated that the annual report of City matters would speedily be ready for Printing; and considerable discussion ensued as to who should be City Printer for the purpose,—Portsmouth not having any such stated officer, as most other cities do have. And we venture to say further, that Portsmouth is the only city calling itself Republican, which fails to securewhat little patronage they have in this line, to their own political faith.

A motion was made to refer the matter to the Com. on Printing, to invite proposals from all the offices in the city, but the chairman, Ald. Miller, declining to serve in such capacity, it was afterwards voted to refer the matter to the Com. on Printing, with power to act. Ald. Cotton's motion to appoint Ald. Miller printer for this purpose, was defeated by a yea and nay vote, 2 Dems. in favor, all the 4 Reps. against.

Ald. Nowell afterwards moved to rescind the vote leaving the matter in the hands of the Com. on Printing; which was declared carried, by the Mayor, though it was questioned, and the decision would not have been sustained by the Board, if put to vote.

It was then voted, by yeas 3, (Cotton, Clark, Nowell) nays 3, (Pendexter, Pender, Miller,) the Mayor giving his deciding vote in favor, of course—to authorize the City Clerk to ask for proposals from all the printers in the city.

Ald. Miller stated that his office declined to bid last year; and that the job was taken by a party who sent the work to Boston to be done, and paid more for the job than they received from the City. The result of calling for bids will be the same this year—if the Board wish it.

The Mayor stated that Mr. Thorndike does work cheap—to which Ald. Pender asserted yes, and added (supporting Republican papers is of no account to some Republicans,) that he thought cheaper than anybody else in the city. To which Ald. Miller responded, that people who do not pay their bills, can work cheap.

On motion of Ald. Nowell, attempt was made to authorize the City Clerk to accept the lowest bid for the Printing; but the other Republicans present declining to vote at all when the yeas and nays were called several times,he could not succeed in aiding and encouraging the Opposition quite so far as this yet.

It was finally voted to adjourn for one week,—Ald. Cotton claiming the right to keep the Board all night in session, voting yea and nay; but the Mayor cut him short, and declared an adjournment.

☞ Alderman Nowell we believe was elected as a Republican; but in the only two political questions of the year in the Board, he has been found on the Opposition side—we mean the number of Police appointed, and the Printing question.

☞ Admiral Farragut is reported in a dying condition at Chicago.

☞ The Funeral services of the late Mrs. A. P. Peabody, wife of Rev. Dr. Peabody, will take place at the Stone Church, this (Saturday) afternoon at quarter past two o'clock.

We beg leave to announce that we have accepted the agency of the KANSAS PACIFIC RAILWAY COMPANY, For the sale of its NEW SEVEN PER CENT. Thirty Year Gold Loan, Free from Tax. This Loan amounts to $6,500,000. First Mortgage Land-Grant and Sinking Fund Bonds, secured upon the extension of the Railway from near Sheridan, in Kansas, to Denver, Colorado, a distance of 237 miles of which 12 miles are completed, and the rest is under construction. It is also a Mortgage upon the Road, the Rolling Stock and Franchise of this first-class Railway, besides now running through the State of Kansas,

And in successful operation for 437 miles west of the Missouri River, and earning already enough to meet all of its expenses and existing obligations, besides MORE THAN THE INTEREST UPON THIS NEW LOAN. In addition to this the Bonds are also secured by a first mortgage of the GOVERNMENT LAND GRANT OF THREE MILLION ACRES, extending in alternate sections on either side of the track, from the 394th mile post in Kansas to Denver. The proceeds of the sale of these lands are to be invested by the Trustees in the 7 per cent Bonds, themselves up to 120 in U. S. Bonds, as A SINKING FUND FOR THE REDEMPTION OF THE BONDS.

The Lands embrace some of the finest portions of the magnificent Territory of Colorado, including a coal field and pinery. The company also holds as an asset another tract of Three Millions of Acres in the State of Kansas, and although not pledged as a security for this Loan, their possession adds largely to the Company's wealth and credit. We estimate the Value of the Company's property, covered by this mortgage at $23,000,000 net, while the Loan is merely $6,500,000.

The Bonds have THIRTY YEARS TO RUN, from May 1, 1869, and will pay SEVEN PER CENT. INTEREST IN GOLD, semi-annually, on May 1 and Nov. 1, and are FREE FROM GOVERNMENT TAXATION, the Company paying the tax.

The principal of the Loan is made payable in Gold, in the City of New York, but each coupon will be PAYABLE IN FRANKFORT, LONDON OR N. YORK at option of the holder, with notice, at the following rates:

On $1,000 Bond in N. Y. $25 (gold) each half year.
" London....27 s6. 10. "
" Frankfort..87 fr. 30 kntzs., "

The Agents of the Loan, before accepting the trust had the condition of the Road and the country through which it runs, carefully examined. They are happy to give the Loan an emphatic endorsement as a FIRST CLASS INVESTMENT, in every respect perfectly sure, and in some essential even Better than Government Securities. The Bonds will be sold for the present at 96, and accrued Interest, both in Currency, the Agents reserving the right to advance the rate.

The attention of investors is invited to these well-secured bonds, which we recommend as one of the most profitable investments in the market.

Gold and Government Securities taken in payment at their market value, without commission.

Pamphlets, with maps giving full information, sent on application.

PRESIDENT LINCOLN.

A New and True Story Told of the Late President.

From Dickens's All the Year Round.

During the Summer of the most disastrous and doubtful year of the late American war, the Colonel of a New Hampshire regiment lay for some weeks extremely ill of camp fever, near Hampton Roads, in Virginia. Hearing of his critical condition, his wife left her Northern home, and, after much difficulty, made her way to his bedside. Her cheerful presence and careful nursing so far restored him that he was in a short time to be transferred to Washington.

In the Potomac River the steamer in which the invalid officer, Colonel Scott, and his wife had taken passage, was sunk, in a collision with a larger vessel, in the night time. The crew and nearly all the soldiers on board were rescued or saved themselves; but amid the horrible confusion of the scene, Colonel Scott became separated from his wife, and she was lost. The Colonel was picked up in the water by the crew of the larger steamer, and under his direction every effort was made to discover his wife, or rather her body, for all hope of finding her alive was soon abandoned. The sad search was fruitless; it was resumed in the morning, the people along the shore, humane Confederates, lending their aid. But the gray, sullen river refused to give up its dead, and the young officer, half frantic with grief, was compelled to go on to Washington. Within a week, however, he received word from below that the body of the lady had been washed on shore; that those good country people, generous foes, had secured it, cared for it, and were keeping it for him.

It happened that just at that time imperative orders were issued from the War Department, prohibiting all intercourse with the peninsula—a necessary precaution against the premature disclosure of important military plans. So it was with some misgivings that Colonel Scott applied to Mr. Secretary Stanton for leave to return to Virginia, on his melancholy duty.

"Impossible, Colonel," replied Mr. Stanton, firmly; "no one can have leave to go down the river, at this time, on any private mission whatever. Our present exigencies demand the most stringent regulations; and I hope I need not say to you that no merely personal considerations should be allowed to interfere with great national interests. Your case is a sad one; but this is a critical, perilous, cruel time. 'The dead must bury the dead.'"

He would have entreated, but the busy Secretary cut him short with another "impossible," from which there was absolutely no appeal. He went forth from the presence, and returned to his hotel, quite overwhelmed.

Fortunately he was that afternoon visited by a friend, to whom he told the story of his unsuccessful application and sad perplexity, and who immediately exclaimed, "Why not apply to the President?"

The Colonel had but little hope, but acknowedging that the plan was worth trying, drove with his friend to the White House.

They were too late. It was Saturday evening, and Mr. Lincoln had gone to spend Sunday at Soldiers' Rest, his Summer retreat. This was but a few miles from town, and the Colonel's indomitable friend proposed that they should follow him out, and they went.

There was then a popular belief that all the wronged, the troubled, and suffering could find a refuge in "Father Abraham's" capacious bosom; a belief not far out of the way. Yet at times when overburdened, wearied, tortured, the patriarch longed to clear that asylum of its forlorn inmates, to bolt and bar, double-lock it against the world; times when life became too hard and perplexing for his genial, honest nature, too serious and tragic and rascally a thing by half.

It happened, unluckily, that the poor Colonel and his friend found the President in one of his most despondent and disgusted moods. He was in his little private parlor, alone in the gloaming. He was lounging loosely in a large rocking-chair jutting over it in all directions. His slippered feet were exalted, his rough head was thrown back, his long throat bare—he was in his shirt-sleeves. Yes, dear, fastidious English reader, it was genuine Yankee abandon—make the most of it.

He turned upon his visitors a look of almost savage inquiry. There was, indeed, in his usually pleasant eyes a wild angry gleam—a something like the glare of a worried animal at bay.

Colonel Scott proceeded very modestly to tell his story; but the President interrupted him, to say brusquely, "Go to Stanton; this is his business."

"I have been to him, Mr. President, and he will do nothing for me."

"You have been to him, and got your answer, and still presume to come to me? Am I to have no rest? no privacy? Must I be dogged to my last fastnesses, and worried to death by inches? Mr. Stanton has done just right. He knows what he is about. Your demands are unreasonable, Sir."

"But, Mr. Lincoln, I thought you would feel for me."

"Feel for you! Good God! I have to feel for five hundred thousand more unfortunate than you. We are at war, Sir; don't you know we are at war? Sorrow is the lot of all; bear your share like a man and a soldier."

"I try to, Mr. President, but it seems hard. My devoted wife lost her life for coming to nurse me in my sickness, and I cannot even take her body home to my children."

"Well, she ought not to have come down to the army. She should have stayed at home. That is the place for women. But if they will go tearing about the country, in such times as these, and running into all sorts of danger, they must take the consequences! Not but that I am sorry for you, Colonel. As for your wife, she's at rest, and I wish I were."

Saying this, the President leaned back wearily in his chair, and closed his eyes, not noticing, except by a slight wave of his hand, the departure of his visitors.

I am not ashamed to confess that my hero tossed restlessly that night, upon a pillow wet with manly tears, that he was desperate and resentful, utterly unresigned to the decrees of Providence and the War Department, and that he thought Abraham Lincoln as hard as he was ugly, and as inhumane as he was ungainly.

Towards morning he fell asleep, and slept late. Before he was fully dressed, there came a quick knock at the door of his chamber, and he opened it to President Lincoln!

The good man came forward, pale and eager, tears glistening in his eyes, and grasped the Colonel's hand, saying, "I treated you brutally last night. I ask your pardon. I was utterly tired out, badgered to death. I generally become about as savage as a wild cat by Saturday night, drained dry of the "milk of human kindness." I must have seemed to you the very gorilla the rebels paint me. I was sorry enough for it when you were gone. I could not sleep a moment last night, so I thought I'd drive into town, in the cool of the morning, and make it all right. Fortunately, I had little difficulty in finding you."

"This is very good of you, Mr. President," said the Colonel, deeply moved.

"No it isn't; but that was very bad of me, last night. I never should have forgiven myself if I had left that piece of ugly work stand. That was a noble wife of yours, Colonel. You were a happy man to have such a noble woman to love you; and you must be a good fellow, or such a woman would never have risked so much for you. And what grand women there are in these times, Colonel! What angels of devotion and mercy, and how brave and plucky!—going everywhere at the call of duty, facing every danger! I tell you, if it were not for the women, we should all go to the devil, and should deserve to. They are the salvation of the nation. Now, come, Colonel; my carriage is at the door. I'll drive you to the War Department, and we'll see Stanton about this matter."

Even at that early hour they found the Secretary at his post. The President pleaded the case of Colonel Scott, and not only requested that leave of absence should be given him, but that a steamer should be sent down the river expressly to bring up the body of his wife. "Humanity, Mr. Stanton," said the good President, his homely face transfigured with the glow of earnest, tender feeling, "humanity should overrule consideration of policy, and even military necessity, in matters like this."

The Secretary was touched, and he said something of his regret at not having felt himself at liberty to grant Col. Scott's request in the first place.

"No, no, Mr. Stanton," said the President; "you did right in adhering to your own rules; you are the right man for this place. If we had such a soft-headed old fool as I here, there would be no rules or regulations that the army or the country could depend upon. But this is a peculiar case. Only think of that poor woman!"

Of course, the "impossible" was accomplished.

To the surprise of the Colonel, the President insisted on driving him to the Navy Yard, to see that the Secretary's order was carried out immediately; seeming to have a nervous fear that some obstacle might be thrown in the way of the pious expedition. He waited at the landing till all was ready, charged the officer of the steamer to give every assistance and attention to his "friend, Col. Scott." With him he shook hands warmly at parting, saying, "God bless you, my dear fellow. I hope you will have no more trouble in this sad affair—and, Colonel, try to forget last night."

Away up in a New Hampshire churchyard there is a certain grave carefully watched and tended by faithful love. But every April time the violets on that mound speak not alone of the womanly sweetness and devotion of her who sleeps below—they are tender and tearful with the memory of the murdered President.

The Manchester Mirror states, in a note, that the Colonel Scott referred to, is Col. Charles Scott, of Peterborough, now Sheriff of Hillsborough County, formerly Lieut. Col. of the 6th Regiment of N. H. Volunteers.

The Chronicle.

THE ABSURDITY OF IT.

It is all very well for the poets to tell,
By way of their songs adorning,
Of milkmaids who rouse, to manipulate cows,
At five o'clock in the morning;
And of moony young mowers, who bundle out of doors—
The charms or their straw-beds scorning—
Before break of day, to make love and hay,
At five o'clock in the morning!

But, between me and you, it is all untrue—
Believe not a word they utter;
To no milkmaid alive does the finger of Five
Bring beaux—or even bring butter.
The poor sleepy cows, if told to arouse,
Would do so, perhaps, in a horning;
But the sweet country girls, would they show their curls
At five o'clock in the morning!

It may not be wrong for the man in the song—
Or the moon—if anxious to settle,
To kneel in wet grass, and pop, but alas!
What if he popped down on a nettle!
For, how could he see what was under his knee,
If, in spite of my friendly warning,
He went out of bed, and his house, and his head,
At five o'clock in the morning!

It is all very well such stories to tell,
But if I were a maid all forlorn-ing;
And a lover should drop in the clover to pop,
At five o'clock in the morning;
If I liked him, you see, I'd say "Please call at three!"
If not, I'd turn on him with scorning;
"Don't come here you flat, with conundrums like that,
At five o'clock in the morning!"

Written for the Chronicle and Gazette.

BEER RHETORIC.—A Boston brewer wished to advertise his wares without cost to himself. In furtherance of this, false information was conveyed to the State police, and a very large lot not liable to seizure was taken. When Maj. Jones ascertained the facts he was unwilling to let the case come to trial, as the beer would spoil meanwhile. So prudently taking the advice of the State's Attorney, he returned it. Great were the rejoicings of the rum papers over the transaction. From such sources the affair came to the knowledge of Rev. Mr. Wright, of the Berkley Street Congregational Church, and without any interview with the Constable of the Commonwealth, he proceeded to hold him up to public condemnation in a sermon on the Sabbath. He brings this transaction into his sermon in the following words;—

"They were sent out by the State as fishermen. The tackle was new. They were very brave, and loudly proclaimed that they would not stay long on shore, nor catch small fish, but would get out into deep water, where the fish were large and plenty. They went out, and there was a very large bite, and the fisherman tugged harder and harder, and pulled in his line. They threw him on the deck; but they had not appreciated how large he was, and what sharp teeth he had, and what a tremendous tail power. As he looked with those fierce eyes they drew back and climbed into the rigging, and asked, 'What shall we do?' And, finally—I don't know who gave the order—but they obeyed, and gave him a shove back into the sea. Down came the mariners and sailors, and the vessel was put back to the shore to catch cunners. The captain was asked, 'Why, after catching him, did you put him back?' And then he paused a little while for his answer, 'Oh, he was so big, we thought before we got ashore he might spoil, and we might have to pay for him.' The imperial State, the wealthy State of Massachusetts, putting out her hand and laying hold of lager beer which was being sold in contravention to law, and then proclaim that she might have done wrong, and some time in the future might have to pay for it!"

In this incubic simile we see the State liable for a fish* which its "fishermen"-"man"-"sailors and mariners" had caught out of the sea, in case it spoiled before they reached the shore. Pay to whom? To the sea? It would have been in keeping had the fish become a cask before the figure was completed, and if the extraordinary parable had ended by their rolling it back into the cellar where he found them.

A few days after the delivery of this sermon, a young man rang Mr. Wright's bell after dark, called him to the door, pointed to a handsome horse, carriage and robes, said "Here is a present for you," and walked off before the astonished minister of the Divine Pedestrian had time to utter a word. I. F. H.

[*Note.—But, Br. H., there was no fish there. There was "a great bite," after which the "fisherman" "pulled in his line," and "they threw him on the deck." Now, if the "they" refers to the man and the line, the "him" must be "the great bite;" but I rather favor the supposition that the bite and the line threw the fisherman on deck, and made him show his sharp teeth and awful eyes. Either way, the reverend fisherman caught no fish that Sunday, if he did afterwards.—P.]

PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER,
an internal remedy has no equal. In cases of Cholera, Summer Complaint, Dyspepsia, dysentery, Asthma, it cures in one nighty by taking internally, and bathing with it freely. It is the best liniment in America. Its action is like magic, when externally applied to bad sores, burns, scalds and sprains. For the sick headache and tooth ache, don't fail to try it. In short, it is a Pain Killer. 4ws7

WHAT ARE
DR. J. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA Vinegar Bitters.
THEY ARE NOT A VILE FANCY DRINK, Made of Poor Rum, Whiskey, Proof Spirits, and refuse Liquors, doctored, spiced, and sweetened to please the taste, called "Tonics," "Appetisers" "Restorers," &c., that lead the tippler on to drunkenness and ruin, but are a true Medicine, made from the Native Roots and Herbs of California, free from all Alcoholic Stimulants. They are the GREAT BLOOD-PURIFIER and LIFE-GIVING PRINCIPLE, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the system, carrying off all poisonous matter, and restoring the blood to a healthy condition. No person can take these Bitters according to directions and remain long unwell. $100 will be paid for an incurable case, provided the bones are not destroyed by mineral poisons or other means, the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair.
FOR INFLAMMATORY AND CHRONIC RHEUMATISM, AND GOUT, DYSPEPSIA, or INDIGESTION, BILLIOUS, REMITTENT, and INTERMITTENT FEVERS, DISEASES OF THE BLOOD, LIVER, KIDNEYS, and BLADDER, these BITTERS have been most successful. SUCH DISEASES are caused by VITIATED BLOOD, which is generally produced by derangement of the DIGESTIVE ORGANS.
Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins, cleanse it when it is foul, and your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood healthy, and all will be well.
These Bitters are not a gilded pill, to delight the eye or please the fancy, but a medical preparation, composed of the best vegetable ingredients known.
They are Alterative, Tonic, Diuretic, Sedative, Diaphoretic, and Gentle Purgative.
"The Life of all Flesh is the Blood thereof."—Purify the blood and the health of the whole system will follow.

"Ingenio Stat Sine Morte Decus."
ROCKY MOUNTAIN BITTERS
IS a very superior Regulating Tonic, imparting vigor and strength to the constitution—a thoro'
PURIFIER OF THE BLOOD,
a regulator of nervous force, and a powerful sustainer of health against the encroachments of disease.
The invalid and convalescing seeking restoration, and yearning for the healing virtues of some magic balm, will find in these Bitters a hidden mysterious power, which QUIETLY RESTORES, yet refuses to reveal to the senses anything but taste and color.
It is a pleasant Bitter, free from all nauseous properties odor, entirely vegetable, being mainly grown at the base of the mountains from which they derive their name, and is particularly adapted to all forms of
DYSPEPSIA OR INDIGESTION,
manifesting themselves by the following symptoms: headache, nervousness, loss of memory, low spirits, giddiness, dimness of sight, dulness of hearing, and ringing noises in the ears, eructations, of belching of wind, lightness of breathing, weight and oppression of the chest, uneasy feeling about the heart, palpitation, &c.
Also for Liver Diseases, Disorders of the Kidneys, Restlessness and Loss of Muscular Power, these Bitters will be found almost a specific; and as a preventative of
FEVER AND AGUE
or a restorer of the natural powers of the system, when broken down by continued ague attacks; it has no equal.
Being stimulating, (but not intoxicating), they refresh and invigorate both mind and body, heighten the sensibility, clear and sharpen the faculties, and bestow alacrity and cheerfulness of spirit.
CAUTION.—There have been, and still are several parties manufacturing and selling so-called "Langley's Bitters," many of which are worthless. As a guide against such, I would say that in 1866, I secured my copy-right, in the United States Court, a trade mark and name, "Rocky Mountain Bitters," and all Bitters of my manufacture are put up in dark, long neck, quart bottles with red label printed with gold; also, direction label, bearing my seal and directions printed in red, with a red cap and my seal printed in gold, over the cork. Beware of all others, and ask for "Rocky Mountain Bitters."

LETTER FROM THE PRESIDENT.—The following letter from the President to Robert Bonner is published:

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 13.

Robert Bonner, Esq.: Dear Sir: Your favor of the 11th inst, is received. I never thought of contradicting statements or insinuations made against me by irresponsible parties, as those are alluded to in your letter; but as you have written to me on the subject in so kind a spirit, I will say, that I had no more to do with the late gold excitement in New York city than yourself or any other innocent party, except that I ordered the sale of gold, to break the ring engaged, as I thought, in a most disreputable transaction. If the speculators had been successful, you would never have heard of any one connected with the Administration as being connected with the transaction.

Yours truly, U. S. GRANT.

P. S. I have written this in great haste and without exercising judgment as to the propriety of writing it. But I submit it to your judgment.

New Hampshire Items.

There are over 100 car-loads of stock on the Boston, Concord & Montreal Railroad, at Northfield, which will have to be unloaded, the repairs on the road not being sufficient for the running of the cars from that place to Concord.

The White Mountain Railroad, which is now extending towards Northumberland, has been completed to the line of Whitefield, is now open to the Wing Road, six miles beyond Littleton, and is run regularly in connection with the Boston, Concord & Montreal road.

PANTHER IN STRAFFORD.—A large cougar, or American panther, is reported in the woods between Bow Lake Village and Strafford Centre. He was first seen by Dr. Chesley and Elbridge M. Montgomery, near Montgomery's house, coming from the woods toward Montgomery's flock of turkeys; but as he saw them approaching, he bounded away toward the woods, leaping fences without touching. He is thought to be about eight feet long and three feet high, of brownish color. He has been seen by other citizens. Charles W. Young who was hunting for coons in the night, saw him in a tree, where his hound had treed him, but as his gun was loaded only with shot he did not think it best to attack him.—Dover Enquirer.

☞ Our old friend Ald. Nowell tells us he thinks he was unfairly treated in the Chronicle of Saturday. But we don't think so. If it is not an insult, immediately after referring a matter to a Committee, the members of which have always attended to any duty given them,—then to move or vote to take the matter from them; we know not what an insult is.

And his explanation, that he was desirous to give the other Republican printers in the city, equal chance to bid for the job, only adds to the insult, by a mean and small insinuation that the chairman of that Committe would take the job of printing the City Book himself—as the Opposition Aldermen were desirous previously of voting him, and it would doubtless have been done but for his own vote against it!

Now the fact happens to be, that we did not want the job at any price, and would not take it at any rate that ever has been or was likely to be paid—and we so decided at our office, before going to that meeting. The City Printing of Portsmouth has never been a very fat plum; but what Republican fruit there is, it would seem should be harvested by the party.

Ald. Nowell also demurs to our statement, that he voted on this or the Police question, with the Opposition, for party effect—his only idea was economy, and the public interest, without regard to party. All very well to talk about, but any man fit to be an Alderman and to help fight the Philistines, in these days, ought to know that the Opposition talk of economy in the Police and other matters, is solely and wholly for political effect, and the veriest claptrap to gull the flats.

Ald. Nowell says his idea was, to vote the job to the lowest Republican bidder, but how could that be done, if there were, (as there would surely be,) lower bidding from the Opposition? And how does this comport with his vote to authorize the city clerk to act on the bids?

And further, it would be well for all such charitably disposed individuals, as Ald. Nowell and his sympathizers, to remember that the Opposition have for many years, as now, supported by direct contribution, an organ which could never sustain itself, for the single purpose of believing the Republican party and abusing all who are identified with it.

Last year, the two Opposition Aldermen tried hard to get the Board to vote to advertise for bids for the printing; but it refused to do so, and referred the matter to the Com. on Printing, with power to act, we think—and they, strange to say, after the above vote, went directly to work and solicited the very bidding which the Board condemned; and when the Journal and Chronicle declined to compete, under the well-known circumstances, that Committee, claiming to be Republicans, actually gave the job to the slangwhanging organ, tho' at a price less than cost, when a Republican ought to have had it at a fair rate; and they never wanted anything more, that we ever heard of, and never got even that yet for this job.

We certainly have none but the kindest feelings for Ald. Nowell, and alluded only to his political course, in which we think he made some mistakes, as the best men are liable to, and we claim no exception. But our course was taken—not that we love Cæsar less, but Rome more—not that we wish to injure Ald. Nowell, but to benefit the Republican party, and through that, as we believe, the city. F.

A VETERAN FARMER. — Mr. Samuel Barker of Hampton, has proved himself "a hero in the strife" for a comfortable and honest living. He is now in his eighty-eighth year, and during the season just past, has raised one hundred and thirty bushels of potatoes, cultivating the whole with his own hands, after the plowing was done, besides planting, hoeing and harvesting an acre of corn. For part of the manure, he worked last winter in a swamp, digging muck alone, and all the time he could spare during the summer, which was quite a number of days, he worked with a spade and hoe in digging one of the largest cellars in town.

His son, last Spring, bought an acre and a half of land for him, for which he expressed his thanks, and remarked that, "now I shan't have to take any more land on shares." The above facts were given us by a townsman of his, and we think it a matter of regret that such sturdy yeomen are so few in number in this degenerate age.—Exeter News Letter.

☞ Dover is to have a new Band, with Jerry Rothwell as leader. Jerry was one of the most valued members of the Portsmouth Cornet Band recently, and is one of the smoothest players we ever heard.

☞ Hon. Sidney Dean for a long time editor of the Providence Press, has retired from his editorial position on that paper.

—The Advance says that a Sunday school was lately started in a neglected part of Schuyler County, Illinois, known as "Gin Ridge." Fifty of the inhabitants have been converted. All the liquor dealers but one gave up the business of their own accord; and he succumbed when his old customers waited upon him in a body. The place has acquired the new soubriquet, of Mount Zion."

From the Portsmouth Journal.

REAR ADMIRAL FRANKLIN ELLMS, who is now at the head of the Haytien Navy, was in this city this week, being commissioned to the United States by the Haytian Government for the purchase of the Steamer Atlanta at Philadelphia. He is an "adopted son" of Portsmouth, having served an apprenticeship with Messrs. Brown & Treadwell, Cabinet makers. Upon leaving them he went to sea, and in a very few years had command of a vessel. When the Rebellion broke out he entered the United States Navy, served in the Gulf squadron, and returned under the commission of acting master in 1868. He shortly after volunteered in the Haytien Navy, where he has steadily advanced in the estimation of the Government, until he now has the entire command of that Navy, and so far possesses the confidence of President Salnave, that he has been entrusted with the commission and means to purchase the vessel above referred to. He left here with his lady on Monday morning, and they return to Hayti in the Atlanta. The estimation of the rebels at Hayti is not less flattering to Admiral Ellms than that of the Government. They offered him, we are told, $20,000 to leave Salnave and enter their service. His reply is characteristic. Plucking a hair from his head he said "All the gold in the world could not purchase even that—I am not to be bought for money!"

TRANSACTIONS OF THE N. H. MEDICAL SOCIETY.—We have received from the Secretary, G. P. Conn, M. D. of Concord the transactions of the N. H. Medical Society at its 79th anniversary held at Concord in June last. In addition to the usual business of the body an obituary notice of the death of Dr. N. W. Oliver of this city was prepared by Dr. Pray of Dover, Chairman of the Committee on Necrology and read to the Society by Dr. Smith of Peterborough. The notice was ordered to be printed with the proceedings, and the society adopted appropriate resolutions expressive of their deep sorrow for his loss and hearty sympathy for his bereaved widow.

STAR ISLAND.—An interesting scene eminently combining the real of sea-life with the ideal dignity of the engravers art, is that well executed and accurate full page cartoon by Fenn, of the southern side of Star Island, Isle of Shoals, contained in Appleton's Journal for October 9th. Accompaning is a delightfull pen-picture, entitled "New England Coast Scenes," which renders a pleasant and glowing tribute to these Islands, evidently written by the talented lady who gave to the many readers of the August No. of the Atlantic, such a finely written and instructive panoramic rotrospection of her native home—the Isle of Shoals.

We are reminded, incidentally, that the proprietor of the Atlantic House, at Star Island, has decided to make Newburyport his "port of entry," for the new Steamer which is to run the coming summer for the accommodation of the visitors to his pleasant resort. We however, think it not too late for Portsmouth to reverse this dicision, by waking from its Louis XI apathy which has nothing but will and ambition for apologies and no fervor of soul to make the latter attractive PREMIUMS AT STATE FAIR.—In looking over the Premium List of the State Fair at Manchester, we find but few awarded to citizens of Rockingham county, but we think the number is greater in proportion to the whole, than were the number of entries from this section of the State. We give them below:

Horses.—D. D. Perkins of New Market, best single work horse, $7.00; largest and best display, $25.00; best one year old colt, $10.00; second best blood mare with show of stock, $10.00.

Geo. F. Walker, New Market, second best single work horse, $3.00.

Cattle—Devon Stock.—Isaac Woodbury, Salem, best 3 year old bull, $20.00.—Ayrshire Stock.—C. H. Hayes & Son, Portsmouth, best 2 yr. old bull, $20.00; second best Heifer, $12; best 4 yr. old cow, $14.00; 2nd best, 2 yr. old heifer, $4.00; best 1 yr. old heifer, $5.00.

Charles H. Treadwell, Exeter, best 2 yr. old Dutch bull, $10.00; 2nd best 3 year old grade bull, $8.00; best 1 yr. old heifer, $5.

Swine.—Charles E. Smith, South New Market, 1st premium, $12.00.

Vegetables.—Geo. F. Beede, Fremont, 1st premium for Early Rose, Excelsior, Harrison and table potatoes, peas and onions; and 2nd premium for carrots.

Best Top Buggy, to G. B. & S. W. Came, Portsmouth.

FAST SAILING.—The Barque Atalanta, from New York to Savannah, Georgia, with a heavy freight, recently made the distance from port to port in the unprecedented short time of 72 hours—the quickest passage yet recorded, we think. This vessel has remarkable sailing qualities. She is commanded by Portsmouth boys, Captain, Charles Ricker, 1st Mate, Horace Clark, 2nd Mate, William J. L. Dodge. The Atalanta is bound thence to Havre, France.

The Dover Gazette says that Mr. Kinnear of Farmington, formerly of New Castle, one of the largest manufacturers in the State, has bought the manufactory now occupied by John L. Platts, Esq. and intends moving to Dover for future operations. He will bring with him 150 workmen.

REV. GEO W. Bicknell of Skowhegan Me, has accepted the call from the Universalist Society of this city and will enter upon duties of his pastorate on the first Sabbath in November.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

The Fall and its Danger.

Animal as well as vegetable life is powerfully affected by the great atmospheric change that takes place in the Fall. But for the flowers, the foliage and the herbs of the field there is no help. Their time has come and die they must. It is otherwise with man. For him the means of reinvigoration have been provided by skill and science. To recruit his exhausted energies and fortify himself against the disorders generated by the sudden depression of temperature and the unwholesome exhalations of Autumn, let him tone his nervous system, invigorate his digestion and give edge to his appetite with HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS. He may then defy the morbid influences of the season fearlessly. The chilling night dews and heavy morning mists will have no power to make him sick and bilious, to affect his liver, to disorder his stomach or his bowels, to rack his joints with rheumatism, or to render any latent element of disease in his system active and dangerous.

To the sufferer from general debility, whether constitutional or arising from other causes,—this potent vegetable specific is earnestly recommended. And let it be remembered that physical weakness opens the door to all maladies. Vigor is the chief defence of the human structure against all causes of disease, and HOSTETTER'S BITTERS may be truly pronounced the safest and surest of all invigorants. It is the most genial of all vegetable tonics, and is admirably adapted to the wants and weaknesses of the more delicate sex, as well as to the ailments of men.

Holloway's Ointment.—STIFF JOINTS.—One of the most remarkable attributes of HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT is the rapidity and certainty with which it relaxes contracted ligaments and tendons. Joints that have been stiff for years have repeatedly been restored to activity by a persevering use of this matchless salve. Brisk friction should be used in applying it in such cases, as that its annealing influence may thoroughly penetrate the contracted fibres. Sold by all Druggists.

DEATH TO PIN-WORMS.

A safe and effectual remedy for these troublesome and often dangerous pests is found in the COUTS'S PIN-WORM SYRUP. Cure for adults and children warranted without injury to health. Price 75 cents. YOUNG, M. D. This is really a valuable and interesting work. It is written in plain language for the general reader, and is illustrated with numerous Engravings. All young married people, or those contemplating marriage, and having the least impediment to marriage, should read this book. It discloses secrets that every one should be accquainted with; still it is a book that must be locked up and not in sight when house. It will be sent to any address on receipt of 50 cents. Address, Dr. WM. YOUNG, No. 416 Spruce street, above Fourth, Philadelphia.

☞ AFFLICTED AND UNFORTUNATE.—No matter what may be your disease, before you place yourself under any one of the notorious QUACKS—native and foreign—who advertise in this or any other paper, get a copy of Dr. Young's Book and read it carefully. It will be the means of saving you many a dollar, your health and possibly your life.

Dr. Young can be consulted on any of the diseases described in his publications, at his office, No. 416 Spruce street, above Fourth, Philadelphia.

ASIATIC CHOLERA IN CHINA.

TUNGCHOW, China, Aug. 23, 1866.

MESSRS. PERRY DAVIS & SON:

Dear Sirs—During a long residence in China, I have used your invaluable Pain Killer, both in my own family and among the Chinese, and have found it a most excellent medicine. In the summer of '62 and '63, while residing in Shanghai, I found it an almost certain cure for Cholera, if used in time. Indeed using it in a great many instances, I do not remember failing in a single case. For three years I have been residing in this place, about fifty miles from a physician, and have been obliged often to fall upon my own resources in cases of sickness. The Chinese come to us in great numbers for medicine and advice. Though without medical knowledge ourselves, the few simple remedies we can command are so much in advance even of the physicians, that we have almost daily application for them. Whatever then to come because it brings us in contact with them, and opens a door to usefulness. In diarrhea, colic, vomiting, cholera morbus, &c., your Pain Killer has been my chief medicine.

Yours, very truly, T. P. CRAWFORD.

Comfort and Bliss or Pain and Agony.

DR. TOBIAS' CELEBRATED VENETIAN LINIMENT, whose wonderful cures, sure and instaneous action, in cases of Chronic Rheumatism, Headache, Toothache, Croup, Colds, Tetter, Colic, Cramps, Dysentery, etc., has astonished the civilized world, is no new catch-penny; but an article that has stood the test of twenty-two years. The enormous sales and ever increasing demand is at once the surest evidence of its usefulness and popularity. No family should be without a bottle in the house. Hundreds of dollars and many hours of suffering may be saved by its timely use.

Colic, Cramp, and Dysentery yield at once to its paincurative properties. It is perfectly innocent, and can be given to the oldest person or youngest child. No matter if you have not faith in Patent Medicines—try this, and you will be sure to buy again, and recommend to your friends. Hundreds of Physicians recommend it in their practice.

Sold by the Druggists and Storekeepers. Price Fifty Cents and One Dollar. Depot, 10 Park Place, New York. 01

FRIGHTFUL DEVELOPMENTS!

At last the people have got the fact "through their hair," that hair dyes impregnated with acetate of lead and other metallic salts are

MURDEROUS PREPARATIONS.

When they see the metallic sediment at the bottom of the bottles, they know that the disgusting stuff is literally thickened with Poison. They ask, therefore, for a

Harmless Vegetable Dye, and find it, pure and efficacious, in

offered under the sanction of Professor Chilton's guarantee that it contains "nothing deleterious." CRISTADORO'S HAIR PRESERVATIVE, as a Dressing, acts like a charm on the Hair after Dyeing. Try it. 1md&wsd

In Remote Settlements of Usted Value.

Food makes blood; blood makes the body. If the blood be pure, the body is healthy. So if we are not in health, we know some impurities are lurking about, which must be removed, and the sooner the better.

BRANDRETH'S PILLS remove all from the system which nature needs no longer.

The wonderful cures effected by Brandreth's Pills have arrested the attention of enlightened physicians. Upwards of five thousand now use them in their daily practice, and two hundred have given their written testimony as to their innocence and value, as cleansers of the bowels and blood. Their untold value is to those living in settlements where doctors can only be had at great expense. For if you are sick, you have only to take one or more doses of Brandreth's Pills to get cured. Full Directions are with each box.

THE LATEST DISCOVERY.

In Medication.

The great difficulty which physicians have been laboring for centuries to overcome, has at length been obviated. A vegetable Cathartic and alterative more efficient than any mineral preparation of the same class, and as agreeable to the taste as ordinary candy, is now offered to the sick in the form of a Lozenge.

DR. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S

is the most important medicinal novelty that modern chemistry has produced. It contains two botanical extracts, perfectly harmless in themselves, but embodying all the remedial properties of mercury, and destroying all the pleasant form to supersede and banish from general use, the nauseous pills and portions of which that dangerous excitant is the main ingredient. More than

One thousand experiments

were made by the inventor of this peerless remedy before it was brought to its present state of perfection. The Lozenge is harmless in operation, and altogether the medicinal taste of its curative components has been extinguished by chemical art, their virtues remain as active and potent as ever.

In Dyspepsia, Biliousness Constipation, Sick or Nervous Headache, Piles, Dropsy, and the irregularities to which the feebler sex are subject, the Lozenge will be found infinitely more effective than any of the horrible and disgusting compounds usually administered in such cases. As an antibilious specific and general aperient, they have no equal either among advertised preparations or the prescriptions of the regular pharmacopœia.

☞ It is guaranteed that no one who has once tried Dr. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S Liver and Stomach Lozenge, will ever again take a purgative powder, or draught or pill.

Ministers and Public Speakers

Who are so often afflicted with throat diseases, will find a sure remedy in this Balsam. Lozenges and wafers sometimes give relief, but this Balsam, taken a few times, will insure a permanent cure.

Will all those afflicted with Coughs or Consumption, give this Balsam a fair trial, they will be pleased with the result, and confess that the sure remedy is found at last.

IT IS SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

CONSUMPTION.

DR. SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP for the cure of Coughs, Colds and Consumption.

DR. SCHENCK'S SEAWEED TONIC for the cure of Dyspepsia and all the Debilitated Conditions of the Stomach.

DR. SCHENCK'S MANDRAKE PILLS for Diseases of the Liver, or to act as a gentle Purgative.

All of these three medicines are often required in curing Consumption, though the Pulmonic Syrup alone has cured many desperate cases. The Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills assist in regulating the Stomach and Liver, and help the Pulmonic Syrup to digest and search through the blood vessels, by which means a cure is soon effected.

These medicines are conscientiously offered to the public as the only safe, certain and reliable remedies for Pulmonary Consumption, and for all those morbid conditions of the body which lead to that fatal disease. Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia are often forerunners of Consumption, and when they manifest themselves they require the most prompt attention.

The Pulmonic Syrup is a medicine which has had a long probation before the public. Its value has been through a period of more than thirty-five years, in all of which time its reputation has constantly increased, and the most obstinate skepticism can no longer doubt that it is a remedy which may be used with confidence in all cases which admit of a cure.

If the patient will perseveringly follow the directions which accompany each bottle, he will certainly be cured, if the lungs are not too much wasted to make a cure possible. Even in cases supposed to be incurable, when friends and physicians have desparied, the use of this medicine has saved the life of the patient, and restored him to perfect health.

Dr. Schenck himself was cured in precisely such circumstances, and many others have been equally fortunate by judiciously making a timely use of Dr. Schenck's remedies.

Dr. Schenck does not say that all cases of Pulmonary Consumption are within the reach of medicine, but he emphatically asserts, that often when patients have the most alarming symptoms, such as a violent cough, creeping chills, night sweats, and general debility, even to such a degree that they are obliged to lie in bed, and when they are given up by their physicians, they may still be cured. No medical treatment can create new lungs, but when the lungs are very badly diseased, and to some extent destroyed, a cure may be effected by Dr. Schenck's medicines.

Also in Scrofulous diseases these medicines are equally efficacious. Dr. Schenck has prepared a number of persons who have been nearly covered with running sores, and now all healed up. This shows its purifying properties, which must be done to heal cavities in the lungs.

In the treatment of Consumption, it is of the utmost importance to give a healthy tone to the stomach and tone in the system. Hence it is necessary to strengthen the appetite of the patient and improve the digestion. Prepare the stomach is required, together with such means as will make the food easily digestible. The articles most suitable for the diet of consumptive patients are designated in Dr. Schenck's Almanacs, which are distributed gratuitously. In general, the most nutritious articles are to be preferred; but the digestive organs must be strengthened in order to make either food or medicine serviceable. This requirement is met by the Sea Weed Tonic, and for this purpose it was designed.

When the digestive powers are put in good order, the food has its proper effect, the system of the patient is invigorated, and the lungs are able to exercise their functions in a normal and healthy manner. Then the healing powers of the Pulmonic Syrup will complete the cure.

Pulmonary Consumption is almost always complicated with Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint. Dr. Schenck's Mandrake Pills meet alarming symptoms, obstructions from the liver and restore its healthy action. They have all the efficacy which is ascribed to calomel or "blue mass," and are warranted not to contain a particle of any mineral poison. These pills cure the most obstinate costiveness, sick headache, jaundice, liver affections, and all other diseases which arise from a torpid or obstructed condition of the liver. One box of these pills will prove the efficacy of the medicine.

In Consumption, the Sea Weed Tonic and Mandrake Pills are invaluable auxiliary medicines. They relieve the sufferings of the patient and assist the Pulmonic Syrup in effecting a cure. They have been found useful in advanced stages of Consumption, where the lungs were almost entirely destroyed, and all symptoms, according to the judgement of physicians, indicated speedy death. Lives of patients were prolonged by the dying condition have been preserved for months by the use of Schenck's three great remedies.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

ASSOCIATED MECHANICS AND MANUFACTURERS.—This Society, as we learn from an appendix to their printed Constitution and by-laws, organized on the 2d day of October, 1802, and held the first meeting for choice of officers November 4th of the same year, at which time 98 members had signed the Constitution. The objects of the Association are set forth in the preamble to the Act of Incorporation.—"promoting and encouraging industry, good habits, an increase of knowledge in the arts they profess and practice, and their common interest."

Charity and good will are not overlooked in the Constitution. It provides, among other things, that the Board of officers "shall have power to grant such sums to indigent members, their widows or orphans, as they they shall deem necessary;" and that when a member dies, a committee shall "wait upon the widow or children of the deceased, or make a communication to her or them in writing, and present her or them with thirty-five dollars from the funds of the Association, and also tender the services of the members of the Association in the settlement of such deceased brother's estate;" another clause setting forth that "the sum presented to the widow or orphans or a deceased brother being a right of inheritance strictly belonging to them, should in no case be considered a donation from the Society, nor an equivalent for any assistance which their circumstances might otherwise require."

The numbers of the Association slowly increased for several years, 146 persons being members in 1809; but from that year a decrease took place, until in 1822 only 85 members were enrolled—the smallest number ever on the books of the Society. From 1822 a steady increase of members has continued up to the present time, 184 being the number at the time of the last annual meeting, in 1868.

In 1865 the Association established a Reading Room for the use of the members and their apprentices, which was opened on the 1st day of August, in the lower story of the Nowell building, corner of State and Pleasant streets, with sixteen daily and ten weekly newspapers on file. Several of the members presented the Association with handsome engravings to be hung in the room, and Rev. Mr. DeNormandie gave a large number of valuable books for its use.

In 1868, the Association purchased the lot of land, with the buildings, at the corner of Congress and Fleet Sts., extending back and taking in the stable buildings in the rear, the whole costing $16,200,—and subsequently spent about $700 in improvement and alteration of the same. The room in the second story was appropriated by the Association for their reading room, the rest of the buildings being let for other purposes. The purchase is one of great advantage to the Society, as the property now lets for above 11 per cent. on the cost, beside the insurance on the buildings; and also furnishes the Association a very pleasant and spacious reading room of their own, from which they are not liable to be removed at any time to make room for other occupants. It is open from 6 1-2 A. M. to 10 P. M., and a large number of the members avail themselves of the privileges thus presented; also a goodly number of other citizens now enjoy the privileges of the Room by paying $3.00 per year.

The Association at present, as in times past, includes many of our best citizens, and is one of the few organizations of which Portsmouth can boast, that have not lost their influence for good with increase of years. Any one who is of the age of twenty-one years or more, has faithfully fulfilled his engagements as an apprentice and has a good moral character, is eligible as a candidate for membership; and the advantages offered are such as should induce every respectable mechanic to join.

AN IMPROVEMENT.—The P. O. Department some time ago acceded to a request made by Postmaster Peirce, that a clerk might be detailed from the Portsmouth office to sort the morning mail from Boston on the cars. The plan works well, the mail being always ready for delivery at half-past ten o'clock, (unless the train is delayed,) which is a very great improvement on the old style of affairs. Those who have to "answer by return of post" find it so.

SALE OF STOCKS.—William H. Hackett sold at auction on Saturday, 5 shares in First National Bank of Portsmouth, dividend off, at $138.25, and 5 shares at $139.25; also 5 shares in Newcastle Bridge Corporation at $25 per share.

☞ Hon. Jacob H. Ela, M. C., was in town on Saturday.

—The Chronicle says:—"The News Letter is such a warm supporter of the present delegation in Congress, that it has the right to growl."

We would like to hear of the party or delegation that the Chronicle ever was able to give support of any kind. The boot is on the other foot, and any money spent in that quarter, by politicians, is wasted. The trouble with the Chronicle is, that it is destitute of political convictions, and it lacks the courage to denounce political rascality and corruption.—Exeter News Letter.

The News Letter and all others may as well understand, once for all, that there never was "any money spent in that (this) quarter, by politicians," in support of this Chronicle, except in a legitimate business way. The Chronicle always stood on its own bottom, and proposes to stand there yet; but is about the only political paper ever printed in the County or State,—or almost any other, as to that—that has been started and sustained without subscription or subsidies from the party it favored. And we never could see, how any paper that could not stand alone, or support itself without the aid of a party—can assist any such party much. As to the political convictions, or the expression of them, by the Chronicle, we certainly don't propose to take our clew from the News-Letter or the Exeter clique.

☞ There was such a rush for Lyceum Tickets in Worcester, that the best seats were sold by auction, and brought a premium of from 52 to 75 cts. each.

Not so in Portsmouth, for the Secretary of the Committee reports that the prospects for a Course here are small. Numerous are the brothels and low drinking dens; but the one literary Society languishes, and Lyceums cannot live.

Charles Sumner's services as Lyceum lecturer, are engaged every night till Congress meets.

☞ An advertisement of Internal Revenue Collector Young, for the sale of the suspended Distillery on Christian Shore, will be found in our Auction column to-day. The amount of dues to Government we hear is about $800, and it is thought the sale will include the leased land also on which the buildings stand, as thus liable in such cases, we believe.

☞ The secret service division of the Treasury Department, in accordance with the orders of Secretary Boutwell, has for the present discontinued the services of the subordinates in that Bureau. New England loses two, one of them being Mr. J. Horace Kent, of this city. It is but reasonable to suppose he will soon receive another appointment.

A PACIFIC RAILWAY
GOLD LOAN $6,500,000.

We beg leave to announce that we have accepted the agency of the
KANSAS PACIFIC RAILWAY COMPANY,
For the sale of its
NEW SEVEN PER CENT.
Thirty Year Gold Loan,
Free from Tax.

This Loan amounts to $6,500,000.

First Mortgage Land-Grant and Sinking Fund Bonds,
secured upon the extension of the Railway from near Sheridan, in Kansas, to Denver, Colorado, a distance of 227 miles of which 12 miles are completed, and the rest is under construction. It is also a Mortgage upon the Road, the Rolling Stock and Franchise of this first-class Railway, besides now running through the State of Kansas,

And in successful operation for 437 miles

west of the Missouri River, and earning already enough to meet all of its expenses and existing obligations, besides MORE THAN THE INTEREST UPON THIS NEW LOAN. In addition to this the Bonds are also secured by a first mortgage of the GOVERNMENT LAND GRANT OF THREE MILLION ACRES,
extending in alternate sections on either side of the track, from the 394th mile post in Kansas to Denver. The proceeds of the sale of these lands are to be invested by the Trustees in the 7 per cent Bonds, themselves up to 120 in U. S. Bonds, as
A SINKING FUND FOR THE REDEMPTION OF THE BONDS.

The Lands embrace some of the finest portions of the magnificent Territory of Colorado, including a coal field and pinery. The company also holds as an asset another tract of Three Millions of Acres in the State of Kansas,
and although not pledged as a security for this Loan, their possession adds largely to the Company's wealth and credit. We estimate the Value of the Company's property, covered by this mortgage at $23,000,000 net, while the Loan is merely $6,500,000.

The Bonds have
THIRTY YEARS TO RUN,
from May 1, 1869, and will pay
SEVEN PER CENT. INTEREST IN GOLD, semi-annually, on May 1 and Nov. 1; and are FREE FROM GOVERNMENT TAXATION, the Company paying the tax.

The principal of the Loan is made payable in Gold, in the City of New York, but each coupon will be
PAYABLE IN FRANKFORT, LONDON OR N. YORK at option of the holder, with notice, at the following rates:
On $1,000 Bond in N. Y. $35 (gold) each half year.
" London....67 sc. 10.
" Frankfort..87 fr. 30 kritzs., "

The Agents of the Loan, before accepting the trust had the condition of the Road, and the country through which it runs, carefully examined. They are happy to give the Loan an emphatic endorsement as a
FIRST CLASS INVESTMENT,
in every respect perfectly sure, and in some essential even Better than Government Securities.
The Bonds will be sold for the present at
96, and accrued Interest, both in Currency,
the Agents reserving the right to advance the rate.

The attention of investors is invited to these well-secured bonds, which we recommend as one of the most profitable investments in the market.

Gold and Government Securities taken in payment at their market value, without commission.

A GAME OF BLUFF.—We heard a good "gosh" the other day on one of the young "bloods" of this city who went down to the edge of Arkansaw on business. While down there he went to a party, and while at the party danced often, and became very familiar with one of the settlers' wives. Rackensack stood it as long as he could, but finally becoming enraged he went up to the blood and says: "Look here, Mister, that is my wife you are dancing with." "Well, what of it?" said the blood. "Why this: you dance with her again; you speak to her; you even look at her again; and I'll blow the top of your head off!" "Now, look here," said the blood coolly; "do you see that umbrella setting thar?" "Well s'pose I do?" "Well, you handle that umbrella; you touch that umbrella, and I'll ram it down your throat, and I'll spread it!" Rackensack scooted.—Fort Scott Post.

—"Up in a balloon" was played by a New York band as a dirge at a German funeral in New York last Sunday.

FARM-YARD SONG.

BY J. T. TROWBRIDGE.

Over the hill the farm-boy goes,
His shadow lengthens along the land,
A giant staff in a giant hand;
In the poplar tree above the spring,
The katydid begins to sing;
The early dews are falling,—
Into the stone-heap darts the mink;
The swallows skim the river's brink;
And home to the woodland fly the crows,
When over the hill the farm-boy goes,
Cheerily calling,—
"Co', boss! co', boss! co'! co'!"
Farther, farther over the hill,
Faintly calling, calling still,—
"Co', boss! co', boss! co'! co'!"

Into the yard the farmer goes,
With grateful heart at the close of day!
Harness and chain are hung away;;
In the wagon shed stand yoke and plough;
The straw's in the stack, the hay in the mow,
The cooling dews are falling;—
The friendly sheep his welcome bleat,
The pigs come grunting to his feet,
The whinnying mare her master knows,
When into the yard the farmer goes,
His cattle calling,—
"Co', boss! co', boss! co'! co'! co!"
While still the cow-boy, far away,
Goes seeking those that have gone astray,—
"Co', boss! co', boss!co'! co'!"

Now to her task the milkmaid goes,
The cattle come crowding through the gate,
Lowing, pushing, little and great;
About the trough, by the farm-yard pump,
The frolicsome yearlings frisk and jump,
While the pleasant dews are falling;—
The new milch heifer is quick and shy,
But the old cow waits with tranquil eye;
And the white stream into the bright pail flows,
When to her task the milkmaid goes,
Soothingly calling,—
"So, boss! so, boss! so! so! so!"
The cheerful milkmaid takes her stool,
And sits and milks in the twilight cool,
Saying, "So! so, boss! so! so!"

To supper at last the farmer goes,
The apples are pared, the paper read,
The stories are told, and then all to bed.
Without the crickets' ceaseless song
Makes shrill the silence all night long;
The heavy dews are falling.
The housewife's hand has turned the lock;
Drowsily ticks the kitchen clock;
The household sinks to deep repose;
But still in sleep the farm-boy goes Singing, calling,—
"Co', boss! co', boss! co'! co'! co'!"
And oft the milkmaid, in her dreams,
Drums in the pail with the flashing streams,
Murmuring, "So, boss! so!"

Correspondence of Chronicle and Gazette.

VOTE OF YORK, ON MONDAY.—Chamberlain 235, Smith 155, Hichborn 3.

It is said this is the first time York ever voted a republican majority in a State election. Prof. Gardner, the Soap man, was present, and his speech probably aided in the achievement of a Republican victory.—N. H. Gaz. Sept. 18.

YORK, Oct. 8.

Messrs. Editors:—Allow me to correct an error, or more, in the above. We have sent two republican Representatives to the Legislature, one in 1864 and one in 1866. In 1864 Joseph Bragdon was elected over Geo. M. Freeman, Dem., by a majority of 18 on a square fight! no scattering votes; the regular republican majority however was only 5. He was the first republican representative ever sent from York. In 1866 Chas. C. Barrell, republican, was elected, over Edgar McIntire, democrat; this however was the result of a division of the Democratic strength, they having a third candidate who had 10 votes, which was sufficient to give Mr. Barrell the election,—the regular democratic majority being 4.

So much for the first part. Now in regard to Prof. Gardner; he is a humbug of the first water, and as for his aiding "in the achievement of a Republican victory" here in this old, ancient town of York, the idea is absurd,—(excuse me); you may as well give him the credit for the movement of the whole planetary system. He sells a fair article of soap, but immense quantity of lie are about it; his stuff (that's best name I can find for it,) is poorly adapted to the quaintness of this place, and he would do more hurt than good here any time. He boasted, when he left, that he had got $60 of York money.—I went in 25 cts., and now think we were all "fools, with our money soon parted:"

I think if we could have voluntary "recommendations" in accordance with the feeling of the masses, he would stand different "in the light," from what he does by reason of "paid for puffs." Of course I don't mean to hit you in the "puff" line. Yours, &c.

VIDEX.

The Republican members of the Spanish Cortes have left their seats, and coercive measures to bring them back are talked of.

A monster trade procession, nine miles long, paraded the streets of Louisville, Thursday.

WHAT ARE
DR. J. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA Vinegar Bitters.
THEY ARE NOT A VILE FANCY DRINK, Made of Poor Rum, Whiskey, Proof Spirits, and refuse Liquors, doctored, spiced, and sweetened to please the taste, called "Tonics," "Appetisers" "Restorers," &c., that lead the tippler on to drunkenness and ruin, but are a true Medicine, made from the Native Roots and Herbs of California, free from all Alcoholic Stimulants. They are the GREAT BLOOD-PURIFIER and LIFE-GIVING PRINCIPLE, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the system, carrying off all poisonous matter, and restoring the blood to a healthy condition. No person can take these Bitters according to directions and remain long unwell. You will be given for an incurable case, providing the bones are not destroyed by mineral poisons or other means, the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair.
FOR INFLAMMATORY AND CHRONIC RHEUMATISM, AND GOUT, DYSPEPSIA, or INDIGESTION, BILLIOUS, REMITTENT, and INTERMITTENT FEVERS, DISEASES OF THE BLOOD, LIVER, KIDNEYS, and BLADDER, these BITTERS have been most successful. SUCH DISEASES are caused by VITIATED BLOOD, which is generally produced by derangement of the DIGESTIVE ORGANS.
Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins, cleanse it when it is foul, and your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood healthy, and all will be well.
These Bitters are not a gilded pill, to delight the eye or please the fancy, but a medical preparation, composed of the best vegetable ingredients known.
They are Alterative, Tonic, Diuretic, Sedative, Diaphoretic, and Gentle Purgative.
"The Life of all Flesh is the Blood thereof."—Purify the blood and the health of the whole system will follow.

"Ingenio Stat Sine Morte Decus."
ROCKY MOUNTAIN BITTERS
IS a very superior Regulating Tonic, imparting vigor and strength to the constitution—a thoro'
PURIFIER OF THE BLOOD,
a regulator of nervous force, and a powerful sustainer of health against the encroachments of disease.
The invalid and convalescing seeking restoration, and yearning for the healing virtues of some magic balm, will find in these Bitters a hidden mysterious power, which QUIETLY RESTORES, yet refuses to reveal to the senses anything but taste and color.
It is a pleasant Bitter, free from all nauseous properties odor, entirely vegetable, being mainly grown at the base of the mountains from which they derive their name, add is particularly adapted to all forms of
DYSPEPSIA OR INDIGESTION,
manifesting themselves by the following symptoms: headache, nervousness, loss of memory, low spirits, giddiness, dimness of sight, dulness of hearing, and ringing noises in the ears, eructations, of belching of wind, tightness of breathing, weight and oppression of the chest, uneasy feeling about the heart, palpitation, &c.
Also for Liver Diseases, Disorders of the Kidneys, Restlessness and loss of Muscular Power, these Bitters will be found almost a specific; and as a preventative of
FEVER AND AGUE
or a restorer of the natural powers of the system, when broken down by continued ague attacks; it has no equal.
Being stimulating, (but not intoxicating), they refresh and invigorate both mind and body, heighten the sensibility, clear and sharpen the faculties, and bestow alacrity and cheerfulness of spirit.
CAUTION.—There have been, and still are several parties manufacturing and selling so-called "Langley's Bitters," many of which are worthless. As a guide against such, I would say that in 1866, I secured my copy-right, in the United States Court, a trade mark and name, "Rocky Mountain Bitters," and all Bitters of my manufacture are put up in dark, long neck, quart bottles with red label printed with gold; also, direction label, bearing my seal and directions printed in red, with a red cap and my seal printed in gold, over the cork. Beware of all others, and ask for
"Rocky Mountain Bitters."

Portsmouth, N. H.

TUESDAY, OCT. 19, 1869.

The News.

At Philadelphia, Saturday, the October contested election case of 1868 was decided in the Court of Common Pleas. Judge Brewster read the majority opinion of the judges, who decided that Daniel M. Fox, democrat, the present incumbent, was elected mayor by 68 majority over General Hector Tyndall, republican; also that Gibbons, republican, was elected district attorney over Sheppard, democrat, by 68 majority. Several other city officers, all republicans, whose elections had been contested, were also declared elected by majorities ranging from 300 to 1000.

The most important piece of foreign news is the unconditional surrender of the Spanish insurgents at Valencia, and the sudden suspension of the sittings of the Cortes.

The Louisiana State Seminary, near Alexandria, was burned Thursday night.

The construction of the California and Oregon Railroad has been begun near Marysville.

Advices from Paraguayan sources represent that President Lopez has established new lines of defense at San Estanislaus, where he has a considerable force of men and plenty of artillery.

The congressional committee appointed to consider the cause of the stagnation in the ship-building interests of the country, and to propose a remedy, met in Boston on Monday.

The champion Eckfords of New York play base ball this week in Boston.

THE DEFEAT of Packer and Pendleton in Pennsylvania and Ohio at the late elections brings no grief to some of their brethren elsewhere. Each was supposed to be looking ahead to the Presidential nomination to be made by the Democrats in 1872. Packer's immense fortune, and gentleman George's personal popularity and repudiation schemes to please the lowest and most ignorant classes, were of no avail. Both have been defeated and lost the great stake they played for.

The New York Democrats laugh in their sleeves at the result. They control their State; they have a man for Governor who is ambitious to be President; they hold bonds and do not believe in repudiation; they, too, are looking forward three years and laying their plans for Hoffman's nomination by the Democratic Convention. And their organ, the World, chuckles over the defeat of Hoffman's rivals and talks boldly against the only true Democratic policy—repudiation. We make a few extracts from the World's article.

"So far as Messrs. Pendleton and Packer are personally concerned, their defeat is a relief and an advantage, except with reference to such aspirations as these eminent standard-bearers of the Democracy are fairly entitled to cherish.

Both Mr. Pendleton and Packer were persistently voted for in the Democratic National Convention last year as candidates for the highest office in the gift of the people—Mr. Packer by the delegates from his own State, and Mr. Pendleton by a large portion of the delegates from the West. We think there can be no longer any doubt that the Convention decided wisely in selecting another candidate.

If Mr. Pendleton, with his personal popularity, aided by General Grant's loss of prestige, cannot carry his own State now, it is not probable that he would have carried it last year had he been placed at the head of the presidential ticket. And he would have failed for the same reason which caused the Eastern delegates to vote steadily against his nomination. Their objections to him were not personal—for there is no democratic statesman who deserves or enjoys greater personal popularity—but resulted from a deep conviction that his peculiar financial views would not be endorsed by any State east of the Lakes and the Alleghanies. * * * * *

Mr. Seymour was made to carry weight by the seeming favor which the Convention gave to Mr. Pendleton's financial views, though rejecting their author, and by associating Governor Seymour on the ticket with a gentleman who neutralized the effect of his far-sighted views on another question.

And if General Blair, gallant and estimable as everybody knows him to be, were to run this fall as a candidate for Governor of any State in the Union, on the platform of his celebrated letter of last year, nobody would expect his election."

Messrs. Packer, Pendleton, Blair & Co. may take "back seats" now, and the peculiar doctrine of repudiation must be given up;—but won't there be a precious row first.

AMUSING STATISTICS.—There are few readers who cannot recall instances where they have taken up papers containing articles headed "Important Statistics," which on examination proved to be merely big boasts of the superior efficacy of Dr. Trotemround's pills for smoothing and facilitating the passage of poor mortality from the pains and sorrows of this life to the peaceful shelter of the tomb, and making it doubtful how people ever managed to die before the said pills were invented,—or puffs of something equally important and interesting to the man of common sense. I am always shy of important statistics, —hardly ever read them. Even the laborred performances of Hon. Statistics Delmar, (who, in revenge for being invited out of his seat—which he had never been able to fill—in the Bureau of Statistics, proved beyond a question that the country would go to destruction unless the Republicans were ousted from power, and the pure and economical democracy put in their places,) failed to interest me.

But I lately had my attention called to a table which a gentleman had compiled from official documents—the "Navy Registers of the United States,"—which not only interested and astonished, but amused me as well; and if my readers only have half as much fun over the ridiculous absurdity of the state of affairs shown up by the table as I had, they will find this article more entertaining than I dare hope.

The table I speak of shows the much greater amount of service a staff officer in our navy has to perform to attain a certain rank than does a line officer to reach the same grade; but I am not quite ready to bring on my statistics yet,—I want to let a knowledge of the facts gently into the minds of my readers, and not knock them (the readers) all in a heap by a too sudden exposition of the outrageous injustice with which honors are divided in the navy.

Our Government is that of a Federal Republic. Our Army, the creature and servant of the nation, and our Navy, are supposed to be organized on principles in harmony with republican institutions. This supposition may be pretty nearly correct so far as the army is concerned, but is wholly erroneous as regards the navy. The American navy, instead of being democratic, is one of the most—if not the most—aristocratic of any on earth—or sea; and the line officers in our navy claim, and have been allowed to enjoy, a monopoly of honor, rank and emolument,—a degree of exclusive class "privilege," much greater than that allowed to the officers of the British navy, many of whom can boast of ancestors who were thieves and murderers under William the Conqueror. The fact is, that the rules for the government of our marine, both national and mercantile, have nothing republican about them, having been copied from European monarchies, more particularly England; and while the latter nation has improved its marine laws in the same ratio that the principles of liberty and equality have become diffused among the people, our country has stood still in the matter, and our maritime laws to-day are imbued with the ancient spirit which said "the king can do no wrong," and made the laborer the serf of the noble.

Thus, while the American laborer on shore is a free man, with the same civil and political rights as his employer, the American laborer in our merchant service is a slave,—as absolutely and almost as hopelessly a slave as ever was the black man in the sunny South, receiving more wrong and enduring more devilish barbarity than the sailor of any despotism is required to suffer,—with no civil or political rights, and having no claim whatever to his own property or even to his life. Republican laws! My! But the British maritime rule does recognize that sailors are men, and as such are entitled to some consideration and protection from the law. In this respect America is a century behind England, tho' England is far behind where she should be.

In our navy, aristocracy and class distinctions are equally conspicuous. For, though the laborer does not have to bear quite so heavy a yoke, perhaps, as his brother of the merchant service, yet educated and skilled artisans, business and professional men, are deprived of the rank and pay to which they are justly entitled, that our only remaining order of American nobility, the line officers, may have more for themselves—and not be contaminated by having common people stand on the same level that they occupy.

I have now about filled up my available space without reaching the Amusing Statistics; but I shall give them to the public soon, and they won't spoil by keeping. Besides, I shall probably think of something more to say on this subject before long, and the amusing statistics will do as an excuse for another article. PAKEHA.

STATE UNIVERSALIST SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION. — A State Universalist Sunday School Convention assembled in Concord on Wednesday, the 13th inst. President—Hon. William T. Parker, of Merrimack. Vice Presidents—B. F. Caldwell, Concord; James M. Carr, Portsmouth; Harrison Porter, Alstead; Hon. H. W. Parker, Claremont; Hon. F. S. Rogers, Nashua; and Mr. Barker, Dover. Secretary—Rev. E. R. Sanborn, of Concord.

The convention remained in session till the afternoon of Thursday, when it adjourned to meet next winter, at the call of a committee. It was voted that the Committee on Constitution provide in that document for the calling of four meetings yearly, one to be held at the time of the General State Convention, in June.

New Publications.

The Manufacturer & Builder, for October, has numerous good articles and illustrations.

Appleton's Illustrated Almanac for 1870 has just come to hand. The colored cover is beautiful, and the work itself, with its numerous illustrations, is a model of elegance. It is edited by Miss Susan Fenimore Cooper, and contains, in addition to the calendars, astronomical tables, etc., a large amount of delightful reading. Thirty cents is the price, which, remitted to D. Appleton & Co., New York, will secure a copy by return mail, post paid.

The Wheel of Progress; issued every Saturday, at $1.50 per year by Pidgin & Co., No. 3 School St., Boston. I "Out of the Old Ruts" is its motto, and the Wheel is evidently in a new track of literature. Buy it; it is humorous and odd.

— The Galaxy is out early among magazines for November. The number has rather more stories than usual, but is fully equal to the character for freshness and brilliancy which the magazine has established. Mr. Justin McCarthy has a paper on "The English Universities," Mr. Richard Grant White one on "The Play of the Period," Dr. Dalton one on "How the Blood Circulates," an anonymous "L" undertakes to describe a certain fearful plot to establish "Imperialism in America." The rest of the number, before the editorial departments, is all fiction,—the two serials, a complete story by Mr. Anthony Trollope, "An Editor's Tale," "The Turkish Bath," and "The Prince Suwarof" by Jacob Spahn, and "The Fire Fiend" by Eugene Benson.

☞ The closing Coliseum Concerts for Oct. 21st, 22d and 23d, will doubtless excite considerable of the same interest which attended the opening of this magnificent structure. The advertisement gives the particulars — and those who wish to try their chance to the extent of a dollar or more, must do so immediately. The entertainment will be worth the money, and somebody will get the prizes thrown in. See the advertisement.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

The Fall and its Danger.

Animal as well as vegetable life is powerfully affected by the great atmospheric change that takes place in the Fall. But for the flowers, the foliage and the herbs of the field there is no help. Their time has come and die they must. It is otherwise with man. For him the means of reinvigoration have been provided by skill and science. To recruit his exhausted energies and fortify himself against the disorders generated by the sudden depression of temperature and the unwholesome exhalations of Autumn, let him tone his nervous system, invigorate his digestion and give edge to his appetite with HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS. He may then face the morbid influences of the season fearlessly. The chilling night dews and heavy morning mists will have no power to make him shrink and burn, to affect his liver, to disorder his stomach or his bowels, to rack his joints with rheumatism, or to render any latent element of disease in his system active and dangerous.

To the sufferer from general debility, whether constitutional or arising from other causes,—this potent vegetable specific is invaluable as a tonic. And let it be remembered that physical weakness opens the door to all maladies. Vigor is the chief defence of the human structure against the causes of disease, and HOSTETTER'S BITTERS may be truly pronounced the safest and surest of all invigorants. It is the most genial of all vegetable tonics, and is admirably adapted to the wants and weaknesses of the more delicate sex, as well as to the ailments of men.

Holloway's Ointment.—STIFF JOINTS.—One of the most remarkable attributes of HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT is the rapidity and certainty with which it relaxes contracted ligaments and sinews. Joints that have been stiff for years have repeatedly been restored to activity by a persevering use of this matchless salve. Brisk friction should be used in applying it in such cases, so that its annealing influence may thoroughly penetrate the contracted fibres. Sold by all Druggists.

ASIATIC CHOLERA IN CHINA.

TUNGCHOW, China, Aug. 23, 1866.

MESSRS. PERRY DAVIS & SON:

Dear Sirs—During a long residence in China, I have used your invaluable Pain Killer, both in my own family and among the Chinese, and have found it a most excellent medicine. In the summer of '62 and '63, while residing in Shanghai, I found it an almost certain cure for Cholera, if used in time. Indeed using it in a great many instances, I do not remember failing in a single case. For three years I have been residing in this place, more than fifty miles from a physician, and has been obliged often to fall upon my own resources in cases of sickness. The Chinese come to us in great numbers for medicine and advice. Though without medical knowledge ourselves, the few simple remedies we can command are so much in demand even of their physicians, that we have almost daily applications. We allow them to come because it brings us in contact with them, and opens a door to usefulness. In diarrhœa, colic, vomiting, cholera, coughs, &c., your Pain Killer has been my chief medicine.

Yours, very truly, T. P. CRAWFORD.

Comfort and Bliss or Pain and Agony.

DR. TOBIAS' CELEBRATED VENETIAN LINIMENT, whose wonderful cures, sure and instaneous action, in cases of Chronic Rheumatism, Rheumatic Headache, Contracted Cords, Bad Colic, Cramps, Dysentery, etc., have astonished the civilized world, is no new catch-penny; but an article that has stood the test of twenty-two years. The enormous sale and rapidly increasing demand is at once the surest evidence of its usefulness and popularity. No family should be without a bottle in the house. Hundreds of dollars and many hours of suffering may be saved by its timely use.

Colic, Cramp, and Dysentery yield at once to its paincurative properties. It is perfectly innocent, and can be given to the oldest person or youngest child. No matter if you have no confidence in Patent Medicines—try this, and you will be sure to buy again, and recommend to your friends. Thousands of Physicians recommend it in their practice.

Sold by the Druggists and Storekeepers. Price Fifty Cents and One Dollar. Depot, 10 Park Place, New York. o1

BRANDRETH'S PILLS remove all from the system which nature needs no longer.

The wonderful cures effected by Brandreth's Pills have arrested the attention of enlightened physicians. Upwards of five thousand now use them in their daily practice, and two hundred have given their written testimony as to their innocence and value, as cleansers of the bowels and blood. Their mild value is due to those little in settlements where doctors can only be had at great expense. For if you are sick, you have only to take one or more doses of Brandreth's Pills to get cured. THE LATEST DISCOVERY

In Medication.

The great difficulty which physicians have been laboring for centuries to overcome, has at length been obviated. A vegetable Cathartic and Alterative more efficient than any mineral preparation of the same class, and as agreeable to the taste as delicate jelly, is now offered to the sick in the form of a Lozenge.

DR. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S

is the most important medicinal novelty that modern chemistry has produced. It contains two botanical extracts, perfectly harmless in themselves, yet embodying all the remedial properties of mercury, and destined in this pleasant form to supersede and banish from general use, the nauseous pills and portions of which that dangerous excitant is the main ingredient. More than

One thousand experiments

were made by the inventor of this peerless remedy before it was brought to its present state of perfection. The Lozenge is harmless in its operation, and altogether the medicinal taste of its curative compounds has been extinguished by chemical art, their virtues remain as active and potent as ever.

In Dyspepsia, Biliousness Constipation, Sick or Nervous Headache, Piles, Dropsy, and the irregularities to which the feebler sex are subject, the Lozenge will prove decidedly more effective than any of the horrible and disgusting compounds usually administered in such cases. As an antibilious specific and general aperient, they have no equal either among advertised preparations or the prescriptions of the regular pharmacopœia.

☞ It is guaranteed that no one who has once tried DR. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S Liver and Stomach Lozenge, will ever again take a purgative powder, or draught or pill.

Who are so often afflicted with throat diseases, will find a sure remedy in this Balsam. Lozenges and wafers sometimes give relief, but this Balsam, taken a few times, will insure a permanent cure.

Will all those afflicted with Coughs or Consumption, give this Balsam a fair trial, they will be pleased with the result, and confess that the sure remedy is found at last.

IT IS SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

CONSUMPTION.

DR. SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP for the cure of Coughs, Colds and Consumption.

DR. SCHENCK'S SEAWEED TONIC for the cure of Dyspepsia and all the Debilitated Conditions of the Stomach.

DR. SCHENCK'S MANDRAKE PILLS for Diseases of the Liver, or to act as a gentle Purgative.

All of these three medicines are often required in curing Consumption, though the Pulmonic Syrup alone has cured many desperate cases. The Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills assist in regulating the Stomach and Liver, and help the Pulmonic Syrup to digest and search through the blood vessels, by which means a cure is soon effected.

these medicines are conscientiously offered to the public as the only safe, certain and reliable remedies for Pulmonary Consumption, and for all those morbid conditions of the body which lead to that fatal disease. Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia are often forerunners of Consumption, and when they manifest themselves they require the most prompt attention.

The Pulmonic Syrup is a medicine which has had a long probation before the public. Its value has been through a period of more than thirty-five years, and its sale of which now amounts has constantly increased, and the most obstinate skepticism can no longer doubt that it is a remedy which may be used with confidence in all cases which admit of a cure.

If the patient will perseveringly follow the directions which accompany each bottle, he will certainly be cured, if lungs are not too much wasted to make a cure possible. Even in cases supposed to be incurable, when friends and physicians have despaired, the use of the medicine has saved the life of the patient, and restored him to perfect health.

Dr. Schenck himself was cured in precisely such circumstances, and many others have been equally fortunate by judiciously making a timely use of Dr. Schenck's remedies.

Dr. Schenck does not say that all cases of Pulmonary Consumption are within the reach of medicine, but he emphatically says, that when when patients have the most alarming symptoms, such as a violent cough, creeping chills, night sweats, and general debility to a great degree that they are obliged to lie in bed, and when they are given up by their physicians, they may still be cured. No medical treatment can create new lungs, but when the lungs are very badly diseased, and to some extent destroyed, a cure may be effected by Dr. Schenck's medicines.

Also in Scrofulous diseases these medicines are equally efficient. Dr. Schenck has photographs of a number of persons who have been nearly covered with running sores, and now all healed up. This shows its purifying properties, which must be done to heal cavities in the lungs.

In the treatment of Consumption, it is of the utmost importance to have vigor and a healthy tone in the system. Hence it is necessary to strengthen the appetite of the patient and improve the digestion. Pure blood and good flesh are required, together with such means as will make the food easily digestible. The articles most suitable for the diet of consumptive patients are designated in Dr. Schenck's Almanacs, which are distributed gratuitously. In general, the most nutritious articles are to be preferred; but the digestive organs must be strengthened in order to make either food or medicine serviceable. This strengthening is met by the Seaweed Tonic, and for this purpose it was designed.

When the digestive powers are put in good order, the food has its proper effect on the system, the patient is invigorated, and the lungs begin to exercise their functions in a normal and healthy manner. Then the healing properties of the Pulmonic Syrup will complete the cure.

Pulmonary Consumption is almost always complicated with Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint. Schenck's Mandrake Pills are intended to remove obstructions from the liver and restore its healthy action. They have all the efficacy which is attributed to calomel or "blue mass," and are warranted not to contain a particle of any mineral poison. These pills cure the most obstinate costiveness, sick headache, piles, billious affections, and all other diseases which arise from a torpid or obstructed condition of the liver. One box of these pills will prove the efficacy of the medicine.

In Consumption, the Sea Weed Tonic and Mandrake Pills are invaluable auxiliary medicines. They relieve the sufferings of the patient and assist the Pulmonic Syrup in effecting a cure. They have been found useful in advanced stages of Consumption, where the lungs were almost entirely destroyed, and all symptoms, according to the judgement of physicians, indicated speedy death. Lives of patients who were actually in a dying condition have been preserved for months by the use of Schenck's three great remedies.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

☞ The Dramatic Song Book, for the Schoolroom, (by Asa Fitz,) is for sale at Mr. Shores' Bookstore.

☞ The Supreme Judicial Court commences a trial term in this city, today. Judge Bellows presides. The Grand Jury will have plenty of business.

RIGHT SIDE UP.—Mr. J. Horace Kent has accepted a clerkship in the Bureau of Yards and Docks at the Navy Yard, and commenced his duties there on Monday.

☞ Neither Wm. H. Foster, Miller & Vaughan, nor the Chronicle Office, made any bid whatever for the City Printing last year; and the Journal bid was withdrawn, ere the opening.

☞ Hall's Journal of Health says that dense trees or bushes should not be allowed to grow nearer than forty or fifty feet to a house — for the sun and light should have free access to all sides of dwellings. Many of the trees in the narrow streets of Portsmouth, (and our streets are all too narrow,) and thick shrubs and trees in gardens, should for health and comfort's sake be thinned out or removed. No street less than seventy-five or a hundred feet wide, which is occupied by residences, should have a tree in it at all, or certainly not more than one row, and that on the sunny side.

☞ Alderman Pender also thinks he was treated unfairly in the Chronicle's report of the doings, or rather the sayings of the Board — last Thursday evening, for nobody ever questioned his voting with the Republican side always. His statement that a certain irresponsible, non-paying concern, prints cheaper than any other office in the city, (which, by the way, is a mistake, in which he is not alone,) was quoted against him, by the Chronicle reporter, as not evincing sufficient care to support and stand by the organs of his own party. And we still think he was unjustified in making such a remark,—for the reason given; even though the individual referred to so favorably, may be a republican himself, yet not representing any party support.

The fact of the case is just this—though personally we have little or no interest or feeling in the matter which we are discussing, and never had much, if any. If Republicans would like to see their party papers flourish, for the party's sake, or its principles — they should aid them in every way they can, shouldn't they? Well, we don't call the making such unguarded statements as his, doing this, even if it were true. As we told a Republican office-holder on the very day of this occurrence,—if he were on the Opposition side, instead of questioning whether or not he could afford to take the party organ—whether acceptable to him and fit to carry home or not, he would be assessed from $20 to $100 to help keep it alive. Republicans and their papers manage differently here, and we are glad of it; but there is a divided responsibilty in such matters, which we shall not forget, if some other folks do.

We utterly disclaim, however, any intention to question Ald. Pender's devotion to the Republican cause, in any way. Only, if he did not make a mistake in his allusion we did in ours, that's all, and are sorry for it. As to the City Printing, we can't see why there should not be an officer to do this work, as well as the Street, Police and other duty, at a fair price, and we here recommend the publisher of the Portsmouth Journal for this year; and that without subjecting him to the indignity of competing with the Opposition wire-pullers, who will, as last year, doubtless do the work for less than cost, for the sake of an apparent victory over the Republicans. There is no danger of the City being cheated nor need there be any question about price, for the printed schedule of the New Hampshire (as of the Maine, Massachusetts and Vermont) Association of Printers, fixes a rate, below which no member can go, without losing money and falsifying his agreement.

Some States and cities like to aid and encourage their prominent party papers; but Portsmouth last year gave their City work to the opposition, and the Republican Legislature employed a skinflint, fossilized old fogy of the opposition to help screw down the rate of Printing to the lowest cent. Now we certainly shall not attempt to say what printing-offices people should prefer to patronize; only, if there be any such thing as party allegiance and mutual aid, we feel it our duty to call attention to the fact, if we think it in danger of being lost sight of. P.

☞ There is quite an extensive emigration to the West from York County, Me.

BY THE DEATH OF MRS. PEABODY, the wife of Rev. Professor Andrew P. Peabody, of Harvard College, Friday, at Cambridge, a large circle of relatives and friends are visited by a severe bereavement, and upon a home of singular harmony and warm affection has fallen the shadow of profound sorrow. Mrs. Peabody has been an invalid for several months, but such was the deceptive nature of her illness, and her own brightness and energy, that her decease has come almost with the suddenness of an unexpected blow.

She was a woman given to hospitality, full of kindly affections, devotedly faithful, and warmly beloved as a wife and mother; winning respect from all who knew her, by her transparent truthfulness, the large generosity of her nature, the cheerfulness of her warm-hearted vivacity, and the absence from her character of everthing that favored of pretence. Fidelity in her was instinctive; and to those privileged with an intimate acquaintance with her from her youth, she leaves the memory of a fair, active, unobtrusive life, that met every demand upon it with a conscientiousness so prompt and glowing, that, whilst dictated by Christian principles, t seemed as if it were the spontaneous action of a loving heart. Born in Portsmouth, N. H., where she resided until 1860, when she removed to Cambridge, there are two communities to sympathize with her family in the removal of one who was so deservedly dear, and so truly a guide and an example.—Boston Transcript.

THE OLD FIRM OF THOS. E. MOSELEY & Co., Boston, have been so long and favorably known as dealers in fine boots and shoes, that commendation from us is unnecessary. Every novelty for ladies', gentlemen's or children's wear, can constantly be found in their stock, while the most durable and superior products of home manufacture for sportsmen's use, or for stormy weather, and the elegant articles imported from Paris, lie on their respective counters. The great care exercised in selecting the best of material, and the employment of none but the most skillful workmen, has given their custom-work an unrivalled reputation. Their new store, 293 Washington street, (directly opposite Jordan, Marsh & Co.'s,) is worthy a visit from all ladies and gentlemen desiring a first-class boot of any description—if they cannot find it in Portsmouth.

THE ELECTIONS.—The latest figures from Pennsylvania and Ohio are to the effect that Gov. Geary is re-elected by about 4400 majority, and Gov. Hayes is successful by nearly 9200. The latest general reports make the majorities in both States somewhat higher. In the Ohio Legislature the Republicans claim one majority in the Senate and three in the House. The Pennsylvania Legislature is strongly Republican in both branches.

The election returns from the different counties in Nebraska indicate fully as heavy Republican majorities as at the Presidential election.

☞ The County of Rockingham has been sued by Mr. John E. G. Lyford, for sundry extra jobs upon the new County Almhouse, built for the use of county paupers. The damages claimed are fifteen thousand dollars. So much for putting a know-nothing, do-nothing, two-cent man on for chairman of the Building Committee, and a prominent member of the Opposition at that.

☞ Capt. Heman Eldredge is having a fine Stable built, or got out, in this city, to be carried to Chatham, Mass., and put up. It is to be sheathed inside with Southern hard pine, and will be a nice affair. The frame and all parts are now being fitted on Fernald's lumber wharf, at the North End, and will in a few days be shipped to Cape Cod in a schooner.

Nearly the entire force of workmen on the Erie Railroad are on a strike.

A PACIFIC RAILWAY
GOLD LOAN $6,500,000.
We beg leave to announce that we have accepted the agency of the
KANSAS PACIFIC RAILWAY COMPANY,
For the sale of its
NEW SEVEN PER CENT.
Thirty Year Gold Loan,
Free from Tax.
This Loan amounts to $6,500,000.
First Mortgage Land-Grant and Sinking Fund Bonds,
secured upon the extension of the Railway from near Sheridan, in Kansas, to Denver, Colorado, a distance of 257 miles of which 12 miles are completed, and the rest is under construction. It is also a Mortgage upon the Road, the Rolling Stock and Franchise of this first-class Railway, besides now running through the State of Kansas,
And in successful operation for 457 miles
west of the Missouri River, and earning already enough to meet all of its expenses and existing obligations, besides MORE THAN THE INTEREST UPON THIS NEW LOAN. In addition to this the Bonds are also secured by a first mortgage of the GOVERNMENT LAND GRANT OF THREE MILLION ACRES,
extending in alternate sections on either side of the track, from the 394th mile post in Kansas to Denver. The proceeds of the sale of these lands are to be invested by the Trustees in the 7 per cent Bonds, themselves up to 120 in U. S. Bonds, as
A SINKING FUND FOR THE REDEMPTION OF THE BONDS.
The Lands embrace some of the finest portions of the magnificent Territory of Colorado, including a coal field and pinery. The company also holds as an asset another tract of Three Millions of Acres in the State of Kansas,
and although not pledged as a security for this Loan, their possession adds largely to the Company's wealth and credit. We estimate the Value of the Company's property, covered by this mortgage at $23,000,000 net, while the Loan is merely $6,500,000.
The Bonds have
THIRTY YEARS TO RUN,
from May 1, 1869, and will pay
SEVEN PER CENT. INTEREST IN GOLD, semi-annually, on May 1 and Nov. 1, and are FREE FROM GOVERNMENT TAXATION, the Company paying the tax.
The principal of the Loan is made payable in Gold, in the City of New York, but each coupon will be
PAYABLE IN FRANKFORT, LONDON OR N. YORK at option of the holder, with notice, at the following rates:
On $1,000 Bond in N. Y. $35 (gold) each half year.
" London....£7 8s. 10. "
" Frankfort..$7 fr. 50 krtzs., "
The Agents of the Loan, before accepting the trust had the condition of the Road, and the country through which it runs, carefully examined. They are happy to give the Loan an emphatic endorsement as a
FIRST CLASS INVESTMENT,
in every respect perfectly sure, and in some essential ever
Better than Government Securities.
The Bonds will be sold for the present at
96, and accrued Interest, both in Currency,
the Agents reserving the right to advance the rate.
The attention of investors is invited to these well-secured bonds, which we recommend as one of the most profitable investments in the market.
Gold and Government Securities taken in payment at their market value, without commission.

Morning Chronicle.

AUTUMN TRANSPLANTING has many advantages over spring transplanting; the first and not the least important of which is the comparative leisure of the season, especially to nursery-men. We know of no greater satisfaction than the reflection, at the approach of winter, that all the work which could possibly be done to save time in the hurry and drive of spring-work has been thoroughly done; that all the gaps in the young orchard rows have been carefully filled, and the roots protected by sufficient litter against the cold of winter, and the tops staked, or otherwise guarded against being shaken by the wind.

Another and perhaps a still greater advantage of autumn planting is the superior condition of the soil,—dry, warm and friable; while in spring, especially on heavy soils, and even in light soils in the early part of the season, the ground will often be so wet and cold that it is impossible to plant a tree properly. A man cannot set a tree in the best manner without putting his hands into the dirt; and the discomfort of handling cold, wet earth is not unworthy of consideration.

Every owner of a fruit-garden of any size, should have a few large trees in reserve, so as to replace any that may die, without injuring the uniform appearance of the rows; and, as these will require special care in transplanting, it should by all means be done in the genial days of autumn, when both air and earth are favorable for the work. In such days, how can any man who intends to plant trees possibly defer it to the hurry of spring, and very likely to the end of the season, when the buds are starting, and the danger of injury is fearful? Besides the greater loss from evaporation, the greater injury by rubbing off the bud in handling is a serious consideration.

CARE OF NEWLY-PLANTED TREES.—Many tree planters think, when the roots of the tree are once in the ground the work is done; when, in fact, it is only begun. After the tree is carefully planted, it should be mulched with leaves, straw, tan, or whatever similar material is most accessible; not so thick as to exclude the air, but sufficiently to retain the moisture in the soil; for although there may be plenty of rain early in the season, the probability is that there will be a drought, more or less severe before the end.

The top should be shortened to correspond with the quantity of roots lost in digging up; and in doing this, cut to a good bud, and one so placed that the shoot which grows from it shall improve the shape of the tree. This will generally be on the outside of the shoot. As the prevailing winds in this country are from the west, it may be well to leave the limbs on this side a little longer to assist in balancing the top. Make a neat cut, close, but not too close, to the bud, and, if you are very particular, cover the cut with grafting-wax to prevent evaporation. The cutting-back should be done as early as possible.

If in an exposed situation, it must be staked or otherwise prevented from shaking by the wind. It is sometimes difficult to drive a stake firmly in the soil just loosened by planting the tree, and, the larger the tree, the greater the leverage on the stake; so we prefer to steady the tree by placing large stones on the ground around it, which also assist to keep the ground moist. But for very large trees, we have found the best way to be to fasten four guys near the top, first wrapping a cloth around to prevent chafing, and making the lower ends fast to a short stake driven in at some distance from the tree. The lines need not be large; one or two or three ropeyarns twisted together will fasten a tree twenty-five feet high so firmly that nothing but a hurricane can shake it.

The further care will be mainly in destroying insects, and pinching out any useless shoots as soon as they start, and the ends of those which grow so much stronger than others as to impair the balance of the tree.—Tilton's Journal of Horticulture.

WOMAN, HER RIGHTS, WRONGS, PRIVILEGES AND RESPONSIBILITIES.—By L. P. Brockett. Published by L. Stebbins. Hartford, Conn. 448 pages, 12 m.

This is another work on Woman, as will be seen by its title. It purports to give the history of woman, whether at the plow or on the throne, in all ages and countries, from her creation and fall in Eden to the present time; her present legal position in England, France and the United States; her relations to man—we copy literally from the title page—physiological, social, moral, and intellectual; her ability to fill the enlarged sphere of duties and privileges claimed for her; her true position in education, professional life, employments, and wages; woman suffrage, its folly and inexpediency, and the injury and deterioration which it would cause in her character, and the best means for her real advancement and elevation. It is a well prepared and neatly printed but badly illustrated book.

The first illustration represents a woman, half nude, harnessed with a donkey to a wooden plow; the next represents her with several husbands; another as a hod-carrier; still another, the Queen Hellena attending wounded soldiers; and so on through the work, giving a great variety of scenes in which she is engaged.

It has, however, an object in view worthy of attention—that of placing woman in her proper sphere of usefulness, as a teacher, an author, an artist, a nurse, mother, governess, companion, housekeeper, and an ornament to society and the source of happiness in the circle of home. It is to be sold only by subscription. Agents wanted. Address L. Stebbins, Hartford, Conn.

—Georgia must import food or starve.

—Like most estimates of meeting-house capacity, the assertion that Spurgeon's Tabernacle will hold 7,000 hearers is quite wide of the mark. A recent count gave 3,800, and a competent architect is reported as saying that there have never been more than 4,200 present in it at once.

—An honest old Dutchman, in training up his son in the way he should go, frequently exercised him in Bible lessons. On one occasion he asked him:—"Who vos dat vot would not sleep mit Botipher's vife?"

"Shoseph."

"Dat's good poy. Vell, vot vos de reason he vouldn't sleep mit her?"

"Don't know," replied the boy, "shpose he vosn't shleepy!"

WHAT ARE
DR. J. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA Vinegar Bitters.
THEY ARE NOT A VILE FANCY DRINK, Made of Poor Rum, Whiskey, Proof Spirits and refuse Liquors, doctored, spiced, and sweetened to please the taste, called "Tonics," "Appetisers" "Restorers," &c., that lead the tippler on to drunkenness and ruin, but are a true Medicine, made from the Native Roots and Herbs of California, free from all Alcoholic Stimulants. They are the GREAT BLOOD-PURIFIER and LIFE-GIVING PRINCIPLE, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the system, carrying off all poisonous matter, and restoring the blood to a healthy condition. No person can take these Bitters according to directions and remain long unwell. $100 will be given for an incurable case, provided the bones are not destroyed by mineral poisons or other means, the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair.
FOR INFLAMMATORY AND CHRONIC RHEUMATISM, AND GOUT, DYSPEPSIA, or INDIGESTION, BILLIOUS, REMITTENT, and INTERMITTENT FEVERS, DISEASES OF THE BLOOD, LIVER, KIDNEYS, and BLADDER, these BITTERS have been most successful. SUCH DISEASES are caused by VITIATED BLOOD, which is generally produced by derangement of the DIGESTIVE ORGANS.
Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins, cleanse it when it is foul, and your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood healthy, and all will be well.
These Bitters are not a gilded pill, to delight the eye or please the fancy, but a medical preparation, composed of the best vegetable ingredients known.
They are Alterative, Tonic, Diuretic, Sedative, Diaphoretic, and Gentle Purgative.
"The Life of all Flesh is the Blood thereof."—Purify the blood and the health of the whole system will follow.

"Ingenio Stat Sine Morte Decus."
ROCKY MOUNTAIN BITTERS
IS a very superior Regulating Tonic, imparting vigor and strength to the constitution—a thoro'
PURIFIER OF THE BLOOD,
a regulator of nervous force, and a powerful sustainer of health against the encroachments of disease.
The invalid and convalescing seeking restoration, and yearning for the healing virtues of some magic balm, will find in these Bitters a hidden mysterious power, which QUIETLY RESTORES, yet refuses to reveal to the senses anything but taste and color.
It is a pleasant Bitter, free from all nauseous properties odor, entirely vegetable, being mainly grown at the base of the mountains from which they derive their name, and is particularly adapted to all forms of
DYSPEPSIA OR INDIGESTION,
manifesting themselves by the following symptoms: headache, nervousness, loss of memory, low spirits, giddiness, dimness of sight, dullness of hearing, and ringing noises in the ears, eructations, of belching of wind, tightness of breathing, weight and oppression of the chest, uneasy feeling about the heart, palpitation, &c.
Also for Liver Disease, Disorders of the Kidneys, Restlessness and loss of Muscular Power, these Bitters will be found almost a specific; and as a preventative of
or a restorer of the natural powers of the system, when broken down by continued ague attacks; it has no equal.
Being stimulating, (but not intoxicating), they refresh and invigorate both mind and body, heighten the sensibility, clear and sharpen the faculties, and bestow alacrity and cheerfulness of spirit.
CAUTION.—There have been, and still are several parties manufacturing and selling so-called "Langley's Bitters," many of which are worthless. As a guide against such, I would say that in 1866, I secured my copy-right, in the United States Court, a trade mark and name, "Rocky Mountain Bitters," and all Bitters of my manufacture are put up in dark, long neck, quart bottles with red label printed with gold; also, direction label, bearing my seal and directions printed in red, with a red cap and my seal printed in gold, over the cork. Beware of all others, and ask for
"Rocky Mountain Bitters."

Returns from all but five counties in Ohio, received at the office of the Cincinnati Gazette, give Gov. Hayes a majority of 11,106. The Gazette says that the Republicans will have 57 members in the House of Representatives, and the Democrats 54.

WHOEVER may be elected U. S. Senator in Tennessee, there will come before the Senate, when his credentials are presented, the question whether he has been properly elected. The Constitution expressly gives the power to Congress to regulate the time and manner of the election of senators by the State legislature. By a law passed by Congress, and approved by Mr. Johnson, July 25, 1866, these matters were fixed. It is provided that on the second Tuesday after its meeting and organization, the legislature shall proceed to choose a senator.

The Tennessee legislature met on the 4th of October, and both branches organized partially on the same day. Tuesday last would have been the day for the election of senator if the organization of the legislature on Monday, the 4th instant, was an organization within the meaning of the act of Congress. That the legislature itself so regarded the organization is shown by the fact that a vote was passed to postpone the elections,—a course of action which the legislature has, by the act of Congress, no right to pursue. It would be a curious sight to see Mr. Johnson presenting credentials which should be held worthless because he was not chosen in accordance with a law approved by himself.—Boston Advertiser.

THE SEELY COURT MARTIAL.—It is stated that the Secretary of the Navy has telegraphed to Boston for the record of the recent court martial before which Lieutenant Commander Seely, of the Pawnee, was tried for alleged cruelty to a number of seamen on board said vessel. The court found Mr. Seely guilty of the charges made, and the case is now with the Secretary of the Navy for action.

THE WEATHER of late has been quite cold and a sharp frost nipped vegetation, Monday night. A snow storm wouldn't astonish people in this vicinity, even at this time, and possibly will be the next sensation, as the telegraph reports a light fall of snow at Montreal on Monday.

BOOKS REVIEWED.—Bickmore's East Indian Archipelago.—Five college professors and ex-professors, five authors, four naturalists, two editors and two travellers in lands seldom visited by the universal Yankee nation—six in all—met at a snug tea-table in Salem on the 18th of August. Two of these had written on Greek grammar; one, the author of the best Greek system we are likely to see. Two had published systematic works on zoology; one of them without a rival. The two travellers had published unique works,—the only accessible accounts of the regions they visited. All these authors have been presented to our readers before this, except the quiet, youthful, unobtrusive traveller in the remotest East.

Prof. Albert S. Bickmore, of Madison University, Hamilton, N. Y., (which is not Hamilton College, at Clinton,) was one of the detenders of our nation against secession; he traveled in Java, the Spice Islands, Sumatra, China and Japan. The last two regions are not given us in this book; wisely, as others have given us lately not a little of these countries, while he keeps to the fields which he has to himself. Two maps and thirty-two full pages of engravings illustrate the subject, and seven pages of index add greatly to its utility. The book contains the results of more than a year's travel, carefully written, with just as much of science as would be consistent with the purpose of interesting the general reader. It is published by the Appletons, in octavo, 553 pages.

Hadley's Elements of the Greek Language comes to us with the above. Some have applied to his Greek Grammar the Greek apothegm "a great book is a great evil," which is truer of nothing than of grammars; so, without himself conceding that a pupil's first grammar should be his last, he gives us about 250 pages of matter, which is in no sense an abridgement, but a condensation. If there be any principle in the Greek language that is not here, we hope never to see it. It is a terrific fact that more than half the grammar, and by far the densest part of it, is devoted to the conjugation of the verb. If we could only get the nitrogen out of chemistry and the conjugation of verbs out of Greek, scholars could well afford to live one year less.

Appleton's New York Illustrated is a very pretty pamphlet in large octavo, of 52 pages, about as many very good engravings, principally of buildings and street views, and a map. It is written by a penny-a-liner, but perhaps that style best answers the practical purpose of telling a visitor to Gotham what to look for,—but the book is altogether superior in execution to what such a purpose demands. I. F. H.

JUST SO.—Ben Wade paid the following earnest tribute to President Grant's administration in a recent speech:

"Why, sirs, fifteen years will wipe out every dollar of this great debt, if other Administrations do as well as the administration of President Grant has done, so far. I believe, that, under God, the Administration is performing its duties with an honesty of purpose, and a determination to do the right, to save every dollar that can be saved, and apply it to the liquidation of the debt; and that is my idea of financiering. It is a kind of homely way, but I know of none better; and Grant's administration has entered upon it with triumphant success, and ought to be sustained.

I admit that I would like to have voted for a tried statesman when I voted for him, but I did not know how firmly he held the great principles of the Republican party; and I would part with my life quicker than I would part with those principles to-day. I have never yet swerved one single inch from them, and never will. I feared President Grant might not hold to those principles as firmly and safely as I did, because he had occupied no position which had called upon him to bring them out. I would have chosen a man, if I could have had my own choice, who had been tried by fire, and in whom we knew there was no shrinkage.

But, sirs, President Grant has been tried. You see his dealings with the South; you see his appointments in the agents of the Government, and you find them all of the glorious stripe you and I would want put in. We know, now, his heart is steeped in the great Republican doctrines. I am glad to ascertain this fact beyond a doubt."

☞ An intelligent North Hampton farmer, who read in his Gazette, recently, the recommendation we copied from the New England Farmer, to turn sheep into weedy potatoe-fields, to clear them of the weeds,—tells us that he has seen such a case this season, in which the sheep let the ragweed alone, to grow and go to seed, but dug up and ate about all the potatoes in the large piece. So much for theory and practice.

☞ Elise Holt, the English burlesque actress, has been playing billiards in San Francisco. A local paper says Miss Holt "as a billiardist is not a successtress."

RESPECT TO THE MEMORY OF THE LATE MAJOR GENERAL JOHN A. RAWLINS.—All who knew the confidential friend of President Grant, the lamented Gen. Rawlins, speak of him in the highest terms, and with the deepest regret that he should have passed so soon from his high earthly position.

We find in the published proceedings of the Board of Managers of the National Asylum for Disabled Soldiers, at a meeting held at Dayton, on the 30th ult., Gen. Butler in the Chair, and a quorum present, the following:

"Ex-Gov. Smyth of New Hampshire announced the death of one of the Board, Maj. Gen. John A. Rawlins, since the last meeting, and offered the following resolutions, which were unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That this Board mourn with profound sorrow and grief the death of their late associate, Hon. John A. Rawlins, Secretary of War, and in this National bereavement we deeply feel the loss of one whose wise counsels we had long hoped to share.

Resolved, That before proceeding to the formal business of the meeting, the Secretary be instructed to place this expression of our grief upon the record."

A BIG DISCOVERY.—Senator Sprague has made an astounding discovery. He said to the Labor Reform Convention on Saturday:

"I have satisfaction to-day to state here, that in the State of Rhode Island, under my auspices, in connection with the great interest which they represent—greater than any one in all the world besides—in combination with others in like business, there has been a discovery which will electrify the whole earth in its importance and effects upon those engagements and upon the business and trades and commerce of the world. And it has reduced the most complicated business known in modern time to the simplicity of the editorial and composing or the printing department of a paper. It is as simple as setting type and printing a newspaper. Thus is relieved from me the care and burdens of business, and I can happily come before the people and state to them the thoughts that are in my mind."

Whether the Senator is sane and sober, is one question; what he has found out is another. Perhaps we may know in due time. His suggestion that editing and printing a paper is very simple, reminds Uncle Toby of Gen. Jackson's assertion, that our Government is a very simple machine; tho' every well informed man knew that it was one of the most complex that ever existed.

The Fall and its Danger.

Animal as well as vegetable life is powerfully affected by the great atmospheric change that takes place in the Fall. But for the flowers, the foliage and the herbs of the field there is no help. Their time has come and die they must. It is otherwise with man. For him the means of invigoration have been provided by skill and science. To recruit his exhausted energies and fortify himself against the disorders generated by the sudden depression of temperature and the unwholesome exhalations of Autumn, let him brace his nervous system, invigorate his digestion and give edge to his appetite with HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS. He may then face the morbid influences of the season fearlessly. The chilling night dews and heavy morning mists will have no power to make him shiver and burn, to affect his liver, to disorder his stomach or his bowels, to rack his joints with rheumatism, or to render any latent element of disease in his system active and dangerous.

To the sufferer from general debility, whether constitutional or arising from other causes,—this potent vegetable specific is earnestly recommended. And let it be remembered that physical weakness opens the door to all maladies. Vigor is the chief defence of the human structure against all causes of disease, and HOSTETTER'S BITTERS may be truly regarded as the most potent surest of all invigorants. It is the most genial of all vegetable tonics, and is admirably adapted to that warm and wholesome influence upon delicate sex, as well as to the ailments of man.

Holloway's Ointment.—STIFF JOINTS.—One of the most remarkable attributes of HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT is the rapidity with which it relaxes contracted ligaments and sinews. Joints that have been stiff for years have repeatedly been restored to activity by a persevering use of this matchless salve. Brisk friction should be used in applying it in such cases, so that its annealing influence may thoroughly penetrate the contracted fibres. Sold by all Druggists.

ASIATIC CHOLERA IN CHINA.

TUNGCHOW, China, Aug. 23, 1866.

MESSRS. PERRY DAVIS & SON:

Dear Sirs—During a long residence in China, I have used your invaluable Pain Killer, both in my own family and among the Chinese, and have found it a most excellent medicine. In the summer of '62 and '63, while residing in Shanghai, I found it an almost certain cure for Cholera, if used in time. Indeed using it in a great many instances, I do not remember failing in a single case. For three years I have been residing in this place, more than fifty miles from a physician, and have been obliged often to fall upon my own resources in cases of sickness. The Chinese come to us in great numbers for medicine and advice. Though without medical knowledge ourselves, the few simple remedies we can command are so much in advance even of their physicians, that we have almost daily applications. We allow them to come because it brings us in contact with them, and opens a door to usefulness. In diarrhœa, colic, vomiting, cholera, coughs, &c., your Pain Killer has been my chief medicine.

Yours, very truly, T. P. CRAWFORD.

THE LATEST DISCOVERY

In Medication.

The great difficulty which physicians have been laboring for centuries to overcome, has at length been obviated. A vegetable Cathartic and alterative more efficient than any mineral preparation of the same class, and as agreeable to the taste as ordinary candy, is now offered to the sick in the form of a Lozenge.

DR. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S

is the most important medicinal novelty that modern chemistry has produced. It combines vegetable botanical extracts, perfectly harmless in themselves, but embodying all the remedial properties of mercury, and destined in this pleasant form to supersede and banish from general use, the nauseous pills and portions of which that dangerous excitant is the main ingredient. More than three thousand physicians have signed testimonials, which were made by the inventor of this peerless remedy before it was brought to its present state of perfection. The lozenge is tasteless in its operation, and altogether the medicinal taste of its curative components has been extinguished by chemical means, their virtues remain as active and potent as ever.

In Dyspepsia, Biliousness Constipation, Sick or Nervous Headache, Jaundice, Dropsy and the irregularities to which the feebler sex are subject, the Lozenge will be found infinitely more effective than any of the horrible nauseous compounds usually administered in such cases. As an antibilious specific and general aperient, they have no equal either among diverted preparations or the prescriptions of the regular pharmacopœia.

☞ It is guaranteed that no one who has once tried Dr. Erasmus Winslow's Liver and Stomach Lozenge, will ever again take a purgative powder, or draught or pill.

Ministers and Public Speakers

Who are so often afflicted with throat diseases, will find a sure remedy in this Balsam. Lozenges and wafers sometimes give relief, but this Balsam, taken a few times, will insure a permanent cure.

Will all those afflicted with Coughs or Consumption, give this Balsam a fair trial, they will be pleased with the result, and confess that the sure remedy is found at last.

IT IS SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

CONSUMPTION.

DR. SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP for the cure of Consumption, Coughs and Consumption.

DR. SCHENCK'S SEAWEED TONIC for the cure of Dyspepsia and all the Debilitated Conditions of the Stomach.

DR. SCHENCK'S MANDRAKE PILLS for Diseases of the Liver, or to act as a gentle Purgative.

All of these three medicines are often required in curing Consumption, though the Pulmonic Syrup alone has cured many desperate cases. The Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills assist in regulating the Stomach and Liver, and help the Pulmonic Syrup to digest and search through the blood vessels, by which means a cure is soon effected.

These medicines are conscientiously offered to the public as the only safe, certain and reliable remedies for Pulmonary Consumption, and for all those morbid conditions of the body which lead to that fatal disease. Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia are often forerunners of Consumption, and when they manifest themselves they require the most prompt attention.

The Pulmonic Syrup is a medicine which has had a long probation before the public, and its fame has been through a period of more than thirty-five years, in all of which time its reputation has constantly increased, and the most obstinate objection can no longer doubt that it is a remedy which may be used with confidence in all cases which admit of a cure.

If the patient will perseveringly follow the directions which accompany each bottle, he will certainly be cured, if his lungs are not too much wasted to make a cure possible. Even in cases supposed to be incurable, when friends and physicians have despaired, the use of the medicine has saved the life of the patient, and restored him to perfect health.

Dr. Schenck himself was cured in precisely such circumstances, and many who now enjoy good health owe their lives to his skill, and have been fortunate enough to find a remedy which has stood the test of twenty-two years. The enormous sale and rapidly increasing demand is at once the surest evidence of its usefulness and popularity. No family should be without a bottle in the house. Hundreds of dollars and many hours of suffering may be saved by its timely use.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

A NOBLE LION.—Full twenty years ago, Mr. William D. Perkins of this city, bought of Mr. Wm. F. Estes of Dover, a pair of bay horses, to run on his hack. We say run, and they had to do this a good deal—but trot is the proper or usual hack gait. They were named Lion and Tiger, and will be recollected by many a reader for many a year, in that capacity. They were a powerful span, but we never thought them fit mates—though they were hardly so bad as the driver's who said his were well matched, for one wanted to do all the work, and the other was willing he should! Tiger was a thin, quick, nervous horse, and wore himself out with working and cribbing—which last is the most foolish habit that any decent horse was ever addicted to—almost as bad as smoking in men. Years after, when Mr. Perkins sold them both at auction, Tiger was bought by Mr. Lamphrey of Hampton.

But it is with old Lion that we have now to do. He was a large and handsome horse, plump and round, with a blaze face—a good trotter, and very fleet runner. He had been a trick horse in Joe Cushing's circus, and Perkins was wont to exercise him loose, with the whip, in the yard of the old Josh Johnson stable on Hanover Street. He would make Lion lie down, rear, place a foot on his master's shoulder, take a handkerchief from his pocket, prance round the yard, turn, dance, &c. But one day when he struck him with the whip, old Lion came at him open-mouthed, and drove him into the stable; then leaped over the almost head-high fence, and capered up and down street for a long time, until half a dozen men made out to drive him in—and this was the last of his trick performance we guess.

Often have we seen him, when Tiger was trotting handsomely, running at great speed, dragging his mate and a heavy hack-load of willing riders, and passing many a light team, the driver of which thought he had a trotter. Under the saddle or in a light hitch, he was hard to beat, on the run. "The 22" were fond of a drive and dinner at Hampton, in those days, and a supper was won at Rye Beach, by Lion's running, with two in the writer's wagon, past all the other dozen teams, Stearn's gray mare to a sulky, and all.

One afternoon, Perkins was at the Plains with Lion to a heavy express wagon, and half a dozen chums; and after considerable banter, a bet was made of $20 a side, that Lion with his load could not beat the gray mare of said Stearns (now dead) to trotting gig, to the Creek. Down the powder-house hill, Perkins gave his well-known yip at Lion, and away they went like mad, on the unequal race—unequal, yes, for nothing was equal to Lion on the run. The gray mare did well, but the course was almost wholly down hill, and Mr. Stears finding he was likely to lose the race and his $20, undertook to swerve in ahead of Perkins with his Express, (not Laws', at that time,) but it was no go. Never was such a tremendous rush and clatter as Lion carried in his wake, at this frightful, break-neck gait; and his driver was nothing loath to run over or through the fragile sulky, if it got in his way—so rip-crash went spokes and tyre, as the two carriages struck, but clean ahead went the express. Mr. Stearns had to dodge the broken tyre, as it came slapping around at every revolution of the wheel, until just after rising the hill below the Creek, down came the wounded wheel, sulky and driver all in a heap.

Perkins and his friends were fond of a May morning saddle ride to Marm Hobbs' for breakfast—and by the rule that the slowest should pay the bills, Lion never had to forfeit, for he was always ahead, though there were a dozen picked competitors against him. He was an easy 'loper, and could run as fast and almost as long as a fox. His mate had perhaps as much speed, but nothing like his power, game or bottom.

At the auction sale above referred to, Lion was bought by Mr. D. L. Randall, and was used on his job wagon for a while; Messrs. Jenness & Cilley then swapped for him, and he was finally sold to Mr. Frank Jones, who owns him to this day. His last exploit in the saddle, was when ridden by his owner on several occasions in the Horse Guards,—and there was no nobler-looking animal in the troop. Lion is now about 27 years old, fat, sleek and handsome, and having an easy time of it in Mr. Jones' well-kept stables—and in his hale old age, is really more of a lion than ever, though not much on a race we guess now,—and like old men, his friends think they honor him by adding to his years. Rest his manes. F.

☞ We understand that Mr. M. Eldredge has purchased five acres of land of Col. J. W. Peirce, on Middle Road, opposite and beyond the residence of Mr. C. H. Mendum, and will erect suitable buildings thereon for a residence for himself—having already broken ground for this purpose. Of course a gentleman of his means and taste will provide nice accommodations, which will be a great improvement to this growing portion of the city, and the example of getting outside the compact part of the town, is sensible and commendable. The purchase includes the well-known Willows, and we believe these are to be removed, so this noted and popular trystring place will be no more.

SUPREME JUDICIAL COURT, Trial Term. — The October session commenced in the city at 11 o'clock, A. M., Tuesday, Hon. H. A. Bellows, Chief Justice presiding. Prayer was offered by Rev. ☞ The three-year old bay mare of Mr. B. F. Dame of this city, which took second premium for colts of that age at the Piscataqua Fair, and was immediately after sold for $195 at Auction by Mr. Wendell, to Mr. J. C. Perkins of the National Hotel,—is as safe and steady a driver as any old horse—not in the least afraid of cars or other objects. She was only taken from pasture a month ago, and required no breaking, and but little training—as she has some brains.

G. A. R.—Post No. 1 of the Grand Army of the Republic anticipates holding a Fair about Christmas time. The success of last year is a fair guarantee of what is to come.

The Committee of last year is largely interested in the approaching festival, and will endeavor to improve on former efforts. We are informed that their prospectus will shortly appear.

A PACIFIC RAILWAY
GOLD LOAN $6,500,000.
We beg leave to announce that we have accepted the agency of the
KANSAS PACIFIC RAILWAY COMPANY,
For the sale of its
NEW SEVEN PER CENT.
Thirty Year Gold Loan,
Free from Tax.
This Loan amounts to $6,500,000.
First Mortgage Land-Grant and Sinking Fund Bonds,
secured upon the extension of the Railway from near Sheridan, in Kansas, to Denver, Colorado, a distance of 227 miles of which 12 miles are completed, and the rest is under construction. It is also a Mortgage upon the Road, the Rolling Stock and Franchise of this first-class Railway, besides now running through the State of Kansas,
And in successful operation for 437 miles
west of the Missouri River, and earning already enough to meet all of its expenses and existing obligations, besides MORE THAN THE INTEREST UPON THIS NEW LOAN. In addition to this the Bonds are also secured by a first mortgage of the GOVERNMENT LAND GRANT OF THREE MILLION ACRES,
extending in alternate sections on either side of the track, from the 394th mile post in Kansas to Denver. The proceeds of the sale of these lands are to be invested by the Trustees in the 7 per cent Bonds, themselves up to 120 in U. S. Bonds, as
A SINKING FUND FOR THE REDEMPTION OF THE BONDS.
The Lands embrace some of the finest portions of the magnificent Territory of Colorado, including a coal field and pinery. The company also holds as an asset another tract of Three Millions of Acres in the State of Kansas,
and although not pledged as a security for this Loan, their possession adds largely to the Company's wealth and credit. We estimate the Value of the Company's property, covered by this mortgage at $23,000,000 net, while the Loan is merely $6,500,000.
The Bonds have
THIRTY YEARS TO RUN,
from May 1, 1869, and will pay
SEVEN PER CENT. INTEREST IN GOLD, semi-annually, on May 1 and Nov. 1, and are FREE FROM GOVERNMENT TAXATION, the Company paying the tax.
The principal of the Loan is made payable in Gold, in the City of New York, but each coupon will be
PAYABLE IN FRANKFORT, LONDON OR N. YORK at option of the holder, with notice, at the following rates:
On $1,000 Bond in N. Y. $35 (gold) each half year.
" London....67 sh. 10. "
" Frankfort..87 flr. 30 krtzs., "
The Agents of the Loan, before accepting the trust had the condition of the Road, and the country through which it runs, carefully examined. They are happy to give the Loan an emphatic endorsement as a
FIRST CLASS INVESTMENT,
in every respect perfectly sure, and in some essential even Better than Government Securities.
The Bonds will be sold for the present at
96, and accrued Interest, both in Currency,
the Agents reserving the right to advance the rate.
The attention of investors is invited to these well-secured bonds, which we recommend as one of the most profitable investments in the market.
Gold and Government Securities taken in payment at their market value, without commission.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.

Messrs. Editors: — Having survived the burning heats of the past summer; with a change of weather, I slowly regain my former tone of mind and body. Since June 1st, I have been boiled, parboiled, stewed and broiled alternately. The weather of late has undergone a most favorable change and is now as pleasant as one could wish. The trees, as yet, have not lost their foliage, and the grass is as green as in June. There is growing in my back yard a Squash vine fifteen feet in length, and with its gaudy, golden-hued blossoms, promises an immense yield of fruit, and no doubt will fulfill the promise, provided winter will delay his coming some three months.

Yesterday at the Oak Hill cemetery I saw full blown roses and other flowers in all their loveliness and fragrance. This cemetery, by the way, in location and design, excels any I have heretofore visited. There are no divisions of artificial fences between the lots, but a species of Box of a deep green color is made use of instead, and being kept constantly trimmed, the effect is most pleasing. The grounds for the most part are shaded by tall and thrifty oaks, and their dark green foliage indicate that the soil in which they grow has been made rich, by the slow decay of the sleepers below. The grass being kept closely shaven and perfectly clean, presents a fresh, velvety appearance. Here and there a tall stump is entirely and profusely covered with a species of laurel, thus converting into "a thing of beauty" what otherwise would be a deformity.

On Monday last in respect to the memory of Ex-Pres. Pierce, the government buildings were draped in black and closed. The portico of the White House was gracefully festooned with crape and was especially noticed. Cannon were fired at intervals through the day and other demonstrations befitting the occasion were made.

Hon. Amos Kendall, the efficient Postmaster-General during Jackson's administration, is very sick and is probably destined to pass from among us ere long. He is respected and beloved here by all classes, particularly by the Baptist denomination, to which he has ever been a true friend and patron. One of the finest churches in the city, I am told, has been twice put up—whether it was once pulled down or burned down, I am unable to say — by his liberality. He is said to be very wealthy, and is probably exceeded in possessions by but two or three residents of the city. B.

MEN WANTED.—Some one writes thus graphically and truly of the wants of the age:—"The great want of this age is men. Men who are not for sale. Men who are honest, sound from centre to circumference, true to the heart's core. Men who will condemn wrong in friend or foe, in themselves as well as others. Men whose consciences are as steady as the needle to the pole. Men who will stand for the right if the heavens totter and the earth reels.

Men who can tell the truth, and look the world and the devil right in the eye. Men that neither brag nor run. Men that neither flag nor flinch. Men who can have courage without shouting to it. Men in whom the courage of everlasting life runs still, deep and strong. Men who do not cry nor cause their voices to be heard on the streets, but who will not fail nor be discouraged till judgement be set in the earth.

Men who know their message and tell it. Men who know their places and fill them. Men who know their own business. Men who will not lie. Men who are not too lazy to work, nor too proud to be poor. Men who are willing to eat what they have earned, and wear what they have paid for."

—Archie and Tom sparked the same girl. One night Archie called on her and found her alone. After some conversation he burst out with: "Miss Sallie, do you think you could leave this comfortable home, kind father and mother, loving brothers and sisters, and go to the far West with a young man who has little to live on save his profession?" Miss Sallie laid her head gently on Archie's shoulder, with her eyes half closed, her ruby lips slightly apart, and said, softly: "Yes, Archie, I think I could." "Well," said Archie, "my friend Tom is going out West and wants to marry. I will mention it to him."

—Teacher—John, suppose I were to shoot at a tree with five birds on it, and kill three, how many would be left? John—Three, sir. Teacher — No,—two would be left, you ignoramus. John—No there wouldn't though. The three shot would be left, and the other two would be flied away.

—The schooner Franconia cleared from Saco for Savannah, Ga., last Monday, with machinery to be put into cotton mills near Macon, with $40,000 machinery manufactured by the Water Power Machine Shop of Biddeford.

—More than one hundred thousand head of cattle have already passed north from Texas over a single great trail.

IRON MANDRAKE SYRUP

is the great vegetable substitute for Calomel to cure the Liver.

In Freeman's Mandrake Syrup it is combined with Iron and Vegetable Tonics, and forms the most perfect Spring Medicine.

It purifies the blood and imparts IRON to it.

It acts on the Liver and removes foul humors from the body. It is a most excellent remedy for debility, especially for mothers who are worn down by nursing infants, and for all persons whose blood is pure, and who need iron and a strengthening medicine.

LIGHT IN DARKNESS.

(TO MY FRIENDS.)

Some with music seek my pleasure,
Kindest thoughts joined to each measure.
Sympathy most true they bring me,
Sweeter than the note they sing me.

Thoughtful deeds and words most tender
Are the tribute some would render.
When my heart is sad and weary
And life's journey seems most dreary.

Some bestow their choicest flowers,
Thus to cheer the lonesome hours,
Wishing, with the sweets revealing,
Angel forms might near be stealing,

With inspiring thoughts to bless me
And with loving words caress me,
While in pain I'm ever pining
For the brightness clearly shining.

With pure hearts and faces smiling,
All foreboding fears beguiling,
Some, their sheaves of plenty bringing,
Set my grateful heart to singing.

So my generous friends combining,
Bid me view the silver lining
Which dark shadows were concealing
Till the time for its revealing.

While Our Father's love protecting,
Every good for us selecting,
But allows the clouds of sorrow
To proceed Heaven's bright to-morrow.

DANIEL A. DROWN.

DEATH OF A COMPILER.—Mr. John Hayward, the author of the Gazetteer, died at the Home for Aged Men in Boston last week at the advanced age of 88 years and 9 months. He had been an inmate of this excellent institution for many years finding beneath its roof the comforts of a home, and reciprocating the friendly attentions of the Trustees by a cheerful and kindly bearing. Though deprived of the use of his eyes to a great extent, his mind was clear to the last. Mr. Hayward was the author and compiler of many valuable books, among which were "View of the United States," published in 1833; "Religious Creeds of the United States and of the British Provinces," published in this city in 1837; "New England Gazetteer," published in 1836; "Gazetteer of the United States," published in Portland in 1843, and a "Gazetteer of Massachusetts, New Hampshire and Vermont," published in Boston in 1849.

—Some years ago, says Mr. Jessup, in the Missionary Herald, the Greeks of Deir Mimas, Syria, fell into a quarrel about their ecclesiastical revenues. The income from the church estates was vastly in excess of former years, and the whole village was rent with violent struggles on the part of the people to secure their share after giving the Greek priests a meagre portion. They cast about them for an agent to whom they could intrust the care of the funds. They could not trust the priest, nor the sheik, nor any one of the old men; and at length, by unanimous consent, they requested Rev. Mr. Ford, the American missionary, to take charge of the revenues of the Greek church!

WILL IT PAY TO ADVERTISE.—This is a question that has been argued pro and con. with varied success for an indefinite period. It remained however for the editor of the Springfield Leader to clinch the point in the affirmative:

The editor of the Springfield (Mo.) Leader has been advertising for a boy for several weeks to learn the printing trade, and on Thursday his wife filled the order for him, which shows advertising pays. He could have had twins if he had advertised for two boys.

BARDIE FESTIVAL.—At a recent festival of bards, or poets, in Wales, Mr. Richard Jones took the first prize of £5 and a medal for a Welch essay, in which, however, he had no competitor. Mr. Robert Roberts received half a guinea for playing on the piano-forte Handel's "Harmonious Blacksmith;" Mr. R. Herbert Williams took a premium of five shillings for reciting "The Dying Gladiator;" and a Mrs. Williams was awarded five shillings for the best pair of home-knit stockings.

—The total number of graves of soldiers who died in defence of the American Union now recorded in the printed forms published by the Quartermaster's Department, amount to about 193,000. There yet remain to be printed the records of about 120,000 graves, making an aggregate of 300,000, of which the names of 100,000 occupants will probably never be known.

—The largest saw mill in the world is at Orono, Me. It is 440 feet long, 66 feet wide, has 4 gang saws, 5 single saws, 2 circular saws, 5 lath machines, 1 shingle and 1 clapboard machine. It saws daily 200,000 feet of long lumber, 200,000 laths, 10,000 shingles, and 4000 clapboard, and by requirement of law burns up about 120 cords of waste wood each day. It rents for $25,000 a year.

—Two boys were sent to purchase a watermelon, and as they were bringing it home said one to the other, 'Don't let it fall, Billy, 'cos if it breaks we'll have to eat it right here, and can't take any home.' Billy guessed it wouldn't fall,—but it did.

—Mr. A. J. Frisbee has commenced work on a new fishing schooner at his yard in Gloucester, Mass., for Messrs. Rowe & Jordan.

PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER, as an internal remedy has no equal. In cases of Cholera, Summer Complaint, Dyspepsia, dysentery, Asthma, it cures in one night, by taking internally, and bathing well in it freely. It is the best linfment in America. Its action is like magic, when externally applied to bad sores, burns, scalds and sprains. For the sick headache and tooth ache, don't fail to try it. In short, it is a Pain Killer.

WHAT ARE
DR. J. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA Vinegar Bitters.
THEY ARE NOT A VILE FUSEL OIL COMPOUND DRINK, Made of Poor Rum, Whiskey, Proof Spirits, and refuse Liquors, doctored, spiced, and sweetened to please the taste, called "Vinegar Bitters," or "Restorers," &c., that lead the tippler on to drunkenness and ruin, but are a true Medicine, made from the Native Roots and Herbs of California, free from all Alcoholic Stimulants. They are the GREAT BLOOD-PURIFIER and LIFE-GIVING PRINCIPLE, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the system, carrying off the poisonous matter, and restoring the blood to a healthy condition. No person can take these Bitters according to directions and remain long unwell. $100 will be given for an incurable case, providing the bones are not destroyed by mineral poisons or other means, the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair.
FOR INFLAMMATORY AND CHRONIC RHEUMATISM, AND GOUT, DYSPEPSIA OR INDIGESTION, BILLIOUS, REMITTENT, and INTERMITTENT FEVERS, DISEASES OF THE BLOOD, LIVER, KIDNEYS, and BLADDER, these BITTERS have been most successful. SUCH DISEASES are caused by VITIATED BLOOD, which is generally produced by derangement of the DIGESTIVE ORGANS.
Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins, cleanse it when it is foul, and your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood healthy, and all will be well.
These Bitters are not a gilded pill, to delight the eye or please the fancy, but a medicinal preparation, composed of the best vegetable ingredients known.
They are Alterative, Tonic, Diuretic, Sedative, Diaphoretic, and Gentle Purgative.
"The Life of all Flesh is the Blood thereof."—Purify the blood and the health of the whole system will follow.

"Ingenio Stat Sine Morte Juventa."
ROCKY MOUNTAIN BITTERS
IS a very superior Regulating Tonic, imparting vigor and strength to the constitution—a thoro'
PURIFIER OF THE BLOOD,
a regulator of nervous force, and a powerful sustainer of health against the encroachments of disease.
The invalid and convalescing, seeking restoration, and yearning for the healing virtues of some magic balm, will find in the Bitters a hidden mysterious power, which QUICKLY RESTORES, yet resolves to reveal to the senses anything but taste and color.
It is a pleasant Bitter, free from all nauseous properties odor, entirely vegetable, being mainly grown at the base of the mountains from which they derive their name, and is particularly adapted to all forms of
DYSPEPSIA OR INDIGESTION,
manifesting themselves by the following symptoms: headache, nervousness, loss of memory, low spirits, giddiness, dimness of sight, dullness of hearing, and ringing noises in the ears, eructations, of belching of wind, tightness of breathing, weight and oppression of the chest, uneasy feeling about the heart, palpitation, &c.
Also for Liver Diseases, Disorders of the Kidneys, Restlessness and loss of Muscular Power, these Bitters will be found almost a specific; and as a preventative of
FEVER AND AGUE
or a restorer of the natural powers of the system, when broken down by continued ague attacks; it has no equal.
Being stimulating, (but not intoxicating), they refresh and invigorate both mind and body, heighten the sensibility, clear and sharpen the faculties, and bestow alacrity and cheerfulness of spirit.
CAUTION.—There have been, and still are several parties manufacturing and selling so-called "Langley's Bitters," many of which are worthless. As a guide against such, I would say that in 1866, I secured my copy-right, in the United States Court, a trade mark and name, "Rocky Mountain Bitters," and all Bitters of my manufacture are put up in dark, long neck, quart bottles with red label printed with gold; also, direction label, bearing my seal and directions printed in red, with a red cap and my seal printed in gold, over the cork. Beware of all others, and ask for "Rocky Mountain Bitters."

At the session of the special Committee appointed to investigate the cause of the present depression in the shipbuilding interest of this country, and to report to Congress what legislation is necessary in order to restore it, at Boston on Tuesday, the Boston merchants and ship builders who appeared testified that the depression is caused by the high tariff imposed on all materials used in the construction of ships.

☞ The lecture mania, as some have called it with predictions that it would soon die out, seems to have more vitality this year than ever. Three thousand dollars were taken for tickets on the first day of sale by the Old Bay State Course in Boston last week. And in Worcester so great is the demand for tickets to the Lyceum that it has been determined to sell a part at auction. So large a number have already been sold in Gloucester for the Fraternity Course that it appears as though evening tickets may not be issued.

☞ A call signed by William Lloyd Garrison, Julia Ward Howe, George William Curtis, Henry Ward Beecher, and eighty-four others, has been issued inviting State organizations in behalf of woman suffrage to send delegates to a convention to be held at Cleveland, Ohio, on the 24th and 25th of November.

—Rev. Hugh Goldie, missionary of the United Presbyterian Church at Old Calabar, has published an energetic protest against the traffic in strong drink carried on by British merchants in Africa. Amusing Statistics — Continued.— During the late war many officers from the merchant service entered our navy as volunteers. I am acquainted with a number who did so, and know that they are seamen—perhaps quite as able as most naval officers; but they were almost universally treated by the regular line officers with an offensive superciliousness which bordered on the insulting. From scores of discharged sailors whom I have met since the war I have heard the same statement—"The reg'lar officers were 'down' on them volunteer fellers." This dislike was not founded on any lack of skill and courage as seamen, in the volunteers, but arose from the snobbish class-exclusiveness of the line officers, which would not allow them to recognise as officers and gentlemen any who had stepped into the navy direct from the ranks of the people, without having been sanctified, and purified from their plebeian dross, by a charity education at the expense of the nation.

England has a volunteer naval force, —her Naval Reserve. In this, merchant captains who can pass a certain examination are commissioned as lieutenants, ranking with but after the regular navy lieutenants, and drawing pay and flying the naval blue ensign, while sailing their merchant ships. But even this approach to equality did not satisfy the people of England, and much indignation was expressed that a merchant captain of forty years' sea experience should rank "with, but after," a naval fledgling of perhaps as many months. Yet these naval reserve lieutenants, (unlike our volunteer officers, many of whom served with marked distinction during the war,) had never seen legal murder committed on a large scale. Why does not conservative England borrow a few ideas on naval affairs from liberal, democratic America?

Now I am getting along to where the statistics are. I detest statistics next to getting out of bed in the winter, but my heading will be ruined if I do not put them in somewhere in this article. Here, then, are the Amusing Statistics. In the American Navy, according to the Navy Registers, may be found

1 surgeon, ranking with commanders, who has been longer in the service than the Vice-Admiral, than either one of 13 commodores, and longer than any captain; 7 surgeons, ranking with commanders, longer in the service than the average of captains; 15 surgeons, ranking with commanders, longer in the service than any commander; 21 surgeons and 4 paymasters, ranking with commanders, longer in the service than the average of commanders; 10 surgeons, ranking with lieutenants, longer in the service than any lieut.-commander; 25 surgeons, ranking with lieutenants, longer in the service than the average of lieut.-commanders;

8 chief engineers, ranking with lieutenants, longer in the service than any lieutenant-commander; 39 chief engineers, ranking with lieutenants, (all but two of that grade in the navy,) longer in the service than the average of lieutenant-commanders; 3 1st assistant-engineers, ranking next after lieutenants and wearing master's uniform, longer in the service than the average of lieutenant-commanders; 40 1st assistant-engineers, wearing master's uniform, longer in the service than any lieutenant; 80 1st assistant-engineers, wearing master's uniform, longer in the service than the average of lieutenants; and 45 2d assistant-engineers, ranking after masters and wearing ensign's uniform, who have been longer in the service than the average of lieutenants!

The average length of time all lieutenants have been in the service is 7 yrs. 2 mos.; average length of service of all surgeons ranking with lieutenants, 12 yrs. 5 mos.; average length of service of all chief engineers ranking with lieutenants, 16 yrs. 9 mos.; average time all lieutenant-commanders have been in the service, 11 yrs. 4 mos.; average time all commanders have served, 24 yrs. 10 mos.; average term of service of all surgeons ranking with commanders, 32 yrs. 5 mos.

The senior lieutenant on the list entered the navy in 1861; the senior paymaster ranking with lieutenants, entered the service in 1858; the senior chief engineer ranking with lieutenants, entered the service in 1847; and the senior surgeon ranking with lieutenants entered the service in 1844!

There! If any one can show a more amusing list than the above, let him come on. Perhaps the gentlemen most immediately concerned fail to see just where the laugh comes in; but the idea that such queer performances have been going on in our navy, and we all the time supposing it was a republican institution, seems very ludicrous to me. The above statistics refer to the active list of the navy; and it should be borne in mind that the four years' schooling count as "service" for the line officers, so that to get at the real difference in the length of time the line and staff officers have to serve for the same rank, four years should be deducted from the line officer's term as recorded in the registers — but this deduction is not made in the list above. I shall have to write another article on this subject,—have got more to say yet. Pakeha.

Correspondence of Chronicle and Gazette.

Exeter, Oct. 19.

A Union temperance meeting was held last evening in the lecture room of the First Congregational Church, which was not so well filled as the importance of this great question would seem to demand.

The meeting was presided over by J. J. Bell, Esq., and the principal subject of discussion was the adoption of the State Police law; by the people of the State, on the 9th of November next.

On assuming the chair, Mr. Bell made brief remarks, reviewing the course of the temperance party for the past thirty years. He believed in moral suasion, but advocated the enforcement of the prohibitory law, drunkardness and rumselling should be made offences against society as well as against the law.

Rev. H. B. Copp thought that when the prohibitory law was passed, a great mistake was made by the temperance people, who said, virtually, "We have now a law, and there is no more for us to do." He read portions of the State Police law, with reasons for its approval by the people, and statements of the results of the operations of a similar law in Massachusetts.

Rev. J. W. Chickering thought total abstinence the only safe course, and gave his hearty approval to any measures tending to stop the liquor traffic, but had not made himself sufficiently acquainted with the merits of the case to judge whether public sentiment, which controls and decides all laws, would indorse this particular law.

Rev. Chas. Newhall strongly advocated the adoption of the law. Rum is destroying people, wholesale; and in the matter of temperance, going forward is an important element of success. If the temperance people will come out and act out their sentiments, we shall soon see a different state of affairs.

Mr. J. M. Head believed there should be a law enforced against the indiscriminate sale of poisonous drinks as well as unwholesome food. A man is arrested, and charged with murder, for accidentally putting up the wrong article in an apothecary store in Boston. Rumsellers are making a traffic in that which annually destroys thousands, and it is allowed as a matter of course. He also gave the moderate drinkers a sharp rebuke.

Rev. S. S. Fletcher again aired his hackneyed idea, that "the Christian public sentiment of Exeter is decidedly in favor of rumselling." He feared the law was not in accordance with public sentiment. He advocated Sunday evening mass meetings, which would be an instrumentality in popularizing temperance sentiments.

Mr. Kellogg indorsed the Sunday evening meeting, and gave a graphic account of the good old Washingtonian times of 1840. There is too much apathy, too little interest felt in this great cause by the religious people. He can count up scores of young men who started life with him, who now fill drunkards' graves, and countless thousands of young men are to-day on the same road.

Mr. W. N. Hobbs advocated earnest labor among the young; in the Sabbath and common schools. They should be educated to lead temperate lives. The subject must be agitated. It is the duty of all to act in a matter of such vital importance. At almost any hour of the day, intoxicated persons can be seen in any streets. The evil is growing, and active measures should at once be adopted, if we wish to save the rising generation from this great evil.

Mr. J. L. Lovering believed the present law should be enforced, and favored the adoption of the State Police law.

The resignation of Rev. J. O. Barrows as pastors of the First Congregational Church has been accepted, and Mr. B. will soon be on the way to Turkey in Asia, to engage in missionary labor.

I am informed that the health of Rev. J. C. Learned will not much longer permit him to discharge his duties as minister of the Unitarian Society in this town. H.

The Fall and its Danger.

Animal as well as vegetable life is powerfully affected by the great atmospheric change that takes place in the Fall. But for the flowers, the foliage and the herbs of the field there is no help. Their time has come and die they must. It is otherwise with man. For him the means of reinvigoration have been provided by skill and science. To recruit his exhausted energies and fortify himself against the disorders generated by the sudden depression of temperature and the unwholesome exhalations of Autumn, let him tone his nervous system, invigorate his digestion and give edge to his appetite with HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS. He may then face the morbid influences of the season fearlessly. The chilling night dews and heavy morning mists will have no power to make him shiver and burn, to affect his liver, to disorder his stomach or his bowels, to rack his joints with rheumatism, or to render any latent element of disease in his system active and dangerous.

To the sufferer from general debility, whether constitutional or arising from other causes,—this potent vegetable specific is most earnestly commended. And let it be remembered that physical weakness opens the door to all maladies. Vigor is the chief defence of the human structure against all causes of disease, and HOSTETTER'S BITTERS may be truly pronounced the safest and surest of all invigorants. It is the most genial of all vegetable tonics, and is admirably adapted to the wants and weaknesses of the more delicate sex, as well as to the ailments of men.

THE LATEST DISCOVERY

In Medication.

The great difficulty which physicians have been laboring for centuries to overcome, has at length been obviated. A vegetable Cathartic and alterative more efficient than any mineral preparation of the same class, and as agreeable to the taste as ordinary candy, is now offered to the sick in the form of a Lozenge.

DR. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S

is the most important medicinal novelty that modern chemistry has produced. It contains two botanical extracts, perfectly harmless in themselves, but embodying all the remedial properties of mercury, and destined in this pleasant form to supersede and banish from general use, the nauseous pills and portions of which that dangerous excitant is the main ingredient. More than were made by the inventor of this peerless remedy before he was brought to its present state of perfection. The Lozenge is harmless in its operation, and altogether the medicinal taste of its curative components has been extinguished by chemical art, their virtues remain as active and potent as ever.

One thousand experiments

In Dyspepsia, Biliousness Constipation, Sick or Nervous Headache, Piles, Dropsy, and the irregularities to which the feebler sex are subject, the Lozenge will be found infinitely more effective than any of the horrible and disgusting compounds usually administered in such cases. As an antibilious specific and general aperient, they have no equal either among advertised preparations or the prescriptions of the regular pharmacopœia.

☞ It is guaranteed that no one who has once tried Dr. Erasmus Winslow's Liver and Stomach Lozenge, will ever again take a purgative powder, or draught or pill.

Who are so often afflicted with throat diseases, will find a sure remedy in this Balsam. Lozenges and wafers sometimes give relief, but this Balsam, taken a few times, will insure a permanent cure.

Will all those afflicted with Coughs or Consumption, give this Balsam a fair trial, they will be pleased with the result, and confess that the sure remedy is found at last.

CONSUMPTION.

DR. SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP for the cure of Coughs, Colds and Consumption.

DR. SCHENCK'S SEAWEED TONIC for the cure of Dyspepsia and all the Debilitated Conditions of the Stomach.

DR. SCHENCK'S MANDRAKE PILLS for Diseases of the Liver, or to act as a gentle Purgative.

All of these three medicines are often required in curing Consumption, though the Pulmonic Syrup alone has cured many desperate cases. The Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills assist in regulating the Stomach and Liver, and help the Pulmonic Syrup to digest and search through the blood vessels, by which means a cure is soon effected.

These medicines are conscientiously offered to the public as the only safe, certain and reliable remedies for Pulmonary Consumption, and for all those morbid conditions of the body which lead to that fatal disease. Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia are often forerunners of Consumption, and when they manifest themselves they require the most prompt attention.

The Pulmonic Syrup is a medicine which has had a long probation before the public. Its value has been through a period of more than thirty-five years, in all of which time its reputation has constantly increased, and the most obstinate skepticism can no longer doubt that it is a remedy which may be used with confidence in all cases which admit of a cure.

If the patient will perseveringly follow the directions which accompany each bottle, he will certainly be cured, if the lungs are not too much wasted to make a cure possible. Even in cases supposed to be incurable, when friends and physicians have given up the case as hopeless, this medicine has saved the life of the patient, and restored him to perfect health.

Dr. Schenck himself was cured in precisely such circumstances, and many others have been equally fortunate by judiciously making a timely use of Dr. Schenck's remedies.

Dr. Schenck does not say that all cases of Pulmonary Consumption are within the reach of medicine. But he emphatically does say, that even when patients have the most alarming symptoms, such as a violent cough, creeping chills, night sweats, and general debility, even to such a degree that they are obliged to lie in bed, and when they are given up by their physicians, they may still be cured. No medical treatment can create new lungs, but when the lungs are very badly diseased, and to some extent destroyed, a cure may be effected by Dr. Schenck's medicines.

Also in Scrofulous disease these medicines are equally efficient. Dr. Schenck has photographs of a number of persons who have been nearly covered with running sores, and now all healed up. This shows its purifying properties, which must be done to heal cavities in the lungs.

In the treatment of Consumption, it is of the utmost importance to give the patient a healthy tone in the system. Hence it is necessary to strengthen the appetite of the patient and improve the digestion. The Seaweed Tonic is required, together with such means as will make the food easily digestible. The articles most suitable for the diet of consumptive patients are designated in Dr. Schenck's Almanacs, which are distributed gratuitously. In general, the most nutritious articles are to be preferred; but the digestive organs must be strengthened in order to make either food or medicine serviceable. This requirement is met by the Seaweed Tonic, and for this purpose it was designed.

When the digestive powers are put in good order, the food has its proper effect, the system of the patient is invigorated, and the lungs begin to exercise their functions in a normal and healthy manner. Then the healing powers of the Pulmonic Syrup will complete the cure.

Pulmonary Consumption is almost always complicated with Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint. Schenck's Mandrake Pills are intended to remove obstructions from the liver and restore its healthy action. They have all the efficacy which is ascribed to calomel or "blue mass," and are warranted not to contain a particle of any mineral poison. These pills cure the most obstinate costiveness, sick headache, piles, bilious affections, and all other diseases which arise from a torpid or obstructed condition of the liver. One box of these pills will prove the efficacy of the medicine.

In Consumption, the Sea Weed Tonic and Mandrake Pills are invaluable auxiliary medicines. They relieve the sufferings of the patient and assist the Pulmonic Syrup in effecting a cure. They have been found useful in advanced stages of Consumption, where the lungs were almost entirely destroyed, and all symptoms, according to the judgement of physicians, indicated speedy death. Lives of patients who were actually in a dying condition have been preserved for months by the use of Schenck's three great remedies.

DR. SCHENCK'S Almanac, containing a full treatise on the various forms of disease, his mode of treatment, and general directions how to use his medicines, can be had gratis or sent by mail by addressing his Principal Office, No. 15 North Sixth Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

☞ Dress warm.

☞ How about that quartz crusher.

☞ Portsmouth has two elections next month—9th and 23d.

☞ Batton & Co. are selling apple parers cheap. Corn parers ditto.

☞ J. E. Ham & Co. claim to have the finest assortment of winter goods for clothing, in the city.

☞ Meeting of the Piscataqua Agricultural Society, at the National Hotel, Saturday Evening, Oct. 23, at 7½ o'clock.

☞ All talk about any combinations in trade in this city, are as supremely ridiculous as the blowing about rings in politics here, especially of the Republican persuasion.

ROCKINGHAM TEN CENTS SAVINGS BANK.—We are gratified to learn that this young but flourishing corporation, has purchased the brick store No. 29 Market Street, which is to be fitted at once for occupancy by the Bank and for other purposes.

☞ The S. J. Court, on Wednesday morning, adjourned to Friday morning. without trying any case. The Grand Jury had not brought in their list of indictments. Judge Bellows in his charge referred to the illegal bribery of voters, not jurors.

☞ Messrs. Reuben and William Wiley, the sub-marine divers, have been making explorations in the river of late. On Tuesday they were operating for the Government in the lower Harbor, and they went down to the depth of 85 feet. They recovered an anchor and chain of considerable value.

☞ We understand that Charles Main, Esq., who has recently returned from San Francisco, intends to erect a splendid and costly mansion on his grounds on Lafayette Road. The proposed location in that oak grove is beautiful, and we hope friend Main will construct such a residence as he has been for some time contemplating.

☞ Hon. John Lynch telegraphs to William H. Hackett, that "the Congressional committee on American Navigation interest will meet at Portland on Thursday next; they would be pleased to see any of the Ship Builders of your city that can come before them." We hope the Piscataqua River will be represented on that occasion.

☞ We have been asked once or twice, what we have against a certain job printer who was alluded to in the Board of Aldermen last week? Nothing in the world—not the least spite, envy or jealousy, against him or any other man; and never had, for a moment. We spoke and wrote but to point a moral,—which we have made evident to a great many, at any rate; and if the duty of a public journalist leads him across the path of personal friends even, unworthy must he be of the position should he swerve for that cause.

As to competitors in business,—those who sign agreements and habitually break them, are not worthy of so much consideration, for that cause, are they? Our offence had this extent, no more, that we were desirous to put none but true Republicans on guard. If in urging this, we rapped any undeservedly hard, we are to blame, not they. Beyond this the blowing of another sort of people, of course any gentleman passes by as the idle wind we heed not. F.

NAVY YARD MATTERS.—Commander William G. Temple is relieved from the charge of the Ordnance Department and ordered to duty as a member of a permanent Ordnance Board.

Assistant Paymaster Stephen Rand, lately appointed, is ordered to duty at the yard.

Assistant Surgeon William A. Corwin is detached from the Charlestown Navy Yard and ordered to the U. S. S. Benicia now fitting out at this yard.

U. S. Steamer Monongahela arrived Wednesday morning in tow of U. S. S. Tug Leyden.

Mr. G. H. Rheutan of Manchester has been appointed Master Boiler Maker at the Yard, vice James Norton removed. Mr. Rheutan has been prominently connected with Blood's Boiler Shop in Manchester and is not only a practical workman but a popular gentleman. He will assume the duties in a few days.

The favorite steamer Emerald, which has been hauled up for several weeks, has been most thoroughly repaired and commenced running to the Navy Yard Wednesday morning.

John Loenthall, Esq., Chief of the Bureau of Construction and Repair, at Washington, and B. F. Delano, Naval Constructor attached to the Brooklyn Navy Yard, visited the Yard on Wednesday, and were the guests of Naval Constructor Samuel M. Pook.

Correspondence of Chronicle and Gazette.

PORTLAND, ME., Oct. 19.

This city will have the coming season a fine series of lectures and entertainments. In a place of this size and with the larger number of young men, especially since the fire, nothing is so beneficial to the progress of society as well selected winter amusements. We do not speak in the interest of anyone but simply as an advantage to the community. The Mercantile Library Association under the enterprising management of President H. F. Furbush and associate officers is growing and prospering finely. Their Course opens Nov. 1st with Adelaide Phillips and others, under the conductorship of Kotzschmar. Following this will come George Vandenhoff, Gough, Curtis, Robert S. Collier. William Parsons, (the eloquent Irish Orator) and others.

The G. A. R.'s will not present a course but cater with single entertainments. Last evening they opened with Charles Summer, who delivered his able and eloquent lecture on "Caste." Mr. Sumner is suffering from a severe cold and was not therefore in good voice, but the effort was one of his best and notwithstanding criticisms, was more of a general character in its class allusions than especially negrophobic. Maggie Mitchell comes here on the 20th and 21st—a rich treat.

The sexton of the First Parish Church, David Stillings, has occupied that position for 20 years and has been married 35 years. The ladies of the Society, Saturday evening, presented him with a Silver service—a deserved testimonial to a worthy man—one of Portland's veterans. The Aged Brotherhood meet on the 20th to perfect an organization.

Godey's Lady's Book for November, has The Two Friends, a Steel Plate, Six Figure Colored Fashion-Plate; Tinted Plate, and a Colored Plate of Fancy Work. A great variety of useful designs for fancy work are given in the work department. A capital story appears in this number, written by Mrs. Hopkinson, entiled "Scenes connected with the Life of a Weak Man."

—The following anecdote of Profs. Adams and Shurtleff was related, and received with hearty relish in the Alumni, at the late Dartmouth Centennial: Prof. Shurtleff was obliged to be very careful about going out without his hat, lest he should take cold; and Prof. Adams was obliged to be equally careful about wetting his feet, for the same reason. "It seems," said Prof. A. to Prof. S. one day, "that your head, and my feet, are our weakest parts." "Our most sensible parts, would be the way I should phrase it," was Prof. Shurtleff's quick and happy retort.—Recorder.

AFRAID OF THE NEWSPAPERS.—The subordinates of a prominent Government official report that he exhibits a most remarkable anxiety and nervousness as to what papers may say of him. They look upon the press as a sure barometer every morning for indicating whether their superior is going to be pleasant and affable or morose and sullen during the day. One has simply to be at peace with his own conscience to insure complete immunity from all fears as to what papers may say of him. N. Y. Commercial Advertiser.

☞ The New Hampshire Gazette for this week, is now ready for delivery at the Chronicle office. Price 5 cts. per copy—$2. per year. Contains all the Local and other reading from the Daily Chronicle.

A PACIFIC RAILWAY

GOLD LOAN $6,500,000.

We beg leave to announce that we have accepted the agency of the KANSAS PACIFIC RAILWAY COMPANY, For the sale of its NEW SEVEN PER CENT. Thirty Year Gold Loan, Free from Tax.

This Loan amounts to $6,500,000.

First Mortgage Land-Grant and Sinking Fund Bonds,

secured upon the extension of the Railway from near Sheridan, in Kansas, to Denver, Colorado, a distance of 237 miles of which 12 miles are completed and the rest is under construction. It is also a Mortgage upon the Road, the Rolling Stock and Franchise of this first-class Railway, besides now running through the State of Kansas,

And in successful operation for 437 miles

west of the Missouri River, and earning already enough to meet all of its expenses and existing obligations, besides MORE THAN THE INTEREST UPON THIS NEW LOAN. In addition to this the Bonds are also secured by a first mortgage of the GOVERNMENT LAND GRANT OF THREE MILLION ACRES,

extending in alternate sections on either side of the track, from the 394th mile post in Kansas to Denver. The proceeds of the sale of these lands are to be invested by the Trustees in the 7 per cent Bonds, themselves up to 120 in U. S. Bonds, as A SINKING FUND FOR THE REDEMPTION OF THE BONDS.

The Lands embrace some of the finest portions of the magnificent Territory of Colorado, including a coal field and pinery. The company also holds as an asset another tract of Three Millions of Acres in the State of Kansas, and although not pledged as a security for this Loan, their possession adds largely to the Company's wealth and credit. We estimate the Value of the Company's property, covered by this mortgage at $23,000,000 net, while the Loan is merely $6,500,000.

The Bonds have THIRTY YEARS TO RUN, from May 1, 1869, and will pay SEVEN PER CENT. INTEREST IN GOLD, semi-annually, on May 1 and Nov. 1, and are FREE FROM GOVERNMENT TAXATION, the Company paying the tax.

The principal of the Loan is made payable in Gold, in the City of New York, but each coupon will be PAYABLE IN FRANKFORT, LONDON OR N. YORK at option of the holder, with notice, at the following rates:

On $1,000 Bond in N. Y. $35 (gold) each half year.
" " London....£7 8s. 10. "
" " Frankfort..87 fr. 30 krtrs., "

The Agents of the Loan, before accepting the trust had the condition of the Road, and the country through which it runs, carefully examined. They are happy to give the Loan an emphatic endorsement as a FIRST CLASS INVESTMENT, in every respect perfectly sure, and in some essential even Better than Government Securities.

The Bonds will be sold for the present at 96, and accrued Interest, both in Currency, the Agents reserving the right to advance the rate.

The attention of investors is in vited to these well-secured bonds, which we recommend as one of the most profitable investments in the market.

Gold and Government Securities taken in payment at their market value, without commission.

Pamphlets, with maps giving full information, sent on application.

ADAMS, HALE, HAWTHORNE, MURRAY. I have arranged alphabetically four names that are closely associated with Boston. William F. Adams has, unwisely it seems to me, chosen to be known as "Oliver Optic." Best known, to boys, of the four, I confess I should have known little more of him than the mere fact that he was the boys' favorite, had I not wanted his name to complete this quartette. I asked Lee & Shepard for a specimen, and got, not a brick, but an entire edifice,—a series of five large 16mo volumes entitled Young America Abroad.—Massachusetts has two school-ships, where the more unmanageable of her youth learn subordination, navigation, and the other arions that she means to teach her better children in public schools. Mr. Adams has comprehended the peculiar advantages of this institution, and conceives that a similar liberal provision might be made for the children of wealthy parents, who could secure the benefits without the intervention of a criminal court, and even without any fault on the part of the pupil. So he builds an air-castle floating on water, Hibernically speaking. In Outward Bound he keeps the "Young America," of 400 tons, three months in a harbor on Massachusett Bay, with eighty-seven boys and two instructors, besides principal, chaplain, surgeon, carpenter, and one old salt. Then they cross the ocean. The Shamrock and Thistle follows them over well-chosen portions of Ireland and Scotland. The Red Cross is devoted to England; Dikes and Ditches, to Belgium and Holland; and Palace and Cottage, to France and Switzerland. The views of Europe are well-selected and faithfully delineated. The narrative is spiced with adventure to suit a boy's appetite, but not so much so as to prevent a well-read adult from taking the whole dose, first and last; as has also done a nine-year-old girl. The chief defect is the want of maps and nautical diagrams. If in the place of the twenty or thirty "illustrations" which do not illustrate, twice the number of the much-needed illustrations were given, a very valuable series of books would be greatly improved.

The Ingham Papers of Rev. Edward Everett Hale, is a collection of pieces that have adorned the Atlantic Monthly and the beautiful Atlantic Almanacs for 1868 and 9. For audacity of plot, commend me to the Hale. Two Boston livery-men unbesitatingly start "round the world in a hack" with their respective fares, husband and wife, a few hours apart, but in opposite directions. They meet, not at the antipodes of Boston, nor at the antischii, but at the other folks, which I say ought to be antoci; but the dictionaries say they are not, because antoci and antischii are the same, while the fellows 180 degrees from us due east or west are no relations to us at all. "The rag-man," who lives in elegant style and elegant leisure on the avails of occasional, leisurely rag-picking, is a match for the wonderful hack-rides. The other pieces were written when Mr. Hale was more sober.

The Scarlet Letter of Nathaniel Hawthorne has long been a wonder to me. When it was fresh to the world, I read it and admired it. Neither Faust nor Hamlet have ever come so well up to my idea of powerful writing. Sobered by all these years, I have carefully reread it to find my mistake, and I cannot. Will some one who knows tell us why it does not rank high among the classic fiction of our language? Who else could have told that story of guilt, remorse and triumphant repentance as Hawthorne did? No one thing of Dickens or Scott do I prize as I do this.

Adventures in the Adirondacks amazes me 7et more. Rev. W. H. H. Murray, Dr. Stone's successor at Park St., Boston, spent his vacation of 1868 in the wilds of New York. All the wonderful, tough stories which the guides ever told him he has transcribed; and, by a whim that seems to me allied to insanity, he has ridiculed "Mr. Murray" in them all. "What would my wife say? What would my deacons say?" he asks, p. 118. I cannot tell. I know better what the guides say, as they half-recognize their own stories. But they are so glorified by the celestial touch of the talented alchemist which turns the lead to gold,—that, like Hale's probable stories, we feel as if they ought to be true. You have given a specimen; the grip with which Mr. Murray held a deer by his hind leg with a lighted lantern in his head! If your readers can not enjoy that without believing it, let them beware of the Arabian Nights. In them two are somethings now to believe—"Ask John!"

LOCAL PAPERS.—An exchange aptly and truthfully says of local papers, they enhance the value of property; they call attention to locality! they benefit particularly merchants and real estate owners thrice the amount yearly they pay for there support. There is nothing that would do a town more harm than to be without a newspaper. You need not think that the publisher of a paper can run it for your benefit and pay the expenses out of his own pocket. Give your home paper a good advertising patronage and a respectable list, and you will have such a paper as you wish.

CHARACTER WHITEWASHING.—Employing A. J. Shorey to lime-paint the jail fence at Concord. We wonder when he will get through?

A SONG.

BY W. HUNT TILFORD.

I sing this song to one who makes
A pleasantness of duty;
Whose worth is shrined within her heart,
As well as in her beauty.
So fill the glass, let's toast the lass,
With hearts and bumpers brimmin',
Nor can it be a sin for me
To name her best of women!

The sparkle of the crystal wine
Shall be her bright eyes shining;
The garlands round the beaker's brim
Shall be her ringlets twining;
And so we'll claim a golden name
From every charm about her;
For angels know that here below
We could not live without her.

I sing this song to one near whom
The angels seem to hover,
The paragon of loveliness,
With naught in life above her;
And now she's found, all gather'd round
The bowl with good cheer brimmin',
Let's fill the glass and toast the lass—
The dearest one is women!

A Dull Clerk.

Pickernel, a successful dry goods merchant of Boston, was waited upon at his hotel by a gentleman-farmer, who was desirous of getting a boy, for whom he was guardian, a "place" in Boston; —of course he was an uncommon smart boy, quick at figures, strong of intuition, and one every way fit, as he should "judge," to become a merchant- Pickernel thought it over, and said he would try and make a place for him. In due time the boy arrived at Pickernel's store, his broad face ruddy with health, and soapy from the morning wash, his clothes new and uncomfortable, and a stiff dickey cutting his ears. He announced himself as the boy, &c.

"Ah, you are the boy are you?" said Pickernel.

"Yes, I 'spose so," replied youngster.

"Well, come in here, then; I am very busy, but I will examine you in a few practical questions."

The boy came in, and sitting down on the desk swung his heels underneath it as though he felt entirely at home, waiting the questions.

"Well, said Pickernel, "suppose a lady should come in here and buy a dress of fifteen and a half yards of calico for eleven and a half cents a yard, what would it come to?"

The boy looked at his questioner, at the ceiling, at the floor, in a state of great bewilderment.

"How much calikee?" he asked.

"Fifteen and a half yards."

"What price?"

"Eleven and a half cents."

He thought a moment.

"Well," said he, "I'm darned if b'lieve any woman ever wanted so much cloth for a dress as that."

This was throwing up the sponge, and Pickernel put another question.

"How much would five and a half pounds of tea come to at seventy-five cents and three-quarters per pound?"

He received this pretty much the same, as the other, and after waiting a minute he asked:

"Was it green or black?"

Without answering, Pickernel put another question:

"Suppose I should send you out with a two-dollar bill, and you should buy fourteen and a half pounds of beef at seven and a half cents a pound, how much money would you have left?"

The boy looked at him for an instant, and then indulged in a low whistle.

"You don't s'pose," said he, "you could get beef anywhere at seven and a half cents a pound, do ye?"

Pickernel gave up at this. He asked him no more questions, — but sent him back next day with a letter stating that he didn't think he would answer.

— FALL PASTURING MILCH COWS.—Every good dairyman knows that fall feed from pastures is poor stuff, after being frosted, for making milk and butter from; yet a great many will keep their cows on such pasture till late in the season, perhaps giving them a feed of hay, pumpkins or the like, once a day.

A better way, and one which will keep the cows giving good rich milk that will make nice, yellow June butter, is to sow a piece of rye in August or early in September, especially for pasturing the milch cows on in late fall.

Prepare the ground by thorough ploughing, and spread on six or eight loads of good fine compost or its equivalent, harrow it in well, sowing in one bushel to one and a half of seed; and after a few weeks you will have a nice pasture, which will hold fresh and green till snow blows, unless fed too close; and next spring you will have a fair crop to turn under to enrich your land and grow a good crop of any kind of corn, potatoes, &c.

Such a patch will furnish a bite for calves or sheep during winter if needed, when the ground is bare of snow, and if not fed too close it will give a fair yield of grain next summer, if desired. —Country Gentleman.

DODD'S NERVINE ONCE MORE.
THE STANDARD REMEDY for biliousness with the medical profession is the Anti-Bilious Pill of the American Pharmacopœia. And its reputation has been well enough deserved. But it is a Pill, nevertheless, and most people of sensibility feel something about as big as a meeting house coming into their throat whenever a pill is spoken of. DODD'S NERVINE AND INVIGORATOR acts efficiently on the biliary organism; it irritates neither stomach nor intestine in all its operation; and what is VERY IMPORTANT, as all good nurses know, it is MOST AGREEABLE TO TAKE, being as pleasant to the palate as any delicate wine. We all know how it is with Cod Liver Oil. In a pure state it is excellent for certain conditions of debility, and particularly in tendencies to Consumption; and yet many of the best physicians decline to prescribe it, because it so dreadfully sickens the patient. That, they say, makes it do more harm than good. With Dodd's Nervine all this becomes obstacle. For sale by all Druggists. Price $1. o21 4w

WHAT ARE
DR. J. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA Vinegar Bitters.
THEY ARE NOT A VILE FANCY DRINK, Made of Rot Rum, Whiskey, Proof Spirits, and refuse Liquors, doctored, spiced, and sweetened to please the taste, called "Tonics," "Appetisers" "Restorers," &c., that lead the tippler on to drunkenness and ruin, but are a true Medicine, made from the Native Roots and Herbs of California, free from all Alcoholic Stimulants. They are the GREAT BLOOD-PURIFIER and LIFE-GIVING PRINCIPLE, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the system, carrying off all poisonous matter, and restoring the blood to a healthy condition. No person can take these Bitters according to directions and remain long unwell. $100 will be given for an incurable case, provided the bones are not destroyed by mineral poisons or other means, the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair.
FOR INFLAMMATORY AND CHRONIC RHEUMATISM, AND GOUT, DYSPEPSIA, or INDIGESTION, BILLIOUS, REMITTENT, and INTERMITTENT FEVERS, DISEASES OF THE BLOOD, LIVER, KIDNEYS, and BLADDER, these BITTERS have been most successful. SUCH DISEASES are caused by VITIATED BLOOD, which is generally produced by derangement of the DIGESTIVE ORGANS.
Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins, cleanse it when it is foul, and your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood healthy, and all will be well.
These Bitters are not a gilded pill, to delight the eye or please the fancy, but a medical preparation, composed of the best vegetable ingredients known.
They are Alterative, Tonic, Diuretic, Sedative, Diaphoretic, and Gentle Purgative.
"The Life of all Flesh is the Blood thereof."—Purify the blood and the health of the whole system will follow.

GREAT SUN-SUN CHOP. 12w

"Ingenio Stat Sine Morte Decus."
ROCKY MOUNTAIN BITTERS
IS a very superior Regulating Tonic, imparting vigor and strength to the constitution—a thoro'
PURIFIER OF THE BLOOD,
a regulator of nervous force, and a powerful sustainer of health against the encroachments of disease.
The invalid and convalescing seeking restoration, and yearning for the healing virtues of some magic balm, will find in these Bitters a hidden mysterious power, which QUIETLY RESTORES, yet resolves to reveal to the senses anything but taste and color.
It is a pleasant Bitter, free from all nauseous properties odor, entirely vegetable, being mainly grown at the base of the mountains from which they derive their name, and is particularly adapted to all forms of
DYSPEPSIA OR INDIGESTION,
manifesting themselves by the following symptoms: headache, nervousness, loss of memory, low spirits, giddiness, dimness of sight, dullness of hearing, and ringing noises in the ears, eructations, of belching of wind, tightness of breathing, weight and oppression of the chest, uneasy feeling about the heart, palpitation, &c.
Also for Liver Diseases, Disorders of the Kidneys, Restlessness and loss of Muscular Power, these Bitters will be found almost a specific; and as a preventative of
FEVER AND AGUE
or a restorer of the natural powers of the system, when broken down by continued ague attacks; it has no equal.
Being stimulating, (but not intoxicating), they tend and invigorate both mind and body, heighten the sensibility, clear and sharpen the faculties, and bestow alacrity and cheerfulness of spirit.
CAUTION.—There have been, and still are several parties manufacturing and selling so-called "Langley's Bitters," many of which are worthless. As a guide against such, I would say that in 1866, I secured my copy-right, in the United States Court, a trade mark and name. "Rocky Mountain Bitters," and all Bitters of my manufacture are put up in dark, long neck, quart bottles with red label printed with gold; also, direction label, bearing my seal and directions printed in red, with a red cap and my seal printed in gold, over the cork. Beware of all others, and ask for "Rocky Mountain Bitters."

FRIDAY, OCT. 22, 1869.

TENNESSEE ELECTION.—Johnson is not yet elected, and his chance grows "small by degrees and beautifully less." On the last ballot he had 41 votes, a falling off of two from the previous ballot,—54 being necessary to a choice.

☞ Dates from Porto Rico announce that on the 27th ult., after seventy hours of heavy and continuous rain, the river Niguas, rose rapidly. Three houses were destroyed and carried off by the flood, and a church nearly taken from its foundations.

☞ The Brighton and Cambridge markets were crowded to excess, the receipts during the week ending Wednesday amounting to 5200 cattle, 18,778 sheep and over 7000 hogs. Cattle are sold as low this week as they were "before the flood," and sheep lower than last week. Hogs, on the contrary, as ever, are rather higher.

☞ A great fire at Cincinnati, Wednesday afternoon, destroyed the College building, containing Lane's College, the Young Men's Mercantile Library, Chamber of Commerce and a number of stores and officers. Total loss $75,000. —A fireman, Captain Matt. Schwabe, of the Phœnix Hook and Ladder Company, was killed.

☞ At the Massachusetts Universalist Convention in Lynn, Oct. 20, Rev. Mr. Vibbert moved the adoption of a resolution in favor of the "Prohibitory Law," which elicited a strong and excited discussion, and was adopted by a nearly unanimous vote.—Rev. Mr. Powers of Malden alone opposing the resolution.

☞ A party of mountaineers discovered some days ago in the southwestern part of Colorado, between the Opal fork of the Rio Grande and the Saquachie, the bones of six men and forty-six horses, supposed to be the remains of the party lost from General Fremont's exploring expedition, of whom nothing has been heard since they started out, twenty-six years ago.

☞ The elements seem to be doing their most for upper New Hampshire. The Walpole and Westminister bridge across the Connecticut river, or two-thirds of it, was carried away Wednesday night. About two-thirds of this bridge and one pier were rebuilt a year ago. The old pier, which had stood firm for thirty-eight years, appears to have crumbled and allowed the bridge to fall. The cost of rebuilding will amount to eight or nine thousand dollars.

☞ The London despatches state that Lord Derby is sinking slowly. The Times insists that the Emperor Napoleon must entirely reorganize his cabinet. Gen. Prim has thanked the Army and the Volunteers for their aid in suppressing the insurrections. A republican leader, Salvorcha, has been killed in battle, and two criminal insurgents have been executed at Madrid. The journeymen gilders of Paris and the bookbinders of Lyons are on a strike. An insurrection has broken out in Dalmatia. The Empress Eugenie sailed from Constantinople for Egypt.

THE LACONIA POISONING CASE.—The trial of Isabella, wife of George B. Farrar of Laconia, for an attempt to poison her husband, terminated on Saturday by a failure of the jury to agree. The case had been on trial eleven days. It is understood that the jury stood nine for conviction and three for acquital. Mrs. Farrar herself relates the case, being allowed to do so by an act of the recent Legislature which permits respondents in criminal cases to testify in their own behalf.

Mrs. Farrar is a woman of twenty-five years, of fine appearance, but not over-strong mind. She is very susceptible and fond of masculine attention and admiration. Her husband is twenty years her senior and broken down in health. Dr. Foster, who is at the bottom of the whole fuss, was the medical attendant of the family. By various acts of attention, he got on the weak side of Mrs. F.,—abused her confidence, and accomplished her ruin. When Mr. F. became an obstacle to the continuance of the amour, he directed Mrs. F. to purchase cyanide of potassium at a certain place, representing it to Mrs. F. as a harmless medicine.—He richly deserves the severest punishment the law can inflict; and should be driven from practice, and hunted from all decent society.

☞ On Tuesday morning, at Chicago, a fire on State street destroyed property to the value of $35,000; insured for $15,000 in local companies.

BOOK-KEEPING.—I have always held that by the time a man has arrived at the age of forty years, he should have decided on what course in life to pursue. Agreeably to this idea, I have for some months been trying to decide on what my future occupation shall be. I played at going to sea for some dozen years or so, at farming for five or six, and at pick-and-shovel performances for about three: now I have determined to have no more fooling, but to make a start in life by settling down to work. I want some occupation in which I can gain not merely wealth, but honor; and the only path I can see in which I can hope to secure both these ingredients of happiness is in the navy.

Yes. I have decided to enter the navy. I cannot go as an engineer, for I should certainly blow up the boiler, and inconvenience myself as well as others; I cannot go as a surgeon, for if I were to doctor a ship's company for one month, my commander wouldn't have a man left to order to duty from the sick-list, and might consider himself lucky if he didn't have the honor of officiating at his own funeral; I do not want to be a line officer, not wishing to join any ill-used, over-worked and under-paid class of men; so I must go as a paymaster. I suppose I shall have to start from the bottom of the steps, but I can afford to do that well enough; for, if I were but fully qualified to commence duty as a paymaster now, and could get permission from "the line" to enter the navy, and were to do so at once and remain there a very great while indeed, and should have the good fortune never to offend any line officer who honored me with illegal and degrading orders, I should be almost certain of ranking as a lieutenant about my seventy-third year. Such is the rapidity of promotion with which Government recognizes ability and integrity in the gentlemen whom I am anxious to join.

But unfortunately, I am not quite fitted for the position. I have been told that I ought to know something about book-keeping—but I don't. I never could keep those that belonged to me, let alone other people's. So I have commenced to study. Several young people—I'm one of 'em—got up a private class, secured a competent (and wondrously patient—good job for him,) teacher, and waded into the knowledge.

First, our teacher explained the method of opening a Journal on commencing business, the names applied to different kinds of notes, and various commercial technical terms; then he questioned his intelligent pupils. The first scholar addressed was engaged in building a rat-trap of wire gauze to keep our white mice in, (using the table for a bench,) and in keeping Mary Ann, a youthful female of the genus cat—I don't know the scientific name—from devouring them meanwhile. The question was put in this manner. "You had, when commencing business, $1000; what entry did you make regarding it?" "I didn't have any thousand dollars—hadn't more'n fifty." "Well, but suppose you had." "I can't suppose anything so totally at variance with fact—I'm a conscientious man, sir." "Oh! but this is merely illustrative. If you had had it, what would you have said?" "I would (here Mary Ann made a dab at the white mice)—confound the cat!" "Very good. I will now pass to the next. Suppose you owed $500, what would you do?"

The second scholar questioned—modesty forbids my designating him more particularly—was ready with his answer, of course. "I know-repudiate." "Well, yes; but repudiation is unfashionable, since the late elections in the West. What entry would you make? You'd want to know something about such a bill." "No I shouldn't, want to know anthing at all about it. Let 'tother man look out for that." At this moment a happy diversion in my favor took place. The head of the hammer which the mouse-trap man was using came off, and the teacher caught it with the lower button of his vest. He coughed, observed "that's correct," and I put the white mice, cage and all, on the mantel-peice. Our teacher then commenced to show us some examples, by writing them down, but Mary Ann made a sudden dive and caught the top of the pen, causing a piteous black mark to extend itself from one side of the page to the other. Then I banished Mary Ann to the floor.

Other questions were asked, and answered with like success to the previous ones, till it came to my turn a second time; but just as I was going to display what I had learned, Mary Ann, who had climbed to the mantel and tumbled the mouse-cage and herself off, stuck her claw in my cheek to prevent herself from going to the floor too fast, and the white mice at the same moment landed on top of my head. That finished the first lesson.

I have remembered that when I owe anybody anything, after I learn book-keeping, I shall pay with "bills receivable." I have concluded to pay my taxes in this manner; and if any one has any money to lend on such security, let him come on; I'll furnish "bills receivable" as long as his treasury holds out.

PAKEHA.

THE STATE CONSTABLE LAW.—By an Act of Legislature, which was printed in the Gazette of September 4th, it was made the duty of the Governor and Council to appoint a "Constable of the State"—if the legal voters on the 9th of November shall ratify the bill by a major vote, and thus make it a law.

The bill provides that the Constable shall be appointed for two years, with a salary of $1500 a year; and that he may appoint deputies, (not to exceed twenty,) who are to have $3 per day when on duty.

The constable and deputies are not, in this capacity, to serve any civil process; —but it is to be their special duty to see that the laws of the State are observed or enforced, (co-operating with sheriffs, solicitors, &c.,)—

"And they shall especially use their utmost endeavors to prevent and repress crime by the suppression of liquor shops, gambling places and houses of ill-fame; but it shall not be their duty to act in any case unless there shall be a failure, neglect or inability, on the part of the local authorities to enforce the laws of this state, or to cause persons violating any such laws to be prosecuted and punished."

The bill was passed in response to the petitions of many earnest and excellent temperance men and women, who were probably influenced somewhat, by the movements in Massachusetts and Maine, some months ago. But they wished for a positive law;—and since the legislature made the present conditional law, apathy has been the general condition of the State on this subject.

The result of the Hichborn, or Constable movement in Maine, has had some effect in this State; as it showed most of those men who have been active in enforcing the Maine law, to be satisfied that they needed no State Constable there, at present, however it might be in Massachusetts.

The bill, in this State, has been discussed somewhat, but not very extensively, in the papers. The Concord Patriot, (leading Democratic paper) publishes the bill, and says;—

We do not propose, now or at any time, to discuss this subject. We think the people of New Hampshire have decided views, generally, upon the matter, and have no doubt that, if they can be induced to vote upon the question, the act will be rejected by an overwhelming majority. We ask our readers to give act a careful perusal. They will see that it creates twenty new offices, which are believed to be totally unnecessary for the enforcement of the laws.—This alone is a sufficient reason for its rejection. We hope every voter will be at the polls on the 9th of November and express his views upon the subject.

The above seems to be a discussion, very brief, to be sure, but very decisive and positive, rejecting and condemning the bill, on economical grounds.

The hope expressed by the Patriot, that the people will come out with a full vote, is hardly an expectation. If one-quarter the democratic party should do so and vote as the Patriot advises, the bill would be defeated, unless some new interest should increase the probable vote in the affirmative. But it is not probable that ten per cent. of the democratic party will vote; and the prospect is, that the bill will become a law by a majority in a very small vote.

The people of the State have the matter in their own hands. A small body of earnest friends of temperance, wishing to do something for the cause, planned this measure, and will vote for it. A larger body of voters, not knowing how to vote, because they have no confidence in the measure, will not vote; and another body, larger than both the others, are indifferent to the subject.

☞ The Congressional Committee on American Navigation Interests, are expected to visit this city to-day, on their return from Portland. Ex-Gov. Goodwin, President of the P. S. and P. Railroad, has tendered them a special train over the road, and the Board of Trade have made arrangements for their reception.

Latest advices state that they would leave Portland for New Bedford on the evening train, where they will hold another meeting on Friday. They will then adjourn till within one week of the meeting of Congress, and will hold sessions at New York and Philadelphia.

The Great Vitalizer.
This title may be fairly given to a restorative which has taken precedence of all other tonic and alterative preparations for a period of nearly twenty years. During that long interval HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS may be truly said to have enjoyed unrivalled popularity. Many preparations have been got up to compete with it, but they have all fallen into its wake or sunk into oblivion for lack of patronage. From the first this now world-renowned Vegetable Tonic has been both medicinally and financially successful. Every year has added to the number of its friends and the demand for it, based solely upon the experimental proofs of its excellence as a preventive and curative, seems to have no assignable limit. The medical profession sanction and approve its use, and it is now at the head of the class of medicines to which it belongs, the admitted, undisputed SOVEREIGN TONIC OF THE AGE. The statistics of the United States Revenue department will verify the statement that it stands alone and unapproached in the magnitude of its sales as compared with those of any other proprietary remedy advertised on this side of the Atlantic.

The Explanation of this fact may be comprised in a few words, HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS is at once the purest, the safest and the most potent of all vegetable tonics, and the best antidote to every variety of malarious disease. Hence it is especially adapted to the present season of chilling dews and unwholesome vapors.

THE LATEST DISCOVERY
In Medication.
The great difficulty which physicians have been labouring for centuries to overcome, has at length been obviated. A vegetable Cathartic and alterative more efficient than any mineral preparation of the same class, and as agreeable to the taste as ordinary candy, is now offered to the sick in the form of a Lozenge.
DR. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S
LIVER AND STOMACH LOZENGE
is the most important medicinal novelty that modern chemistry has produced. It contains two botanical extracts, perfectly harmless in themselves, but embodying all the remedial properties of mercury, and destined in this pleasant form to supersede and banish from general use, the nauseous pills and portions of which that dangerous excitant is the main ingredient. More than
One thousand experiments
were made by the inventor before a remedy perfected before it was brought to its present state of perfection. The Lozenge is harmless in its operation, and altogether the medicinal virtues of its curative components has been extinguished by chemical art, their virtues remain as active and potent as ever.
In Dyspepsia, Biliousness Constipation, Sick or Nervous Headache, Piles, Dropsy, and the irregularities to which the female sex are subject, the Lozenge will be found infinitly more effective than any of the horrible and disgusting compounds usually administered in such cases. As an antibilious specific and general aperient, they have no equal either among advertised preparations or the prescriptions of the regular pharmacopœia.
☞ It is guaranteed that no one who has once tried DR. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S Liver and Stomach Lozenge, will ever again take a purgative powder, or drugged pill.

Ministers and Public Speakers
Who are so often afflicted with throat diseases, will find a sure remedy in this Balsam. Lozenges and wafers sometimes give relief, but this Balsam, taken a few times, will insure a permanent cure.
Will all those afflicted with Coughs or Consumption, give this Balsam a fair trial, they will be pleased with the result, and confess that the sure remedy is found at last.

CONSUMPTION.
DR. SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP for the cure of Coughs, Colds and Consumption.
DR. SCHENCK'S SEAWEED TONIC for the cure of Dyspepsia and all the Debilitated Conditions of the Stomach.
DR. SCHENCK'S MANDRAKE PILLS for Diseases of the Liver, or to act as a gentle Purgative.
All of these three medicines are often required in curing Consumption, though the Pulmonic Syrup alone has cured many desperate cases. The Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills assist in regulating the Stomach and Liver, and help the Pulmonic Syrup to digest and search through the blood vessels, by which means a cure is soon effected.
These medicines are conscientiously offered to the public as the only safe, certain and reliable remedies for Pulmonary Consumption, and for all those morbid conditions of the body which lead to that fatal disease. Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia are often forerunners of Consumption, and when they manifest themselves they require the most prompt attention.
The Pulmonic Syrup is a medicine which has had a long probation before the public. Its value has been brought a period of more than thirty-five years, in all of which time its reputation has constantly increased, and the most obstinate skepticism can no longer doubt that it is a remedy which may be used with confidence in all cases which admit of a cure.
If the patient will perseveringly follow the directions which accompany each bottle, he will certainly be cured, if his lungs are not too much wasted to make a cure possible. Even in cases supposed to be incurable, when friends and physicians have despaired, the use of the medicine has saved the life of the patient, and restored him to perfect health.
Dr. Schenck himself was cured in precisely such circumstances, and many others have been equally fortunate by judiciously making a timely use of Dr. Schenck's remedies.
Dr. Schenck does not say that all cases of Pulmonary Consumption are within the reach of medicine, but he emphatically asserts, that often when patients have the most alarming symptoms, such as a violent cough, creeping chills, night sweats, and general debility, even to such a degree that they are obliged to lie in bed, and when they are given up by their physicians, they may still be cured. No medical treatment can create new lungs, but when the lungs are very badly diseased, and to some extent destroyed, a cure may be effected by Dr. Schenck's medicines.
Also in Scrofulous diseases these medicines are equally efficient. Dr. Schenck has photographs of a number of persons who have been nearly covered with running sores, some of whom he healed up. This shows its purifying properties, which must be done to heal cavities in the lungs.
In the treatment of Consumption, it is of the utmost importance to give vigor and a healthy tone in the system. Hence it is necessary to strengthen the appetite of the patient and improve the digestion. Proper nourishment is required, together with such means as will make the food easily digestible. The articles most suitable for the diet of consumptive patients are designated in Dr. Schenck's Almanacs, which are distributed gratuitously. In conjunction, the most nutritious articles are to be preferred; but the digestive organs must be strengthened in order to make the food or medicine appreciable. This requirement is met by the Sea Weed Tonic, and for this purpose it was designed.
When the digestive powers are put in good order, the food has its proper effect, the system of the patient is invigorated, and the lungs begin to exercise their functions in a normal and healthy manner. Then the healing virtues of the Pulmonic Syrup will complete the cure.
Pulmonary Consumption is almost always complicated with Dyspepsia or Liver Complaint, costiveness, sick headache, piles, billious affections, and all other diseases which arise from a torpid state of the digestive organs. The use of one box of these pills will prove the efficacy of the medicine.
In consumption, the Sea Weed Tonic and Mandrake Pills are invaluable auxiliary medicines. They relieve the sufferings of the patient and assist the Pulmonic Syrup in effecting a cure. They have been found useful in advanced stages of Consumption, where the lungs were almost entirely destroyed, and all symptoms, according to the judgement of physicians, indicated speedy death. Lives of patients who were actually in a dying condition have been preserved for months by the use of Schenck's three great remedies.
DR. SCHENCK'S Almanac, containing a full treatise on the various forms of disease, his mode of treatment and general directions how to use his medicine, can be had gratis or sent by mail by addressing his Principal Office, No. 15 North 6th Street, Philadelphia, Pa.
Price of the Pulmonic Syrup and Sea Weed Tonic, each, $1.50 per bottle, or $7.50 the half dozen; Mandrake Pills, 25 cents per box. For sale by all druggist and dealers.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

☞ Meeting of the Piscataqua Agricultural Society, at the National Hotel, Saturday Evening, Oct. 23, at 7½ o'clock.

☞ A cat, a dog and a monkey, romp and play together in the happy family manner, on a farm in Greenland.

BOARD OF TRADE. — The regular Monthly Meeting of the Portsmouth Board of Trade will be held at the Common Council Room, on Tuesday Evening Oct. 26th, at 7 o'clock.

☞ Messrs. W. H. Y. Hackett and A. R. Hatch, two of the leading members of the Rockingham Bar, were both prevented by sickness from attending at the opening of the term of Court in this city this week.

☞ There is no institution in the city more popular and approved by the people generally, than the Rockingham Ten Cents Savings Bank. And deservedly so—for its officers are all active business men, and have managed the new concern to the great mutual advantage of their depositors and the public.

☞ The S. J. Court opens again this morning, when business will probably commence. It takes some time to get the machinery in working order, the same as it does to get the horses off in a race—and it is about as idle and useless to attempt to hurry matters in the one case as the other. There was a very large attendance on the Grand Jury, which does not argue well for the morals of the County.

☞ Tuesday and Wednesday were cold nights—and the last rose (and even dahlia) went down before the hoar frost. Ice formed of considerable thickness, and fruit not gathered or protected, must have been injured. We have had a very pleasant Summer and Fall, and must now submit with as good grace as we may to the coming Winter. At Manchester there was a little spitting of snow.

NAVY YARD MATTERS. — Captain James Lewis of the U. S. Marine Corps has been promoted to the rank of Major. He is in command of the Marine Barracks at this Navy Yard.

The promotion of Major Lewis, advances Captain Philip R. Fendall (well known in this city) to 2d on the list of Captains—and 1st Lieut. Percival C. Pope (who is now Captain by Brevet) to nnmber three in the rank of First Lieutenants. Frederick A. Corrie, formerly of this city, will stand number two on the list of First Lieutenants.

☞ Mr. James Moses is fitting up the new quarters for the old Portsmouth Savings Bank, in good style. This staunch old corporation will occupy the northern half, while the First National Bank retain their accustomed room in the southern end, of the same building on Market Square, which the two have heretofore occupied jointly. The new arrangement leaves each rather circumscribed accommodations, and breaks up the cosy retiring room so long enjoyed by the Bank officers,—who well merited this small offset to their intelligent and successful discharge of their responsible duties.

☞ It is not safe to believe all you hear, good or bad, of any one. A prominent citizen who has always been understood as refusing to sell any real estate whatever—stated incidentally, to another, a day or two since, that he never had but two applications; and one of these he accepted, while the other was desired only on certain conditions, which were complied with as well in his hands as the otherwise proposed purchaser. People as well as things, are not always what they seem, or are taken to be; and many citizens who are generally considered as dead men, would be found far otherwise on closer acquaintance.

GOOD, SO.—Messrs. Came, the Carriage makers of these parts, have leased the premises of the Howard Benevolent Society on High Street, adjoining their present manufactory; and will use the same to enlarge their establishment. The dwelling on High Street is to be removed to another lot elsewhere for occupancy, and the other in the rear probably torn down; and in their place, a large building for the storage and sale of carriages, &c., will be erected forthwith, in time for the sleigh trade the coming season.

These two young men are doing more for Portsmouth, than many a man with his thousands locked up in bonds. Let all who can, not only wish them success, but see to it that they actually aid them all in their power. They are worthy of it in every respect, and we are glad they find such staunch friends and so good patronage as they have. Let us have more such.

☞ In the City Council, Thursday Evening, the sealed bids for Printing the City Book, were after much discussion in the Board of Aldermen, referred to the Com. on Printing, with power to act.

The Com. Council, (their first session for months,) voted to discontinue the extension of Summer Street—which proposal the Alderman laid on the table.

Correspondence of Chronicle and Gazette.

KITTERY, Oct 21.

Messrs. Editors:—I do not wish nor do I propose to be the oracle of Prof. Gardner, the "Soap Man;" but this much I do propose: inasmuch as your correspondent from York ("Videx") has seen proper to flatly and impertinently deny a statement in your paper of Sept. the 18th, and inasmuch as I gave you the item, I desire to state that my informant was a gentleman from York, who is better known throughout the state of Maine as a reliable and honorable man than I think "Videx" is in the town of York only. Your correspondent's letter has ear-marks which make it palpable to any discerning man of York, that whatever his opinion of Professor Gardner is, he has not placed-it as it is,—also that he is opposed to the dominant party of the United States.

Yours, AGAMENTICUS.

☞ The New Hampshire Gazette for this week, is now ready for delivery at the Chronicle office. Price 5 cts. per copy—$2. per year. Contains all the Local and other reading from the Daily Chronicle.

THE FLOOD.—A correspondent at North Conway informs us that one thousand or more shocks of corn were washed away by the late flood in that vicinity. The two covered bridges at Conway Corner and all the bridges in Lower Bartlett, save one, that at Goodrich's Falls, are gone. Report says that the people of Conway will ask for "state aid" to assist in building the above named bridges at Conway Corner. The great flood did an immense amount of damage in the valley of the Saco. The road through the White Mountain Notch is destroyed. Mr. Osgood, the North Conway stage proprietor, has paid the Notch a recent visit, and was astonished at the devastation which had been wrought by the rain. In some places where there had been earth sufficient to form a road, it has been taken completely away, and nothing left but impassable, bare, shelving rocks. Three coach-loads of travelers, the last of the summer guests, left North Conway last Monday morning, and reached Concord on Tuesday evening.—Wolfeboro' News.

☞ The Flying Scud, of New York, is supposed to be lost, with all hands.

—"It is well," as the man said who found himself where the bucket usually goes.

—Experience is one of the oldest and best of teachers, but her prices are ruinously high.

—Definition of pride by a four-year old: "Walking with a cane when you arn't lame."

—Dr. Abernethy used to tell his pupils that all human diseases sprang from two causes, stuffing and fretting.

A PACIFIC RAILWAY

GOLD LOAN $6,500,000.

We beg leave to announce that we have accepted the agency of the

KANSAS PACIFIC RAILWAY COMPANY,

For the sale of its

NEW SEVEN PER CENT.

Thirty Year Gold Loan,
Free from Tax.

This Loan amounts to $6,500,000.

First Mortgage Land-Grant and Sinking Fund Bonds,

secured upon the extension of the Railway from near Sheridan, in Kansas, to Denver, Colorado, a distance of 237 miles of which 12 miles are completed, and the rest is under construction. It is also a Mortgage upon the Road, the Rolling Stock and Franchise of this first-class Railway, besides now running through the State of Kansas,

And in successful operation for 437 miles

west of the Missouri River, and earning already enough to meet all of its expenses and existing obligations, besides MORE THAN THE INTEREST UPON THIS NEW LOAN. In addition to this the Bonds are also secured by a first mortgage of the

GOVERNMENT LAND GRANT OF THREE MILLION ACRES,

extending in alternate sections on either side of the track, from the 394th mile post in Kansas to Denver. The proceeds of the sale of these lands are to be invested by the Trustees in the 7 per cent Bonds, themselves up to 120 in U. S. Bonds, as

A SINKING FUND FOR THE REDEMPTION OF THE BONDS.

The Lands embrace some of the finest portions of the magnificent Territory of Colorado, including a coal field and pinery. The company also holds as an asset another tract of

Three Millions of Acres in the State of Kansas,

and although not pledged as a security for this Loan, their possession adds largely to the Company's wealth and credit. We estimate the

Value of the Company's property, covered by this mortgage at $23,000,000 net, while the Loan is merely $6,500,000.

The Bonds have

THIRTY YEARS TO RUN,

from May 1, 1869, and will pay

SEVEN PER CENT. INTEREST IN GOLD, semi-annually, on May 1 and Nov. 1, and are FREE FROM GOVERNMENT TAXATION, the Company paying the tax.

The principal of the Loan is made payable in Gold, in the City of New York, but each coupon will be

PAYABLE IN FRANKFORT, LONDON OR N. YORK at option of the holder, with notice, at the following rates:

On $1,000 Bond in N. Y. $35 (gold) each half year.
" " London....27 sts. 10. "
" " Frankfort..87 fir. 30 kritzs., "

The Agents of the Loan, before accepting the trust had the condition of the Road, and the country through which it runs, carefully examined. They are happy to give the Loan an emphatic endorsement as a

FIRST CLASS INVESTMENT,

in every respect perfectly sure, and in some essential even

Better than Government Securities.

The Bonds will be sold for the present at

96, and accrued Interest, both in Currency,

the Agents reserving the right to advance the rate.

The attention of investors is invited to these well-secured bonds, which we recommend as one of the most profitable investments in the market.

Gold and Government Securities taken in payment at their market value, without commission.

Pamphlets, with maps giving full information, sent on application.

LOVE'S PATRON SAINT.

'I wonder who my Valentine will be to-day?'

Little Ida Cornell sat near the parlor fire, her golden-brown curls hanging like a mist of sunshine round her girlish face—as pretty a young fairy of eleven summers as one need to see, on a bracing February morning.

'Your Valentine, Ida? What nonsense!' echoed her tall sister, who was arranging her own jet-black tresses before a mirror. 'Little girls shouldn't talk about such things.'

'Well,' retorted Ida, with a toss of her small, shapely head, 'I don't see why it's any worse for little girls to talk nonsense than it is for big girls; and I'm sure I heard you and Cousin Clara whispering together a full half hour this morning, when you thought I was asleep, about your Valentines.'

Jane Cornell laughed.

'Well, what did we say, Miss Eyes-and-ears?'

'Why, you said that the first unmarried gentleman you saw would be your Valentine; and Clara told you that Mr. St. Evers would be waiting outside the window for your first glances. I say, I've a great mind to run out and see Mr. St. Evers myself. I would like him for a Valentine, besides the pleasure of cutting my elder sister out!'

Ida started up with eyes brim full of dancing mischief, as the idea took possession of her mind, and ran into the hall, deftly eluding Jane's outstretched hand of detention. Suddenly she checked herself with a little surprised scream, and ran back into the parlor, hiding her flushed cheeks and eyes merry with mischief in the folds of her sister's dress.

'What is it now, you gypsy?' demanded Jane; 'was Mr. St. Evers there?'

Mr. St. Evers indeed! It was a milk-boy, Jane; only think of it, a common milk-boy, with great thick shoes and a fur cap down to his eyebrows, and red hands like cook's. Oh, Jenny, is he to be my Valentine?'

'There can be no doubt of it,' gravely asserted the elder sister; 'the first unmarried gentleman.'

'But he isn't a gentleman, Jane; the idea of it!' and the little aristocrat elevated her exquisitely chiseled nose. 'He is nothing but a milk-boy! Oh, Jenny, I can't have him for a Valentine!'

Jane laughed at her little sister's evident consternation.

'That makes no difference,' she said mischievously; 'you must submit to your fate. What was he doing there?'

'Oh, he muttered something about waiting for mamma to send money for the milk-bill, when I asked him what his business was. But I say Jenny, do you think—'

'There, there, don't disturb me now. Clara is here with the new slipper patterns, and I've forty thousand things to think of besides.'

Little Ida Cornell was left alone, to climb into the window-seat and amuse herself with a book of fairy tales, still pouting a little at the idea of fate having adjudged her a milk-boy for a Valentine.

But what did Hugh Moray think, as he sat uneasily on the very edge of the big Gothic hall-chair, every word of the carelessly uttered conversation between the sisters distinctly audible to him. His brown cheek flushed at first, and then grew pale; he bit his lips until the blood came, and the sting of helpless poverty and sensitive pride rankled sharply in his heart. For Hugh Moray was a manly little fellow for his fourteen brief years, and hitherto he had known no disgrace in toiling to help his widowed mother.

'Nothing but a milk-boy!' he repeated to himself. 'And are my hands so very red and my clothes so very coarse that I am beneath her notice? I used to think her the prettiest creature I ever saw; but I will never think so again. She is proud and haughty and disagreeable, and I am foolish to waste a thought upon her idle words!'

Nevertheless, Hugh's heart swelled high with wounded pride as he drew the obnoxious fur cap tighter over his brows, and went upon his way.

'I wish I could find something to do that would earn money a little faster. I wish I could educate myself! Oh! it is very, very bad to be poor.'

Alas! Hugh Moray, thou art not the only one who has murmured the same words in bitterness of spirit.'

When, his day's work done, and his milk rounds all completed, the boy returned to the third-story floor in a poor street, where his mother tried to make a home out of most unhome-like material, he was dejected and wearied beyond his usual wont. As he opened the door, a prodigal glow of red-hot coals met his eyes from the grate where the fire was usually hoarded with such jealous care; the fragrant Bohea saluted his senses; and his mother was sitting with joyous face just opposite a bronzed sailor-like-man.

'What cheer, my hearty?' roared this latter personage, with a voice as strident as if it had proceeded from old Boreas' speaking trumpet. 'Come here and shake hands with your old uncle!—Bless his heart, he's a Moray all over!'

'This is your uncle, Hugh,' explained his smiling mother—'your uncle that we thought shipwrecked off the coast of Madagascar ten good years ago; and he's come home rich, and we're to live with him, Hugh; and you're to be brought up a gentleman, and there's no hard work to grind us into the dust, my boy, and—'

'Do you want to be rich, Hugh?' demanded his newly-found relation, holding both the boy's hands in his, and looking intently into his eyes.

'I want to be a man, uncle—an educated man!' returned the boy, speaking out the thought which had been uppermost in his brain all day.

'I like that!' was the weather-bronzed man's only reply. 'Your son will do, Annie.'

Hugh Moray sat down and gazed into the fire with his chin supported upon his hands, thinking earnestly; while his uncle and his mother talked eagerly over past, present, and future. How like an Arabian Nights' tale it seemed like an Arabian Nights' tale it seemed to his excited fancy; a sudden influx of wealth to lift him out of the narrow boundaries of sordid toil, to refine and cultivate his nobler instincts, to make a gentleman out of a hard worked milk-boy! And then came the half vindictive recollection of pretty Ida Cornell, with her golden hair and the scornful glitter of her turquoise-blue eyes.

'I wonder what she would say to being my Valentine now?' he thought, triumphantly.

Like bright, vanishing bubbles on the surface of Time's ever-flowing river, the years passed away, ten of them; and Hugh Moray smiled sometimes to think of the red-handed little milk-boy, whose sensitive feelings were so sorely wounded by a certain little fairy's ill disguised scorn. He had changed with the changing years into a tall, dignified man, with raven-black hair, slightly inclined to wave, eyes deep and black as midnight pools, and features straight and correctly outlined. A year's travel had tended to give a graceful ease to his manner; and not one of the attributes of wealth were wanting to lend polish to his life. This was Hugh Moray of to-day.

Concluded to-morrow.

THE LILIES OF THE FIELD

Close sheltered in some fragrant nook
Beside the wanton river,
Or bending o'er the carolling brook
Whose love song ceaseth never,
The trembling lily seeks to hide
Her first faint blush of maiden pride.

She wraps herself in emerald dress,
From each rude gazer's viewing,
Nor dreams her bashful loveliness
Inflames the zephyr's wooing;
Till, each fair coronal impearled,
She bares her beauty to the world.

LIGHT AND SHADE.

Would love be love, without love's sigh?
Would rest be rest, were toil unshared?
Would joy be joy, if pain could die?
Or flight be flight, to wings unshared?

Would home be home, were cares unknown?
Would light be light, were darkness dead?
Would wheat be wheat, were tares unsown?
Or hope be hope, if doubts were fled?

Would heights be grand, were ways less steep?
Would shores be blest, were seas untossed?
Would smiles be fair, did we not weep?
Our loved so dear, were hearts unlost?

Oh, calm is deep, though storms are loud:
And flowers are gay through winter's breath;
And stars more bright where looms the cloud;
Thank God for life, thank God for Death?

YORK, Oct. 21.

Messrs. Editors:—Your correspondent "Videx," in his communication of the 8th inst, apparently feels somewhat indignant, in consequence of the complimentary notice of Prof. Gardner's presence in the "old, ancient town of York," on election day (Sept. 13), which, it was said, probably aided in achievement of a Republican victory, which idea "Videx" thinks "is absurd;" he also gives a statement showing the result in York of the elections in 1864 and 67,—the former 4, and the latter year 5 actual Republican majority, which but for particular circumstances, would afford very little cause for boasting.

If I am correctly informed, Prof. Gardner's visit to York on the 13th ult, was his first to that town, and the result of the election on that day, shows an actual and unprecedented majority of 71, therefore it is not surprising that the Professor should have received a little credit for the result. Further reflection upon the political record of York during the rebellion, when a goodly share of its citizens were enjoying political considerations, by way of employment in our navy yard, and elswhere, when votes where counted either for or against the Union, and when democratic majorities were almost uninterrupted, makes it appear very reasonable to suppose, that some influence, other than that usually employed, must have been exercised to produce the glorious triumph before alluded to; but whether that influence came from the Professor's speeches or his soap, I am unable to decide, as either is liable to produce astonishing results. Suffice it to say "Videx" is very much mistaken in his opinion of Prof. Gardner, whose character is regarded, from reliable sources, as unimpeachable, the opinion of "Videx" to the contrary notwithstanding.

The latter gentleman, it is possible, may be one of our patriotic democracy; at least, his letter has the genuine democratic ring,—and he makes the very common democratic blunder of mistaking unsupported assertion, personal abuse and ungentlemanly language, for argument. DEBITO JUSTITIA.

IN MEMORIAM.—Lieut. J. McCallum of the 16th Mass. Battery has been engaged in erecting monuments on the various battle-fields of the late war. The only expense to the Government of erecting these monuments was three barrels of cement and two of lime to each monument. They are made of a stone which is so soft that it can be hewn with common axes, and are decorated with shot and shell from the field. A large number of these have been erected and are worthy memorials of the brave men of both sides who were slain.

HOW TO PREVENT A COW FROM KICKING WHILE MILKING.—A correspondent of the "Rural American" says: Take a linen cloth, wet it in cold water, and just before you commence milking, lay it on her loins wet. Those who have tried it, say that a cow will not kick so long as the cold, wet cloth remains on her back.

—"That was greedy, of you, Tommy to eat your sister's share of cake." "You told me, ma, that I was to always take her part," said Tommy.

—Can a man who is always speaking of his father and his mother be considered parenthetical in his remarks?

DODD'S NERVINE ONCE MORE.
THE STANDARD REMEDY for biliousness with the medical professions is the Anti-Bilious Pill of the American Pharmacopœia. And its reputation has been well enough deserved. But it is a Pill, nevertheless, and most people of sensibility feel something about as big as a meeting house coming into their throat whenever a pill is spoken of. DODD'S NERVINE AND INVIGORATOR acts efficiently on the biliary organism; it irritates neither stomach nor intestines in all its operation; and what is VERY IMPORTANT, as all good nurses know, it is MOST AGREEABLE TO TAKE, being as pleasant to the palate as any delicate wine. We all know how it is with Cod Liver Oil. In a pure state it is excellent for certain conditions of debility, and particularly in tendencies to Consumption; and yet many of the best physicians decline to prescribe it, because it so dreadfully sickens the patient. That, they say, makes it do more harm than good. With Dodd's Nervine all this becomes obstacle. For sale by all Druggists. Price $1. o21 4w

WHAT ARE
DR. J. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA Vinegar Bitters?
THEY ARE NOT A VILE FANCY DRINK, Made of Poor Rum, Whiskey, Proof Spirits, and refuse Liquors, doctored, spiced, and sweetened to please the taste, called "Tonics," "Appetisers" "Restorers," &c., that lead the tippler on to drunkenness and ruin, but are a true Medicine, made from the Native Roots and Herbs of California, free from all Alcoholic Stimulants. They are the GREAT BLOOD-PURIFIER and LIFE-GIVING PRINCIPLE, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the system, carrying off all poisonous matter, and restoring the blood to a healthy condition. No person can take these Bitters according to directions and remain long unwell. $100 will be given for an incurable case, providing the bones are not destroyed by mineral poisons or other means, the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair.
FOR INFLAMMATORY AND CHRONIC RHEUMATISM, AND GOUT, DYSPEPSIA, or INDIGESTION, BILLIOUS, REMITTENT, and INTERMITTENT FEVERS, DISEASES OF THE BLOOD, LIVER, KIDNEYS, and BLADDER, these BITTERS have been most successful. SUCH DISEASES are caused by VITIATED BLOOD, which is generally produced by derangement of the DIGESTIVE ORGANS.
Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins, cleanse it when it is foul, and your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood healthy, and all will be well.
These Bitters are not a gilded pill, to delight the eye or please the fancy, but a medical preparation, composed of the best vegetable ingredients known.
They are Alterative, Tonic, Diuretic, Sedative, Diaphoretic, and Gentle Purgative.
"The Life of all Flesh is the Blood thereof."—Purify the blood and the health of the whole system will follow.

GREAT SUN-SUN CHOP. 12w

"Ingenio Stat Sine Morte Decus."
ROCKY MOUNTAIN BITTERS
IS a very superior Regulating Tonic, imparting vigor and strength to the constitution—a thoro'
PURIFIER OF THE BLOOD,
a regulator of nervous force, and a powerful sustainer of health against the encroachments of disease.
The invalid and convalescing seeking restoration, and yearning for the healing virtues of some magic balm, will find in these Bitters a hidden mysterious power, which QUIETLY RESTORES, yet refuses to reveal to the senses anything but taste and color.
It is a pleasant Bitter, free from all nauseous properties odor, entirely vegetable, being mainly grown at the base of the mountains from which they derive their name, and is particularly adapted to all forms of
DYSPEPSIA OR INDIGESTION,
manifesting themselves by the following symptoms: headache, nervousness, loss of memory, low spirits, giddiness, dimness of sight, dullness of hearing, and ringing noises in the ears, eructations, or belching of wind, tightness of breathing, weight and oppression of the chest, uneasy feeling about the heart, palpitation, &c.
Also for Liver Diseases, Disorders of the Kidneys, Restlessness and loss of Muscular Power; these Bitters will be found almost a specific; and as a preventative of
FEVER AND AGUE
or a restorer of the natural powers of the system, when broken down by continued ague attacks; it has no equal.
Being stimulating, (but not intoxicating), they refresh and invigorate both mind and body, heighten the sensibility, clear and sharpen the faculties, and bestow alacrity and cheerfulness of spirit.
CAUTION.—There have been, and still are several parties manufacturing and selling so-called "Langley's Bitters," many of which are worthless. As a guide against such, I would say that in 1866, I secured my copy-right, in the United States Court, a trade mark and name, "Rocky Mountain Bitters," and all Bitters of my manufacture are put up in dark, long neck, quart bottles with red label printed with gold; also, direction label, bearing my seal and directions printed in red, with a red cap and my seal printed in gold, over the cork. Beware of all others, and ask for "Rocky Mountain Bitters."

The Daily Chronicle.

Portsmouth, N. H.

SATURDAY, OCT. 23, 1869.

REPUDIATED.—Dispatches from Tennessee say that Henry Cooper was elected U. S. Senator yesterday, by 55 votes, over 51 for Andrew Johnson. Andrew may now enter the whiskey business.

☞ The Captain-General of Cuba reports that the insurgents on the Island and the revolutionists in Spain have long acted in co-operation. The sessions of the Cortes have been resumed. General Prim has declared himself opposed to the establishment of a republic in Spain.

☞ Sch. Leesburg, Hoyt, from Portland for New Bedford, on the 18th inst., on Nantucket Shoals, was struck by a squall which carried away foremast head, jibboom and topmasts, split foresail and mainsail,—and was compelled to anchor; parted and lost anchor and 30 fathoms chain. Sch. Freewind, Capt. Frisbee, went to assist her, anchored, and gave her a hawser, and held her until next day, when she towed her into Holmes' Hole.

THE PRESIDENT AND THE GOLD RING. The renewed assertion in New York by the gold gamblers, that the President has been a party to their transactions, and the added statements that Mrs. Grant was also engaged in the matter, are declared here, on unquestionable authority, to be false in every particular. Neither the President nor Mrs. Grant has been directly or indirectly engaged in any of the transactions alluded to, either those based on gold or government bonds, and no letter has been written by either of them that could by any torturing be construed into implicating its writer in these operations. The statement that Mr. Corbin had received a letter from Mrs. Grant on the subject of these speculations, is also false. Mrs. Grant has never written him a letter on any subject. The use which Mr. Corbin appears to have made in various ways of the President's name, has not only been wholly unauthorized, but without the knowledge of the President.—Washington Cor. Boston Adv.

THE RECENT GALE AT THE EASTWARD.—A correspondent of the Boston Journal at Calais, Me., sends some interesting additional facts concerning the destruction caused by the great storm of the 8th inst. in that section:

Out of 108 vessels out on the coast between Calais and Campabello, a distance of 25 miles, only 18 were uninjured, and a large portion of those disabled were badly injured.

Eighty barns and twenty houses were destroyed within four miles distance in St. Stephens, opposite Calais. Only one wharf remains at Eastport.

At Lubec, opposite Eastport, four churches were very badly wrecked, and an immense amount of other property destroyed.

The wild timber lands in Deanysville and vicinity suffered extensively. The loss to land owners is estimated at $75,000. There were hundreds of acres so demolished that not one tree in ten stands, and other hundreds of the best pine timber in the county, if not in the State, which retain not one tree in a hundred standing. The Lincolns and Allens have timber enough down to last all their sawmills at least twelve years. But, after three years, the timber will begin to injure, if not hauled or sawed.

RATHER COOL COMFORT.—The Concord Patriot says:—The State elections, held on Tuesday of last week, in Pennsylvania, Ohio and Iowa, all resulted in the success of the radicals, but by greatly reduced majorities.—In Pennsylvania the radicals have carried the State by 3000 or 4000.—Over this result the Radical organs rejoice as if it were a signal victory. Can they stand another such?

In Ohio, our friends have made a good fight and a splendid gain, reducing Grant's 40,000 to about 8,000. If this is a victory for the radicals to rejoice over, it is not one calculated to discourage our friends; for another such would give us the State by a heavy majority.

In Iowa the Radicals had it all their own way, and have carried the State by 30,000.

The legislatures of Ohio and Pennsylvania have probably been carried by the Radicals, which gives them great joy inasmuch as it improves the prospect, of the ratification of the Negro Suffrage Amendment. On this account, more than all others, is the loss of these elections to be deplored.

Exactly; it settles an important question, and settles it right. Therefore the Patriot deplores.

☞ At Newton Corner, Mass., on the 18th, Geo. Gove and another man were painting the steeple of a church, standing upon a staging supported by ropes. By some means the rope at one end of the staging slipped off, and Gove was precipitated to the ground, a distance of eighty-five feet, and instantly killed. The other man seized the rope at the other end of the staging and held fast until rescued.

BASE BALL.—The Eckfords (who still hold the emblem of championship) arrived in Boston from New York, Thursday, to play the Tri-Mountains, Lowells and Harvards, on three consecutive days. In the first game they scored 26 to 17, in eight innings. A large crowd witnessed the game with the Lowells on Friday. The Eckfords scored 38; Lowells 33. Bradbury, catcher in the Lowell nine, played finely, putting out 10 Eckfords on fouls. The latter have their hands full to beat the Harvards.

—While the Rev. John Jackson, Rector of Ledbury, in Herefordshire, Eng., was preaching on Sunday, Oct. 3, a young woman, formerly cook in his family, walked down the middle aisle, and, holding up a child, informed the congregation that "it was Mr. Jackson's." The effect of this presentation upon the preacher may be imagined.

—Edwin Tuttle of Panton, Vt., was going under a barn with a loaded gun, last week, to shoot a skunk, when from some unknown cause the gun was discharged and he was shot through the head, dying instantly. He was 16 years old.

—There are seven hundred Baptist churches in Missouri, but the Central Baptist says that there are not more than two dozen that have worship every Sunday.

New Hampshire Items.

Mrs. Jos. Bickford of Wakefield, born Dec. 2, 1769, cultivated, the past summer, her garden patch as usual, and bids fair to live many years.

Noah Roberts of Brookfield, raised this season 46 1-2 bushels of wheat, on 1 1-4 acres, from two bushels sowing. Mr. John Farnham of Wakefield raised 25 bushels from 33 quarts sown.

Henry M. Libbey, Esq. of Wakefield, raised 190 pounds of Early Rose potatoes from 2 pounds of seed. They were planted in an exhausted sandy loam, one eye in a hill, and about one quart of barn-yard manure. They are of excellent quality.

At Great Falls, last Saturday night, Protective Union Store, No. 175 Market street, was entered by robbers, who blew open the safe and abstracted $400.—The same night the store of Pierce & Hodgdon, hardware dealers, was entered, and the safe tampered with but found too strong, and the thieves left, taking three pistols and a razor. The grocery store of W. D. Clark was also entered, but nothing was taken.—Forest Glade Cemetery was damaged to the amount of about $50 by the flood of the 4th inst.

Mr. Geo. S. Yeaton of Exeter came near being fatally crushed by the falling of a cellar wall. He was severely bruised.

It now requires thirteen miles circuitous travel, instead of eight direct, to reach the Glen House from Gorham village. The carriage road to summit of Mount Washington is badly washed, and the injury below the Glen is immense.

There was a little fall of snow in North Western New Hampshire, Oct. 20;—a heavy snow storm at St. Louis, Mo., on the morning of the 19th, and in Kansas and Illinois on the night of the 18th, showing that the snow travelled eastward.

General Stark, of Nashua, has received official notification of his appointment as agent to build the Manchester and Keene Railroad, and has also received the proposition to lease the road to Nashua, Lowell and Boston Roads for a term of twenty years. The matter will be acted upon at the next meeting of the Directors.

L. M. Dow, the veteran Exeter 'shootist' of seventy-four years, the News Letter says bagged four woodcocks and a partridge on Tuesday, and reported at headquarters at one o'clock, P. M.

The Aniversary meeting of the Baptist Churches in this State, took place in Concord, on the 19th and two following days: they were well attended and interesting. Strong ground was taken for the Constable Law.

A piece of gold as big as a pea, has been found in the bed of a river in Pittsburg, and people are looking for more.

A. B. Gibson, pedler, was badly hurt by a vicious horse, at Amherst. Oct. 15.

Some of the citizens of Candia have petitioned for a new road from the railroad station in that town, to Carr's crossing, over the old railroad track. The Union says that this road if built, will be a great accommodation to the public. The County Commissioners of Rockingham County meet at Candia to consider the subject. Judge Upton appears for the petitioners, S. N. Bell for the opponents.

☞ The notorious bond-robber King has broken jail at Sing Sing, and is at large.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

The Great Vitalizer.

This title may be fairly given to a restorative which has taken precedence of all other tonic and alterative preparations for a period of nearly twenty years. During that long interval HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS may be truly said to have enjoyed unrivalled popularity. Many preparations have been got up to compete with it, but they have all fallen into its wake or sunk into oblivion for lack of patronage. From the first this now world-renowned Vegetable Tonic has been both medicinally and financially successful. Every year has added to its numbers of friends and the demand for it, based solely upon the experimental proofs of its excellence as a preventive and curative, seems to have no assignable limit. The medical profession sanction and approve its use, and it is now at the head of the class of medicines to which it belongs, the admitted, undisputed SOVEREIGN TONIC OF THE AGE. The statistics of the United States Revenue department will verify the statement that it stands alone and unapproached in the magnitude of its sales as compared with those of any other proprietory remedy advertised on this side of the Atlantic. The explanation of this fact may be comprehended in a few words, HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS is at once the purest, the safest and the most potent of all vegetable tonics, and the best antidote to every variety of malarious disease. Hence it is especially adapted to the present season of chilling dews and unwholesome vapors.

Holloway's Pills.—CONSTIPATION.—Violent cathartics aggravate this disease. When their action ceases, the vitiated and weakened bowels are less capable than ever of fulfilling their functions properly. In HOLLOWAY'S PILLS, sufferers from costiveness have a mild purgative exactly suited to the exigencies of the case. Instead of weakening the intestines, the pills brace and invigorate, as well as cleanse and regulate them. In the worst chronic phases of the complaint, they soon produce a permanent change of habit. Sold by all Druggists.

ACROSTIC.

Pain Killer is worth what it weighs, in gold,
All around the world are its praises told;
It will Cholera cure—scourge of southern climes,
No victim dies, who takes it betimes.

Keep Pain Killer—a true friend by your side,
It will cure Cough or Cold, or Colic beside;
Look out to apply it for Bruise or for Sprain,
Let it once be tried—'twill be used again;
Every word I am telling you, Reader, is true,
Remember that Pain Killer is good for you.

The Pain Killer is sold by all Druggists and dealers in Family Medicines.

DEATH TO PIN-WORMS.

MARRIAGE GUIDE,

Being a private instructor for married persons or those about to be married, both male and female, in everything concerning the physiology and relations of our sexual system, and the production and prevention of offspring, including all the new discoveries never before given in the English language, by WM. YOUNG, M. D. This is really a valuable and interesting work. It is written in plain language for the general reader, and is illustrated with numerous Engravings. All young married people, or those contemplating marriage, and having the least impediment to married life, should read this book. It discloses secrets that every one should be accquainted with; still it is a book that must be locked up and not be allowed to lie about the house. It will be sent to any address on receipt of 50 cents. Address, Dr. WM. YOUNG, No. 416 Spruce street, above Fourth, Philadelphia.

☞ AFFLICTED AND UNFORTUNATE.—No matter what may be your disease, before you place yourself under any one of the notorious QUACKS—native and foreign—who advertise in this or any other paper, get a copy of Dr. Young's Book and read it carefully. It will be the means of saving you many a dollar, your health and possibly your life.

Dr. Young can be consulted on any of the diseases described in his publications, at his office, No. 416 Spruce street, above Fourth, Philadelphia.

Comfort and Bliss or Pain and Agony.

DR. TOBIAS' CELEBRATED VENETIAN LINIMENT, whose wonderful cures, sure and instaneous action, in cases of Chronic Rheumatism, Headache, Toothache, Croup, Cuts, Wounds, Colic, Cramps, Dysentery, etc., have astonished the civilized world, is no new catch-penny; but is a article that has stood the test of twenty-two years. The enormous sale and rapidly increasing demand is at once the surest evidence of its usefulness and popularity. No family should be without a bottle in the house. Hundreds of dollars and many hours of suffering may be saved by its timely use.

Colic, Cramp, and Dysentery yield at once to its paincurative properties. It is perfectly innocent, and can be given to the oldest person or youngest child. FRIGHTFUL DEVELOPMENTS!

At last the people have got the fact "through their hair," that hair dyes impregnated with acetate of lead and other metallic salts are

MURDEROUS PREPARATIONS.

When they see the metallic sediment at the bottom of the bottles, they know that the disgusting stuff is literally thickened with Poison. They ask, therefore, for a

offered under the sanction of Professor Chilton's guarantee that it contains "nothing deleterious." CRISTADORO'S HAIR PRESERVATIVE, as a Dressing, acts like a charm on the Hair after Dyeing. Try it. 1md&wo4

Food makes blood; blood makes the body. If the blood be pure, the body is healthy. So if we are not in health, we know some impurities are lurking about, which must be removed, and the sooner the better.

BRANDRETH'S PILLS remove all from the system which nature needs no longer.

The wonderful cures effected by Brandreth's Pills have arrested the attention of enlightened physicians. Upwards of five thousand now use them in their daily practice, and two hundred have given their written testimony as to their innocence and value, as cleansers of the bowels and blood. Their untold value is to those living in settlements where doctors can only be had at great expense. For if you are sick, you have only to take one or more doses of Brandreth's Pills to get cured. Full Directions are with each box.

THE LATEST DISCOVERY

In Medication.

The great difficulty which physicians have been laboring for centuries to overcome, has at length been obviated. A vegetable Cathartic and alterative more efficient than any mineral preparation of the same class, and as agreeable to the taste as ordinary candy, is now offered to the sick in the form of a Lozenge.

DR. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S

is the most important medicinal novelty that modern chemistry has produced. It contains two botanical extracts, perfectly harmless in themselves, but embodying all the remedial properties of mercury, and destined in this pleasant form to supersede and banish from general use, the nauseous pills and portions of which that dangerous exciter is the main ingredient. Before than

One thousand experiments

were made by the inventor of this peerless remedy before it was brought to its present state of perfection. The Lozenge is harmless in its operation, and altogether the medicinal taste of its curative components has been extinguished by chemical art, their virtues remain as active and potent as ever.

In Dyspepsia, Biliousness Constipation, Sick or Nervous Headache, Dropsy, and the irregularities to which the feebler sex are subject, the Lozenge will be found infinitely more effective than any of the horrible and disgusting compounds usually administered in such cases. As an antibilious specific and general aperient, they have no equal either among advertised preparations or the prescriptions of the regular pharmacopoia.

☞ It is guaranteed that no one who has once tried DR. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S Liver and Stomach Lozenge, will ever again take a purgative powder, or draught or pill.

ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM,

The Remedy for curing CONSUMPTION, COUGHS, BRONCHITIS, ASTHAMA, and CROUP. As an Expectorant, IT HAS NO EQUAL.

It is composed of the active principles of roots and plants, which are chemically extracted, so as to retain all their medical qualities.

Ministers and Public Speakers

Who are so often afflicted with throat diseases, will find a sure remedy in this Balsam. Lozenges and wafers sometimes give relief, but this Balsam, taken a few times, will insure a permanent cure.

Will all those afflicted with Coughs or Consumption, give this Balsam a fair trial, they will be pleased with the result, and confess that the sure remedy is found at last.

IT IS SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

CONSUMPTION.

DR. SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP for the cure of Coughs, Colds and Consumption.

DR. SCHENCK'S SEAWEED TONIC for the cure of Dyspepsia and all the Debilitated Conditions of the Stomach.

DR. SCHENCK'S MANDRAKE PILLS for Diseases of the Liver, or to act as a gentle Purgative.

All of these three medicines are often required in curing Consumption, though the Pulmonic Syrup alone has cured many desperate cases. The Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills assist in regulating the Stomach and Liver, and help the Pulmonic Syrup to digest and search through the blood vessels, by which means a cure is soon effected.

These medicines are conscientiously offered to the public as the only safe, certain and reliable remedies for Pulmonary Consumption, and for all those morbid conditions of the body which lead to that fatal disease. Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia are often forerunners of consumption, and when they manifest themselves they require the most prompt attention.

The Pulmonic Syrup is a medicine which has had a long probation before the public. Its value has been through a period of more than thirty-five years, in all of which time its reputation has constantly increased, and the most obstinate skepticism can no longer doubt that it is a remedy which may be used with confidence in all cases which admit of a cure.

If the patient will perseveringly follow the directions which accompany each bottle, he will certainly be cured, if his lungs are not too much wasted to make a cure possible. Even in cases supposed to be incurable, when friends and physicians have despaired, the use of the Pulmonic has saved the life of the patient, and restored him to perfect health.

Dr. Schenck himself was cured in precisely such circumstances, and many others have been equally fortunate by judiciously making a timely use of Dr. Schenck's remedies.

Dr. Schenck does not say that all cases of Pulmonary Consumption are within the reach of medicine, but he emphatically asserts, that when patients have the most alarming symptoms, such as a violent cough, creeping chills, night sweats, and general debility, even to such a degree that they are obliged to lie in bed, and when they are given up by their physicians, they may still be cured. No medical treatment can create new lungs, but when the lungs are very badly diseased, and to some extent destroyed, a cure may be effected by Dr. Schenck's medicines.

Also in Scrofulous diseases these medicines are equally efficient. Dr. Schenck has photographs of a number of persons who have been nearly covered with running sores, and now all healed up. This shows its purifying properties, which must be done to heal cavities in the lungs.

In the treatment of Consumption, it is of the utmost importance to give vigor and a healthy tone in the system. Hence it is necessary to strengthen the appetite of the patient and improve the digestion. Prepared nourishment is required, together with such means as will make the food easily digestible. The articles most suitable for the diet of consumptive patients are designated in Dr. Schenck's Almanacs, which are distributed gratuitously. In general, the most nutritious articles are to be preferred; but the digestive organs must be strengthened in order to make either food or medicine servicable. This requirement is met by the Sea Weed Tonic, and for this purpose it was designed.

When the digestive powers are put in good order, the food has its proper effect. A system of life the patient is invigorated, and the lungs begin to exercise their functions in a normal and healthy manner. Then the healing powers of the Pulmonic Syrup will complete the cure.

Pulmonary Consumption is almost always complicated with Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint. Schenck's Mandrake Pills are intended to remove obstructions from the liver and restore its healthy action. They have all the efficacy which is ascribed to calomel or "blue mass," and are warranted not to contain a particle of any mineral poison. These pills cure the two most obstinate complaints, namely, headache, constipations, and all other diseases which arise from a torpid or obstructed condition of the liver. One dose of these pills will prove the efficacy of the medicine.

In Consumption, the Sea Weed Tonic and Mandrake Pills are invaluable auxiliary medicines. They relieve the sufferings of the patient and assist the Pulmonic Syrup in effecting a cure. They have been found useful in advanced stages of Consumption, where the lungs were almost entirely destroyed, and all symptoms, according to the judgement of physicians, indicated speedy death. Lives of patients who were actually in a dying condition have been preserved for months by the use of Schenck's three great remedies.

DR. SCHENCK'S Almanac, containing a full treatise on the various forms of disease, his mode of treatment and general directions how to use his medicine, can be had gratis of any druggist, or by addressing his Principal Office, No. 15 North Sixth Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

☞ Meeting of the Piscataqua Agricultural Society, at the National Hotel, Saturday Evening, Oct. 23, at 7½ o'clock.

☞ The Grand Jury visited the Creek Cess Pool on Friday—but unfortunately at high tide. It is reported that Jones' Brewery will be indicted. The Grand Jury have not reported yet.

BOARD OF TRADE. — The regular Monthly Meeting of the Portsmouth Board of Trade will be held at the Common Council Room, on Tuesday Evening Oct. 26th, at 7 o'clock.

☞ The Board of Aldermen last week appointed Wm. Cate as Supernumerary Night Watchman and Police; and on Thursday evening last, appointed Reuben Rand to the same office.

FATAL ACCIDENT.—On Thursday forenoon a child of Mr. Michael McDonald, who lives in Jones' Court, was burned to death. The child was about three and a half years old. It is supposed the child's clothes took fire from the stove while its mother was in the cellar.

☞ Auction of a horse, top buggy and harness, and varieties, at Betton & Co's, this morning. Also of another driving team, next week, by Mr. Hackett. Also of old houses on High Street, on Monday next — to be removed to make room for better buildings. [There are also some men, "older" in actions than years, whose removal would be an advantage to the live citizens.]

FINE CARRIAGES.—The Messrs. Came of this city, did well by taking three or four nice samples of their Carriages to the State Fair at Manchester. Besides receiving the highest premiums, they sold all the Carriages, and took orders while in Manchester to the amount of $2000. The sleigh was sold there to Cyrus Dunn, Esq.; the elegant three spring top buggy to Col. B. F. Martin, who also ordered a cut-under carryall, as likewise did Mr. Brock, a stove dealer there. The Concord style wagon was bought by Mr. Edward Branch, harness-maker, and an order given by a Great Falls lady for a wagon similar to the pony-wagon. A Manchester man also engaged a store wagon.

We noticed at the Came factory, a day or two since, a carryall building for Mr. H. R. Stoddard,—very light, for his own private family driving. It was just ready for the painter, and was a beautifully finished job of wood and iron work. Now is the time for any citizen desiring a good carriage next summer, to order it.

INTERESTING TO AGENTS. — To show that the arduous duties of Agents of the many book and picture schemes are not always remunerative, we cite the following. A good brother of an evangelical church in this city, believing that his worldly possessions might be increased by taking an agency for a celebrated engraving, consulted with his pastor, with favorable results. A large number of pictures were sent for, and in due course of time arrived. Another consultation was held, prices arranged and profits decided on, the latter being fixed at 50 cts. per engraving.

Accordingly this favored one of fortune might have been seen roaming from shop to shop at the Navy Yard, with his scenes from Pilgrim's Progress under his arms; and the work being really beautiful, and his price very reasonable, he found many purchasers. But now for the profits. Calling at the clergyman's house in the evening, to tell of his wondrous good luck and well replenished purse, he was somewhat nonplussed to learn that he had been selling his engravings at the rate fixed for profit, instead of that decided on as selling price. Balance was struck, and found to be:—cost of fifty pictures, $75; realized from sale of same, $25! His discomfiture may be imagined, as well as his countenance, on being informed that pictures which he had retailed at 50 cents, had cost $1.50 at wholesale. It is needless to say that many pictures were returned. This good brother think's he won't take any more Agencies. Q.

The iron sheet rails for the railroad which is to be laid on the Navy Yard for the prupose of transporting articles about the Yard arrived on Thursday. The rails are similar to those used by the street railroads in large cities.

☞ We may have a brief report of the doings of the City Council to offer on Monday; but have no time or room for it this morning. No hurry—it will keep.

☞ The New Hampshire Gazette for this week, is now ready for delivery at the Chronicle office. Price 5 cts. per copy—$2. per year. Contains all the Local and other reading from the Daily Chronicle.

☞ The explanation of the Exeter News Letter is received—that if they make a false statement, they don't mean it; and if a mean one, they don't know it.

A PACIFIC RAILWAY

GOLD LOAN $6,500,000.

We beg leave to announce that we have accepted the agency of the
KANSAS PACIFIC RAILWAY COMPANY,
For the sale of its
NEW SEVEN PER CENT.
Thirty Year Gold Loan,
Free from Tax.
This Loan amounts to $6,500,000.
First Mortgage Land-Grant and Sinking Fund Bonds,
secured upon the extension of the Railway from near Sheridan, in Kansas, to Denver, Colorado, a distance of 237 miles of which 12 miles are completed, and the rest is under construction. It is also a Mortgage upon the Road, the Rolling Stock and Franchise of this first-class Railway, besides now running through the State of Kansas,
And in successful operation for 437 miles
west of the Missouri River, and earning already enough to meet all of its expenses and existing obligations, besides MORE THAN THE INTEREST UPON THIS NEW LOAN. In addition to this the Bonds are also secured by a first mortgage of the GOVERNMENT LAND GRANT OF THREE MILLION ACRES,
extending in alternate sections on either side of the track, from the 394th mile post in Kansas to Denver. The proceeds of the sale of these lands are to be invested by the Trustees in the 7 per cents Bonds, themselves up to 120 in U. S. Bonds, as
A SINKING FUND FOR THE REDEMPTION OF THE BONDS.
The Lands embrace some of the finest portions of the magnificent Territory of Colorado, including a coal field and pinery. The company also holds as an asset another tract of Three Millions of Acres in the State of Kansas,
and although not pledged as a security for this Loan, their possession adds largely to the Company's wealth and credit. We estimate the Value of the Company's property, covered by this mortgage at $23,000,000 net. while the Loan is merely $6,500,000.
The Bonds have
THIRTY YEARS TO RUN,
from May 1, 1869, and will pay
SEVEN PER CENT. INTEREST IN GOLD, semi-annually, on May 1 and Nov. 1, and are FREE FROM GOVERNMENT TAXATION, the Company paying the tax.
The principal of the Loan is made payable in Gold, in the City of New York, but each coupon will be
PAYABLE IN FRANKFORT, LONDON OR N. YORK at option of the holder, with notice, at the following rates:
On $1,000 Bond in N. Y. $35 (gold) each half year.
" London....£7 s5. 10. "
" Frankfort..87 fir. 50 krtzs., "
The Agents of the Loan, before accepting the trust had the condition of the Road, and the country through which it runs, carefully examined. They are happy to give the Loan an emphatic endorsement as a
FIRST CLASS INVESTMENT,
in every respect perfectly sure, and in some essential even Better than Government Securities.
The Bonds will be sold for the present at
96, and accrued Interest, both in Currency,
the Agents reserving the right to advance the rate.
The attention of investors is invited to these well-secured bonds, which we recommend as one of the most profitable investments in the market.
Gold and Government Securities taken in payment at their market value, without commission.

LOVE'S PATRON SAINT.

Concluded from Yesterday.

'What fun!' cried Ida Cornell, dancing up and down, as she tossed an open envelope upon the table. 'Mrs. Clifton is going to have a Saint Valentine's Eve party; all unmarried people; and nobody is to know who else is invited; and we're to draw our cavaliers by lot, and be faithful to them one whole evening. Won't it be splendid?'

Jane Cornell, who was still Jane Cornell, in spite of the false and fair Mr. St. Evers, took up the note rather sourly.

'It is sure to be a failure. Who ever heard of such a thing before?'

'That's because you are not invited,' said Ida, sancily. 'I think it will be glorious! Mrs. Clifton told me last week she was to have quite an importation of eligibles from New York.'

'Eligibles! How can you talk such nonsense?'

Ida pursed up her cherry of a mouth, roguishly.

'I tell you what, Jenny,' she said, it's high time I was on the look-out for a real genuine Valentine. Only think; twenty-one last week, and not an engagement ring to my finger!'

She shot a sideways glance, as she spoke, at the mirror, beyond, which returned a by no means unflattering tale. Hair light and burnished as flossy gold, eyes full of blue limpid light, velvet skin, softly tinged with rose, and figure slender and rounded as that of Hebe's self. Yes, Ida Cornell was a beauty, and she knew it.

'A Valentine?' retorted Jane, rather acidly. 'I think you have forgotten that you are to be a milk-boy's Valentine.'

Ida burst out laughing, merrily.

'Haven't you forgotten that luckless adventure of my childhood's days yet? But seriously, Jane, I do believe that St. Valentine's day has always exercised a sort of fate over me, for I never succeeded in winning a nice Valentine since. Now don't be cross, Jane, that's a dear; but help me with the white lace puffings to my blue silk dress or I shall never get them done in time.'

Ida Cornell looked quite pretty enough to be appointed lieutenant general to cupid that night, as she entered Mrs. Clifton's mansion, where the glitter of lights, and the perfume of flowers, and the confused hum of innumerable feminine voices kept up a pleasant sort of bewilderment. She was dressed in blue silk, draped with lace, and caught up here and there with clusters of fleur-de-lis; while her golden hair floated down her back in crepe waves of sunny brightness, and her cheeks glowed with soft warm crimson.

'Have you got your number, Ida?' cried Kate Clifton, gravely advancing with a satin-wood box.

'No; what is it?'

'Are you ready to go in?'

'Yes, quite.'

Kate presented her with a tiny slip of white silk, on which was embroidered, in silver letters, the magic number '333.'

'Present it at the door as you enter,' she said with much solemnity; 'and may St. Valentine treat you as well.

As Ida, half-fluttered, half-amused, passed into the brilliant drawing-rooms, Mrs. Clifton smilingly met her, and glanced at her silken ticket.

'No. 333,' she spoke, and a tall, handsome gentleman stepped forward on the instant.

'Mr. Moray, Miss Cornell,' she said, presenting them to each other, passing on to receive the next aspirant for the good offices of St. Valentine.

Ida glanced shyly at the stately, dark-bronzed cavalier who stood so gracefully beside her; and Hugh Moray's heart gave a sudden thrill within him as he met the gaze of the blue limpid eyes which once flashed so scornfully upon him, years and years ago. How lovely she had grown! yet still, how much the same! He almost expected to see her straighten up her slight figure, and draw back from the polluting touch of his arm.

But Ida did not; on the contrary, she seemed passing well pleased with her fate in becoming his companion for the evening; the more so, as once or twice she heard envious comments on her good luck from others who were not so auspiciously mated.

'Only think!' pouted Virginia Berry, who had 'drawn' a dapper ineligible young Treasury clerk, without more than one idea at pasture in his brain; 'it's just Ida Cornell's luck to get that splendid Mr. Moray, with a handsome fortune.'

But there was nothing mercenary in Ida Cornell's nature; if she gloried in her handsome companion, it was from no ignoble motive. She was young and very impressible, and Hugh Moray was fascinating in no common degree.

When Ida Cornell went home that evening, it was with a shy, half-consciousness that she had enjoyed herself very much indeed, and a distinct remembrance of sundry sparkles from the deep, dark eyes that had spoken with more eloquence than words.

'Well,' questioned Jane, 'how did you like your partner?'

'Very much,' Ida answered, dreamily.

'Was he at all like the milk-boy?

'The milk-boy, indeed! Jane, I do wish that you would forget that absurd piece of nonsense!'

Miss Cornell had permitted Mr. Moray to call, and Mr. Moray lost no time in availing himself of the permission; and from that the succession to parties, morning concerts and drives in the country was simple but natural enough.

And one day the final came, when they were sitting together behind the draperies of a box at the theatre, with lights and music and delicious scents floating around them as they the solemn glories of a dream. They had been talking about the party at Mrs. Clifton's on St. Valentine's Eve.

'I enjoyed that party so much,' Ida said softly, without raising her eyes from the bouquet of japonicas that she held.

'Did you, dear Ida?' (They had become quite good friends, you may perceive.)—'Should you be willing to adopt your Valentine of that night for your Valentine for ever?' he asked, earnestly; and she replied, in all good faith:

'I should, Hugh.'

'Then, you will be my wife? my little gold-haired bride?'

'Dear Hugh, yes.'

He smiled, as he held both her hands firmly pressed in his own.

'Ida,' he said, 'it was a strange fate which assigned us to each other for that St. Valentine's Eve, was it not? One might almost believe that the gentle-natured saint really guided our destinies.'

'Almost, Hugh,' she assented.

'But you will think it stranger still when I tell you that, years and years ago, you were sent to me as my Valentine!'

'What can you mean?' she asked eagerly.

And he told her how one Hugh Moray had sat in the hall of her mother's residence, on a bleak February morning, waiting for money for his milk-bill, and how a little shining apparition in blue and gold and roses had glimmered upon him for one instant, and then disappeared; how his boy-heart had ached and smarted, and how all the time deliverance was close at hand.

THE DRUNKARD.—Very few persons would be willing to marry an habitual drunkard; but it is not generally known what a great risk is run in marrying the son or daughter of a habitual drunkard, although they themselves are strictly temperate from high and moral principle; indeed, it is not an uncommon thing to find the children of beastly drunkards the very models of temperance, from having had before their own eyes, for years in succession, the terrible evils of habitual inebriation.

It is one of the indisputable facts in physiology, and the observations of intelligent men confirm the truth, that certain diseases and taints of body, and traits of mind, are transmitted from father to son. So well and firmly is this impression fixed on the minds of men, that when a man becomes insane, one of the very first efforts is to endeavor to ascertain if it is not "in the family," and it is comparatively seldom that such is not proved to be the case.

Another important fact is, that hereditary traits and taints sometimes overleap a generation; arising most probably from the fact that one parent has extraordinary good health, sufficiently vigorous to stave off the malady for a time; but the seed of the malady is in the immediate descendant for all that, and to the extent, that if the grandchild marries one who has a similar taint, the offspring develops the characteristic of the grandparent.

Drunkenness is a transmissible malady, because anatomical investigations demonstrate that the brain of a drunkard, after a comparatively few indulgences, becomes organically impaired, and when that is the case, it is just as impossible to repair the injury as to have a new finger grown in the place of one which has been removed. Surely no stronger appeal can be made to a man's intelligence, to his honor, and to his humanity, to practice temperance in the use of all intoxicating drinks.

As a proof of the argument made, it may be sufficient to say in general terms, that observation shows, that, in any number of drunkards, about one-third become so through social influences, the remaining two-thirds from hereditary influences. More than half of the first class are reclaimed, but to recover men from intemperate habits, who have become so from hereditary influences, is almost impossible, even although they may have had a Christian education and the early instillment of strictly temperance principles.

Let the reader who can, thank God that he has not had the curse of an intemperate parent, and let him pray daily, with consistent action, that he may never be permitted to fall into so great a crime as that of being an intemperate parent himself. Nor ought a man who has been a drunkard, to allow himself to marry and become the father of children, for they are very certain either to inherit his vice or to have implanted in their constitutions the seeds of insidious diseases. To be safe from these calamities and crimes there is only one safe plan, never taste a drop of the accursed thing.—Hall's Journal of Health.

RATHER MIXED.—It is curious to note what an admixture of nationalities may be found in almost any American factory or extensive workshop. Take a single roomful in Hurd & Houghton's great printing establishment in Cambridge as an illustration. In the composing room, in addition to Americans, comprising quite a number from Nova Scotia, and a colored lad, there is one or more from England, Scotland, Ireland, Spain, Germany, Norway, Sweden, and Turkey. The one from Turkey is an Armenian lad, brought over by the missionaries, and though he has the usual Asiatic characteristics, he is of full average intelligence.

The young lad who accompanied Artemas Ward to London, and who is to be educated by money he left for that purpose, is here learning the trade. Among the females employed is a Quakeress from Philadelphia, who is obliged to go to Lynn to find a church for her faith, on the Sabbath; also a fiery little secesh from the South, who hopes there will be another war for Southern independence.

But to offset this last, Carroll County sends a young lady, who is as firmly settled and grounded in Republicanism as the granite mountains among which she was reared.—Wolfeboro' News.

—A couple of young men from the town of Erving, who attended the firemen's muster at Fitchburg on Tuesday, becoming a little worse for liquor, made a fierce assault on a colored man named Charles Treadwell, for which offence they were brought before Justice Ware of the Police Court, next day, and sentenced to the House of Correction, one for seven months and the other for six months.—Worcester Spy.

—A gentleman absent from Nashville on a business journey, received a despatch from home to this effect: "Your wife had a child last night, but is doing well to-day." He hurried home with various emotions, to find that there was a mistake. The nurse who signed the despatch had written "chil," and the operator knowing full well that a letter was missing from the word, guessed that it should end with a d.

GREAT SUN-SUN CHOP. 12w

"Ingenio Stat Sine Morte Decus."
ROCKY MOUNTAIN BITTERS
IS a very superior Regulating Tonic, imparting vigor and strength to the constitution—a thorough
PURIFIER OF THE BLOOD,
a regulator of nervous force, and a powerful sustainer of health against the encroachments of disease.
The invalid and convalescing seeking restoration, and yearning for the healing virtues of some magic balm, will find in these Bitters a hidden mysterious power, which QUIETLY RESTORES, yet refuses to reveal to the senses anything but taste and color.
It is a pleasant Bitter, free from all nauseous properties odor, entirely vegetable, being mainly grown at the base of the mountains from which they derive their name, and is particularly adapted to all forms of
DYSPEPSIA OR INDIGESTION,
manifesting themselves by the following symptoms: headache, nervousness, loss of memory, low spirits, giddiness, dimness of sight, dullness of hearing, and ringing noises in the ears, eructations, of belching of wind, tightness of breathing, weight and oppression of the chest, uneasy feeling about the heart, palpitation, &c.
Also for Liver Diseases, Disorders of the Kidneys, Restlessness and loss of Muscular Power; these Bitters will be found almost a specific; and as a preventative of
FEVER AND AGUE
or a restorer of the natural powers of the system, when broken down by continued ague attacks; it has no equal.
Being stimulating, (but not intoxicating), they refresh and invigorate both mind and body, heighten the sensibility, clear and sharpen the faculties, and bestow alacrity and cheerfulness of spirit.

DODD'S NERVINE ONCE MORE.
THE STANDARD REMEDY for biliousness with the medical profession is the Anti-Billious Pill of the American Pharmacopœia. And its reputation has been well enough deserved. But it is a Pill, nevertheless, and most people of sensibility feel something about as big as a meeting house coming into their throat whenever a pill is spoken of. DODD'S NERVINE ANTI INVIGORATOR acts efficiently on the biliary organism; it irritates neither stomach nor intestine in all its operation; and what is VERY IMPORTANT, as all good nurses know, it is MOST AGREEABLE TO TAKE, being as pleasant to the palate as any delicate wine. We all know how it is with Cod Liver Oil. In a pure state it is excellent for certain conditions of debility, and particularly in tendencies to Pneumonia; and yet many of the best physicians decline to prescribe it, because it so dreadfully sickens the patient. That, they say, makes it do more harm than good. With Dodd's Nervine all this becomes obstacle. For sale by all Druggists. Price $1. o214w

WHAT ARE
DR. J. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA Vinegar Bitters.
THEY ARE NOT A VILE FANCY DRINK, Made of Poor Rum, Whiskey, Proof Spirits and refuse Liquors, doctored, spiced, and sweetened to please the taste, called "Tonics," "Appetisers" "Restorers," &c., that lead the tippler on to drunkenness and ruin, but are a true Medicine, made from the Native Roots and Herbs of California, free from all Alcoholic Stimulants. They are the GREAT BLOOD-PURIFIER and LIFE-GIVING PRINCIPLE, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the system, carrying off all poisonous matter, and restoring the blood to a healthy condition. No person can take these Bitters according to directions and remain long unwell. $100 will be given for an incurable case, provided the bones are not destroyed by mineral poisons or other means, the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair.
FOR INFLAMMATORY AND CHRONIC RHEUMATISM, AND GOUT, DYSPEPSIA, or INDIGESTION, BILLIOUS REMITTENT, and INTERMITTENT FEVERS, DISEASES OF THE BLOOD, LIVER, KIDNEYS, and BLADDER, these BITTERS have been most successful. SUCH DISEASES are caused by VITIATED BLOOD, which is generally produced by derangement of the DIGESTIVE ORGANS.
Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins, cleanse it when it is foul, and your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood healthy, and all will be well.
These Bitters are not a gilded pill, to delight the eye or please the fancy, but a medical preparation, composed of the best vegetable ingredients known.
They are Alterative, Tonic, Diuretic, Sedative, Diaphoretic, and Gentle Purgative.
"The Life of all Flesh is the Blood thereof."—Purify the blood and the health of the whole system will follow.

The News.

In the recent election for judicial officers in California the democratic candidates were chosen.

General Butterfield has denied the current reports concerning his complicity with the Gold Ring, and has demanded a thorough investigation into his proceedings.

The first snow of the season fell in Chicago on Friday.

The small town of Chacos in the department of Arequipa, Peru, was entirely destroyed by the earthquake of Oct. 1st. In the southern part of Peru violent shocks constantly continue.

THE EARTHQUAKE, Friday morning, 5 1-2 o'clock, extended from New Brunswick to Connecticut. In Portsmouth the shock was a light one and we hear of but one person who felt it. It was felt at Concord, Nashua, Lancaster, Manchester, Bristol, Laconia and Littleton, and it is reported to have been quite severe at Wells River, Vermont. In Concord there were two distinct shocks occurring within fifteen seconds of each other, each lasting less than half a minute. No damage was done, although beds and other articles of furniture, and even houses were considerably shaken. In Lancaster and Nashua the houses were sensibly shaken, and the doors, windows and furniture were rattled with such violence as to arouse people from their sleep.

At Portland and farther east the shock seems to have lasted longer. In some cases the door bells rang and movable articles danced about. The Boston Advertiser says that on the first of June, 1638, an earthquake took place in the New England States sufficiently violent to shake movable articles. On the 29th of October, 1727, a shock, which was of two minutes' duration, took place, and was felt all along the coast. February 6, 1735, another shock took place, and November 18, 1735, the earthquake extended from New England to the West Indies, damaging towns throughout the whole extent of the coast. On the 12th of March, 1761, there was a violent shock in this and adjoining States at half-past two o'clock in the morning, and others of note are recorded.

TENNESSEE'S NEW U. S. SENATOR, Hon. Henry Cooper, is a brother of Edmund Cooper, who was for a while Andrew Johnson's private secretary. The senator-elect, was previous to the war an old line whig; and, opposing secession, remained a Union man during the rebellion. At its close he was elected a circuit judge on the republican ticket, but Johnsonized and caused that party much trouble by rendering a decision against the constitutionality of the laws which enfranchised the negroes, which law the Supreme Court subsequently sustained. Mr. Cooper is said to be about 45 years of age, and much superior in ability to either Johnson or Etheridge, the defeated candidates.

A SPLENDID NEW BOOK.—We have received some advance sheets of Mrs. Ellet's new book, "The Court Circles of the Republic," or Beauties and Celebrities of the Nation. It is a handsome volume of near 600 pages, with 15 original Portraits, just published by the Hartford Publishing Co., of Hartford, Conn. Agents wanted in every town. The book is full of gossip, and characteristic anecdotes and personal description of all the prominent statesmen, as well as of women in this country.

The book is got up in superb style; good paper and clear type, and fine binding. The publishers have spared no cost on the illustrations; these consist of fifteen finely engraved portraits of women remarkable for beauty or position, beginning with Mrs. Sprague and ending with Mrs. Grant, the portraits being all expressly engraved for this work, and most of them of women living. Readers will find a good deal of entertainment in the book; the separated sketches, as that of Mrs. Edward Livingston, are excellent, and the whole is lively.

THE AGAMENTICUS PREACHERS' MEETING at York, 11th inst., was favored with full attendance. Rev. W. H. H. Pillsbury preached to a full house on Monday evening. On Tuesday morning the Association made selection of Rev. E. K. Colby as President, and Rev. T. Webster as Secretary. Tuesday evening, sermon by O. M. Cousens; the closing one Wednesday eve was by J. Strout.

THE BOSTON COLISEUM was disposed of on Saturday after 100,000 tickets (all) were sold. The lucky holder of No 83,451 takes the coliseum.

S. J. COURT, PORTSMOUTH — Judge Bellows—Saturday.—In case Mark H. Wentworth vs. L. L. DeRochemont, (plff. in review,) the jury returned a verdict for Wentworth for $66.75, in addition to amount paid into Court,—a slight reduction from former verdict, which throws the costs of the present suit upon Wentworth.

After a short delay by the Court, the Grand Jury came in and reported a big bundle of indictments on which the following persons were arraigned:—

Geo. Sleeper, breaking and entering, and stealing watch and money, at Epping, of David Edgerly, in the day time. Plea, guilty of larceny of $30. Sentence, 3 years State Prison, or 4 years House of Reformation.

John Casey of Lawrence, breaking and entering house of John P. Foster of Salem, and stealing watch and clothing. Plea, not guilty.

Charles G. Smith, of Portsmouth, assault on Ellen Smith his wife, with a loaded pistol, with intent to kill. Plea not guilty. To be tried Monday.

Anna Wilson, Portsmouth, disorderly house. Plea, nolle contendere. Sentence, $150 fine, and costs, and stand committed till paid.

Rose White, fornication. Plea, nol. con. Sentenced to jail for four months, and to pay costs of prosecution.

No arraignments were made except of prisoners in custody. Several recognizances were called and forfeited, the forfeits to be stricken off if the respondants appear in Court on Monday, and are ready for trial.

Among the indictments are the following;

John D. Grant and Chas. Gray—for keeping houses of ill fame on Water Street.

Edward Stover,—for manslaughter, causing the death of a boy named Fitzgerald, by kicking him in the groin.

Frank A. Lincoln of Londonderry—for embezzlement.

Darius Towle of East Kingston,—for selling liquor,—eight indictments.

The Solicitor gave notice that he should be ready to take up the Portsmouth trials on Monday. Several prisoners in jail against whom no bills were found, were ordered to be discharged.

A libel suit of Paymaster J. H. Carpenter vs. Hon. John H. Bailey et als, was entered on the civil docket. Carpenter claims $5,000 damages because of documents sent by defendants to Washington to procure his removal from duty as Purchasing Paymaster at this Naval Station.

The Court at noon adjourned to Monday.

HERALD OF GOSPEL LIBERTY.—In 1810 there was only one religious newspaper in America—the "Herald of Gospel Liberty," published at Portsmouth once a fortnight. Like most "religious" papers of the present date, it mingled politics with religion. Its politics were Democratic, but we are not believers in any kind of politics in a religious paper, or in preaching, Democratic or otherwise.—Concord Patriot.

Elias Smith, editor of the Herald was a Republican, and had probably never heard of Democratic politics, till years after he began his paper. Religious papers generally, as the Patriot suggests, mingle politics with religion: indeed they can hardly do otherwise.

That would be a sad day for this country, or for any country, when its politics, (in other words its government and laws) are wholly abandoned by religious men, and left, of course, in the hands of such creatures as neither fear God nor regard men.

Those papers and pulpits which carefully exclude or ignore living questions, doubtless have their mission; and so have dumb dogs we suppose; but the very men whose influence keeps them in that position, must despise them all the time, as hypocrites, time-servers, or mercenaries.

New Publications.

The Lady's Friend for November, has a life-like steel plate of "The Sisters," such sisters as may be found in many a sweet American home. The Colored Fashion Plate is gay, graceful and stylish. A romantic picture, illustrating Herrick's "Night Piece to Julia," and a group of "Dresses for Young Ladies," in which that important portion of humanity will find some lovers of toilettes, introduce a series of taking illustrations.

The Nursery, for youngest readers—for November — properly illustrated, and finely pointed.

The Missionary Herald for November, has a frontispiece, a view of Smyrna.

Good Health, No 4, for November, opens with an able essay, on our Drinks by Dr. C. Both, Boston.

Packard's Monthly, for November, has a fine table of contents.

From the Portsmouth Journal.

THE RAIN.—The frequent and heavy rains during the present month would seem to have counterbalanced the deficiency of the summer months, and brought up the rain fall to the full average of other years. But in looking over our record of the rain fall for the past seven months, we find there is yet a great deficiency. The mean fall of rain and snow from 1836 to 1854 was 42.23 inches; from 1854 to 1866, the mean annual was 44.62, giving as a mean average of 30 years an annual fall of 43.42 inches—which would be at the rate of 3.62 inches per month.

We find by our record that in the month of April and May the fall of rain amounted to 2.75 inches; and during the four months June, July, August and September, but 5.12 inches fell. Thus far in October to the 18th, 7.51 inches have fallen here—though in some sections of New England the amount must have been several inches more. Thus it will be seen that while we have had in three weeks last passed a rain fall amounting to more than twice the monthly average for a series of years, and nearly equalizing the entire fall of rain for the preceding six months, yet for the whole period of seven months we are deficient to the remarkable amount of about ten inches. According to Boardman's hydrology, ten inches of rain fall gives 225,833 gallons, or 5,645 barrels of 40 gals. of water to each acre exposed; therefore our farms are deficient, not only in the supply of water, but also in the fertilizing effects of the impurities and putrescences that would have been removed from the atmosphere by the descent of this vast amount of rain.

The Congressional Committee on Navigation Interests, who had announced their intention of visiting this city on Friday, were unavoidably compelled to change their plan, and will not visit Portsmouth at present. On Thursday afternoon Gen. M. F. Wentworth received a telegram from Hon. John Lynch, that if they could have transportation from South Berwick Junction, they would leave Portland for this city at 6 o'clock, P. M. Ex-Gov. Goodwin, the President of the P. S. & P. Railroad, was absent from the city, and Gen. Wentworth was unable to communicate with that gentleman or with Mr. Chase the Supt. of the Road, and was reluctantly obliged to send word to the Committee that no arrangement could be made to bring them up from South-Berwick. The Committee were therefore obliged to continue on their journey to Boston, and go to New Bedford Friday. It is hoped they will find time previous to the session of Congress to visit our city.

THE LYCEUM.—From conversation with the members of the Committee who had the matter in charge, we learn that there is but little probability of their being able to make arrangements for a course of Lectures the coming winter. The circulars sent to our citizens have in but few instances called out favorable answers, and the general indifference manifested renders it imprudent for the committee to assume the pecuniary obligations necessary to secure the corps of lecturers proposed in their prospectus.

PORTSMOUTH SAVINGS BANK.—The new officers of the Portsmouth Savings Bank entered upon their duties on Thursday last. They occupy the room formerly used by the Directors of the 1st National Bank, which has very neatly fitted up. The officers are: William Simes, President; J. F. Shores, Jr. Treasurer; A. C. Hoyt, Clerk; The Committee on Investments consists of the President and Treasurer, together with Ichabod Goodwin, Ichabod Rollins, John P. Lyman.

"BUMMERS" IN STRATHAM.—Mr. George Barker of Stratham, near Winnicutt Mills has one of the largest vineyards in this section, being about two acres in extent. This season his vines have been very productive, and he is represented to have marketed about two tons "Concord" Grapes. Some very fine "Delawares" also were promising a full yield; when about to be gathered some unknown villans forestalled him, and cleared the vines of the entire crop. Stratham appears to be cursed with a gang of rascals whose sole subsistence appears to be derived from the spoils secured by foraging the farms of the village. It is to be hoped that they may be caught and severely punished.

PRESENTATION.—We learn that the ladies of the Methodist Society in this city, on Wednesday evening, presented to Mrs. Kelsey the wife of their pastor, a fine Sewing Machine selected from Mr. Joy's store. It is a useful present, and is highly appreciated by the recipient.

NOT YET SETTLED.—The disagreement between the editors of the Republican Statesman and the Independent Democrat, of Concord does not appear to be in the way of an immediate settlement. The $10,000 which was put up to abide the decision, is in the hands of one of the city banks, but the several persons who have been successively named as referees have declined to act. We hope to see the close of their dispute soon. It adds nothing to the strength of the party which both papers claim to represent.

We are officially informed that there are now no cases of small pox in the city. The buildings where cases have occured have all been disinfected, and there is no occasion for any further anxiety on the subject.

Rev. J. O. Barrows, pastor of the First Congregational Church in Exeter, has been dismissed, and will sail next month for Cesarea in Western Turkey.

Rev. A. B. Peabody, of Seabrook, has accepted a call to the Congregational church in Stratham.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

The Great Vitalizer.

This title may be fairly given to a restorative which has taken precedence of all other tonic and alterative preparations for a period of nearly twenty years. During that long interval HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS may be truly said to have enjoyed unrivalled popularity. Many preparations have been got up to compete with it, but they have all fallen into its wake or sunk into oblivion for lack of patronage. From the first this now world-renowned Vegetable Tonic has been both medicinally and financially successful. Every year has added to the number of its friends and the demand for it, beyond a doubt, is the experimental proofs of its excellence as a preventive and curative, seems to have no assignable limit. The medical profession sanction and approve its use, and it is now at the head of the class of medicines to which it belongs, the admitted, undisputed SOVEREIGN TONIC OF THE AGE. The statistics of the United States Revenue department will verify the statement that it stands alone and unapproached in the magnitude of its sales as compared with those of any other proprietory remedy advertised on this side of the Atlantic.

The Explanation of this fact may be comprised in a few words, HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS is at once the purest, the safest and the most potent of all vegetable tonics, and the best antidote to every variety of malarious disease. Hence it is especially adapted to the present season of chilling dews and unwholesome vapors.

Holloway's Pills.—CONSTIPATION.—Virulent cathartics aggravate this disease. When their action ceases, the vitiated and weakened bowels are more incapable than ever of fulfilling their functions properly. In HOLLOWAY'S PILLS, sufferers from costiveness have a mild purgative specifically adapted to the genius of the case. Instead of weakening the intestines, the pills brace and invigorate, as well as cleanse and regulate them. In this worst chronic phases of the complaint, they soon produce a permanent change of habit. Sold by all Druggists.

THE LATEST DISCOVERY

In Medication.

The great difficulty which physicians have been laboring for centuries to overcome, has at length been obviated. A vegetable Cathartic and alterative more efficient than any mineral preparation of the same class, and yet so pleasant to the taste as ordinary candy, is now offered to the sick in the form of a Lozenge.

DR. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S

is the most important medicinal novelty that modern chemistry has produced. It contains two botanical extracts, perfectly harmless in themselves, but embodying all the remedial properties of mercury, and destined in this pleasant form to supersede and banish from general use, the nauseous pills and portions of which that dangerous excitant is the main ingredient. More than

Five thousand experiments

were made by the inventor of this peerless remedy before it was brought to its present state of perfection. The Lozenge is harmless in its operation, and disclosing together the medicinal taste of its curative components has been extinguished by chemical art, their virtues remain as active and potent as ever.

In Dyspepsia, Biliousness Constipation, Sick or Nervous Headache, Piles, Dropsy, and the irregularities to which the feebler sex are subject, the Lozenge will be found infinitly more effective than any of the horrible and disgusting compounds usually administered in such cases. As an antibilious specific and general aperient, they have no equal either among advertised preparations or the prescriptions of the regular pharmacopœia.

☞ It is guaranteed that no one who has once tried DR. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S Liver and Stomach Lozenge, will ever again take a purgative powder, or draught or pill.

Ministers and Public Speakers

Who are so often afflicted with throat diseases, will find a sure remedy in this Balsam. Lozenges and wafers sometimes give relief, but this Balsam, taken a few times, will insure a permanent cure.

Will all those afflicted with Coughs or Consumption, give this Balsam a fair trial, they will be pleased with the result, and confess that the sure remedy is found at last.

IT IS SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

CONSUMPTION.

DR. SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP for the cure of Coughs, Colds and Consumption.

DR. SCHENCK'S SEAWEED TONIC for the cure of Dyspepsia and all the Debilitated Conditions of the Stomach.

DR. SCHENCK'S MANDRAKE PILLS for Diseases of the Liver, or to act as a gentle Purgative.

All of these three medicines are often required in curing Consumption, though the Pulmonic Syrup alone has cured many desperate cases. The Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills assist in regulating the Stomach and Liver, and help the Pulmonic Syrup to digest and search through the blood vessels, by which means a cure is soon effected.

These medicines are conscientiously offered to the public as the only safe, certain and reliable remedies for Pulmonary Consumption, and for all those morbid conditions of the body which lead to that fatal disease. Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia are often forerunners of Consumption, and when they manifest themselves they require the most prompt attention.

The Pulmonic Syrup is a medicine which has had a long probation before the public. Its value has been through a period of more than thirty-five years, in all of which time its reputation has constantly increased, and the most obstinate skepticism can no longer doubt that it is a remedy which may be used with confidence in all cases which admit of a cure.

If the patient will perseveringly follow the directions which accompany each bottle, he will certainly be cured, if his lungs are not too much wasted to make a cure possible. Even in cases supposed to be incurable, when friends and physicians have despaired, the use of the medicine has saved the life of the patient, and restored him to perfect health.

Dr. Schenck himself was cured in precisely such circumstances, and many others have been equally fortunate by judiciously making a timely use of Dr. Schenck's remedies.

Dr. Schenck does not say that all cases of Pulmonary Consumption are within the reach of medicine, but he emphatically asserts, that often when patients have the most alarming symptoms, such as a violent cough, creeping chills, night sweats, and general debility, even to such a degree that they are obliged to lie in bed, and when they are given up by their physicians, they may still be cured. No medical treatment can create new lungs, but when the lungs are very badly diseased, and to some extent destroyed, a cure may be effected by Dr. Schenck's medicines.

Also in Scrofulous diseases these medicines are equally efficient. Dr. Schenck has photographs of a number of persons who have been nearly covered with running sores, and now all healed up. This shows its purifying properties, which must be done to heal cavities in the lungs.

In the treatment of Consumption, it is of the utmost importance to give vigor and a healthy tone to the system. Hence it is necessary to strengthen the appetite of the patient and improve the digestion. Proper nourishment is required, together with such means as will make the food easily digestible. The articles most suitable for the diet of consumptive patients are designated in Dr. Schenck's Almanack, which are distributed gratuitously. In general, the most nutritious articles are to be preferred; but the digestive organs must be strengthened in order to make either food or medicine serviceable. This requirement is met by the Sea Weed Tonic, and for this purpose it was designed.

When the digestive powers are put in good order, the food has its proper effect, the system of the patient is invigorated, and the lungs begin to exercise their functions in a healthy and healthy manner. Then the healing powers of the Pulmonic Syrup will complete the cure.

Pulmonary Consumption is almost always complicated with Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint. Schenck's Mandrake Pills are intended to remove obstructions from the liver and restore its healthy action. They have all the efficacy which is ascribed to calomel or "blue mass," and are warranted not to contain a particle of any mineral poison. These pills cure the the most obstinate costiveness, sick headache, piles, billious affections, and all other diseases which arise from a torpid or obstructed condition of the liver. One box of these pills will prove the efficacy of the medicine.

In Consumption, the Sea Weed Tonic and Mandrake Pills are invaluable auxiliary medicines. They relieve the sufferings of the patient and assist the Pulmonic Syrup in effecting a cure. They have been found useful in advanced stages of Consumption, where the lungs were almost entirely destroyed, and all symptoms, according to the judgement of physicians, indicated speedy death. Lives of patients who were actually in a dying condition have been preserved for months by the use of Schenck's three great remedies.

DR. SCHENCK'S Almanac, containing a full treatise on the various forms of disease, his mode of treatment and general directions how to use his medicine, can be had gratis, or sent by mail by addressing his Principal Office, No. 15 North Sixth Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

CITY COUNCIL. — In the Aldermen, Thursday evening, — full Board, and Mayor in the Chair.

Hon. Wm. Simes appeared and stated that the Culvert under the new Myrtle Road, was insufficient and wrongly placed to take the water from his land; and the sum of $15 was voted him to open old ditch through City land.

Mr. W. F. Fernald asked that Freeman's Point Road might be defined, as it was being fenced of various widths in different parts, and he could not tell where to place his fence. Referred to Com. on Streets, with power to act.

A. L. Jones, Esq., called the attention of the Board to the sewer near head of Richards Avenue; and most of the Aldermen being aware that the drainage there is insufficient, the Com. on Streets were given power to act in the matter immediately.

Peirce P. Penhallow, per his Att'y, A. J. Penhallow, petitioned the Board to consider the case of his house No. 2 South Mill Street, recently in charge of the City for small-pox case; and his request for such compensation as the Board thinks fit, was referred to the Com. on Claims.

John Marston's request that his three-years' lease of Spring Market be transferred to Randall & Caswell, was referred to Com. on City Lands and Buildings. [Several members seemed to think this building ought to be reopened for a free produce market again.]

B. Norton's petition for 110 feet of Concrete Sidewalk on Cabot Street, was recommended by the Street Committee to be granted—and it was done, with the proviso that good curb-stones be laid, and the Com. on Sts. decide as to the quality of the materials used. Ald. Cotton moved to amend by inserting brick instead of concrete. Ald. Miller was decidedly in favor of the concrete—had tested it, and had no doubt it would work as well here as in Manchester, Concord, Newburyport, Boston and elsewhere. As to the objection, that our soil is different and unsuitable—he thought the concrete would stand better anywhere than brick. It was voted that Mr. Norton have permission to lay concrete walk, with above restrictions.

L. D. Spalding, for School Com., asked that the seats in the Court House School Room may be moved to the Plains School, where 23 seats have been at various times broken and are missing. The Sch. Committee were blamed for allowing such destruction; and the matter was referred to Com. on Schoolhouses, to report.

Petition of Hon. Wm. Simes, to remove tree on Court St., was referred to Com. on Sts., with power to act.

Ald. Nowell moved that a man be appointed to take care of the new State St. Ward Room; and the Board appointed himself to that position. [The other Ward Rooms have always sadly needed keepers.]

The City Clerk stated that he had received four sealed envelopes, which probably contained bids for the City Printing. Ald. Pender moved that they be accepted, and referred to the Com. on Printing, with power to act.

Ald. Cotton moved that they be read—and finally demanded this as a right. Ald. Nowell would like to hear them read.

Ald. Miller stated that the Chronicle Office had not been invited to bid at all. The Clerk stated that he notified Miller & Vaughan, but not the Chronicle proprietors separately, as the senior proprietor was the same in both firms. Ald. Miller's idea was, that the Republican newspapers only should be the recipients of Republican party patronage.

After a good deal of discussion,—the Mayor and Ald. Cotton, Nowell, and Clark advocating the opening of bids, and Ald. Spinney, Pender, Miller and Pendexter opposing, and Ald. Miller, chairman of the Com. on Printing, having stated that he was ready and willing to resign the positon if the Board preferred—on his motion, (Ald. Pender seconding,) it was voted that the bids and the whole matter of the Printing be referred to the Com. on Printing, with power to act. Also, that the Chronicle office be allowed and invited to bid any time Friday, the bids to remain sealed in the hands of the Clerk, until called for by the Com. These votes were both almost if not quite unanimous.

During the discussion, Ald. Nowell stated that the Republicans ought to have preference in the matter.

Thus was this vexed question placed just where it has been left for many years before, (until the last year's unfortunate exception,) with the Com. on Printing—who awarded the job to the Journal office. Let the eagle scream; let the Buzzard hiss.

In the Common Council,—(the first meeting since July 1st, and called by the Mayor, at the request of Ald. Miller and others,—) a new survey of the Summer Street extension, by Mr. Hoyt, with four feet cut and fill, instead of six as previously adopted by the Aldermen, and now under contract,—and injunction laid by the Mayor, was presented by the Com. on Streets. But instead of adopting the new grade, or any grade, Councilman Gammon of Ward One offered the following resolution, which was carried by Yeas 5, Nays 4, and which we give verbatim et literatim as a specimen of Opposition classics in the City government:

Voted by the Common Council, that the highway leading from Middle Street opposite Summer Street, to Lincoln Avenue, liad out by the Mayor and Aldermen Jan. 2, 1869, be discintinued.

The spelling is Councilman Gammon's (whom some folks think well named;) and as the Aldermen must vote likewise before such a provision can take effect, and even then the County Commissioners would be called upon in the matter, and there is no doubt but they would order the road built forthwith—the eminent Councilman Gammon himself is much more likely to be discintinued, than the new Summer Street. As to whether anybody has liad about the street, we shall not dispute with Mr. Gammon. The Yeas in favor of killing the road were, Senter, Gammon, Hoyt, Marden, Badger, 5; nays Plaisted, Hidden, Marvin, Dixon, 4.

The Ordinances relating to Quarantine and Licensing Dogs, sent down from the Aldermen, were referred to the Com. on Bills on 2nd Reading. Adjourned to the call of the Mayor.

A PACIFIC RAILWAY

GOLD LOAN $6,500,000.

We beg leave to announce that we have accepted the agency of the

KANSAS PACIFIC RAILWAY COMPANY,

For the sale of its

NEW SEVEN PER CENT.
Thirty Year Gold Loan,
Free from Tax.

This Loan amounts to $6,500,000.

First Mortgage Land-Grant and Sinking Fund Bonds,

secured upon the extension of the Railway from near Sheridan, in Kansas, to Denver, Colorado, a distance of 237 miles of which 12 miles are completed, and the rest is under construction. It is also a Mortgage upon the Road, the Rolling Stock and Franchise of this first-class Railway, besides now running through the State of Kansas,

And in successful operation for 437 miles

west of the Missouri River, and earning already enough to meet all of its expenses and existing obligations, besides MORE THAN THE INTEREST UPON THIS NEW LOAN. In addition to this the Bonds are also secured by a first mortgage of the

GOVERNMENT LAND GRANT OF THREE MILLION ACRES,

extending in alternate sections on either side of the track, from the 394th mile post in Kansas to Denver. The proceeds of the sale of these lands are to be invested by the Trustees in the 7 per cent Bonds, themselves up to 120 in U. S. Bonds, as

A SINKING FUND FOR THE REDEMPTION OF THE BONDS.

The Lands embrace some of the finest portions of the magnificent Territory of Colorado, including a coal field and pinery. The company also holds as an asset another tract of

Three Millions of Acres in the State of Kansas,

and although not pledged as a security for this Loan, their possession adds largely to the Company's wealth and credit. We estimate the

Value of the Company's property, covered by this mortgage at $23,000,000 net, while the Loan is merely $6,500,000.

The Bonds have

THIRTY YEARS TO RUN,

from May 1, 1869, and will pay

SEVEN PER CENT. INTEREST IN GOLD, semi-annually, on May 1 and Nov. 1, and are FREE FROM GOVERNMENT TAXATION, the Company paying the tax.

The principal of the Loan is made payable in Gold, in the City of New York, but each coupon will be

PAYABLE IN FRANKFORT, LONDON OR N. YORK at option of the holder, with notice, at the following rates:

On $1,000 Bond in N. Y. $35 (gold) each half year.
" London....£7 sd. 10, "
" Frankfort. 57 flr. 30 krtcz., "

The Agents of the Loan, before accepting the trust had the condition of the Road, and the country through which it runs, carefully examined. They are happy to give the Loan an emphatic endorsement as a

FIRST CLASS INVESTMENT,

in every respect perfectly sure, and in some essential even

Better than Government Securities.

The Bonds will be sold for the present at

96, and accrued Interest, both in Currency,

the Agents reserving the right to advance the rate.

The attention of investors is invited to these well-secured bonds, which we recommend as one of the most profitable investments in the market.

Gold and Government Securities taken in payment at their market value, without commission.

Morning Chronicle.

Correspondent Chronicle and Gazette.

BOSTON, Oct. 19.

Those who live in cities (even if no larger than Boston,) are treated most sparingly to the glories of autumn. A bit of woodbine or ivy, sanctifying a church with a coloring that stained glass, fresco and gilding are powerless to match; a stray maple, clothed in the garniture that bespeaks the near approach of winter with its icy shroud; the falling of leaves, the exodus of organ grinders, the loads of coal dumped upon the sidewalks; these are about all the reminders that are vouchsafed us that the year has reached its fruition. Even if the late gales had not so ruthlessly stripped the foliage from the trees in our public squares, those trees are too generally elms to admit of much of that display of gorgeous coloring in which the maple and sumach are so lavish.

Out of town, the lover of the beautiful is gratified by a multiplicity of colors in every gradation, displayed by the trees that line our beautiful suburban drives. On Sunday the splendid driveway around the new Chestnut Hill Reservoir was literally crowded with carriages; old and young, rich and poor, all basking alike in the pure bracing air, the bright sunshine, and the charming landscape. What Central Park is for turnouts in New York, Chestnut Hill will be for the owners of fine equipages in Boston.

By the way, I noticed in a Boston paper some weeks] since, that of the four-in-hand drags so popular elsewhere, Boston had not one. If I am not egregiously at fault, I have seen the resident British Consul bowling up Beacon street with such a team.

Private telegraphs are becoming an institution. Messrs. J. P. Barnard & Co. have one connecting their large stables on Joy and Myrtle streets in this city with their still larger stable in Charlestown. The apparatus is very neat and compact, with stand and all occupying no more room than an ordinary sewing machine. Does a gentleman wish a horse and buggy, when they chance to have none in their city stables; click, click — away over the wires goes the order to the Charlestown stable: "Send horse and buggy to Mr. Flash, 3 Somerset street," and the team is at his door in twenty minutes.

When the Hotel Pelham was moved, we were hardly prepared for new surprises in that line, but since then a house has been moved from South Boston, across the harbor, to East Boston. It was placed upon a large barge, and taken in tow by a steamer.

Between Beacon and Mt. Vernon streets, running from Walnut to Charles, lies probably the most aristocratic street in Boston. Without a single fine house in its entire length, most of them being plain, time-honored buildings, such as we have come to consider characteristic of Salem, Newburyport, or Portsmouth; with its surface unruffled by the tide of passing traffic, and its sidewalks rarely echoing the footsteps of a stranger, Chestnut street is a place of seclusion in the heart of a large city, an abode of quiet amid turmoil. M.

HOW SOME OF OUR MERCHANTS HAVE RISEN.—A few years ago, a large drug firm in this city advertised for a boy. Next day the store was thronged with applicants, among them a queer-looking little fellow, accompanied by a woman, who proved to be his aunt, in lieu of faithless parents by whom he had been abandoned. Looking at this little waif, the merchant in the store promptly said: "Can't take him; places all full, besides, he is to small." "I know he is small," said the woman, "but he is willing and faithful." There was a twinkle in the boy's eyes which made the merchant think again. A partner in the firm volunteered to remark that he "did not see what they wanted of such a boy—he wasn't bigger than a pint of cider." But after consultation the boy was set to work. A few days later a call was made on the boys in the store for some one to stay all night. The prompt response of the little fellow contrasted well with the reluctance of others. In the middle of the night the merchant looked in to see if all was right in the store, and presently discovered his youthful protege busy scissoring labels. "What are you doing?" said he; "I did not tell you to work nights." "I know you did not tell me so, but I thought I might as well be doing something." In the morning the cashier got orders to "double that boy's wages, for he is willing." Only a few weeks elapsed before a show of wild beasts passed through the streets, and very naturally all hands in the store rushed to witness the spectacle. A thief saw his opportunity, and entered at the rear door to seize something, but in a twinkling found himself firmly clutched by the diminutive clerk aforesaid, and, after a struggle, was captured. Not only was a robbery prevented, but valuable articles taken from other stores were recovered. When asked by the merchant why he staid behind to watch when all others quit their work, the reply was, "You told me never to leave the store when others were absent, and I thought I'd stay." Orders were immediately given once more: "Double that boy's wages; he is willing and faithful." To-day that boy is getting a salary of $2,500, and next January will become a member of the firm.—N. Y. Republic.

THE BALLAD OF A BAKER.

Joe Brown, he was a baker-man,
A baker-man was Joe:
He ne'er was known to want for aught,
And yet he kneaded dough.

And he was ragged, hearty, too,
And had a long life lease:
And all because he rose up with
The early rising yeast.

To never cheat his customers
This man was early taught;
And yet his loaves were always light,
His pie-crust rather short.

And he was gen'rous hearted, too.
And kind unto the needy,
And neat and tasty in his dress,
Although his cakes were seedy.

With him none dared to bandy jokes,
Whene'er he sought the marts,
For well they knew his repartees
Were sharper than his tarts.

And while I say his skill was great
In getting up a muffin,
His pastry filled the mouths of all,
And needs no further puffin'.

'Tis said he was a temp'rance man;
If so, I can't tell why
He mixed with wheat and corn meal, too,
A trifle of the rye.

When age at last o'ertook the man,
His frame was bent and sore,
And, like the cake he used to bake,
His head was frosted o'er.

And when he died all mourned his loss,
With no sectarian bias,
For he had been a friend to all,
A good man and a pie-cus.

HIS EPITAPH.

Beneath this crust of up-heaved earth
A well bred baker lies;
And, like the rolls he used to mould,
We hope at last he'll rise.

George Washington is an inmate of the State Prison, at Concord, and was recently so unfortunate as to cut off his little finger with a circular saw. He is of African descent.

Mr. Samuel Sawyer, of Wolfeborough, gathered eleven barrels of apples from one tree, a few days since.

The Pittsfield Times says that Mrs, Charlotte Sherburne of Chichester, who was eighty-one years old last May, recently knit a pair of stockings in one day of fourteen hours. "Aunt Betsy Ham," of Epsom, in her eighty-sixth year, walked to Deerfield, a distance of four miles, and spun four skeins of woolen yarn, before sunset of the same day.

On Wednesday evening, the 20th inst., two young ladies from Dover went to the Essex House, Salem, Mass., with a gentleman, who registered their names as Nellie and Fannie Fogg. The ladies were shown to their room, and on going to bed blew out the gas! Groaning] was heard to proceed from the room on the following morning, the door was forced open, and one of the girls discovered under the bed and the other in the bed, both insensible. Medical aid was immediately rendered, and they finally recovered.

The first number of a new work entitled "New Hampshire in the Great Rebellion" has appeared. It is prepared by Col. Otis F. R. Waite, of Claremont, and published by Tracy, Chase & Co., of that town.

In 1810 only eleven newspapers were published in the State, one of them being the New Hampshire Gazette. Five are still in existence and flourishing. The number now published is thirty-six, or reckoning dailies apart from the weeklies in conection with which they are issued, forty-three.

Ex-Governor Smyth of Manchester declines serving as a referee in the Fogg and Statesman controversy.

Two men recently passed through Wakefield and stole a large number of house door keys, it is supposed for burglarious purposes.

The town authorities of Gorham assert their entire inability to rebuild the Glen road, which was so badly injured by the great storm that its location must be changed. It will cost $19,000, and applications for aid will be made to the next Legislature.

The house of Dr. William A. Bucklin, of Belmont, was broken into on the night of the 11th inst., and $229 were taken from under that gentleman's pillow. No clue to the thief has yet been obtained.

One of the Messrs. Thompkinson, file-makers at Plymouth, broke his leg while trying to save his property during the freshet.

—An Iowa paper says:—"It is all a mistake about Henry Clay Dean being a vain man. Soft soap has the least effect on him of any man we ever saw."

DODD'S NERVINE ONCE MORE.
THE STANDARD REMEDY for biliousness with the medical profession is the Anti-Bilious Pill of the American Pharmacopœia. And its reputation has been well enough deserved. But it is a Pill, nevertheless, and most people of sensibility feel something about as big as a meeting house coming into their throat whenever a pill is spoken of. DODD'S NERVINE AND INVIGORATOR acts efficiently on the biliary organism; it irritates neither stomach nor intestine in all its [operation; and what is VERY IMPORTANT, as all good nurses know, it is MOST AGREEABLE TO TAKE, being as pleasant to the palate as any delicate wine. We all know how it is with Cod Liver Oil. In a pure state it is excellent for certain conditions of debility, and particularly in tendencies to Consumption; and yet many of the best physicians decline to prescribe it, because it so dreadfully sickens the patient. That, they say, makes it do more harm than good. With Dodd's Nervine all this becomes obstacle. For sale by all Druggists. Price $1. o21w

WHAT ARE
DR. J. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA Vinegar Bitters.
THEY ARE NOT A VILE FANCY DRINK, Made of Poor Rum, Whiskey, Proof Spirits, and refuse Liquors, doctored, spiced, and sweetened to please the taste, called "Tonics," "Appetisers" "Restorers," &c., that lead the tippler on to drunkenness and ruin, but are a true Medicine, made from the Native Roots and Herbs of California, free from all Alcoholic Stimulants. They are the GREAT BLOOD-PURIFIER and LIFE-GIVING PRINCIPLE, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the system, carrying off all poisonous matter, and restoring the blood to a healthy condition. No person can take these Bitters according to directions and remain long unwell. $100 will be given for an incurable case, provided the bones are not destroyed by mineral poisons or other means, the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair.
FOR INFLAMMATORY AND CHRONIC RHEUMATISM, AND GOUT, DYSPEPSIA, or INDIGESTION, BILLIOUS, REMITTENT, and INTERMITTENT FEVERS, DISEASES OF THE BLOOD, LIVER, KIDNEYS, and BLADDER, these BITTERS have been most successful. SUCH DISEASES are caused by VITIATED BLOOD, which is generally produced by derangement of the DIGESTIVE ORGANS.
Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins, cleanse it when it is foul, and your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood healthy, and all will be well.
These Bitters are not a gilded pill, to delight the eye or please the fancy, but a medical preparation, composed of the best vegetable ingredients known.
They an Alterative, Tonic, Diuretic, Sedative, Diaphoretic, and Gentle Purgative.
"The Life of all Flesh is the Blood thereof."—Purify the blood and the health of the whole system will follow.

GREAT SUN-SUN CHOP. 12w

"Ingenio Stat Sine Morte Decus."

ROCKY MOUNTAIN BITTERS
IS a very superior Regulating Tonic, imparting vigor and strength to the constitution—a thoro'
PURIFIER OF THE BLOOD,
a regulator of nervous force, and a powerful sustainer of health against the encroachments of disease.
The invalid and convalescing seeking restoration, and yearning for the healing virtues of some magic balm, will find in these Bitters a hidden mysterious power, which QUIETLY RESTORES, yet refuses to reveal to the senses anything but taste and color.
It is a pleasant Bitter, free from all nauseous properties odor, entirely vegetable, being mainly grown at the base of the mountains from which they derive their name, and is particularly adapted to all forms of
DYSPEPSIA OR INDIGESTION,
manifesting themselves by the following symptoms: headache, nervousness, loss of memory, low spirits, giddiness, dimness of sight, dulness of hearing, and ringing noises in the ears, eructations, of belching of wind, tightness of breathing, weight and oppression of the chest, uneasy feeling about the heart, palpitation, &c.
Also for Liver Diseases, Disorders of the Kidneys, Restlessness and loss of Muscular Power, these Bitters will be found almost a specific; and as a preventative of
FEVER AND AGUE
or a restorer of the natural powers of the system, when broken down by continued ague attacks; it has no equal.
Being stimulating, (but not intoxicating), they invigorate and quicken both mind and body, heighten the sensibility, clear and sharpen the faculties, and bestow alacrity and cheerfulness of spirits.
"Rocky Mountain Bitters."

"DE MORTUIS NIL NISI BONUM."—The comments of the Republican press upon the late ex-President Pierce, have caused some of the Democratic journals to rake up once more this obsolete maxim of pagan mortality. It becomes therefore to some extent a practical matter whether it contains sound gospel. There is no consideration, which though it may seem to these Democratic moralists very weighty, ought to be conclusive. Truth may make it necessary to say some things not very complimentary to the deceased. A journal is expected not only to give the facts in the life of a public man but to give an estimate of his character, so far as it may be a public concern. In doing this fidelity to truth is above all personal considerations. These obituaries are among the contributions to our current history, and history is worthless unless true. When it comes to this, that journals must utter only stereotyped and indiscriminate praise of the dead, the whole thing becomes a farce, equally valueless in the living and to the dead. Public opinion will soon penetrate the thin veil of hypocritical commendation, and as surely as liars are not to be believed even when they tell the truth, the journals who follow this practice will lose credit by it. What is it but a negative lie to fail of telling the whole truth where it may justly be expected? Even what is just in eulogy will go for nothing or be received with suspicion when it is pronounced blindly. The result will be that merit as well as demerit will fail of its just deserts.

Nothing has tendered more to the discredit of journalism than infidelity to truth in obedience to passion or prejudice. It has almost become a proverb that the statements or judgements of partisan journals cannot be relied upon as truthful or sincere on any subject in which the interest of party is involved. It will always be so while they allow a blind servility to friends, a blind opposition to foes, or a morbid tenderness for the living or the dead, to deter them from judging and speaking without favor, without fear, and without partiality. The Democratic papers claim exemption for their Pierce because, as they allege, they spared the faults of Mr. Lincoln, Mr. Fessenden and other eminent Republican statesmen. That makes no difference. If either Democratic or Republican journals intentionally suppress comment on the public faults as well as the public virtues of great men, they were false to their trust and are unworthy of imitation. It is proper indeed that no malicious comment should be indulged in either toward the living or the dead. Justice to society, not malice toward the delinquent, is the motive, that should dictate all condemnatory remarks. But it is better that the columns of our journals be blank than that they be filled up with heartless adulation, which as every body knows is a hollow fiction that means nothing. If a journalist undertakes to give a portrait of a public man let it be true to nature.—Portland Press.

The Press but represents the views of every man who despises hypocrisy. Journalists have a duty they owe to themselves and the public, to speak justly in all things. While feeling sorrowful that any necessity has occurred to speak plainly of the failure and past public life of a lately deceased ex-official, whose private faults we should not feel excusable in discussing publicly, we have noticed among our most valued exchanges a proper spirit of criticism of his public acts. Among the severest but most just are those of the N. Y. Independent, Liberal Christian, Boston Sunday Times, Biddeford Journal and Portland Advertiser. We look with satisfaction on the position assumed by those papers, as evincing a thorough appreciation of the only honorable course to be pursued.

Every man's legacy to his fellow men is productive of good or evil. A bad example deserves prompt condemnation, for its influence extends beyond a life time. If there is no condemnation for evil deeds or opportunities lost by weakness, then those who find it policy to gloss over the iniquities, or hesitate from a mistaken notion that the truth though still the truth must not be spoken, are but accomplices after the act. The purity of journalism will never be maintained by truckling to a morbid sentiment.

The course of the Republican press in speaking truthfully of the public life of the late Ex-President Pierce, has developed a wonderful amount of feeling among those of his supporters who were the most eager to vilify Ex-President Lincoln for months after his assassination, and who do not hesitate to-day to use the most obscene and abusive language in reference to him. These buzzards now prate of the wickedness of honest criticism, and hasten to eulogise their own departed leader with a sentimentality that is sickening in the extreme. Their praise cannot brighten the reputation of any man, for praise from such a source is worse than their vilest words of bitter denunciation. That such eulogists are few and their eulogisms obscurely published is fortunate for the reputations of the dead they are so eager to praise.

AMUSING STATISTICS.—Those who were amused at the state of affairs disclosed by the official statistics lately published,—and I think all must have been amused who read them,—may have observed that there is a little difference in the rank, and of course in the pay, awarded to men for the same length of service in different departments of the navy. For instance: the men who have served seven years as line officers—four years of that time being spent in learning to be officers—rank as lieutenants, and after eleven years as lieutenant-commanders; yet three-fourths of the surgeons in the navy have served twelve years, and four-fifths of the chief engineers nearly seventeen years, since they entered the service fully qualified for their duties, and still they rank only with lieutenants. The above terms of service are the average of each class, as compiled from the Navy Registers.

Another little circumstance is worthy of note. The senior lieutenant on the list entered the navy in 1861, eight years ago. If we deduct four years for his preparatory training, we find that he has actually served but four years. The senior surgeon on the list of those ranking with lieutenants, entered the service as a surgeon, fully prepared to practice as a surgeon, in 1844; and now, after twenty-five years' service, he also has risen to the astounding rank of lieutenant! Comment here is useless.

Is it in accordance with the spirit of republicanism that one class receives the lion's share of the honors and emoluments, while the others, with equal education and brains, (to speak very moderately,) are expected to bring the best abilities to a faithful service of the country, that the favored ones may have honor and be exalted thereby? Or are the pretensions of the line officers based on the fact that the paymasters are business men, and the doctors and engineers already fitted for their respective duties, at their own expense, when they enter the navy, while the line officers enter it as untrained boys, and each costs the people of the United States $25,000 for education, before being fit for use at all?

I will relate a couple of incidents illustrating the just and equal working of the laws regulating promotion in the navy. Some years ago a naval surgeon attended a lady during her confinement. A boy came to the light, lived, thrived, entered the navy, and today, as a lieutenant-commander, ranks by one grade the man who officiated as accoucheur at his birth! Somewhat similar is the case of at least seven surgeons, and three or more engineers, who now rank with lieutenants, who were naval surgeons and engineers at the time of another boy's birth. This boy in course of time entered the navy, and is now a lieutenant-commander, thus ranking by one grade the staff officers who were in the service before he was born! If this is not ludicrous, I would like to hear of something that is.

The staff argue that, having once held a certain rank, received pay for the same, and been fully recognised in his possession of it by the government, an officer cannot legally be reduced to a lower grade for no fault or incapacity of his own, and without even a court-martial. Attorney-General Hoar is of the opinion (and he probably knows something about it) that the order degrading the staff is legal—but I don't care whether it is legal or not. If it is illegal, the law is most miserably defective that leaves so important a point in doubt. If it is legal, then the law that sanctions such arbitrary, rascally injustice, needs mending the worst kind; and about the easiest way to mend it will be to make a new one,—for such a wretched old affair isn't worth tinkering at.

I have done with the Amusing Statistics, and my comments thereon, for the present; and only regret that want of space prevented me from giving entire the table from which I made extracts.

But in this connection I wish to refer once again to the irreverent, disobedient doctor, Mr. Chas. L. Green, of whom I had occasion to speak a week or two since. That gentleman, I am informed, having been ordered away again, (tho' he had but just returned from duty afloat—and in the Nipsic, with Mr. Selfridge in command, at that!) promptly resigned his commission. I do not wonder at it. The wonder would be that an honorable and able medical man, possessing the admirable moral and professional courage exhibited by Surgeon Green, should consent to serve longer in the navy after a court-martial had decided that he could only remain as a captain's clerk,—for that is exactly what the decision amounts to. I take my leave of naval affairs—"for a short time only"—with a quotation from an article on naval abuses in the New York Republic: "two distinguished surgeons have already decided to relinquish their office rather than join the Nipsic with Selfridge as her commander."

PAKEHA.

THE COLISEUM.—The Executive Committee of the National Peace Jubilee Association having finally closed their accounts, make the following statement of the pecuniary results of that great enterprise:

Total receipts from sale of tickets, rent of rooms, and all other sources, $290,270 33

Expended as follows:

Cost of Coliseum building	$120,750 68
Musicians, vocal and instr'l	79,366 65
Board and lodging do.	26,200 85
Advertising	27,298 96
Decorations of building	11,170 12
Music and printing	5,533 94
Messrs. Hook for organ	3,000 00
Doorkeepers—sale of tickets	2,504 31
Incidentals, land damages, gas, water, clerk hire, &c.,	7,562 78
	$283,388 29
Balance in Treasury	6,882 04

Contrary to general expectation, the receipts of the Jubilee were sufficient to pay all its expenses, without calling upon the guarantee fund; and there is in the treasury, as above stated, a balance of $6882 04, which is absolutely at the disposal of the Committee, to be used for the reimbursement of their own expenses, compensation for their services, or for any other purpose to which they may please to appropriate it. They have unanimously decided to add this amount to the proceeds of the benefit-concert given to Mr. Gilmore, and as their own testimonial of their appreciation of his genius and tireless energy inaugurating in one of the most brilliant entertainments of modern times. The proceeds of that concert amounted to $32,146; add balance in treasury, $6882 04, making a total testimonial placed in trust for Mr. Gilmore and his family of $39,028,04.

The entertainments advertised in connection with the final disposal of the Coliseum building, had no connection whatever with the National Peace Jubilee, nor with those who conducted it. At the meeting to choose a Committee to draw the Coliseum and contents, it was stated that Mr. Patrick Donahoe had purchased 500 tickets on his own account, and 5000 more for his friends.

☞ The owner of the ticket which is entitled to the Coliseum is Mr. J. L. Merguire, who is a lumber dealer on Charles street, Boston. Mr. Merguire, in company with some others, entered into an arrangement with the Coliseum Association, whereby they agreed to buy all the tickets remaining unsold on the morning of the drawing, at a certain price—said to be something like 18 cents apiece. It is supposed that quite a large number fell to Mr. Merguire in this way, and that he was the most extensive owner of tickets. The sum which was paid must have been quite large, and as several other parties are in partnership with Mr. Merguire in the arrangement, he will not expect to have his tax bill increased by the sum of $15,000 next year.

SUIT AGAINST THE COUNTY.—Mr. John E. G. Lyford, the builder of the County Poor House at Brentwood, has commenced a suit against the County for extra work in the construction of the building, and has filed a claim for about $5000. These extra charges are made for work done outside of the contract, or caused by deviations from the agreement by orders of the Chairman of the building Committee. The County Commissioners have paid over to the building Committee the amount called for by the contract, and they still hold part of the money in their hands, refusing to allow Mr. Lyford's claim. This Committee not being recognized as the legal representatives of the County, Mr. Lyford has sued the County through the Commissioners.

"FATHER" PRENTISS, the patriarch of the New-Hampshire Press, is approaching the age of 92. He is still in the enjoyment of good health, and, though his eyesight has failed greatly in the year past, is able to write us a somewhat extended letter, which gives no indication of failing vigor either in the matter or the handwriting. He is arranging as usual for his next year's gardening, remarking that "the times and seasons are not ours." Verily, as we sow so shall we reap. His life of uprightness and active industry is bringing him much good fruit in his ripe old age.

The city government of Boston used up one hundred and seventy-six bottles of champagne wine, besides bottles of stronger liquid and one thousand five hundred cigars, at a cost of over two thousand dollars, in their Rocky Point excursions to celebrate the landing of the French cable at Duxbury.

The Great Vitalizer.

This title may be fairly given to a restorative which has taken precedence of all other tonic and alterative preparations for a period of nearly twenty years. During that long interval HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS may be truly said to have enjoyed unrivalled popularity. Many preparations have been got up to compete with it, but they have all fallen into its wake or sunk into oblivion for lack of patronage. From the first this now world-renowned Vegetable Tonic has been both medicinally and financially successful. Every year has added to the number of its friends and the demand for it, based solely upon the extraordinary merit of its medicinal, tonic, alterative and curative, seems to have no assignable limit. The medical profession sanction and approve its use, and it is now at the head of the class of medicines to which it belongs, the admitted, undisputed SOVEREIGN TONIC OF THE AGE. The statistics of the United States Revenue department will verify the statement that it stands alone and unapproached in the magnitude of its sales as compared with those of any other proprietory remedy advertised on this side of the Atlantic.

The Explanation of this fact may be comprised in a few words, HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS is at once the purest, the safest and the most potent of all vegetable tonics, and the best antidote to every variety of malarious disease. Hence it is especially adapted to the present season of chilling dews and unwholesome vapors.

THE LATEST DISCOVERY

In Medication.

The great difficulty which physicians have been laboring for centuries to overcome, has at length been obviated. A vegetable Cathartic and alterative more efficient than any mineral preparation of the same class, and as agreeable as the candy or ordinary candy, is now offered to the sick in the form of a Lozenge.

DR. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S

is the most important medicinal novelty that modern chemistry has produced. It contains two botanical extracts, perfectly harmless in themselves, but embodying all the remedial properties of mercury, and destined in this pleasant form to supersede and banish from general use, the nauseous pills and portions of which that dangerous excitant is the main ingredient. More than were made by the inventor of this lozenge previously before it was brought to its present state of perfection. The Lozenge is harmless in its operation, and altogether the medicinal taste of its curative ingredient has been extinguished by chemical art, their virtues remain as active and potent as ever.

One thousand experiments

In Dyspepsia, Biliousness Constipation, Sick or Nervous Headache, Piles, Dropsy, and the irregularities to which the fairer sex are subject, this Lozenge will be found infinitly more effective than any of the horrible and disgusting compounds usually administered in such cases. As an antibilious specific and general aperient, they have no equal either among advertised preparations or the prescriptions of the regular pharmacopeia.

☞ It is guaranteed that no one who has once tried Dr. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S Liver and Stomach Lozenge, will ever again take a purgative powder, or drink a bottle of pill.

Who are so often afflicted with throat diseases, will find a sure remedy in this Balsam. Lozenges and wafers sometimes give relief, but this Balsam, taken a few times, will insure a permanent cure.

Will all those afflicted with Coughs or Consumption, give this Balsam a fair trial, they will be satisfied with the result, and confess that the sure remedy is found at last.

CONSUMPTION.

DR. SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP for the cure of Coughs, Colds and Consumption.

DR. SCHENCK'S SEAWEED TONIC for the Dyspepsia, Liver and all the Debilitated Conditions of the Stomach.

DR. SCHENCK'S MANDRAKE PILLS for Diseases of the Liver, or to act as a gentle Purgative.

All of these three medicines are often required in curing Consumption, though the Pulmonic Syrup alone has cured many desperate cases. The Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills assist in regulating the Stomach and Liver, and help the Pulmonic Syrup to digest and search through the blood vessels, by which means a cure is soon effected.

These medicines are conscientiously offered to the public as the only safe, certain and reliable remedies for Pulmonary Consumption, and for all those morbid conditions of the body which lead to that fatal disease. Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia are often forerunners of Consumption, and when they manifest themselves they require the most prompt attention.

The Pulmonic Syrup is a medicine which has had a long probation before the public. Its value has been through a period of more than thirty-five years, in all of which time its reputation has constantly increased, and the most obstinate skepticism can no longer doubt that it is a remedy which may be used with confidence in all cases which admit of a cure.

If the patient will perseveringly follow the directions which accompany each bottle, he will certainly be cured, if his lungs are not too much wasted to make a cure possible. Even in cases supposed to be incurable, when friends and physicians have despaired, the use of the medicine has saved the life of the patient, and restored him to perfect health.

Dr. Schenck himself was cured in precisely such circumstances, and many others have been equally fortunate by judiciously making a timely use of Dr. Schenck's remedies.

Dr. Schenck does not say that all cases of Pulmonary Consumption are within the reach of medicine, but he emphatically asserts that as often when patients have the most alarming symptoms, such as a violent cough, creeping chills, night sweats, and general debility, they are not in a degree that they are obliged to lie in bed, and when they are given up by their physicians, they may still be cured. No medical treatment can create new lungs, but when the lungs are very badly diseased, and to some extent destroyed, a cure may be effected by Dr. Schenck's medicines.

Also in Scrofulous diseases these medicines are equally efficient. Dr. Schenck has photographs of a number of persons who have been nearly covered with running sores, and all healed up. This shows its purifying properties, which must be done to heal cavities in the lungs.

In the treatment of Consumption, it is of the utmost importance to give vigor and a healthy tone in the system. Hence it is necessary to strengthen the appetite of the patient, and improve the digestion. Proper nourishment is required, together with such means as will make the food easily digestible. The articles most suitable for the diet of consumptive patients are designated in Dr. Schenck's Almanacs, which are distributed gratuitously. In general, the most nutritious articles are to be preferred; but the digestive organs must be strengthened in order to enjoy either food or medicine serviceable. This requirement is met by the Sea Weed Tonic, and for this purpose it was designed.

When the digestive powers are put in good order, the food has its proper effect, the system of the patient is invigorated, and the lungs begin to exercise their functions in a normal and healthy manner. Then the healing powers of the Pulmonic Syrup will complete the cure.

Pulmonary Consumption is almost always complicated with Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint. Schenck's Mandrake Pills are intended to remove obstructions from the liver and restore its healthy action. They have all the virtues which is ascribed to calomel or "blue mass," and are warranted not to contain a particle of any mineral poison. These pills cure the the most obstinate costiveness, sick headache, piles, billious affections, and all other diseases which arise from a torpid or diseased condition of the liver. One box of these pills will prove the efficacy of the medicine.

In Consumption, the Sea Weed Tonic and Mandrake Pills are invaluable auxiliary medicines. They relieve the sufferings of the patient and assist the Pulmonic Syrup in effecting a cure. They have been found useful in advanced stages of Consumption, where the lungs were almost entirely destroyed, and all symptoms, according to the judgement of physicians, indicated speedy death. Lives of patients who were actually in a dying condition have been preserved for months by the use of Schenck's three great remedies.

DR. SCHENCK'S Almanac, containing a full treatise on the various forms of disease, his mode of treatment and general directions how to use his medicine, can be had gratis or sent by mail by addressing his Principal Office, No. 15 North Sixth Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

We must refer in terms of eulogy to the high tone and varied excellence of HARPER'S MAGAZINE—a journal with a monthly circulation of about 12,000 copies—in whose pages are to be found some of the choicest light and general reading of the day. We speak of this work as a evidence of the culture of the American people; and the popularity it has acquired is merited. Each Number contains fully 144 pages of reading matter, appropriately illustrated with good woodcuts; and it combines in itself the racy monthly and the more philosophical quarterly, blended with the best features of the daily journal. It has great power in the dissemination of a love of pure literature.—Trubner's Guide to American Literature, London.

It is one of the wonders of journalism—the editorial management of HARPER'S. * * * All the periodicals which the Harpers publish are almost ideally well edited.—The Nation, N. Y.

We can account for its success only by the simple fact that it meets precisely the popular taste, furnishing a variety of pleasing and instructive reading for all.—Zion's Herald, Boston.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

NAVY YARD MATTERS.—The U. S. S. Pawnee has her sails bent, preparatory to going to sea. Norfolk is her reported destination.

Brig Edwin, Allen, arrived on Monday from Newburg, with timber for the Yard.

☞ A boy who was leading a pair of horses which were hauling a load of coal on the Navy Yard, Monday afternoon, accidentally stumbled backwards and was stepped on by one of the horses, and badly injured.

BE WATCHFUL.—City Marshal Johnson informs us that there is a gang of thieves in and about this city. The Marshal started off five ot them on Sunday and Monday, and says there are more left. He desires our merchants to leave some faithful men in charge of their stores at night, for a week or two, as the sleek, well dressed villains are evidently preparing for a raid. Being warned in time, let property owners be fore-armed in more than one sense.

S. J. COURT,—Judge Bellows,—Monday.—The following cases were disposed ot:

Charles Gray Portsmouth, keeping house of ill fame. Plea, nol con. Sentence $200 fine and costs.

John Grant, Portsmouth, same offence, and same plea. Sentence, $150 fine, with costs.

Chas. G. Smith, assault with intent to kill. Verdict, guilty. Sentence deferred.

John Casey, larceny of watch and chain. Plea, guilty of larceny to value of $20. Sentence, 2 years in State Prison.

☞ We rather regret to notice in the last Journal, that the present publisher deemed it advisable to make any response to an attack (said to be) made on the late C. W. Brewster, in the Opposition organ. His character and memory need no defence, from any charge whatsoever, from such a source; and we can conceive of no circumstances which would call such response, or any response, from us — no matter how false or outrageous the accusation of ourself or friend,—even if we should happen to be informed of its publication, which we should never know otherwise. Nothing that Organ can do or say, will injure any decent man's reputation. Its only capital is abuse of Republicans—and so far as we are concerned, its owners and managers are welcome to all they can make out of it. And we hope the Journal will not couple the late editor's name with any such publication again. Its praise or commendation is only what any true man should fear.

Neither do we believe in the President or his friends contradicting or noticing any of the Opposition attacks and calumnies, on the Government or any officer. This is all the stock in trade of the Opposition, the Outs—let them enjoy it. F.

A CORRECTION.— Mr. James Gammon, member of the Common Council from Ward One, informs us that he did not write the resolution to "discintinue" the new Summer Street, as "liad" out; but only introduced it at the request of another member who did write it. And this statement he proves, by bringing before us in the City Rooms, the other member who acknowledges the paternity of the document. So our strictures on Mr. Jas. Gammon, as to his literary qualifications, do not apply to him, but to the writer of the resolution, whose name we refrain, at the request of both, from giving. Of course, so far as Mr. G. aided and adopted the motion by advocating and voting for it, is he responsible for it and amenable to our strictures.

Mr. Gammon also thinks our allusion, "whether anybody has liad about the Street," may be taken to mean somebody laying about the streets, drunk; but we intended no such intimation, nor is the sentence fairly open to any such construction, especially seeing we used the word street in the singular. We meant to allow the meaning to be, that somebody had lied about the street, if anybody chose to take it so; nor did we refer to Mr. Gammon in this for personally we presume he cares very little about the road—but, we think unwisely, has allowed himself to be used in the matter by a higher power.

The street we desire solely as a public improvement, and only with this view does the Chronicle advocate it, and its construction,—which is only a question of a little time, no matter how much or how unfairly it may be opposed on personal or political grounds. But we desire to do no injustice to Mr. Gammon or any one else. F.

☞ Six boys were arrested by the police on Monday, for stealing grapes from the garden of Mr. John J. Pickering on Sunday.

☞ We understand that Messrs. John Stokell & Co. of this city, have bought of Mr. Charles E. Smith of South Newmarket, his premium yoke of noble fat cattle — which they will bring to their shambles about Thanksgiving time. We don't know anybody who enjoys dealing in first-class meat, more than John Stokell.

☞ Not particularly inspiring for humorous ideas—being obliged to listen to the most dismal strains of mournful music from a violin with piano accompaniment, in the vicinity of an editorial sanctum. G.

☞ The old buildings on High St., auctioned by Mr. William H. Hackett on Monday, were purchased by Mr. Leonard Cotton; one brought $95, another $275, and a shed $7.

BOARD OF TRADE. — The regular Monthly Meeting of the Portsmouth Board of Trade will be held at the Common Council Room, on Tuesday Evening Oct. 26th, at 7 o'clock.

☞ Attention is called to an addition to the advertisement of the Purchasing Paymaster at this Naval Station.

☞ G. A. R. entertainment this evening. See advertisement.

☞ There was a drunken knockdown in Kittery on Sunday night.

PERSONAL.—Brick Pomeroy is very low, with congestion of the lungs.

Mrs. Andrew Johnson is not expected to live through the winter.

Ex-Secretary Stanton is again in very poor health, and a fatal termination of his illness is feared.

Robert Toombs of Georgia is quite sick.

Lord Derby is dead.

George William Curtis receives ten thousand dollars a year for his contributions to Harpers' three periodicals.

☞ Gen. Butterfield is to be removed in consequence of alleged complicity in the late gold scramble.

☞ Another "bull" movement in gold is anticipated.

HUMBUGGED.—Large numbers of people gathered at the seashore in England on the 17th inst., to witness the extraordinary high tide predicted by Lieut. Saxby of the English Navy, as sure to occur on that day, on account of the proximity of the moon to the earth. Excursion trains were run, and the inmates of public institutions were let out to witness the expected phenomenon, but it did not happen. The tide was no higher than usual.

A PACIFIC RAILWAY
GOLD LOAN $6,500,000.

We beg leave to announce that we have accepted the agency of the

KANSAS PACIFIC RAILWAY COMPANY,

For the sale of its

NEW SEVEN PER CENT.
Thirty Year Gold Loan,
Free from Tax.

This Loan amounts to $6,500,000.

First Mortgage Land-Grant and Sinking Fund Bonds,

secured upon the extension of the Railway from near Sheridan, in Kansas, to Denver, Colorado, a distance of 237 miles of which 12 miles are completed, and the rest is under construction. It is also a Mortgage upon the Road, the Rolling Stock and Franchise of this first-class Railway, besides now running through the State of Kansas,

And in successful operation for 437 miles

west of the Missouri River, and earning already enough to meet all of its expenses and existing obligations, besides MORE THAN THE INTEREST UPON THIS NEW LOAN. In addition to this the Bonds are also secured by a first mortgage of the

GOVERNMENT LAND GRANT OF THREE MILLION ACRES,

extending in alternate sections on either side of the track, from the 394th mile post in Kansas to Denver. The proceeds of the sale of these lands are to be invested by the Trustees in the 7 per cent Bonds, themselves up for 120 in U. S. Bonds, as

A SINKING FUND FOR THE REDEMPTION OF THE BONDS.

The Lands embrace some of the finest portions of the magnificent Territory of Colorado, including a coal field and pinery. The company also holds as an asset another tract of

Three Millions of Acres in the State of Kansas,

and although not pledged as a security for this Loan, their possession adds largely to the Company's wealth and credit. We estimate the

Value of the Company's property, covered by this mortgage at $23,000,000 net, while the Loan is merely $6,500,000.

The Bonds have

THIRTY YEARS TO RUN,

from May 1, 1869, and will pay

SEVEN PER CENT. INTEREST IN GOLD, semi-annually, on May 1 and Nov. 1, and are FREE FROM GOVERNMENT TAXATION, the Company paying the tax.

The principal of the Loan is made payable in Gold, in the City of New York, but each coupon will be

PAYABLE IN FRANKFORT, LONDON OR N. YORK at option of the holder, with notice, at the following rates:

On $1,000 Bond in N. Y. $35 (gold) each half year.
" London....67 s6. 8. "
" Frankfort..87 fir. 30 krtzs., "

The Agents of the Loan, before accepting the trust had the condition of the Road, and the country through which it runs, carefully examined. They are happy to give the Loan an emphatic endorsement as a

FIRST CLASS INVESTMENT,

in every respect perfectly sure, and in some essential even

Better than Government Securities.

The Bonds will be sold for the present at

96, and accrued Interest, both in Currency,

the Agents reserving the right to advance the rate.

The attention of investors is invited to these well-secured bonds, which we recommend as one of the most profitable investments in the market.

Gold and Government Securities taken in payment at their market value, without commission.

Pamphlets, with maps giving full information, sent on application.

THE IDEAL FARM.—Every Farmer has, or at least should have, a desire to permanently improve and beautify his estate, at the same time he is getting from it the means of supporting his family. It should be his highest ambition to have the fields in better condition after every harvest, both in respect to fertility and beauty. Year by year the home should be made more attractive, the scene of its surroundings more picturesque. Season by season beauty should spring out of deformity, and "the waste places" be made to "blossom as the rose."

Though something of this kind is doubtless in the mind of almost every farmer who owns the land which he tills, a decade goes by and the farm is no more productive and no more beautiful than it was at the commencement of these ten years of labor; possibly it does not look as well or produce as well as it did at first. Work enough has been done, perhaps too much, for the well-being of the farmer. He has laabored with scarcely a holiday for eight months in the year; "from the rising of the sun to the going down thereof." But the farm, taken as a whole, is no nearer his ideal of a fine place than it was before all this labor was expended upon it. It is no more easily tilled, ne more productive, no more attractive. It may be, in truth, that the trees have become more deformed, the gullies deeper worn, and the fences farther out of line.

Now what has stood in the way of permanently improving the place? Obviously there has been too much hand work and too little head work. In other words, there has been no well matured plan for bringing this estate into the condition the owner would have it. There has been no model before his eyes during all the weary years he has been working away. Had he spent the first winter in maturing his plans for an improved estate—had he drawn a map on which were located his orchard, permanent meadow and artificial forest—had he with the aid of a work on landscape gardening formed a plan for laying out a few acres around his house for pleasure grounds—had he agreed in his mind on the best method of farm drainage, when and where to commence it—had he, in short, developed a plan detail for improving his farm, it would have been by this time, with the same amount of labor he has expended, almost his ideal of a farm and home.

As it is, much of his time in each year has been devoted to undoing what was done the year before. If trees have been put out, they were planted in not the best location nor in the best order for either beauty or profit. If drains have been opened, it was done to meet some emergency, and they interfere with, rather than help, any plan for draining the whole farm.

With the plan always before the eye, the orchard should have been planted in the place, and the drains would have been run in the right direction. A few trees added every year, a few tiles laid in the same direction, would have perfected improvements which would have rendered the farm twice as productive with half the labor now required. Work too, would have been less irksome when laid out in this systematic order.

In everything the ideal must precede the actual. The cathedral is pencilled on paper before it is fashioned with stone. The towering spire of Florence rose in the mind of the great designer years before it pierced the sky. The steamboat existed in the mind of Fulton long before it stemmed the waters of the Hudson, and the first balloon rose in imagination before it did in the air. Mount Auburn, Central Park and Greenwood were first dreams; next pencil sketches, and finally realities. Every artisan, except the farmer, relies on fancy to perfect a model before an attempt is made to labor with the hands. Prairie Farmer.

SECRET OF GOOD FARM HELP.—Farmers all over the country experience great difficulty in procuring "good help." Their troubles and complaints well nigh equal those of housewives concerning kitchen employes. A writer in the Agriculturist suggests that much of this is due to the fact that steady wages and employment are not furnished farm hands. Farmers, he observes, should always hire by the year. It is better for the hired men to be kept constantly employed, and better for their families. Take an interest in their welfare and build cottages for them near the farm, or upon it. Encourage them to save something of their earnings to buy a home with.

Men with families make the best laborers, and are most contented. Take an interest in their families, see that the children go to school, and when the boys are big enough, see that they have a chance to work and earn money for themselves. Help your help, and as a rule, they will help you. They will see that their interests are identified with yours. Treat them as strangers or brutes, and they will reciprocate your incivilities. Even a cow will not give down her milk under the cudgel.

—"What did the Israelites do after they crossed the Red Sea?" asked a superintendent of a Sunday school. "They dried themselves!" said a shrill-voiced little girl.

—Slender party (who is not very comfortable)—"These street-cars ought to charge by weight." Stout party (sharply)—"Ah, if they did, they would never stop to pick you up."

—A French writer thinks that "two women are necessary to make the life of a man complete; the woman he loves and the woman who loves him."

—There are two inconsistencies in this world, that are hard to understand. Every person is anxious to get to Heaven, yet no one is in a hurry about it.

CURE FOR SPAVIN.—The last Farmer contained a call for a cure for spavin. The following has cured a good many, and perhaps would again with a fair trial. It also cures wind galls:

Take 1-2 oz. Oil of Amber, 1 oz. Oil of Spike, 2 oz. Spirits of Turpentine, 1-2 oz. Nitric Acid. The acid must be put into the bottle last. Apply this mixture thoroughly, and though it will not remove the bunch, the lameness is apt to disappear.

Here is a medicine for a flesh wound that is thought by some to be a little better than anything else:

1-2 oz. White Vitrol, 1-2 oz. Copperas, 1 spoonful of Gunpowder, 1 quart of water.—Jonathan, 1853.

—Henry Ward Beecher, some time since, received a letter from a young man who recommended himself very highly, and closed with the request:—"Get me an easy situation, that honesty may be rewarded." To which Mr. Beecher replied:—"Don't be an editor, if you want to be 'easy.' Don't try the law. Avoid school-keeping. Keep out of the pulpit. Let alone all ships, stores, shops, and merchandise. Don't practice medicine. Be not a farmer nor a mechanic, nor a soldier. Don't study, don't think, don't work. None of them are easy. Oh, my dear sir, you are in a very hard world. I know of but one easy place in it—that is in the grave."

"Mother," said Ike Partington, "did you know that the 'iron horse' had but one leg?"

"One ear! merciful gracious, child, what do you mean?"

"Why, the engineer, of course."

He took the 5 o'clock train at Canaan for Tilton, to visit his daughter, who is attending school there, reached his destination at about 7 o'clock, and dropped dead at his daughter's feet as she met him at the door of her boarding-house. Mr. Miner was a well known and respected citizen, about 54 years of age. He removed from Canaan to Beverly, Mass., a few months since.

Two sons of Erin, while at work on the new made land in rear of the stocking mill at Manchester, had a quarrel with shovels. At length they dropped weapons, and one seized the other with a view of punishing him more severely, but found himself going over a 12-feet bank wall into the river. When he came back his rage was greatly appeased.

DODD'S NERVINE ONCE MORE.
THE STANDARD REMEDY for biliousness with the medical profession is the Anti-Bilious Pill of the American Pharmacopœia. And its reputation has been well enough deserved. But if is a Pill, nevertheless, and most people of sensibility feel something about as big as a meeting house coming into their throat whenever a pill is spoken of. DODD'S NERVINE AND INVIGORATOR acts efficiently on the biliary organism; it irritates neither stomach nor intestine in all its operation; and what is VERY IMPORTANT, as all good nurses know, it is MOST AGREEABLE TO TAKE, being as pleasant to the palate as any delicate wine. We all know how it is with Cod Liver Oil. In a pure state it is excellent for certain conditions of debility, and particularly in tendencies to Consumption; and yet many of the best physicians decline to prescribe it, because it so dreadfully sickens the patient. That, they say, makes it do more harm than good. With Dodd's Nervine all this becomes obstacle. For sale by all Druggists. Price $1. o21sw

WHAT ARE
DR. J. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA Vinegar Bitters.
THEY ARE NOT A VILE FANCY DRINK, Made of Poor Rum, Whiskey, Proof Spirit, and refuse Liquors, doctored, spiced, and sweetened to please the taste, called "Tonics," "Appetisers" "Restorers," &c., that lead the tippler on to drunkenness and ruin, but are a true Medicine, made from the Native Roots and Herbs of California, free from all Alcoholic Stimulants. They are the GREAT BLOOD-PURIFIER and LIFE-GIVING PRINCIPLE, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the system, carrying off all poisonous matter, and restoring the blood to a healthy condition. No person can take these Bitters according to directions and remain long unwell. $100 will be given for an incurable case, providing the bones are not destroyed by mineral poisons or other means, the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair.
FOR INFLAMMATORY AND CHRONIC RHEUMATISM, AND GOUT, DYSPEPSIA, or INDIGESTION, BILLIOUS REMITTENT, and INTERMITTENT FEVERS, DISEASES OF THE BLOOD, LIVER, KIDNEYS, and BLADDER, these BITTERS have been most successful. SUCH DISEASES are caused by VITIATED BLOOD, which is generally produced by derangement of the DIGESTIVE ORGANS.
Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins, cleanse it when it is foul, and your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood healthy, and all will be well.
These Bitters are not a gilded pill, to delight the eye or please the fancy, but a medical preparation, composed of the best vegetable ingredients known.
They are Alterative, Tonic, Diuretic, Sedative, Diaphoretic, and Gentle Purgative.
"The Life of all Flesh is the Blood thereof."—Purify the blood and the health of the whole system will follow.

"Ingenio Stat Sine Morte Decus."
ROCKY MOUNTAIN BITTERS
IS a very superior Regulating Tonic, imparting vigor and strength to the constitution—therefore
PURIFIER OF THE BLOOD,
a regulator of nervous force, and a powerful sustainer of health against the encroachments of disease.
The invalid and convalescing seeking restoration, and yearning for the healing virtues of some magic balm, will find in these Bitters a hidden mysterious power, which QUIETLY RESTORES, yet restores to reveal to the senses anything but taste and color.
It is a pleasant Bitter, free from all nauseous properties odor, entirely vegetable, being mainly grown at the base of the mountains from which they derive their name, and is particularly adapted to all forms of
DYSPEPSIA OR INDIGESTION,
manifesting themselves by the following symptoms: headache, nervousness, loss of memory, low spirits, giddiness, dimness of sight, dullness of hearing, and ringing noises in the ears, eructations, of belching of wind, tightness of breathing, weight and oppression of the chest, uneasy feeling about the heart, palpitation, &c.
Also for Liver Diseases, Disorders of the Kidneys, Restlessness and loss of Muscular Power; these Bitters will be found almost a specific; and as a preventative of
FEVER AND AGUE
or a restorer of the natural powers of the system, when broken down by continued ague attacks; it has no equal.
Being stimulating, (but not intoxicating), they refresh and invigorate both mind and body, heighten the sensibility, clear and sharpen the faculties, and bestow alacrity and cheerfulness of spirit.
CAUTION.—There have been, and still are several parties manufacturing and selling so-called "Langley's Bitters," many of which are worthless. As a guide against imposition, I would say that in 1862, I secured my copy-right, in the United States Court, a trade mark and name, "Rocky Mountain Bitters," and all Bitters of my manufacture are put up in dark, long neck, quart bottles with red label printed with gold; also, direction label, bearing my seal and directions printed in red, with a red cap and my seal printed in gold, over the cork. Beware of all others, and ask for "Rocky Mountain Bitters."

The News.

The democrats of California have elected eleven out of fourteen district judges.

The difficulty of selecting a form of government in Spain seems to increase; the Cortes and Cabinet are both hopelessly at variance on the question.

The Erie Railway strike has ended in the reinstatement of all the discharged mechanics.

Gen. Butterfield, Assistant Treasurer of the United States, has sent his resignation to the President.

A San Francisco dispatch says that that the waves receded on the Fort Point tidal gauge at 5 P. M., Oct. 22d. This leads to the belief that a heavy earthquake has taken place at some point on the Pacific coast.

☞ The Radical papers say the Negro Suffrage Amendment will add 25,000 voters to their party in Maryland. That is just the reason they are forcing it upon the country—because it will add voters to their party.—Concord Patriot.

That is only one reason,—and the Amendment itself is one of the fruits of the Rebellion. The slave power called for the Repeal of the Missouri Compromise and for the Dred Scott decision, that slavery might be national and perpetual. A Democratic president and congress did the first deed, and a Democratic partisan Court did the second,—but their party split on these rocks,—the rebellion followed, slavery fell. The 12th Amendment is the proper sequel to Emancipation.

A DROLL BLUNDER.—The Manchester people came out in great numbers, on Friday night, and heard a lecture from Gen. Howard, on "Army Incidents—personal experience." They expected a lecture full of military incidents;—but the lecturer having supposed, from the name of the body that called him, that a religous lecture was desired, treated the audience with an hour's narrative of personal religious incidents, from 1850, when he went to West Point, to the present time.

KLEPTOMANIA.—The Free Press says that in Lebanon, on the 16th, Charles J. Rattray, a Canadian, was arrested on charge of breaking into Worthen's and Wood & Ames' stores and stealing goods therefrom. He stoutly denied at first, but soon owned up. On trial he lacked $1000 bonds and went to Haverhill jail in default thereof. Rattray is an intelligent and well educated man, and says his father is one of the wealthiest physicians of Montreal—that he always had an irresistible propensity to take whatever he could lay his hands upon, without regard to his need of it. A considerable portion of the things stolen were of no earthly value to him.

The Boston Journal says:—On the occasion of the late visit of the Veterans of Manchester and Newburyport to Nashua, while they were at dinner in the City Hall, one of the waiters brought on a bowl of gravy for some kind of meat. A Veteran immediately placed the bowl on his plate, took a spoon and "punished" the entire quantity, probably mistaking it for soup.

—A negro man and woman were found near a South Carolina camp-meeting, locked in each others arms, dead. Too much glory hallelujah and a rattlesnake was the cause.

A silly story. The rattlesnake bite does not cause immediate death.

A woman in Concord, yawned so hard the other day as to tear the corners of her mouth. The Patriot declares the story is not stretched, though the woman's mouth must have been, tremendously.

☞ Mr. Merguire, the owner of the Coliseum has decided not to accept the offer of the builders and dispose of it. He estimates its value at $25,000 at the present price of lumber.

☞ The Boston Board of Aldermen are considering the propriety of laying out a public park.

—A new trick of Ledger-de-main—Bonner's letter.

Letter from I. H. P. to Pakeha.

A STATE CONSTABULARY.—Dear Fellow-Correspondent:—I have watched you in Australia, through Cook's Straits, sailing on the coast of China, and skinning cunners near the mouth of the Piscataqua, but never have I been so grieved by anything that you ever said as by your remarks against the establishment of a State Constabulary. You are not the only good man or philanthropist on that side, though you must admit that you stand in rather bad company, and that the weight of moral opinion is on the other side. Were you on a vessel where there was a mutiny, would you, if you differed on some point in relation to it from the faithful part of the crew, side with the mutineers on that point? Will you then vote with the men who make drunkards for money and against men whom you know to be earnest lovers of the human welfare?

In 1827, I think, I saw a vote taken to disuse the House of Correction at South Berwick, Me. Some thought it too small; others hated it because they had been shut up in it when drunk. The vote was nearly a tie. All the voters went out of doors and began to arrange themselves in two lines. But some were ashamed to take their places among battered soakers; others realized whom they had been helping, and against whom they had voted. You, I think, and I, I know, are not to be deterred by shame from any course we think right; but it is certainly right to defer to the overwhelming mass of sentiment of those with whom we are co-operating.

I advocate the Constable plan in full because I am sure that it is a good institution, and as free from valid objection as any part of our system for the enforcement of law. The State makes laws; the State is bound to enforce them. There is no mechanism yet known for this so efficient and so cheap as a State police. In suburban villages in particular their protection is indispensable. No immense gathering in Massachusetts fails to feel its protecting influence. Every large city is the headquarters of gangs of burglars who carefully limit their operations outside of the reach of any well-organized local police. The State police causes two-thirds of all the risks they run.

I know of absolutely no valid objection to them unless it be that they enforce laws that we wish should be a dead letter. I have watched closely the Massachusetts system from the day it started till now. Bad men have found places on the staff. Black-mailing has been done. Deputies have been deceived into searches and arrests that ought never to have been made. And everything of this sort has been trumpeted over the land. Two lies to one truth have been told. More talent has been employed in deceiving the public on this point than on any other. But, were every piece of misconduct true as alleged, I should still be sure that the system is a good one, and that it has been ably, honestly and faithfully administered.

It is far more difficult to find a good policeman than it is to find a good mate of a vessel, and you have seen several poor mates, I guess. Men who are unfit for the place have peculiar facilities for getting it. But our Governor is an honest man, and he has an honest Constable. And yet an honest minister of my own denomination preached a sermon on that man's unfaithfulness, without having first spoken to him or even seen his face. His discourse showed a wonderful ignorance of the facts, and a mixed rhetoric that would have amazed the teacher of a freshman class at college. That sermon is supposed to have netted the preacher an elegant horse, carriage, harness and et ceteras, — not cheaply earned, either. Think of the power of befogging that the liquor trade has in Boston?

A State police means simply efficiency of law. We see various laws broken around us, and it is not wise in us, citizens, to interfere. It costs a barn burned, a horse maimed, or something like that. The enforcement of law cost the people of South Berwick their academy in the reign of Neal Dow. Enforcing the law cost the Baptists in China, Me., their church, a few days ago. What the law-breakers of all kinds object to is a prosecuting engineer with no combustible property. It is absurd to suppose that the State police are for the enforcement of only one law. Buckshot will kill other game besides bucks; a straw-cutter might cut hay. Were the liquor trade as dead as the slave trade, Massachusetts would still cleave to her State police.

But you need the effect of this election on the Republican party. I count that party as a means, not an end. I have seen it in greater danger than it is in to-day. If it cannot stand the shock of its members voting right on an issue totally foreign to it, let it go, I say. I have seen the time when its most persistent enemy was this same liquor trade. There is a numerous class of men that are in favor of the Prohibitory law, but opposed to the execution of it. That may do for sabbath breaking and blasphemy, but it will hardly apply to obscene prints and counterfeiting.

My respected friend Pakeha, reconsider the matter. Here is a very gainful, destructive business, more pregnant with misery and damnation than any other. New Hampshire has for fifteen years tried to make head against it by enforcing a very good law through local agencies; it has been an utter failure. A State police can do that little job for you. In the name of mercy to wretched wives and cowering children let loose this bull-dog on the miscreants.

GOVERNMENT EXPENSES.—The forthcoming report of the Secretary of War will show that the reduction in expenses on account of pay and subsistence alone during this year will be at the rate of $26,000,000 per annum. While the expenses of the Department for the first quarter of the fiscal year of 1869 were $27,896,244.66, for the corresponding quarter of this year, ending September 30th, they were only $15,141,262.50, being a reduction of nearly $13,000,000. The civil employes of this Department have been reduced from 10,000 to 4,000. The report of the Secretary of the Navy will show a reduction of expenses in his department for six months ending September 30th of $1,845,000, and in addition there is still an unexpended balance of appropriations for last year, and the appropriations for the current year are yet untouched. The report of Treasurer Spinner will show that the increase of collections and decrease of expenditures for the six months ending August 31st, 1869, amounted to fifty-six millions, as compared with the corresponding period in 1868.

New Hampshire Items.

The Statesman says the notch through the Blue Hills at Strafford, through which it was proposed to run the Concord and Rochester Road, is 450 feet higher than Rochester. That would require a pretty steep grade for a road. In going by a new route proposed, it will be necessary to obtain a change in the charter.

Mr. Milton Kennedy, of Acworth, who exhibited splendid specimens of China wheat at the State Fair, writes us that, having threshed the whole, he has measured up 40 bushels from two acres. Though we often find a greater yield, this is worthy of notice, and is indeed much above the average crop in our State.—Mirror.

A potato raised by Mr. E. C. Shirley, of Goffstown, weighed four and a half pounds! Just think of it—only a dozen to a bushel! Don't talk about the productive West.

The Children's Hour, for November—Once a Month, and Arthur's Home Magazine—all from T. S. Arthur & Co. Philadelphia, are on our table, with good tables of safe and useful contents in each.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

The Great Vitalizer.
This title may be fairly given to a restorative which has taken precedence of all other tonic and alterative preparations for a period of nearly twenty years. During that long interval HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS may be truly said to have enjoyed unrivalled popularity. Many preparations have been got up to compete with it, but they have all fallen into its wake or sunk into oblivion for lack of patronage. From the first this now world-renowned Vegetable Tonic has been both nationally and cosmopolitically popular. Every year has added to the number of its friends and the demand for it, based solely upon the experimental proofs of its excellence as a preventive and curative, seems to have no assignable limit. The medical profession sanction and approve its use, and it is now at the head of the class of medicines to which it belongs, its claims admitted, undisputed SOVEREIGN TONIC OF THE AGE. The statistics of the United States Revenue department will verify the statement that it stands alone and unapproached in the magnitude of its sales as compared with those of any other proprietory remedy advertised on this side of the Atlantic. The Explanation of this fact may be comprised in a few words, HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS is at once the purest, the safest and the most potent of all vegetable tonics, and the best antidote to every variety of malarious disease. Hence it is especially adapted to the present reason of chilling dews and unwholesome vapors.

Holloway's Pills.—CONSTIPATION.—Violent cathartics aggravate this disease. When their action ceases, the vitiated and weakened bowels are less capable than ever of fulfilling their functions properly. In HOLLOWAY'S PILLS, sufferers from costiveness have a mild purgative exactly suited to the exigencies of the case. Instead of weakening the bowels, they strengthen and invigorate, as well as cleanse and regulate them. In the worst chronic phases of the complaint, they soon produce a permanent change of habit. Sold by all Druggists.

MARRIAGE GUIDE,
Being a private instructor for married persons or those about to be married, both male and female, in everything concerning the physiology and relations of our sexual system, and the production and prevention of offspring, including all the late discoveries never before given in the English language, by WM. YOUNG, M. D. This is really a valuable and interesting work. It is written in plain language for the general reader, and is illustrated with numerous Engravings. All young married people, or those contemplating marriage, and having the least impediment to married life, should read this book. It discloses secrets that should be generally uncomfortable; still it is a book that must be locked up and not lie about the house. It will be sent to any adult person on receipt of 50 cents. Address, Dr. WM. YOUNG, No. 416 Spruce street, above Fourth, Philadelphia.

☞ AFFLICTED AND UNFORTUNATE.—No matter what may be your disease, before you place yourself under any one of the notorious QUACKS—native and foreign—who advertise in this or any other paper, get a copy of Dr. Young's Book and read it carefully. It will be the means of saving you many a dollar, your health and possibly your life.

Dr. Young can be consulted on any of the diseases described in his publications, at his office, No. 416 Spruce street, above Fourth, Philadelphia.

Comfort and Bliss or Pain and Agony.
DR. TOBIAS' CELEBRATED VENETIAN LINIMENT, whose wonderful cures, sure and instaneous action, in cases of Chronic Rheumatism, Headache, Toothache, Croup, Cuts, Burns, Colic, Cramps, Dysentery, etc., have astonished the civilized world, is no new catch-penny; but an article that has stood the test of twenty-two years. The enormous sale and rapidly increasing demand is at once the surest evidence of its merits and its popularity. No family should be without a bottle in the house. Hundreds of dollars and many hours of suffering may be saved by its timely use.

Colic, Cramp, and Dysentery yield at once to its paincurative properties. It is perfectly innocent, and can be given to the oldest person or youngest child. No matter if you have no confidence in Patent Medicines—try this, and you will be sure to be pleased, and recommend it to your friends. Hundreds of Physicians recommend it in their practice.

In Remote Settlements of United Value.
Food makes blood; blood makes the body. If the blood be pure, the body is healthy. So if we would be healthy, we must expel any impurities lurking about, which must be removed, and the sooner the better.
BRANDRETH'S PILLS remove all from the system which nature needs no longer.
The wonderful cures effected by Brandreth's Pills have arrested the attention of enlightened physicians. Upwards of five thousand now use them in their daily practice, and two hundred have given their written testimony as to their innocence and value, as cleansers of the bowels and blood. Their untold value is to those living in settlements where doctors can only be had at great expense. For if you are sick, you have only to take one or more doses of Brandreth's Pills to get cured. Full Directions are with each box.

THE LATEST DISCOVERY
In Medication.
The great difficulty which physicians have been laboring for centuries to overcome, has at length been obviated. A vegetable Cathartic and alterative more efficient than any mineral preparation of the same class, and as agreeable to the taste as simple syrup, is now offered to the sick in the form of a Lozenge.
DR. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S
LIVER AND STOMACH LOZENGE
is the most important medicinal novelty that modern chemistry has produced. It contains two botanical extracts, perfectly harmless in themselves, but embodying all the medicinal properties of mercury, and destined in this pleasant form to supersede and banish from general use, the nauseous pills and portions of which that dangerous excitant is the main ingredient. More than
One thousand experiments
were made by the inventor of this potent remedy before it was brought to its present state of perfection. The Lozenge is harmless in its operation, and altogether the medicinal taste of its curative components has been extinguished by pharmaceutical art, their virtues remain as active and potent as ever.
In Dyspepsia, Biliousness Constipation, Sick or Nervous Headache, Piles, Dropsy, and the irregularities to which the fairer sex are subject, the lozenge will be found infinitely more effective than any of the horrible and disgusting compounds usually administered to these complaints. As an antidote to specific and general aperient, they have no equal either among advertised preparations or the prescriptions of the regular pharmacopœia.
☞ It is guaranteed that no one who has once tried DR. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S Liver and Stomach Lozenge, will ever again take a purgative powder, or draught or pill.
Wholesale agent, John F. HENRY, No. 8 College Place, New York City.

ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM,
The Remedy for curing CONSUMPTION, COUGHS, BRONCHITIS, ASTHAMA, and CROUP. As an Expectorant, IT HAS NO EQUAL.
It is composed of the active principles of roots and plants, which are chemically extracted, so as to retain all their medical qualities.
Ministers and Public Speakers
Who are so often afflicted with throat diseases, will find a sure remedy in this Balsam. Lozenges and wafers sometimes give relief, but this Balsam, taken a few times, will insure a permanent cure.
Will all those afflicted with Coughs or Consumption, give this Balsam a fair trial, they will be pleased with the result, and confess that the sure remedy is found at last.
IT IS SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

CONSUMPTION.
DR. SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP for the cure of Coughs, Colds and Consumption.
DR. SCHENCK'S SEAWEED TONIC for the cure of Dyspepsia and all the Debilitated Conditions of the Stomach.
DR. SCHENCK'S MANDRAKE PILLS for Diseases of the Liver, or to act as a gentle Purgative.
All of these three medicines are often required in curing Consumption, though the Pulmonic Syrup alone has cured many desperate cases. The Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills assist in regulating the Stomach and Liver, and help the Pulmonic Syrup to digest and search through the blood vessels, by which means a cure is soon effected.
These medicines are conscientiously offered to the public as the only safe, certain and reliable remedies for Pulmonary Consumption, and for all those morbid conditions of the body which lead to that fatal disease. Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia are often forerunners of Consumption, and when they manifest themselves they require the most prompt attention.
The Pulmonic Syrup is a medicine which has had a long probation before the public. Its value has been through a period of more than thirty-five years, in all of which time its reputation has constantly increased, and the most obstinate skepticism can no longer doubt that it is a remedy to which they may be used with confidence in all cases which admit of a cure.
If the patient will perseveringly follow the directions which accompany each bottle, he will certainly be cured, if his lungs are not too much wasted to make a cure possible. Even in cases pronounced to be incurable, when doctors and physicians have despaired, the use of the medicine has saved the life of the patient, and restored him to perfect health.
Dr. Schenck himself was cured in precisely such circumstances, and many others have been equally fortunate by judiciously making a timely use of Dr. Schenck's remedies.
Dr. Schenck does not say that all cases of Pulmonary Consumption are within the reach of medicine, but he emphatically asserts, that often when patients have the most alarming symptoms, such as a violent cough, creeping chills, night sweats, and general debility, even to such a degree that they are obliged to lie in bed, and when they are given up by their physicians, they may still be saved. No medical treatment can create new lungs, but when the lungs are very badly diseased, and to some extent destroyed, a cure may be effected by Dr. Schenck's medicines.
Also in Scrofulous diseases these medicines are equally efficient. Dr. Schenck has photographs of a number of persons who have been nearly covered with running sores, and who have been cured. This shows its purifying properties, which must be done to heal cavities in the lungs.
In the treatment of Consumption, it is of the utmost importance to give vigor and a healthy tone in the system. Hence it is necessary to select means that will improve the patient's ability to prove the digestion. Proper nourishment is required, together with such means as will make the food easily digestible. The articles most suitable for the diet of consumptive patients are designated in Dr. Schenck's Almanacs, which are distributed gratuitously. In general, the most nutritious articles are to be preferred; but the digestive organs must be strengthened in order to make use of the appetite. This is effected, improve

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

☞ Adjourned Meeting of the Piscataqua Agricultural Society, at the National Hotel, Friday Evening, Oct.29,at half-past 7.

☞ New Subscribers to the N. H. Gazette for 1870, will receive the paper until Jan. 1st, free of charge. Terms $2 in advance, 6 copies $10.

☞ That the Chronicle and Gazette are regarded as good advertising mediums, is plainly proved by the crowded state of our columns. There are none better in the County, if any so good.

☞ Fairly entitled to the thanks of the public—Mr. M. Eldredge, for improvements he is making at the junction of Middle Street and Lafayette Roads. People are glad to miss "the willows."

APPOINTMENT. — Rufus K. Oxford, Esq., has received an appointment as first-class clerk in the Treasury Department at Washington. Our congratulations to friend Oxford on his success. He will be missed among the party workers.

NOT EXACTLY CORRECT. — Several papers have announced that Rev. Geo. W. Bicknell, of Skowhegan, Me., has accepted a call to the Universalist Church here. This is almost as correct as it would have been, the other way, to say, that Rev. T. H. Miller of Fremont, will supply the pulpit here. But not quite so correct even, as that, for Mr. Bicknell, (who lives at Bath, as Uncle Toby does in Portsmouth) was only invited to preach a part of the time at S., while U. T. has actually done so at F. these two years and more. The error was not important,but it is quite as well, in making an item, not to tell what you don't know.

Communication.

THINGS BY THEIR RIGHT NAMES.—Messrs. Editors:—I like the idea of the Chronicle, saying what it means, and if a man acts like a hunker, call him so. The fact that our Opposition Mayor controlled or influenced one of the so-called Republican Aldermen last year, and this; and can always depend on at least two "Republican" votes in the Common Council,—should make our side more careful whom we trust.

I hope the State Constable Law will be adopted,though the Legislature were afraid to pass it. The City, the County, and the Nation, each have officers to enforce their laws. Why not the State? STRAIGHT OUT REPUBLICAN.

THE FERRY-BOAT EMERALD will run to and from the Navy Yard for the winter season at the following hours. Leave the Yard at 8:30; 10; 11:30; A. M.; 1:15; 2; 3:30; 5; 7; 9:30, P. M. Leave Portsmouth at 8; 9; 11, A. M.; 12:15; 1:30; 2:30; 4:30; 6; 7:30; 10, P. M. The steamer will make a trip from the Yard at 7:30, A. M., returning at 8, A. M., until Nov. 1st. On Sundays the Emerald will leave the Yard at 9:30; 10, A. M.; 12:30, P. M.; returning at 9:45, A. M.; 12:15; 12:45, P. M. It will be seen that several changes have been made from former trips. The extra boat from this city to the Yard at 12:15, P. M., is one of the most convenient.

SUPREME JUDICIAL COURT, Tuesday, Oct. 27.—After calling the civil docket, Charles G. Smith was sentenced by the Court to one year in the State Prison, which is the least punishment the law allows for the offense of which he was found guilty.

The trial of State vs. Angelina Thompson occupied the Court from the middle of forenoon to 3, P. M. Then the case of State vs. Stover for manslaughter, was taken up, and the remainder of the day occupied in getting in only part of the evidence in behalf of the State. This case will probably occupy all of to-day. Small for State, Hodgdon and Goodall for Stover.

Jury in case of State vs. Angelina Thompson still out.

KITTERY, ME., Oct. 27.

Messrs. Editors:—We had quite a revival here on Sunday night, occasioned by the working of the bad spirit served out at the one rum-hole that escaped indictment,—the only special nuisance in the town. It is said that the keeper of this groggery openly defies the authorities, and utters terrible threats as to what he will do if molested in his innocent, honest business.

The lukewarm and indifferent, and those who, while calling themselves temperance men, opposed the late movement in the interest of order and decency, begin to see the point of the joke, and acknowledge that "something should be done to stop such disgraceful exhibitions." Perhaps they will now lend us a hand in closing up this last and vilest of our dens. GAY.

A LITTLE BOY'S STORY.—This is the title of a very beautiful volume of 300 pages, just published by Hurd & Houghton, New York city, and H. O. Houghton & Co. Riverside, Cambridge, Mass. Price $150. The story is finely translated by Howard Glyndon, from the French of Julie Gourand: with 86 Illustrations from Designs by Emile Bayard.

The Translator says, in a note:—"These memoirs contain the story of the every-day life of a little French boy and girl, living in their own country. American children may be a little curious to know in what way the life and surroundings of French children differ from their own; and these memoirs give a fair idea of the difference.

The book is one of the most lifelike and readable; and the illustrations apt and spirited. It cannot fail to be popular.

☞ A fine ship of 1295 tons was launched from the yard of John Currier, Jr., at Newburyport, Monday. She is 197 1-2 feet long, 36 1-2 feet wide, and 25 feet deep—precisely the same model as the Whittier, Montarosa and others launched at this yard within two or three years.

☞ Subscribers who wish to receive their papers at our very low advance rates, should pay in advance actually.

☞ Rev. T. H. Miller is to preach at Fremont next Sunday; at Atkinson, Nov. 7.

GOLD GAMBLING.—If the market price of gold advances, Mr. Smith may remain the nominal owner of $500,000 in gold as long as he pleases. He is "long" to that amount. When he thinks gold will advance no higher, he orders his broker to sell. The broker sells, we will suppose, at 135, and realizes $675,000 in currency. With this sum he first pays his loan at the bank, and receives back the certificates. He deducts a certain per centage for his services in buying and selling, and interest on the full amount, less the margin, for the time the gold was "carried" and pays to Mr. Smith what is left. Smith recives back the $32,500 he deposits as a "margin" with $25,000 profits on the transaction, less the broker's commission and interest.

But if, after the purchase is made, the market "fall off"—that is, the price of gold declines—the broker will "carry" the gold only until the difference between the purchase price and deteriorated value shall amount to the sum deposited as a "margin" less commission and interest, when he notifies Smith to deposit more margin. If Smith fails to do this the broker proceeds to "sell him out" at once. That is, he sells his gold, pays his borrowed money, pockets his commission and interest, and leaves Smith out of pocket exactly $32,500.

A PACIFIC RAILWAY

GOLD LOAN $6,500,000.

We beg leave to announce that we have accepted the agency of the
KANSAS PACIFIC RAILWAY COMPANY,
For the sale of its
NEW SEVEN PER CENT.
Thirty Year Gold Loan,
Free from Tax.
This Loan amounts to $6,500,000.
First Mortgage Land-Grant and Sinking Fund Bonds,
secured upon the extension of the Railway from near Sheridan, in Kansas, to Denver, Colorado, a distance of 237 miles of which 12 miles are completed, and the rest is under construction. It is also a Mortgage upon the Road, the Rolling Stock and Franchise of this first-class Railway, besides now running through the State of Kansas,
And in successful operation for 437 miles
West of the Missouri River, and earning already enough to meet all of its expenses and existing obligations, besides MORE THAN THE INTEREST UPON THIS NEW LOAN. In addition to this the Bonds are also secured by a first mortgage of the
GOVERNMENT LAND GRANT OF THREE MILLION ACRES,
extending in alternate sections on either side of the track, from the 394th mile post in Kansas to Denver. The proceeds of the sale of these lands are to be invested by the Trustees in the 7 per cent Bonds, themselves up to 120 in U. S. Bonds, as A SINKING FUND FOR THE REDEMPTION OF THE BONDS.
The Lands embrace some of the finest portions of the magnificent Territory of Colorado, including a coal field and pinery. The company also holds as an asset another tract of Three Millions of Acres in the State of Kansas,
and although not pledged as a security for this Loan, their possession adds largely to the Company's wealth and credit. We estimate the Value of the Company's property, covered by this mortgage at $23,000,000 net, while the Loan is merely $6,500,000.
The Bonds have
THIRTY YEARS TO RUN,
from May 1, 1869, and will pay
SEVEN PER CENT. INTEREST IN GOLD, semi-annually, on May 1 and Nov. 1, and are FREE FROM GOVERNMENT TAXATION, the Company paying the tax.
The principal of the Loan is made payable in Gold, in the City of New York, but each coupon will be
PAYABLE IN FRANKFORT, LONDON OR N. YORK at option of the holder, with notice, at the following rates:
On $1,000 Bond in N. Y. $35 (gold) each half year.
" " London....£7 s5. 10. "
" " Frankfort..57 flr. 30 krtzs., "
The Agents of the Loan, before accepting the trust had the condition of the Road,and the country through which it runs, carefully examined. They are happy to give the Loan an emphatic endorsement as a
FIRST CLASS INVESTMENT,
in every respect perfectly sure, and in some essential even Better than Government Securities.
The Bonds will be sold for the present at
96, and accrued Interest, both in Currency,
the Agents reserving the right to advance the rate.

SMOKING.—One of the most stupid, contemptible, and filthy sights in our eye, is to see a grown-up man stuck behind a cigar or dirtier pipe, spending whole hours in drawing smoke into his mouth and then puffing it out, sleepily gazing up at its curling wreaths as if there was something entrancing in the sight. When we take into account the useless expense, the bootless trouble, and the beastly scattering about of the noisome saliva incident to the habit, the wonder is that any man of intelligence should cultivate the despicable slavery, such a relentless despotism; that it is so, no one can deny, for if an habitual smoker has not his cigar at the accustomed time, he is literally miserable and by his peevishness, fretfulness, and irritability makes all around him as uncomfortable as himself.

Suppose he is to go on a journey, the overshadowing thought of his heart, his first, his middle and his last concern is that he does not leave without a full supply of his dearly-beloved cigar; and if by any means it should be left or lost, he is one of the most miserable of men. Shame on the intelligence that cannot summon courage to break such a chain on the instant into ten thousand atoms.

A tobacco smoker without his pipe is no man at all; he is not himself, and the miserable habit grows on him day by day, until at length, he is only human or humane when he has a pipe in his lips. He can't drive his horse without a cigar in his mouth; he can't make a trade unless he is smoking. What cares he for the convenience and comfort of others; he would drive a dozen people from an omnibus, or half a hundred from a railroad car! There he goes strutting along the street, brushing by ladies, and allowing the filthy fumes to dash against their faces; fumes made more filthy from having gathered worse odors from his rotten teeth and the slimy saliva which is plastered over his inner cheeks. The next thing is to spit on the side-walk and have it wiped up by the dress of some unfortunate passer by.

But what cares a smoker for such considerations like these? Only give him a smoke, and all else is nothing to him; so supreme is he in his selfishness, that respect, gallantry, good feeling, all are lost.

It so happens that the two men who fill the most important stations in their line in the civilized world are helpless slaves to the miserable practice. The Emperor of the French was dying of the habit of smoking seventeen cigars a day, and was compelled by imperative medical authority to cut it down to seven; and about the same time our own President had to curtail his indulgence in the same direction, or imperil a nation's interests.

Reader, are you a smoker? Then you are literally and unmistakably a fool. There is no use in playing the courtier here, as you are a slave to the pipe and to the cigar; for you are a voluntary slave to a useless, expensive, filthy, and hurtful habit. Is it not a folly to prefer slavery to freedom, and that a disgusting slavery?—Hall's Journal of Health.

FEVER AND AGUE PREVENTED.—The sun-flower, planted around a house where intermittents prevailed, was observed, before the war, by a gentleman connected with the United States Government, to protect the whole family from that troublesome sickness. The subject has been presented by M. Martin to the French Society for the promotion of the General Health, and the Italian Sanitary Officers have taken measures to put the suggestion in operation in the most sickly localities. While the editor was a medical student, it was stated by Professor Cook, that, in all marshy countries, a thick hedge of vegetable growth, from ten to fifteen feet high, should be had, some forty or fifty feet from the dwelling, especially in the direction of stagnant water, millponds or marshy places where there was growing and decaying vegetation.

His theory was this, miasm was generated in all such localities; that in the morning and evening, about sunrise and sunset, this miasm was concentrated on the surface of the earth, extending eight or ten feet upwards, allowing it to be breathed into the lungs, taken in upon an empty stomach, engendering all forms of intermittents and other dangerous fevers, diarrhœas, dysentery and cholera; but that a thick, living, vegetable growth had been known by him for many years, from actual observation, to arrest the flow of miasm towards the house and save the inmates from disease.

The object in making this statement at such length is to show that the absorption of miasm was not peculiar to the sun-flower, but that it was living vegetation; and, as there are other forms more luxuriant and more dense than the sun-flower, such growths are best: and that these facts were published in 1812, in John Esten Cook's Therapeutics. It was further suggested that the growth should not be nearer the house, because it would keep it damp, and, for the same reason, that although it looked well to see a country house embowered and almost hid by trees, it was not healthful; that the sunshine should come upon every part and side of a dwelling in summer and winter, otherwise disease would prevail; that the sunlight was everywhere a great promoter of health.—Hall's Journal of Health.

—A party in Tonganoxie, Kan., thus encourages the editors of his favorite journal: "Continue to pour red-hot thunderbolts right into the teeth of the leeches and sharks that are sucking the life-blood from the people." Filling a blood-sucker's tooth with a red-hot thunderbolt must be a neat job in dentistry.

PERILOUS BALLOON ASCENSION.—The Saginaw, Michigan, Enterprise relates the story of one of the most perilous balloon voyages on record. Professor La Mountain was the only occupant of the balloon, which ascended from Bay City on the afternoon of the 12th inst. The balloon had leaked badly, and his companion was obliged to get out of the car, when those who held the balloon let go suddenly, and the air vessel passed upward with dreadful velocity without either ballast, instruments, food, or companion. In a few minutes the balloon had attained an altitude of two miles and was driven by a very strong gale directly towards the lake.

It passed into a snow cloud, which speedily coated it and everything in and about it. The escape valve was frozen tight, and Professor La Mountain, in pulling with all his might to open it, drew out the rope and thus cut off another means of escape. The balloon still passed upward, and emerged into the clear cold air above. The involuntary traveller felt that something must be done, and quickly. He climbed the ropes above the hoop and felt for his knife, but he had left it below. Clinging with one hand to the ropes, he tore with his other hand and his teeth a hole in the side of the balloon.

Passing to the other side he repeated the process and then returned quickly to the car. His fingers had been frozen while thus exposed. He heard the cloth tear and saw the rent open from the bottom to the top. The balloon had gradually slackened its upward progress, rested a moment in equilibrium and then began to descend, slowly at first and then with a velocity more frightful than that of the ascent. At the height of two miles from the ground the gas had completely left the balloon, but the air had rushed in and made it a sort of parachute.

Professor La Mountain was in a half unconscious state during the descent, although he remembers passing through the cloud, less distinctly the sensation on seeing and nearing the earth, and then he became wholly unconscious. When his senses returned he was lying in a wood, and several persons had come to his assistance, having seen him fall. He had been stunned and severely bruised, but had broken no bones, and suffered no internal injury. The spot where he had landed was seven miles from Bay City; the time he had been in the air is not stated.

The Chronicle.

A DOMESTIC REVOLUTION.—There are thousands of lady housekeepers in New York, and thousands more in other cities, whose domestic happiness is daily poisoned, and their lives made miserable, by the cooks in the kitchen and all the maids in the parlor. There will be a speedy change in all this. The Chinese will flock to our shores by millions. We saw a very handsome manservant doing duty in a Fifth Avenue mansion the other day.

When from the middle classes, the Chinese are a patient, docile, imitative race. A patience and docility which have become a part of their nature, from the grinding oppressions and despotism of centuries, are qualities very essential as servants to Americans, because we are an impatient, inconsiderate, and hasty race; and when a passionate mistress gets hold of a passionate maid, then Greek meets Greek, and there is a general flare up.

The Chinese are teachable. Once telling is enough. You need not even tell, need not waste breath, but show him how to do a thing, and he will never forget it the longest day he lives; he will follow the thing up literally for the remainder of his natural life. You tell Bridget to do a particular thing in a particular way; "yes'm" is the ready response, and she goes right off to do it as she has done it before. You may tell her a million times she will say "yes'm" and "no'm." Where is the lady housekeeper who has not ground her teeth in rage, or bit her lips in her irrepressibility a thousand times at this very doggedness.

Some time ago a lady took pains to show a Chinese servant how to mix eggs with flour for batter; she took up five eggs, but the fifth not being good, she threw it away. Some months later, happening to go into the kitchen while the faithful John was preparing batter, she observed that he threw the last egg away, although it was good. On inquiry, it was found that he had been throwing a good egg away, the last of the lot, every day for six months. He did as the mistress did.

What an immeasurable relief it would be to any of our housekeepers to know that for ever hereafter there would be no occasion to tell or show a servant the same thing twice. We think such servants will command a premium of wages. To have patient, gentle, docile, faithful servants what a household millennium it will be! Another advantage is, they are willing to work for very low wages. Bridget is the most despotic and exacting autocrat in Christendom to-day. But the sceptre is broken, the glory has departed, and our wives are free. Hurrah for the grand Pacific Railroad! Everybody ought to take stock in it, especially as it pays good and gold interest.—Hall's Journal of Health.

New Hampshire Items.

Abel Farley of Hillsborough was instantly killed last Saturday, by the upsetting of a load of boards which his team was drawing. He was a very industrious and worthy man, about 66 years of age.

Gov. Stearns has appointed Col. J. A. Brodhead of Boston as Liquor Commissioner for New Hampshire. Col. B. is the Commissioner for the State of Massachusetts.

Among the cases disposed of at the term of the Supreme Court held at Ossipee, last week, was the homicide affair which occurred at Bartlett last August. It appeared from the evidence that the prisoner, Dolloff, who is a feeble man of 73 years, was in bed after ten o'clock at night, when a gang of rowdies, with whom he had had some difficulty, came to his house and demanded admittance. He refused to let them in, and on their declaring they would enter at any rate, threatened to shoot them. Two of the men then forced open the door, and Dolloff, seizing his gun, shot Abbott, the first who entered, dead in his tracks. The grand jury refused to find a bill of indictment, deeming the action of the prisoner justifiable.

The Woodbury Brothers, of Bow, brought to Manchester market ten or twelve dozens nicely tatted wild pigeons—part of 30 dozens taken by them in nets last month. These gentlemen are skillful and practiced hands at the capture of these excellent game birds; on all extraordinary occasions no dinner is considered complete without their contribution. The price they now sell at is $3 per dozen, being about as much for a single pigeon as a dozen cost in the olden times, when game was plenty.

Mr. Hazen McDuffie, who resided on Tower Hill, in Candia, died very suddenly Monday morning. He was about 65 years of age. A brother of the deceased died in the same manner a few years ago.

DODD'S NERVINE ONCE MORE.
THE STANDARD REMEDY for biliousness with the medical profession is the Anti-Bilious Pill of the American Pharmacopeia. And its reputation has been well enough deserved. But it is a Pill, nevertheless, and most people of sensibility feel something about as big as a meeting house coming into their throat whenever a pill is spoken of. DODD'S NERVINE AND INVIGORATOR acts efficiently on the biliary organism; it irritates neither stomach nor intestine in all its operation; and what is VERY IMPORTANT, as all good nurses know, it is MOST AGREEABLE TO TAKE, being as pleasant to the palate as any delicate wine. We all know how it is with Cod Liver Oil. In a pure state it is excellent for certain conditions of debility, and particularly in tendencies to Consumption; and yet many of the best physicians decline to prescribe it, because it so dreadfully sickens the patient. That, they say, makes it do more harm than good. With Dodd's Nervine all this becomes obsolete. For sale by all Druggists. Price $1. o21 4w

WHAT ARE
DR. J. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA
Vinegar Bitters.
THEY ARE NOT A VILE FANCY DRINK, Made of Poor Rum, Whiskey, Proof Spirits, and refuse Liquors, doctored, spiced, and sweetened to please the taste, called "Tonics," "Appetizers" "Restorers," &c., that lead the tippler on to drunkenness and ruin, but are a true Medicine, made from the Native Roots and Herbs of California, free from all Alcoholic Stimulants. They are the GREAT BLOOD-PURIFIER and LIFE-GIVING PRINCIPLE, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the system, carrying off all poisonous matter, and restoring the blood to a healthy condition. No person can take these Bitters according to directs and remain long unwell. $100 will be given for an incurable case, providing the bones are not destroyed by mineral poisons or other means, the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair.
FOR INFLAMMATORY AND CHRONIC RHEUMATISM, AND GOUT, DYSPEPSIA, OR INDIGESTION, BILLIOUS, REMITTENT, and INTERMITTENT FEVERS, DISEASES OF THE BLOOD, LIVER, KIDNEYS, and BLADDER, these BITTERS have been most successful. SUCH DISEASES are caused by VITIATED BLOOD, which is generally produced by derangement of the DIGESTIVE ORGANS.
Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins, cleanse it when it is foul, and your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood healthy, and all will be well.
These Bitters are not a gilded pill, to delight the eye or please the fancy, but a medical preparation, composed of the best vegetable ingredients known.
They are Alterative, Tonic, Diuretic, Sedative, Diaphoretic, and Gentle Purgative.
"The Life of all Flesh is the Blood thereof."—Purify the blood and the health of the whole system will follow.

GREAT SUN-SUN CHOP. 15w

"Ingenio Stat Sine Morte Decus."
ROCKY MOUNTAIN BITTERS
IS a very superior Regulating Tonic, imparting vigor and strength to the constitution—a thoro'
PURIFIER OF THE BLOOD,
a regulator of nervous force, and a powerful sustainer of health against the encroachments of disease.
The invalid and convalescing seeking restoration, and yearning for the healing virtues of some magic balm, will find in these Bitters a hidden mysterious power, which QUIETLY RESTORES, yet restores to reveal to the senses anything but taste and color.
It is a pleasant Bitter, free from all nauseous properties odor, entirely vegetable, being mainly grown at the base of the mountains from which they derive their name, and is particularly adapted to all forms of
DYSPEPSIA OR INDIGESTION,
manifesting themselves by the following symptoms: headache, nervousness, loss of memory, low spirits, giddiness, dimness of sight, dullness of hearing, and ringing noises in the ears, eructations, or belching of wind, tightness of breathing, weight and oppression of the chest, uneasy feeling about the heart, palpitation, &c.
Also for Liver Diseases, Disorders of the Kidneys, Restlessness and loss of Muscular Power these Bitters will be found almost a specific; and as a preventative of
FEVER AND AGUE
or a restorer of the natural powers of the system, when broken down by continued ague attacks; it has no equal.
Being stimulating, (but not intoxicating), they refresh and invigorate both mind and body, heighten the sensibility, clear and sharpen the faculties, and bestow alacrity and cheerfulness of spirit.
CAUTION.—There have been, and still are several parties manufacturing and selling so-called "Langley's Bitters," many of which are worthless. As a guide against such, I would say that in 1866, I secured my copy-right, in the United States Court, a trade mark and name, "Rocky Mountain Bitters," and all Bitters of my manufacture are put up in dark, long neck, quart bottles with red label printed with gold; also, direction label, bearing my seal and directions printed in red, with a red cap and my seal printed in gold, over the cork. Beware of all others, and ask for "Rocky Mountain Bitters."

The News.

Paris is tranquil.

The Chinese Embassy has left Denmark for the Netherlands.

A heavy snow-storm prevailed on Tuesday at the North and West. In the vicinity of Toronto, Canada, the fall averaged four inches in depth, Tuesday afternoon, and it was still snowing. The ground was covered at Buffalo and vicinity.

General Barlow, the United States Marshal, for the southern district of New York, has resigned, and Mr. Samuel R. Harlow has been appointed to succeed him.

The tobacco crop in Indiana, Illinois and northern Kentucky has been seriously damaged by frost.

Admiral Farragut continues to improve in health.

One of the directors of the Bank of California has failed for $3,000,000.

There was another big smashup of six cars on the Erie Railroad on Tuesday. The whole train was a complete wreck. A broken rail caused the accident.

There was a heavy snow storm along the eastern coast on Wednesday.

Biddeford had a large fire on Tuesday night.

New Hampshire Items.

Mr. Alfred Davis of Kingston lost a valuable horse in Manchester on Tuesday. He had tied him near the Arms Factory, and when the whistle sounded at noon he became frightened and broke loose, and plunging into another team which was coming in the opposite direction, ran a shaft into his body to the depth of a foot. He was at once unharnessed and mercifully despatched.

Early on Sunday morning, the house of Thos. W. Stewart in Concord, was entered by burglars, who stole two watches and some jewelry, worth $175.

On the 4th, in Waterville, a land slide took place, beginning at a point near the top of the Haystacks and going south-westerly to the foot of the mountain, being about twenty rods wide at that point. Here it turned, making almost a right angle, and went near the course of a small stream for three miles, being during its course about a hundred feet wide. It laid waste some pasture land, owned by a Mr. Greeley, and destroyed some apple trees.

The Supreme Judicial Court, Judge Foster presiding, at Keene, has sentenced Willard Trask to the State Prison for five years. Judge F., who passed sentence upon Trask, was counsel for the same man on his trial for murder about twenty years ago. Trask was then convicted and sentenced to the State Prison for life, but was pardoned after serving about ten years.

A legacy of $1000 was left to Dartmouth College in the will of the late Rev. Joseph B. Felt, LL. D., of Salem, Mass. Dr. Felt was a graduate of the College, of the class of 1818.

On the 17th, May Haines, daughter of J. W. Haines of South Alexandria, fell from the scaffold to the barn floor, striking a pitch fork, which entered the calf of her right leg, going completely through, cutting a gash some two inches in length. She is now doing well.

Mr. John C. Chase, a young man who resides in Chester, recently visited Newbury, Mass. While there, he went into a dwelling house which was erected in 1668 by Elisha Ilsley, his great grandmother's great grandfather. The house is now owned and occupied by Mr. Benjamin Short, a lineal descendant of the builder. There are not many persons among us who can find the dwelling place of their ancestors of seven generations back who lived two centuries ago.

Quite a shock of earthquake was experienced in Stark, on the morning of the 22d, at half-past five o'clock; or rather three shock; in quick succession, continuing some five or six seconds. The vibration seemed to be from west to east.

A shock was felt by many citizens of Wolfeboro' at a little past five o'clock, Friday morning. It was felt most sensibly in buildings built of brick, shaking the doors and windows quite sensibly. Some persons were waked up by the jar. Others who were in bed experience a jrocking sensation. It was less severe in this region than that which occured about one year ago.

We learn that the small pox has appeared in Auburn. A physician of Manchester was called to visit a patient there.

FRANK PIERCE'S ESTATE.—Ex-President Pierce's Will comprises eight letter pages in his own best hand-writing, without an erasure or interlineation, and tied with red silk tape. He gives as follows:

Mrs. Ray, wife of Frederick Ray, Andover, Mass., painting, "Harbor of Venice," Rosewood and ivory toilet case. Her daughter, Georgia, sketch of scene in North Hampton.

All the rest and residue of the estate to Frank H. Pierce, nephew, youngest son of Henry D. Pierce.

To the clause bequeathing the two swords, one given him by ladies of Concord when he went to the Mexican war, and the other by the State on his return, to his brother's sons, he adds the words, "With the hope that should occasion arise for their use, in repelling foreign aggression, in vindicating the rights of American citizens the world over, or in the faithful upholding of the sacred Constitution framed and adopted by the fathers of the Revolution, the weapons may not be dishonored in their hands."

"To the eldest son of the late Charles S. Davis of Portland, the Cincinnati badge presented by his father to mine, and worn by Gen. Lafayette in 1825 at Concord." Gen. Pierce was also a member of the Society of Cincinnati and wills his own badge to his brother Henry.

The will states that the picture given to Judge Minot was formerly the property of Gen. Lafayette; also that the cane bequeathed to Col. Thomas H. Seymour, recently deceased, was cut down from the flag staff of Chapultepec by the latter's own sword in the Mexican war.

The cane given to Judge Abbott was presented to Gen. Pierce by one of the Judge's relatives, William Fletcher, Esq., of Chelmsford, Mass. In the Hawthorne donations the will reads, giving names of the three daughters, "Children of my dear friend," without using the former's name. The clause giving Col. John H. George "my best horse to be selected by him," adds the words, "with the special request that he be not kept a day simply because he is a gift from me." The hickory cane presented Col. George was cut at Jamestown, Va.

The painting given Sidney Webster, Esq., is stated to be an original painting of our Savior, Peter and the Tribute Money, "considered when I purchased it in Florence work of rare merit." To Col. Thomas P. Pierce, of Nashua, the will gives a sword and pistols used in a campaign in Mexico.

A few verbal bequests were made during his sickness not incorporated in the will. The will bears date of Jan. 22, 1868, and Hon. Josiah Minot, Gen. Pierce's former law partner, is sole executor. He estimates the value of the property at $80,000, $20,000 of which is in real estate. Judge Minot gave bonds in the sum of $60,000, as appraised. The residuary legatee, Frank Hawthorne Pierce, youngest son of the General's brother Henry, will, it is thought, realize from thirty to forty thousand dollars. He is a student at Princeton (N. J.) College.

Communication.

HANOVER, N. H., Oct. 26.

Editors of Chronicle:—It would be a matter of great interest to know all about the recent Earthquake of Oct. 22, as well as the remarkable Tidal Wave of the first of the month. This can be done if every one who noticed their occurrence, will communicate his impressions of what took place to some one person, who will compile from the several statements a general account of the whole. I should be glad to undertake either labor, and request of such readers of the Chronicle as observed the shakings, to send me at Hanover, a statement of the precise time when the quakings commenced, how long they continued, how many shocks wer e felt, and whether any large objects were permanently moved out of place.

Respectfully yours,

C. H. HITCHCOCK, State Geologist.

☞ Joseph Robinson was in Gilman & Cram's grocery store at Exeter, on Monday, and seeing a wallet which a woman had laid down, appropriated it, and retired to a wharf close by, to count his plunder. Some boys seeing him, the fact became public, and the money was recovered, no further steps being taken.

PIKE, THE MURDERER. — The attentive Concord correspondent of the Boston Journal telegraphs that the counsel for Pike, the Hampton Falls murderer, have not again appeared before the Council, and, if the condemned man lives, there seems no doubt but that he will be executed on the 9th of November.

The Governor and Council have appointed Thursday, November 18, as a day of Thanksgiving; and they have also reappointed Hon. Ira Colby, Jr., of Claremont, Solicitor for Sullivan county.

It snowed in Concord, Wednesday morning, with the thermometer at 39.

One inch of snow fell in Lancaster, on Wednesday.

☞ The Democrats of the 4th, Essex, (Mass.) District have nominated Geo. J. L. Colby, Esq., editor of the Newburyport Herald, for Senator.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

The Great Vitalizer.

This title may be fairly given to a restorative which has taken precedence of all other tonic and alterative preparations for a period of nearly twenty years. During that long interval HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS may be truly said to have enjoyed unrivalled popularity. Many preparations have been got up to compete with it, but they have all fallen into its wake or sunk into oblivion for lack of patronage. From the first this noble vegetable tonic has grown, has been both medicinally and financially successful. Every year has added to the number of its friends and its demand for it, based solely upon the experimental proofs of its excellence as a preventive and curative, seems to have no assignable limit. The medical profession sanction and approve its use, and it is now at the head of the class of medicines to which it belongs, the admitted, undisputed SOVEREIGN TONIC OF THE AGE. The statistics of the United States Revenue department will verify the statement that it stands alone and unapproached in the magnitude of its sales as compared with those of any other proprietory remedy advertised on this side of the Atlantic.

The Explanation of this fact may be comprised in a few words, HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS is at once the purest, the safest and the most potent of all vegetable tonics, and the best antidote to every variety of malarious disease. Hence it is especially adapted to the present season of chilling dews and unwholesome vapors.

Holloway's Pills.—CONSTIPATION.—Virulent cathartics aggravate this disease. When their action ceases, the vitiated and weakened bowels are less capable than ever of fulfilling their functions properly. HOLLOWAY'S PILLS, sufferers from costiveness have a mild purgative exactly suited to the exigencies of the case. Instead of weakening the intestines, the pills brace and invigorate, as an alterative, and regulate them. In the worst chronic phases of the complaint, they soon produce a permanent change of habit. In Remote Settlements of United Value.

Food makes blood; blood makes the body. If the blood be pure, the body is healthy. So if we are sick in health, we know some impurities are lurking about, which must be expelled, the sooner the better.

BRANDRETH'S PILLS remove all from the system which nature needs to be rid of.

The wonderful cures effected by Brandreth's Pills have arrested the attention of enlightened physicians. Upwards of five thousand now of them in their daily practice, and two hundred have given their written testimony as to their worth and value, as a cleanser of the bowels and blood. Their untold value is to those living in settlements where doctors can only be had at great expense. For if you are sick, you have only to take one or more doses of Brandreth's Pills to get cured. Full Directions are with each box.

THE LATEST DISCOVERY

In Medication.

The great difficulty which physicians have been laboring for centuries to overcome, has at length been obviated. A vegetable Cathartic and alterative more efficient than any mineral preparation of the same class, and as agreeable to the taste as ordinary candy, is now offered to the sick in the form of a Lozenge.

DR. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S

is the most important medicinal novelty that modern chemistry has produced. It contains two potential extracts, perfectly harmless in themselves, but embodying all the remedial properties of mercury, and destined in this pleasant form to supersede and banish from general use, the nauseous pills and portions of which that dangerous excitant is the main ingredient. More than were made by the inventor of this invaluable remedy before it was brought to its present state of perfection. The Lozenge is harmless in its operation, and altogether the medicinal taste of its active components has been extinguished by chemical art, their virtues remain as active and potent as ever.

In Dyspepsia, Biliousness Constipation, Sick or Nervous Headache, Piles, Dropsy, and the irregularities to which the feebler sex are subject, the Lozenge will be found infinitely more effective than any of the horrible and disgusting compounds usually administered in such cases. As an antibilious specific and general aperient, they have no equal either among advertised preparations or the prescriptions of the regular pharmacopœia.

☞ It is guaranteed that no one who has once tried DR. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S Liver and Stomach Lozenge, will ever again take a purgative powder, or draught or pill.

Will all those afflicted with Coughs or Consumption, give this Balsam a fair trial, they will be pleased with the result, and confess that the sure remedy is found at last.

CONSUMPTION.

DR. SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP for the cure of Coughs, Colds and Consumption.

DR. SCHENCK'S SEAWEED TONIC for the cure of Dyspepsia and all the Debilitated Conditions of the Stomach.

DR. SCHENCK'S MANDRAKE PILLS for Diseases of the Liver, or to act as a gentle Purgative.

All of these three medicines are often required in curing Consumption, though the Pulmonic Syrup alone has cured many desperate cases. The Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills assist in regulating the Stomach and Liver, and help the Pulmonic Syrup to digest and search through the blood vessels, by which means a cure is soon effected.

These medicines are conscientiously offered to the public as the only safe, certain and reliable remedies for Pulmonary Consumption, and for all those morbid conditions of the body which lead to that fatal disease. Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia are often the forerunners of Consumption, and when they manifest themselves they require the most prompt attention.

The Pulmonic Syrup is a medicine which has had a long probation before the public. Its value has been through a period of more than thirty-five years, in all of which time its reputation has constantly increased, and the most obstinate skepticism can no longer doubt that it is a remedy which may be used with confidence in all cases in which admit of a cure.

If the patient will perseveringly follow the directions which accompany each bottle, he will certainly be cured, if his lungs are not too much wasted to make a cure possible. Even in cases supposed to be incurable, when friends and physicians have despaired, the use of the medicine has saved the life of the patient, and restored him to perfect health.

Dr. Schenck himself was cured in precisely such circumstances, and many others have been equally fortunate by judiciously making a timely use of Dr. Schenck's remedies.

Dr. Schenck does not say that all cases of Pulmonary Consumption are within the reach of medicine, but he emphatically does say that even when patients have the most alarming symptoms, such as a violent cough, creeping chills, night sweats, and general debility, and physicians agree that they are obliged to lie in bed, and when they are given up by their physicians, they may yet recover. No medicine ever gained more new lungs, but when the lungs are very badly diseased, and to some extent destroyed, a cure may be effected by Dr. Schenck's medicines.

Also in Scrofulous diseases these medicines are equally efficient. Dr. Schenck has photographs of a number of persons who have been nearly covered with scrofula running sores, and who have cured. This shows its purifying properties, which must be done to heal cavities in the lungs.

In the treatment of Consumption, it is of the utmost importance to give vigor and a healthy tone in the system. Hence it is necessary to strengthen the appetite of the patient and improve the digestion. Proper nourishment is required, together with such means as will make the food easily digestible. The articles most suitable for the diet of consumptives are fully explanated in Dr. Schenck's Almanacs, which are distributed gratuitously. In general, the most nutritious articles are to be preferred, but the digestive organs must be strengthened in order to make either food or medicine serviceable. This requirement is met by the Sea Weed Tonic, and for this purpose it was designed.

When the digestive powers are put in good order, the food has its proper effect, the system of the patient is invigorated, and the lungs begin to exercise their functions in a normal and healthy manner. Then the healing powers of the Pulmonic Syrup will complete the cure.

Pulmonary Consumption is almost always complicated with Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint. Schenck's Mandrake Pills are intended to remove obstructions from the liver and restore its healthy action. They have all the efficacy which is ascribed to calomel or "blue mass," and are warranted not to contain a particle of any mineral poison. These pills cure the the most obstinate costiveness, sick headache, piles, billious affections, and all other diseases which arise from a torpid or obstructed condition of the liver. One box of these pills will prove the efficacy of the medicine.

In Consumption, the Sea Weed Tonic and Mandrake Pills are invaluable auxiliary medicines. They relieve the sufferings of the patient and assist the Pulmonic Syrup in effecting a cure. They have been found useful in advanced stages of Consumption, where the lungs were almost entirely destroyed, and all symptoms, according to the judgement of physicians, indicated speedy death. Lives of patients who were actually in a dying condition have been preserved for months by the use of Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup.

DR. SCHENCK'S Almanac, containing a full treatise on the various forms of disease, his mode of treatment and general directions how to use his medicines, can be had gratis or sent by mail by addressing his Principal Office, No. 15 North Sixth Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

Price of the Pulmonic Syrup and Sea Weed Tonic, each, $1.50 per bottle, or $7.50 the half dozen; Mandrake Pills, 25 cents per box. For sale by all druggist and dealers.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

☞ Brisk walking this week.

☞ It snow-squalled Wednesday evening.

☞ Mr. Main informs us that our correspondent was incorrect, in the statement that he has decided to build a house.

☞ Adjourned Meeting of the Piscataqua Agricultural Society, at the National Hotel, Friday Evening, Oct.29, at half-past 7.

☞ Stockholders of the Manchester & Lawrence Railroad will be paid at the office of William H. Hackett, on Saturday next, between the hours of 11, A. M., and 3, P. M.

☞ The New Hampshire Gazette for this week, is now ready for delivery at the Chronicle office. Price 5 cts. per copy—$2. per year. Contains all the Local and other reading from the Daily Chronicle.

RIVER THIEVES.—A sail boat and two row boats, belonging to Mr. John R. Holbrook, were stolen from the wharf near his sail loft, Monday night. The row boats were found adrift, afterwards, and the sail boat was discovered stove and sunk at Piscataqua Bridge.

☞ Storer Encampment, G. A. R., inaugurated with a concert on Tuesday evening, a series of parlor entertainments, to be given at their Hall once a month during the coming winter. The performance consisted of a duet on the piano, by Mr. Tilton and a pupil, Master Nowell; quartettes by Messrs. Newell, Ilsley, J. C. and L. S. Butler; duetts by the Misses Payson; and songs by Miss Bufford. The veterans and their friends enjoyed the pleasant music very much, and express their gratitude to the ladies and gentlemen who so kindly furnished them with such a delightful soiree. It is understood that the entertainments will be of varied character, and be given on the last Tuesday in each month, and are furnished to the members of the Post and their friends free of charge.

THE DANCERS (and those who would be) seem to about keep pace with the advance of Winter, though the latter is rather in a hurry to get along, judging from the temperature lately. There are two, if not more, schools for adults under way,—one kept by Mr. J. Turner, in Union Hall, and one by Mr. J. G. Anthonie at Irving Hall. The latter gentleman is equal in ability for teaching his art, and in securing for his pupils a good time while maintaining the most rigid decorum, to our veteran in the profession, Mr. Lamprey,—which is saying a great deal.

Besides these, various societies have opened their courses of Assemblies for the season. St. Crispin's votaries amuse themselves each Wednesday night in Congress Hall, and this (Thursday) evening the C. B. B. Club open with a select Ball at the same place. Music will be furnished by Lamprey's Quadrille Band, and those who are invited—others cannot enter—will doubtless have an enjoyable evening's entertainment.

S. J. COURT, — Wednesday—Judge Bellows.—The day was wholly occupied with the case of State vs. Stover; the prosecution finished their evidence about 3:30, P. M., when the defence was opened by Mr. Goodall in a concise and neat statement of what facts he should prove in support of Mr. Stover's innocence, and if his promises are kept but little doubt is entertained of the Respondent's acquittal. Much medical testimony has been offered both pro and con as to the kicking of the boy, Fitzgerald, by the Respondent, Stover, being the probable cause of the boy's death. This case will probably occupy the attention of the court the greater part of to-day.

Joseph N. Cilley, Esq., (son of Hon. Joseph Cilley of Nottingham, a colonel in the war of 1812 and ex-senator from this State,) was admitted to the bar after having passed an examination extremely creditable to himself.

The jury in the case of Angelina Thompson, disagreed, 8 being for conviction and 4 for acquittal.

Communication.

CUT BONO?—Messrs. Editors:— Your correspondent, "Straight Out Republican," is right in some of his ideas, but, though he may be right in them all, I find that some of his views are opposed by a majority of our people, who are as good temperance men and Republicans as he, no doubt. I do not take any back seat among the "straight outs," as I never voted anything but the Republican ticket, and always voted it straight, without a scratch. I thank you, Messrs. Editors, for the independence you have shown in denouncing party traitors, and think the time has come when half-way men should be cast aside. I have voted "straight" for the last time, if we are to be loaded down with men whom we cannot trust—who are as putty in the hands of the Opposition. It is strange indeed if Portsmouth, with 300 or 400 Republican majority, cannot have a Republican City Government. I find a disposition among our friends to forget all differences, and unite in selecting a candidate for Mayor to be supported—not defeated. And I find, too, that there is a settled disposition to put none but true men on the Republican ticket, for the City Council. To elect others to be wheedled into support of the Opposition is as bad (not to say worse,) as to choose outright copperheads. The Republicans of this city are strong enough to elect a Mayor this year over all opposition, and if the excellent nominee of last year will accept a re-nomination his majority will be counted by hundreds.

I deem it the duty of temperance men to vote down the Constabulary law. Why? Because temperance will suffer by its adoption. Massachusetts with its 70,000 Republican majority tried the law, (a better one than ours) and in one year the legislature was in the hands of the P. L. L.'s, while Gov. Bullock was only saved from defeat by promising not to interfere with them.

Maine with its 20,000 Republican majority tried the law twelve months, and it endangered Republican ascendency so much that it was repealed the next year.

New Hampshire with its Republican majority of 2500 can hardly try the experiment successfully. Twelve hundred and fifty-one voters can turn the scale the other way—and the legislature would be democratic by a change of 27 legislators. Should the proposed law be adopted and the March election go democratic, the law would be repealed next June. Would the temperance cause gain much then by its adoption? The next legislature will choose an U. S. Senator, Mr. Cragin's term expiring March 4th, 1871. Would six months of the Constabulary law compensate temperance Republicans for a six year's term for a copperhead in the U. S. Senate? Does your correspondent realize the danger of throwing New Hampshire into democratic hands after fifteen years of Republican ascendency, and would not the adoption of the Constabulary act tend to that result?

This last is the grand question to be considered. Is there a temperance man who doubts that if the legislature should be carried by the democrats, the present Prohibitory law would be repealed? To be sure it is inoporative in our cities, but it is enforced in some of the country towns. What could be done then in towns like Lebanon, where no intoxicating liquors are now sold, but could be then? There are many men who would vote to throw this State into the hands of the Opposition on this one issue; does Straight Out Republican know of one temperance man in the Opposition ranks who would leave his party to help sustain a Constabulary law? I have never heard of one yet, though one or more may possibly be found who would do so. Let us look the matter straight in the face. We can deplore the want of principle in men who would desert their comrades for the sake of rum, but our regrets will not alter the case. Butting against a stone wall is hardly as politic as going around or over it.

Let our fellow temperance men and earnest Republicans go to the polls on November 9th, and vote "No;" urge your neighbors to do the same, for if indifference or ignorance of the consequences of staying away from the polls results in the adoption of the proposed Constabulary law, the temperance cause will by no means be benefitted. I confidently hope that Portsmouth will throw a heavy vote in the negative.

A TEMPERANCE REPUBLICAN.

A PACIFIC RAILWAY

GOLD LOAN $6,500,000.

We beg leave to announce that we have accepted the agency of the
KANSAS PACIFIC RAILWAY COMPANY,
For the sale of its
NEW SEVEN PER CENT.
Thirty Year Gold Loan,
Free from Tax.
This Loan amounts to $6,500,000.
First Mortgage Land-Grant and Sinking Fund Bonds,
secured upon the extension of the Railway from near Sheridan, in Kansas, to Denver, Colorado, a distance of 237 miles of which 12 miles are completed, and the rest is under construction. It is also a Mortgage upon the Road, the Rolling Stock and Franchises of this first-class Railway, besides now running through the State of Kansas,
And in successful operation for 437 miles
west of the Missouri River, and earning already enough to meet all of its expenses and existing obligations, besides MORE THAN THE INTEREST UPON THIS NEW LOAN. In addition to this the Bonds are also secured by a first mortgage of the GOVERNMENT LAND GRANT OF THREE MILLION ACRES,
extending in alternate sections on either side of the track, from the 394th mile post in Kansas to Denver. The proceeds of the sale of these lands are to be invested by the Trustees in the 7 per cent Bonds, themselves up to 120 in U. S. Bonds, as
A SINKING FUND FOR THE REDEMPTION OF THE BONDS.
The Lands embrace some of the finest portions of the magnificent Territory of Colorado, including a coal field and pinery. The company also holds as an asset another third of Three Millions of Acres in the State of Kansas,
and although not pledged as a security for this Loan, their possession adds largely to the Company's wealth and credit. We estimate the Value of the Company's property, covered by this mortgage at $45,000,000 net, while the Loan is merely $6,500,000.
The Bonds have
THIRTY YEARS TO RUN,
from May 1, 1869, and will pay
SEVEN PER CENT. INTEREST IN GOLD, semi-annually, on May 1 and Nov. 1, and are FREE FROM GOVERNMENT TAXATION, the Company paying the tax.
The principal of the Loan is made payable in Gold, in the City of New York, but each coupon will be
PAYABLE IN FRANKFORT, LONDON OR N. YORK at option of the holder, with notice, at the following rates:
On $1,000 Bond in N. Y. $25 (gold) each half year.
" London....£7 8s. 10. "
" Frankfort..87 fls. 30 krtzs., "
The Agents of the Loan, before accepting the trust and the condition of the Road, and the country through which it runs, carefully examined. They are happy to give the Loan an emphatic endorsement as a
FIRST CLASS INVESTMENT,
in every respect perfectly sure, and in some essential ever
Better than Government Securities.
The Bonds will be sold for the present at 96, and accrued Interest, both in Currency,
the Agents reserving the right to advance the rate.
The attention of investors is invited to these well-secured bonds, which we recommend as one of the most profitable investments in the market.
Gold and Government Securities taken in payment at their market value, without commission.
Pamphlets, with maps giving full information, sent on application.

Morning Chronicle.

FRANKLIN PIERCE.—The New York World complains of the tone in which the Republican papers speak of conspicuous Democrats like Mr. Pierce and Mr. Buchanan after their death, contrasting it with that of the Democratic press in alluding to Mr. Lincoln. If the tone is "reviling," it can not be more indecent than the incessant flings at Mr. Lincoln in the personal column of the World for two or three years after his death. But while a "reviling" tone is, of course, indefensible, the press has no more imperative duty than to tell the whole truth of public men when they die. No man in his senses would think of asking or expecting that such official careers as those of President Pierce and Buchanan should not be censured in comparison with the Presidency of Mr. Lincoln; and it is of the utmost importance that no conspicuous actor in our politics, whose public career has outraged humanity, liberty, and the better senses of the country, should disappear in a mere swash of praise.

The administration of Frahklin Pierce was a conspiracy of four years against the right of man and the honor and peace of the United States—why should it not be frankly stated. James Buchanan was the servile instrument of the slaveholding interest—why should the truth be concealed? That Mr. Pierce was an amiable man and beloved by his friends is true; but his interest to the public, which justifies criticism of his career when he dies, is not that he was a courteous and kind neighbor in Concord, but that he countenanced border ruffians in Kansas. Mr. Buchanan was probably a respectable gentleman, as the phrase is used; but, sworn as the Chief Magistrate to defend the Union, he declared that he had no authority to prevent its dissolution. It is not true that the political question of their time died with these Presidents. They were questions that never die: questions of human rights and American honor. If there is any political morality whatever—if there is any difference between a magistrate who strains every possible point against liberty and one whose heart embraces every man—if there is any difference in conduct which hopelessly rivets chains upon the innocent and that which joyfully breaks them, the official career of Mr. Pierce or of Mr. Buchanan can no more be compared with that of Mr. Lincoln than the private repute of Aaron Burr with that of George Washington.

Suppose that when Mr. Pierce died the other day all the newspapers of both parties had said only, as the World says, that he was "one of the most estimable and upright of men." It would have been a suppression of the truth as flagrantly immoral as a falsehood. If the kind of offense against civilization of which his Presidency was so signal an illustration is to be regarded as a mere temporary political interest, that vast influence upon public conduct which arises from the consciousness of posthumous justice is destroyed and to the exceeding injury of society. If every body, whatever the principles and character and result of his public action, is to go into history merely as privately estimable and upright, moral distinctions in public life are abolished altogether, and Calhoun is as admirable a figure in our history as old John Brown.

The official conduct of Mr. Pierce inflicted deep and terrible wounds upon the country. It confirmed the desperate assaults of the slave party upon the public conscience. It promoted a wild national demoralization. It was directly responsible for massacre and a bloody reign of terror in Kansas. It depressed the hope of every American citizen who aspired to see his country vindicate its origin and its best genius; and it disgraced the name of the United States wherever it was uttered. This was the service of Franklin Pierce to this country and to mankind. It is recorded in our annals. It will be the verdict of history. When he disappeared from the public scene, it needed only to have been mentioned as occasion made the reference necessary. But when, at his death, it is substantially claimed that nothing more should be said than that he was an estimable and upright man, a decent regard for public morality requires that the whole truth be told. Nor is it, as is alleged, an unkindly ravage of the grave to tell the truth soberly, however strongly. Let every man in high office have a living consciousness that when he dies no fondness of private regret, no remembered personal urbanity, can woo to silence or evasion the tongue that tells his public story, and every such man will weigh well his apparent present advantage with his final renown; and every citizen will learn that no station is splendid enough to dazzle the just public perception of the moral character and tendency of official action.—Harper's Weekly.

AN ACT to facilitate Jury Trials in Merrimack County.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives in General Court convened:

SECTION 1. The civil docket for said County shall hereafter consist of a "Motion docket" and a "Jury list." The "Motion docket" shall embrace all civil causes and be the record docket as heretofore, and subsequent to the first term it shall be sufficient if each action be designated by the firm-name of the parties or the name of the party first named in the writ, if there be no partnership withal to designate the other parties.

SEC. 2. The plaintiff's counsel shall have his writ and (except in those actions where none can be required) his specification filed on the first day of the term of entry or ready to be delivered or sent by mail to the defendant's counsel on his personal or written request and offer to receipt therefor. And upon continuance the defendant's counsel shall within thirty days after said term have his set-off and other pleadings so filed or ready to be delivered or sent with such writ, specification or other pleadings, to the plaintiff's counsel. Each replication, rejoiner, demurrer, or other pleadings, shall be filed or ready to be delivered or sent within thirty days after the paper to which it is a reply is hereby required to be in readiness. On the first day of the next term the counsel in whose custody the papers then are shall file them with the clerk where (except for one day on trial) they are ever after to remain. Judgment shall be rendered against the party non-complying, unless, after tender of the costs of the term to the opposing counsel, relieved upon motion and for good cause shown.

SEC. 3. Judgment shall be rendered at the entry term upon all causes upon the motion docket, whether commenced in or appealed to the trial term as upon non-suit or default, unless the same shall be put upon the jury-list, committed to an auditor or referees named, go to the law term, be necessarily continued for notice, or on account of a prior attachment, or to abide the result of some other suit or question of law, or be continued by agreement, or for actual trial, upon affidavit stating the particulars of the grounds of action or defense of the party applying, and that he actually intends to try the same by the jury; and showing good cause for a continuance for that purpose. The presiding justice shall at the commencement of each term assign a certain day or time for hearing and determining motions upon this docket.

SEC. 4. A list of causes for actual trial by jury shall be made up before each term in manner following: Each member of the bar having causes upon the docket shall, at least fifteen days before the term and earlier if required by the clerk, notify him in what cases he shall insist upon such trial, the form of action, and the probable length of each trial. The clerk shall place first upon the list the cases in which both parties, and secondly, in which one party insists upon trial; and no other case (except those after these at the term of entry) shall be put upon said list except upon motion, upon terms and for good cause shown.

SEC. 5. Judgment shall be rendered against any party failing to be ready at the time assigned or in its order, unless relieved by the court for good cause shown, upon terms which under the rules shall indemnify the opposing party,—and taking no costs of term.

SEC. 6. The clerk shall send to each member of the bar as aforesaid, ten days at least before term, a printed copy of such list, stating the form of each action, the probable length of trial, and by what party set down for the jury.

SEC. 7. If any party puts a cause upon the jury-list before or at the entry term for delay or shunnage, or when he has no defense, he shall take no costs, and judgment shall be rendered against him for such terms as the court shall deem just.

SEC. 8. The presiding justice shall from time to time assign a limited number of cases on said list for trial, on the day or within the times set down by him, and no case unless so set down shall be required to be in readiness within the time so assigned.

SEC. 9. The full docket shall from time to time establish such reasonable rules as shall most conduce to further the objects of this act.

SEC. 10. This act shall take effect on its passage.—Approved July 8, 1869.

☞ The Richmond Enquirer well says; "Some people seem to think that the special mission of a newspaper is to 'pitch into,' (as they elegantly phrase it) whatever persons or thing may be pointed out as obnoxious. Their idea seems to be that a newspaper is in some sort a terrier dog posted at the street corner for the purpose of barking whenever anybody sets it upon an object he hates and wishes to wrong." And the "beauty" of the thing is, that those very people are generally afraid themselves to "pitch in," but would gladly get somebody else to do it for them.

THE DEATH OF UNIAC was not his least forcible temperance lecture. He died of an over dose of opium taken to drown the horrors of delirum tremens. He had no doubt struggled with all his might to free himself from the power of rum, but all in vain. He was eloquent and gifted, and none better described the slavery of dram drinking, because none knew better how terrible it was. Such slavery every man is liable to who does not fix himself on the rock of total abstinence. Many escape the drunkard's doom, but there are thousands like Uniac who would give worlds to break free, but cannot. There is no death more horrible than the drunkard's. Why will men start on that road which leads to ruin?—Lowell Courier.

—Another of the best friends and advisers of the workingman has just died in Brooklyn, N. Y.—John W. Farmer, the plumber, who supplied soup to the poor in 1857-58, during those two hard winters. Some of them perhaps remember his queer hat and his beaming face and cheery voice. The workingmen of New York will never forget him. He was in the forefront of the co-operative movement, and owned stock in every enterprise established in the country by associations of workingmen. For a long time before his death he kept one of his large uptown buildings open for the use of workingmen's organizations, and for three years his free reading room in the same building has been one of the most useful institutions of its kind in the country.

STATE CONSTABLES.—The following is the Act to establish a New Hampshire State Police in certain cases:

SECTION 1. There shall be an officer to be called the Constable of the State, who shall be commissioned to hold office for the term of two years, unless sooner removed. He shall be appointed by the Governor and Council, and receive an annual salary of fifteen hundred dollars ($1,500), to be paid from the state treasury in equal quarterly payments, and the same travelling expenses allowed to sheriffs and their deputies for like service. He shall reside in Concord, or some place approved by the Governor and Council, and keep a suitable office therein.

SEC. 2. The said constable shall be satisfied from personal observation or upon application of ten or more legal voters in any city or town in this state, that the local authorities fail to enforce any law of this state therein, shall appoint one or more deputies, resident in the county in which such city or town is situated. But the number of deputies in any one county shall in no case be more than five. And the number shall not exceed twenty at any one time in the whole state. And any deputy may at any time be removed by said constable or by the Governor and Council.

SEC. 3. The said constable and his deputies, severally, shall have and exercise throughout the state all the common law and statutory power of constables, except the power to serve civil processes and also, in all the cities of this state, all the powers given therein to city marshals, police officers and watchmen, by the statutes of this state, and by the ordinances of said cities. It shall be the duty of said constables and his deputies to see that the laws are enforced and observed in all parts of the state, and to cooperate with the county solicitors, sheriffs and their deputies in the several counties, and with the city marshals and police officers of the several cities, and the selectmen of the several towns, in securing that result; and they shall especially use their utmost endeavors to repress and prevent crime, by the suppression of liquor shops, gambling places and houses of ill-fame; but it shall not be their duty to act in any case unless there shall be a failure, neglect or inability on the part of the local authorities to enforce the laws of this state, or to cause persons violating any such laws to be prosecuted and punished.

SEC. 4. The deputies of said constable shall be paid at the rate of three dollars ($3.00) per day when on duty, and when required to travel in the discharge of their duties, from one city or town to another, they shall be allowed, in addition, the same compensation allowed to sheriffs and their deputies for like service. And their accounts shall, from time to time, be audited by the constable, and, if approved by the Governor and Council, shall, upon their warrant, be paid from the treasury of the state.

DODD'S NERVINE ONCE MORE,
THE STANDARD REMEDY for Biliousness with the medical profession is the Anti-Bilious Pill of the American Pharmacopœia. Its reputation has been well enough deserved. But it is a Pill, nevertheless, and most people of sensibility feel something about as big as a meeting house coming into their throat whenever a Pill is spoken of. DODD'S NERVINE AND INVIGORATOR acts efficiently on the biliary organism: it irritates neither stomach nor intestines in all its operations; and what is VERY IMPORTANT, as all good nurses know, it is MOST AGREEABLE TO TAKE, being as pleasant to the palate as any delicate wine. We all know how it is with Cod Liver Oil. In a paragraph elsewhere is excellent for certain conditions of debility, and particularly in tendencies to Consumption; and yet many of the best physicians decline to prescribe it, because it so dreadfully sickens the patient. That, they say, makes it do more harm than good. With Dodd's Nervine all this becomes obstacle. For sale by all Druggists. Price $1. o21w

WHAT ARE
DR. J. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA Vinegar Bitters?
THEY ARE NOT A VILE FANCY DRINK, Made of Poor Rum, Whiskey, Proof Spirits, and refuse Liquors, doctored, spiced, and sweetened to please the taste, called "Tonics," "Appetisers" "Restorers," &c., that lead the tippler on to drunkenness and ruin, but are a true Medicine, made from the Native Roots and Herbs of California, free from all Alcoholic Stimulants. They are the GREAT BLOOD-PURIFIER and LIFE-GIVING PRINCIPLE, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the system, carrying off all poisonous matter, and restoring the blood to a healthy condition. No person can take these Bitters according to directions and remain long unwell. $100 will be given for an incurable case, providing the bones are not destroyed by mineral poisons or other means, the vital organs are not beyond the point of repair.
FOR INFLAMMATORY AND CHRONIC RHEUMATISM, AND GOUT, DYSPEPSIA, or INDIGESTION, BILLIOUS, REMITTENT, and INTERMITTENT FEVERS, DISEASES OF THE BLOOD, LIVER, KIDNEYS, and BLADDER, these BITTERS have been most successful. SUCH DISEASES are caused by VITIATED BLOOD, which is generally manufactured by derangement of the DIGESTIVE ORGANS.
Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins, cleanse it when it is foul, and your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood healthy, and all will be well.
These Bitters are not a gilded pill, to delight the eye or please the fancy, but a medical preparation, composed of the best vegetable ingredients known.
They are Alterative, Tonic, Diuretic, Sedative, Diaphoretic, and Gentle Purgative.
"The Life of all Flesh is the Blood thereof."—Purify the blood and the health of the whole system will follow.

GREAT SUN-SUN CHOP. 12w

"Ingenio Stat Sine Morte Decus."
ROCKY MOUNTAIN BITTERS
IS a very superior Regulating Tonic, imparting vigor and strength to the constitution—a thoro'
PURIFIER OF THE BLOOD,
a regulator of nervous force, and a powerful sustainer of health against the encroachments of disease.
The invalid and convalescing seeking restoration, and yearning for the healing virtues of some magic balm, will find in these Bitters a hidden mysterious power, which QUIETLY RESTORES, yet restores to reveal to the senses anything but taste and color.
It is a pleasant Bitter, free from all nauseous properties odor, entirely vegetable, being mainly grown at the base of the mountains from which they derive their name, and is particularly adapted to all forms of
DYSPEPSIA OR INDIGESTION,
manifesting themselves by the following symptoms: headache, nervousness, loss of memory, low spirits, giddiness, dimness of sight, dullness of hearing, and ringing noises in the ears, eructations, of belching of wind, tightness of breathing, weight and oppression of the chest, uneasy feeling about the heart, palpitation, &c.
Also for Liver Diseases, Disorders of the Kidneys, Restlessness and loss of Muscular Power, these Bitters will be found almost a specific; and as a preventative of
FEVER AND AGUE
or a restorer of the natural powers of the system, when broken down by continued ague attacks; it has no equal.
Being stimulating, (but not intoxicating), they refresh and invigorate both mind and body, heighten the sensibility, clear and sharpen the faculties, and bestow alacrity and cheerfulness of spirit.
CAUTION.—There have been, and still are several parties manufacturing and selling so-called "Langley's Bitters," many of which are worthless. As a guide against such, I would say that in 1866, I secured my copy-right, in the United States Court, a trade mark and name, "Rocky Mountain Bitters," and all Bitters of my manufacture are put up in dark, long neck, quart bottles with red label printed with gold; also, direction label, bearing my seal and directions printed in red, with a red cap and my seal printed in gold, over the cork. Beware of all others, and ask for "Rocky Mountain Bitters."

The tobacco crop in the southern and western States this season will be nearly a third smaller than usual.

President Grant has had an interview with Senator Thayer, and declared that he opposes Judge Dent for Governor of Mississippi and hopes and expects that Gen. Alcorn will be elected.

Hard times out West.

Geo. H. Pendleton has been appointed President of the Kentucky Railroad.

A Cincinnati dispatch says that on Wednesday morning a meteor passed over Dayton, going northeastward. It was very brilliant. In the same hour an enormous meeteor passed over Forest Station. It represented a locomotive headlight, left a long train, and was accompanied by a booming roar, which shook the houses, broke windows, and awakened the people. There were three heavy explosions.

Gold, active.

The Argus says that "Aunt Sarah Perry," of Newport, 84 years of age, has just completed the task of spinning 272 skeins of woolen yarn and weaving the same into 49 yards of cloth, doing all the work in seven weeks. Correspondent Chronicle and Gazette.

PORTLAND, ME., Oct. 25.

Eds. Chronicle:—Portland is dull, like other places. Business is fair as it ought to be and generally is just at this time. Storekeepers stocking up for winter. But the fact is prominent, business of all kinds is overdone. Portland went ahead on the wings of an excited and rejuvenated reconstruction, after the fire of July, 1866, and the reaction has set in. It will be some few years before matters become equalized.

The Completion of the Portland & Rochester and the building of the Portland & Ogdensburg roads will largely remedy this state of things, by bringing in new comers, establishing new industrial concerns and thereby increasing trade. We have too many stores. Portland however is growing. At the time of the fire we had 30,000 people, and now 33,000. Our valuation, notwithstanding the net loss of nearly $3,000,000 is beyond that of any other year—nearly $30,000,000. The wealthy capitalists are liberal men and the whole community is enterprising, and if everything works as now indicated, Portland will be the grand Eastern city of the Atlantic coast, the trans-European port, and full of prosperity. Yet time must do this, but not at present. Property has been too highly estimated and under the excitement of 1866-7-8, new buildings (houses as well as places of business) were erected at excessively high prices, and they will to-day bring only two thirds as much. Rents except in special cases, are lower. Matters are getting down to a sensible basis and the sooner they reach a specie standard the better. But we must stop generalizing and give you the news. The Portland Press is flourishing well under the editorship of G. H. Knowlton, Esq., of Saco, whose efforts are able and making favorable impression. With occasional leaders and articles from U. S. District Attorney Talbot, (one of the proprietors) and the spicy and readable locals and general items of L. Clifford Wade, the news and dramatic editor, the Press is a good paper. We miss, however, the pleasant George Gifford, the Associate Editor, who is at home at North Vassalboro', sick from overwork. He is one of the most trenchant, capable and industrious young editors in the State, and we are glad to learn of his convalescence.

The Portland Advertiser (often called still by many, "the Star," its recent cognomen, because we suppose of its continuing to shine so brightly every evening) is now under proprietorship of H. W. Richardson, formerly of the Press, a fine writer and independent in ideas, which is commendable although on some topics we do not always "simulate." The Local Editor, Geo. Merrill, serves up the delectable news as for sometime past, and we must say (knowing his modest wishes) volens or nolens, he is one of the best newspaper men in the State. C. S. Couillard is the Miscellaneous and Business Editor and is a capital man for the place. The Argus, (politics aside) is a smart, enterprising paper and keeps up a trenchant sparring with the Press, giving spice and interest to newspaper life. Its news are served in brilliant and readable style, and its bon mots are keen as briars. With John M. Adams as Editor, and Geo. O. Gosse, Associate, and Henry R. Smith, Assistant and Local, the ancient Argus keeps up with the times finely.

We have given pen and ink sketches of Portland's dailies, and if we have puffed them it is because dealing justly we could not do otherwise. Newspaper life has its pleasant sides, and nothing ought to occur amid the jar and conflict of political life to cause discord in the social relations of the fraternity.

Portland has in its Savings Banks some $4,500,000 on deposit. The amount of deposits, Oct. 1st, was $1,392,868,61; profits and reserves $77,157,16—total $1,459,495,77. Increase of deposits over last year $447,314; since April 1st $278,779. Number of depositors, 6694; increase since April 1st, 578. This is a fine exhibit and speaks well for the working classes. The Portland Savings Bank is a large institution and has some $3,000,000 on deposits, &c.

The Aged Brotherhood are now organized as a charitable association, with 65 years as the "youthful" limit of admittance. Aug. 31st is made the day of annual meeting.

Maggie Mitchell had two crowded and select audiences last Wednesday and Thursday evenings, giving us "Fanchon" and "Little Barefoot." They were glorious treats. Managers Lowell and Simonds are deserving of great credit for them, and we understand they will return here soon with Maggie, who will appear in the beautiful play, "Pearl of Savoy," and other gems. Possibly Portsmouth might secure her for one evening. Barney Williams and wife, the inimitable Irish delineators, are expected soon—also under Lowell's management. Theodore Thomas, the New York musical Director, with his famous 50 piece orchestra from Terrace Garden in Summer and Steinway Hall in winter, is coming November 4th—a rich musical feast.

A gentleman here received last week a box of granulated sugar and some oranges, by express from a neighboring city. He thought it a present from some friend. But the oranges appeared punctured, and some of them and the sugar, upon being taken to a chemist, were found to contain strychnine. In two ounces of the sugar there was poison enough to kill five men. It has caused considerable sensation, and the dastardly sender of the box will be ferreted out.

SANCHO.

LEWISTON, ME., Oct. 26.

Messrs. Editors:—If we wish to witness the peculiarities and devastations of a flood, we need not go back to Noah's time, nor need we visit the West Indies or the river Nile to gaze upon the wonders of a hurricane or a tornado; neither have we to repair to the Pacific coast to enjoy the sensation of an earthquake—we have them all in this vicinity. To give your readers a true account of the recent inundations up and down the Androscoggin, and the many incidents connected with it, would fill many pages. There has been a great loss of property among the mill-owners in this city, but no lives. Further up the river the freshet was more calamitous, men of fortune losing their all, and others their lives.

Hon. Chas. Sumner delivered a Lyceum lecture in this city last Saturday evening; subject, "Caste." He had a full house. This was Mr. Sumner's first visit to this city, and he expressed himself very highly pleased with the institutions of learning and the numerous manufactories that the city is encouraging.

The Androscoggin Musical Society are rehearsing the Cantata of the Haymakers, which they intend to render at Central Hall this week.

Oren D. Bragdon, who recently went into the country produce business in East Benton, Me., has had his whole property, amounting to about $4000, destroyed by fire, but was fully insured. He returned to this city with nothing but his insurance policy, having been in business seven days.

The weather here is very cold, with heavy frosts every night, and some ice. Snow fell quite profusely on Monday last.

Correspondence of Chronicle and Gazette.

EXETER, Oct. 28.

There is every prospect of a lively town meeting on the 9th proximo, when a financial report of the Robinson Female Seminary is to be presented.

Severe criticisms are indulged in by our citizens, on the proceedings of the Trustees in administering the affairs of the institution, most of which are doubtless based on hearsay. The popular opinion is that the harmonious action of the Board has been interfered with by dissensions. How true this opinion may be, it is somewhat difficult to ascertain just now, but the town meeting will doubtless produce some revelations.

A good piece of work has been done on Water street, in the vicinity of the wharves. This portion of the street has long been an eyesore, as it was nearly all the time several inches deep with mud. It has now been widened and graded up in good style, and when trod down solid, will be one of the best streets in town.

FEARFUL NEWS ANTICIPATED.—Information has been received of a very marked earthquake, the wave having been recorded on the self-registering gauge in San Francisco, on Friday last, at 5 o'clock, P. M. From this occurrence, a violent earthquake in some distant port of the Pacific Ocean may be inferred, of which news will doubtless reach here before long. The earthquake at Sinoda in 1854, and the one which occurred in Peru in August of last year, were announced in the same way. The wave travels across the Pacific Ocean at an average rate of 360 miles an hour, depending on the depth of the water along the track of the wave. From observations made on the occasions referred to, the average depth of that ocean has been found to be about 2000 fathoms.

☞ The town of Goldsborough, N. C., was thrown into a state of the wildest excitement on Tuesday night by a riot, which began early in the evening and lasted until ten o'clock, between the United States troops stationed there and negroes. About 75 guns were fired. One soldier and one negro were wounded.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

The Shivering Season.

It is impossible to suppose that any human being can consider an attack of Fever and Ague a light visitation. And yet thousands act as if such a calamity was of no consequence; while thousands who are actually suffering from the distressing complaint neglect to adopt the certain means of cure. It ought to be known in every locality subject to this scourge, or which is infested with remittent fever, or any other epidemic produced by miasma, that HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS taken in advance or at the commencement of the unhealthy season, will fortify the system against the atmospheric poison, which generates these distempers. This admirable invigorant—harmless, agreeable, and possessing rarer medicinal virtues than any other tonic at present known, will break up the paroxysms of intermittent or remittent fever in from forty-eight hours to ten days. Such is the universal testimony from districts where periodical fevers have been combatted with this powerful vegetable Cholagogue. In a thievish neighborhood wise men bar their doors and windows yet strange to say if the same neighborhood happens to be pervaded by aerial poison they seldom take the trouble to put their bodies in a state of defence against the subtle enemy. Shivering victims endeavoring in vain to warm your blue hands over the fire, or consuming with the fever that follows the chill, remember that HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS is an absolute, speedy and infallible specific for your distressing malady.

Holloway's Ointment and Pills.—DEAR—Do not suppose that every form of this complaint is incurable. The worst horrmorrhoidal cases are not beyond the remedial reach of HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT. It gives tone to the relaxed integuments and acts as a safe antiptic in the bleeding type of the disorder. Not unfrequently constipation is an accompaniment of the disease, and when this happens, it should be relieved with small doses of HOLLOWAY'S PILLS. Sold by all Druggists.

THE LATEST DISCOVERY

In Medication.

The great difficulty which physicians have been laboring for centuries to overcome, has at length been obviated. A vegetable Cathartic and alterative more efficient than any mineral preparation of the same class, and as agreeable to the taste as ordinary candy, is now offered to the sick in the form of a Lozenge.

DR. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S

is the most important medicinal novelty that modern chemistry has produced. It contains two botanical extracts, perfectly harmless in themselves, but embodying all the remedial properties of mercury, and destined in this pleasant form to supersede and banish from general use, the nauseous pills and portions of which that dangerous excitant is the main ingredient. More than One thousand experiments were made by the inventor of this peerless remedy before it was brought to its present state of perfection. The Lozenge is harmless in its operation, and altogether the medicinal traits of its curative components has been extinguished by chemical art, their virtues remain as active and potent as before.

In Dyspepsia, Biliousness Constipation, Sick or Nervous Headache, Piles, and the train of ailments which the fair sex are subject, the Lozenge will be found infinitly more effective than any of the horrible and disgusting compounds usually administered in such cases. As an antibilious specific and general aperient, they have no equal either among advertised preparations or the prescriptions of the regular pharmacopoeia.

☞ It is guaranteed that no one who has once tried DR. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S Liver and Stomach Lozenge, will ever again take a purgative powder, or draught or pill.

Who are so often afflicted with throat diseases, will find a sure remedy in this Balsam. Lozenges and wafers sometimes give relief, but this Balsam, taken a few times, will insure a permanent cure.

Will all those afflicted with Coughs or Consumption, give this Balsam a fair trial, they will be pleased with the result, and confess that the sure remedy is found at last.

CONSUMPTION.

DR. SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP for the cure of Coughs, Colds and Consumption.

DR. SCHENCK'S SEAWEED TONIC for the cure of Dyspepsia and all the Debilitated Conditions of the Stomach.

DR. SCHENCK'S MANDRAKE PILLS for Diseases of the Liver, or to act as a gentle Purgative.

All of these three medicines are often required in curing Consumption, though the Pulmonic Syrup alone has cured many desperate cases. The Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills assist in regulating the Stomach and Liver, and help the Pulmonic Syrup to digest and search through the blood vessels, by which means a cure is soon effected.

These medicines are conscientiously offered to the public as the only safe certain and reliable remedies for Pulmonary Consumption, and for all those morbid conditions of the body which lead to that fatal disease. Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia are often forerunners of Consumption, and when they manifest themselves they require the most prompt attention.

The Pulmonic Syrup is a medicine which has had a long probation before the public. Its value has been through a period of more than thirty-five years, in all of which time its reputation has constantly increased, and the most obstinate skepticism can no longer doubt that it is a remedy which may be used with confidence in all cases as which admit of a cure.

If the patient will perseveringly follow the directions which accompany the medicine, he will certainly be cured, if his lungs are not too much wasted to make a cure possible. Even in cases supposed to be incurable, when friends and physicians have despaired, the use of the medicine has saved the life of the patient, and restored him to perfect health.

Dr. Schenck himself was cured in precisely such circumstances, and many others have been equally fortunate by judiciously making a timely use of Dr. Schenck's remedies.

Dr. Schenck does not say that all cases of Pulmonary Consumption are incurable, because he knows that is not true, but he emphatically asserts, that often when patients have the most alarming symptoms, such as a violent cough, creeping chills, night sweats, and general debility, even to such a degree that they are obliged to lie in bed, and when they are given up by their physicians, they may still be cured. No medicine can create new lungs, but when the lungs are very badly diseased, and to some extent destroyed, a cure may be effected by Dr. Schenck's medicines.

Also in Scrofulous diseases these medicines are equally efficient. Dr. Schenck has photographs of a number of persons who have been nearly covered with running sores, and who are all healed up. This shows its purifying properties, which must be done to heal cavities in the lungs.

In the treatment of Consumption, it is of the utmost importance to give vigor and a healthy tone in the system. Hence it is necessary to strengthen the appetite of the patient and improve the digestion. Proper nourishment is required, together with such means as will make the food easily digestible. The food most suitable for the diet of consumptive patients are designated in Dr. Schenck's Almanacs, which are distributed gratuitously. In general, the most nutritious articles are to be preferred; but the digestive organs must be strengthened in order to make either food or medicine serviceable. This purpose is mostly by the Sea Weed Tonic, and for this purpose it was designed.

When the digestive powers are put in good order, the food has its proper effect, the system of the patient is invigorated, and the lungs begin to exercise their functions in a normal and healthy manner. Then the healing powers of the Pulmonic Syrup will complete the cure.

Pulmonary Consumption is almost always combined with Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint. Schenck's Mandrake Pills are intended to remove obstructions from the liver and restore its healthy action. They have all the efficacy which is ascribed to calomel or "blue mass," and are warranted not to contain a particle of any mineral poison. These pills cure the most obstinate costiveness, sick headache, piles, billious affections, and all other diseases which arise from a torpid or obstructed condition of the liver. One box of these pills will prove the efficacy of the medicine.

In Consumption, the Sea Weed Tonic and Mandrake Pills are invaluable auxiliary medicines. They relieve the sufferings of the patient and assist the Pulmonic Syrup in effecting a cure. They have been found useful in advanced stages of Consumption, "when the lungs were almost entirely destroyed, and all symptoms, according to the judgement of physicians, indicated speedy death." Lists of patients who were actually in a dying condition have been preserved for months by the use of Schenck's three great remedies.

DR. SCHENCK'S Almanac, containing a full treatise on the various forms of disease, his mode of treatment and general directions how to use his medicine, can be had gratis or sent by mail by addressing his Principal Office, No. 15 North Sixth Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

Price of the Pulmonic Syrup and Sea Weed Tonic, each, $1.50 per bottle, or $7.50 the half dozen; Mandrake Pills, 25 cents per box. For sale by all druggist and dealers.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

☞ Snow fell in this city for several hours on Thursday, but melted as it fell.

SUPREME JUDICIAL COURT, Thursday, Oct. 27.—The case state vs. Stover was continued. Mr. Goodall made his argument and Mr. Small finishes for the State this morning.

☞ Such weather as we have had the past few days, is the Winter of our discontent, sure enough. It is to be hoped and expected that we shall see better days ere Thanksgiving.

NAVAL.—Chief Engineer B. B. H. Wharton has reported for duty on the U. S. S. Benicia, fitting for sea at this station.

Ensign Hamilton M. Tallman has reported for duty at the Navy Yard.

☞ We published a few day since, an official statement, that all cases of small pox in the city were healed, and the premises cleansed. But we are informed on excellent authority, that sufficient time has not elapsed yet to judge of the matter; and already there is another case at the house on South Mill St., a Mr. Meloon, fisherman, being the victim.

☞ We notice a fine new row-boat, 33 feet long, 4 feet 7 inches wide and 21 inches deep, just launched at the North End. It was modeled and built by Mr. Chas. A. Wendell for Mr. Octavus Tarbox, master painter at the Navy Yard. The boat carries twelve oars and skims over the water ahead of all competitors. Mr. Tarbox has named it "Edith." Mr. Wendell is well known as a builder of fast boats, his first being the "Olivet," one of the swiftest boat on the river five years ago.

Communication.

☞ If some ingenious person could invent a plan to adulterate the article served out to us as "Gas" lately, so as to make it burn either better or worse, he would benefit the public much. If it was improved we should be able to read by it, perhaps; and if it was deteriorated a little bit from its present standard, it would go out altogether,—which would leave us our eyes to see with during the day, instead of finding them destroyed by being strained in the fruitless endeavor to tell whether or no the gas is lighted, as at present.

THE NEW MASTER BOILER-MAKER.—The telegraph and the journals have announced the appointment of Mr. George H. Rheutan, as master boiler maker at the Navy Yard at Portsmouth. The announcement contains an error in the christian name, the real name being "Garrie," in place of George.

Mr. Garrie H. Rheutan is a native of New York city, and was born in 1824. He received his school education in the public schools of that city, and at the age of sixteen years commenced the business his father had followed and in which his three brothers have been instructed, that of boiler-making. He entered as an apprentice at the Washington Iron Works at Newburgh, New York, in 1858 or 9, and before he had completed his apprenticeship, he was placed in charge over a gang of men to manufacture iron bridges in sections, for parties in Cuba. Completing this work, he again engaged in boiler-making until 1868, when he came to this city and entered the employment of Aretas Blood, in the Manchester Locomotive Works.

While he has been in our city, he has attended so closely to his business as to make but few acquaintances outside the Works, and was not known to many of our citizens, even by name, until he received the appointment which he is about to accept. That he is an intelligent, upright and courteous gentlemen, a modest and ingenious mechanic, and an excellent business manager, is the unvarying testimony of all who know him. He will enter upon the duties of his appointment about the first of November, and, from all we can learn of his character and qualifications, will serve the government as faithfully as he has individuals in whose service he has been.—Manchester Mirror.

IN BOARD OF ALDERMEN, Thursday Evening, the Com. on Streets reported a new survey of the Summer St. extentension, with four feet cut and fill, instead of six, and the new grade was adopted, and sent down to the Com. Council for concurrence.

The Com. on City Lands and Buildings reported adversely to petition of John Marston, to transfer his lease of Spring Market to Messrs. Randall & Caswell. Adopted by the Board.

Com. on Wm. Plaisted's bill asked more time—and one week was granted.

Mr. R. K. Oxford appeared to ask action on the petition for including upper Middle Street in the Street Commissioner's charge. After discussion, the Com. on Streets were requested to draft amendments to the Ordinance defining the limits and extent of the Commissioner's duties. It seemed to be the idea of the Board, that all streets and roads should be under charge of one Street Commissioner. The Mayor was authorized to order repairs of the sewer at Messrs. Oxford's and Christie's.

Ald. Cotton inquired if the Com. on Printing had any report to make—as he had been told that the Com. had awarded the City Book to the highest bidder.

Ald. Pender said Ald. Cotton would find it difficult to prove this statement—and that the Com. had nothing to report at present, but when the bill came, it would be time to decide on their action.

The School Report for 1868, which had been on file for several months, was referred to Com. on Printing with power to act.

H. D. Walker was given permission to encumber Short St. for building; Leonard Cotton, to move buildings from High St.; and B. Norton to erect Gas-post corner of Austin and Cabot Sts., and the Com. on Sts. were authorized to place gravel on Mr. Norton's sidewalk, as it is now too late to lay concrete.

The matter of shade trees in streets was discussed; the Mayor and Ald. Nowell and Cotton opposing their removal, and Ald. Spinney and Slater favoring their cutting down in many cases.

John N. Frost again asked pay for duties (?) as Harbor Master. Referred to Com. on Claims.

The Fireman's Relief Assoc'n were voted the interest on their note of $700, at 6 per cent.

A PACIFIC RAILWAY
GOLD LOAN $6,500,000.
We beg leave to announce that we have accepted the agency of the
KANSAS PACIFIC RAILWAY COMPANY,
For the sale of its
NEW SEVEN PER CENT.
Thirty Year Gold Loan,
Free from Tax.
This Loan amounts to $6,500,000.
First Mortgage Land-Grant and Sinking Fund Bonds,
secured upon the extension of the Railway from near Sheridan, in Kansas, to Denver, Colorado, a distance of 387 miles of which 12 miles are completed, and the rest is under construction. It is also a Mortgage upon the Road, the Rolling Stock and Franchise of this first-class Railway, besides now running through the State of Kansas,
And in successful operation for 437 miles
west of the Missouri River, and earning already enough to meet all of its expenses and existing obligations, besides MORE THAN THE INTEREST UPON THIS NEW LOAN. In addition to this the Bonds are also secured by a first mortgage of the GOVERNMENT LAND GRANT OF THREE MILLION ACRES,
extending in alternate sections on either side of the track, from the 394th mile post in Kansas to Denver, Colorado. The proceeds of these lands are to be invested by the Trustees in the 7 per cent Bonds, themselves up to 129 in U. S. Bonds, as
A SINKING FUND FOR THE REDEMPTION OF THE BONDS.
The Lands embrace some of the finest portions of the magnificent Territory of Colorado, including a coal field and pinery. The company also holds as an asset another tract of Three Millions of Acres in the State of Kansas,
and although not pledged as a security for this Loan, their possession adds largely to the Company's wealth and credit. We estimate the Value of the Company's property, covered by this mortgage at $23,000,000 net, while the Loan is merely $6,500,000.
The Bonds have
THIRTY YEARS TO RUN,
from May 1, 1869, and will pay
SEVEN PER CENT. INTEREST IN GOLD, semi-annually, on May 1 and Nov. 1, and are FREE FROM GOVERNMENT TAXATION, the Company paying the tax.
The principal of the Loan is made payable in Gold, in the City of New York, but each coupon will be
PAYABLE IN FRANKFORT, LONDON OR N. YORK at option of the holder, with notice, at the following rates:
On $1,000 Bond in N. Y. $35 (gold) each half year.
" London....£7 8s. 10. "
" Frankfort..87 fl. 30 krtzs., "
The Agents of the Loan, before accepting the trust had the condition of the Road, and the country through which it runs, carefully examined. They are happy to give the Loan an emphatic endorsement as a
FIRST CLASS INVESTMENT,
in every respect perfectly sure, and in some essential even Better than Government Securities.
The Bonds will be sold for the present at 96, and accrued Interest, both in Currency,
the Agents reserving the right to advance the rate.
The attention of investors is invited to these well-secured bonds, which we recommend as one of the most profitable investments in the market.
Gold and Government Securities taken in payment at their market value, without commission.

RAILROADS AND FARMING.

REMARKS OF SENATOR CRAGIN AT THE STATE FAIR.

Mr. President:—We live in an age of most remarkable progress, and in a country of unparallelled resources. Whoever studies the industrial history of the last fifty years cannot fail to observe the wonderful progress of agriculture, commerce and manufactures. In agriculture, new and improved modes of cultivation, new and better varieties of seeds, new and improved breeds of cattle, horses and sheep, and last, but not least, great improvements in farm implements and labor-saving machinery.

In commerce, steam has worked a wonderful revolution on the ocean, lakes, rivers and land. In manufactures, the same great motor has played an important part, and we have witnessed marvellous improvements in all kinds of machinery, and in the variety and quality of manufactured articles. These three sisters of industry are intimately connected, and must prosper or languish together.

The farmer depends upon the mechanics, commercial men, and laborers in other pursuits, for consumers of his surplus products, and the nearer the consumers are to his farm, the better it is for him. The manufacturer depends upon the farmers, and all other classes, as customers for his productions; and commerce gathers up the commodities of the farmer, and all other producers, and exchanges them in the best markets.

In the brief time I may be allowed to occupy, I propose to speak of transportation, and especially railroad transportation, as affecting the industries of the country. We can scarcely realize that steamboats had their birth within the last sixty years, and railroads in the last fifty years; but such is the fact. Robert Fulton's first steamboat was launched in 1807, and enlarged in 1808. It was called the North River, and ran as a packet from New York to Albany, at the rate of four miles per hour.

In 1811, Fulton and Livingston established a ship-yard at Pittsburg, Pa., for the purpose of introducing steam navigation on the Western waters. In 1812, the first steamboat floated on the waters of the Ohio and Mississippi. In the winter of that year the "Orleans" made her first trip from Pittsburg to New Orleans, in fourteen days. In 1818 the first steamboat was built for Lake Erie and the upper lakes.

Her engine was made in the city of New York, and transported to Albany, in sloops, and from Albany to Buffalo by large six and eight horse Pennsylvania teams. Some parts of the engine were delivered in fifteen days, and some were on the road twenty-five days. The price of passage from Buffalo to Detroit, in the main cabin, was $18. This boat was called "Walk-in-the-Water," and was lost in a gale in 1821.

The engineer, Mr. Calhoun, recently in giving an account of his journeys from New York to Buffalo, says: "Every two years I used to return to New York from Buffalo, in the fall, and in the spring from New York to Buffalo. I have been three and four days by stage to Albany; never less than three days, and sometimes nine five days; the stage fare was $10 to Albany.

From Albany to Buffalo I have been ten days in going through; the shortest time was eight days; the stage fare through was $21. My usual expense in going to Buffalo from Albany was $20, including meals and sleeping." Such facts show the great change and advantage of the present mode of travel and transportation.

In 1833, the steamboats from Buffalo only made three trips a year to the upper lakes. The trip from Buffalo to Chicago and back occupied 25 days. As late as 1841 the time required for a first class steamer from Buffalo to Detroit and return was ten days.

In 1820, the usual time from New Orleans to St. Louis was 25 days, and to Pittsburg 54 days. Before the introduction of steam the flat boats were 120 days in going from St. Louis to New Orleans. A bold merchant at St. Louis about the time steamboats were introduced, predicted that the rate of freight between New Orleans and St. Louis would fall to $3.50 per 100 lbs., but he was regarded as visionary. He would have been surprised if he could have looked forward 40 years, and seen boats carrying freight for forty cents per 100 pounds, and carrying it in three days instead of twenty-five.

In 1824, a passage up from New Orleans to New York, via Pittsburg, was made in 24 days, at an expense of $90, and it was regarded as almost a miracle.

Before the Erie Canal was completed in 1825, the cost of transportation from Buffalo to New York was $100 per ton, and the time 20 days. Wheat was worth then only $33 per ton in New York,—hence wheat could not be transported from Buffalo to New York, because it would cost three times its value. The cost of transporting corn was six times its value, and oats, twelve times the value. The Canal took freight for about $14 per ton, and it has been gradually reduced, by canal and railroad, to less than half that sum.

In 1826, goods were shipped from Philadelphia, via New York, Hudson River, Erie Canal, Lake Erie, and some 30 or 40 miles by teams, to Meadville, Pa., for $1.20 per pounds,—at the same time the cost of transportation from Philadelphia to Pittsburg, by wagons, was $3 per 100 pounds.

There was a great semi-centennial anniversary of the National Independence, held in Philadelphia, on the 4th of July, 1826, and by the aid of steamboats and stages, the Philadelphia Gazette was enabled to record "that 300 New Yorkers were said to have been in Philadelphia that day. There were enough to fill 35 coaches."

These facts show the great advantages gained in travel and transportation, in the early days of canals and steamboats; but the greater advantages and more surprising changes come by the building of railroads, which have penetrated in all directions where canals and steamboats could not go. Space has been almost annihilated, and a man can now pass from Bangor to New Orleans in the same time it formerly took to go from Boston to New York. Time and cost of transportation have been greatly reduced.

From a small beginning, the railroad system in this country has grown to gigantic magnitude — and all in 40 years. The Massachusetts road, from Quincy to Milton, three miles in length, was opened in 1827—the first railroad in the United States, and the second in world. A celebration followed, in consequence of what now seems a small affair, but what was really the beginning of a system of transportation which has revolutionized the world, and brought prosperity and civilization to a mighty people. The celebrated Mauch Chunk gravity road, in Pennsylvania, was completed the same year.

Both these roads were horse roads. The horses drew up the empty cars on the Mauch Chunk road and the cars came down, bringing the horses, and loads of coal, by their own gravity. This road is still in existence, but, instead of using horses, the cars are now drawn up by stationary engines. In 1838, twelve miles of the Baltimore and Ohio road were completed. This was the first passenger road in the United States, and was operated by horses. In the same year the city of Boston voted the construction of a railroad from that city to the Hudson river, at Albany, but it was not chartered by the Legislature till 1833.

In 1831, the Hudson and Mohawk road was opened from Albany to Schenectady, and three cars with twenty passengers in each, were drawn 16 miles in 46 minutes, by an American engine of only 3 1-2 tons. The building of this road was undertaken as a sort of experiment by Stephen Van Rensselaer and others, and its success caused great excitement. All the early roads were comparatively cheap affairs, built with strap rails, or "hoop iron on lath," as the unbelievers said.

The construction of the Massachusetts Western Railroad, which the city of Boston voted as early as 1828, was really one of the first great undertakings of the kind. It was one of the most important events for Boston, and for all New England. When it was begun railroad building was a new art, and its progress was consequently slow. The kind and shape of rail, the shape of the wheels, and the construction of the locomotive were then all questions that could only be determined by experiment.

The train of passengers left Boston, on the 7th of April, 1834, for Newton, to which place the Worcester road was then open. It was not complete to Worcester till July, 1835. It was opened to Springfield in Oct., 1836; and it reached Greenbush, opposite Albany, in Dec., 1841. It then took seven years to build a first class railroad, 200 miles long, and none but Massachusetts men and Massachusetts enterprise, under the circumstances as they then existed, could have done it at that time. The United States Bank failed during the building of this road, and the finances of the country were greatly deranged, and this helped to retard the progress of this great work, especially between Worcester and Springfield.

This road received much aid from the state. In 1836, the state took $1,000,000 of the stock, and subsequently loaned its credit for $4,000,000. Before the completion of this road the flour brought to this part of New England came to New York city by the Erie Canal, and was transhipped in sloops around Cape Cod to Boston, and thence by wagons to New Hampshire. It is estimated that this road brought from Albany 6,000,000 bbls. of flour annually for many years.

BROTHERLY QUARREL. — Not long ago there was a very singular and disgraceful scene at the Augustinian Convent of the Holy Names of Jesus and Mary, in Cologne. An order had been given to the cook, a "brother" in the convent, to go to another convent. On receiving the order the culinary brother snatched up a knife and scratched the superior very severely. The latter was by no means a non-resistant, and rushed upon his assailant with the greatest fury. The two locked each other with their arms, and in their deadly struggle fell and rolled upon the floor. The brothers, hearing the noise, rushed to the spot and began a very lively dispute as to the merits of the case, which ended in their taking part, one by one, in the fight until it was a general battle. A body of gendarmes, whose quarters were near the convent, came in and closed the affair, which had resulted in numerous severe bruises, although no lives had been lost. The superior had, with one blow of his aged fist, knocked out three teeth from the mouth of his original antagonist, and had at the close of the contest much the better of him, and the erring brother was led away to the monastic prison in a sadly battered condition.

☞ General McMahon has reached Washington and has given the State Department his views upon affairs in Paraguay. The general confirms the reports of the allies firing upon his party while with the Paraguayan flag-of-truce, and their detention of despatches from and to his government, with the exception of that for his recall from Paraguay, which was promptly forwarded to him. He thinks the present position of President Lopez is stronger than heretofore, and the announcement by the allies of the war being ended was simply a pretext for withdrawing the invading troops. The Paraguayans conduct their war without money, make their own cannon and powder and other hostile appliances, while the women plant and gather the crops. The Maguayans scarcely contributed a regiment to the allied force, the Argentine Confederation 4000 or 5000, and the Brazilians 22,000 or 24,000 more. The Paraguayan legion now guarding or in possession of Asuncion numbers about 2000 men. It is composed in small part of deserters to the allies, with Paraguayan prisoners of war, who have been compelled to enter the service, together with an equal number of Brazilians. The provisional government is regarded as inefficient by all who are familiar with its history, and as not promising stability. President Lopez is represented by General McMahon to be possessed of fine administrative ability, and not more cruel in war than the most complaining of the allied generals. The devotion of the people to their chief is without example. They are not only obedient, but always ready to incur any risk or make any sacrifice which may be demanded by him. President Lopez contemplates the restoration of posperity to his country by immigrants from the United States, to whom he will offer inducements to settle by grants of land.

☞ The New York World, describing the scene in the ante-room of the grand jury's apartments, when a large number of well-known speculators, were assembled in answer to subpœnas, relates the following anecdote, as told by one of the bystanders, of Mr. Daniel Drew:—

"He is a sharp old fox, if he has endowed a theological seminary. I know a lawyer who acted as a referee in a case wherein Daniel was interested. The referee gave an opinion very favorable to Drew, and charged him $2500. Daniel's face never moved. He paid the bill and quietly remarked, "Mr. —, if you have no immediate use for this money it might be very profitable if you should invest it in such a way. I do not advise you to invest; I simply say that you might make it very greatly to your advantage." The attorney, who supposed that Mr. Drew was pleased with the result, and, satisfied with the rather exorbitant fee, believing that Daniel proposed to do him a good service, went directly and invested the twenty-five hundred and a thousand beside as Drew had suggested. In two days he lost every cent. That is the way he got even with the fellow for overcharging. I tell you he's a rat."

DODD'S NERVINE ONCE MORE.
THE STANDARD REMEDY for biliousness with the medical profession is the Anti-Bilious Pill of the American Pharmacopœia. And its reputation has been well enough deserved. But it is a Pill, nevertheless, and most people of sensibility feel something about as big as a meeting house coming into their throat whenever a pill is spoken of. DODD'S NERVINE AND INVIGORATOR acts efficiently on the biliary organism; it irritates neither stomach nor intestine in all its operation; and what is VERY IMPORTANT, as all good nurses know, it is MOST AGREEABLE TO TAKE, being as pleasant to the palate as any delicate wine. We all know how it is with Cod Liver Oil. In a pure state it is excellent for certain conditions of debility, and particularly in tendencies to Consumption; and yet many of the best physicians decline to prescribe it, because it so dreadfully sickens the patient. That, they say, makes it do more harm than good. With Dodd's Nervine all this becomes obstacle. For sale by all Druggists. Price $1. o21ew

WHAT ARE
DR. J. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA Vinegar Bitters.
THEY ARE NOT A VILE FANCY DRINK, Made of Poor Rum, Whiskey, Proof Spirits, and Refuse Liquors, doctored, spiced, and sweetened to please the taste, called "Tonics," "Appetisers" "Restorers," &c., that lead the tippler on to drunkenness and ruin, but are a true Medicine, made from the Native Roots and Herbs of California, free from all Alcoholic Stimulants. They are the GREAT BLOOD-PURIFIER and LIFE-GIVING PRINCIPLE, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the system, carrying off all poisonous matter, and restoring the blood to a healthy condition. No person can take these Bitters according to directions and remain long unwell. $100 will be given for an incurable case, providing the bones are not destroyed by mineral poisons or other means, the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair.
FOR INFLAMMATORY AND CHRONIC RHEUMATISM, AND GOUT, DYSPEPSIA, or INDIGESTION, BILLIOUS, REMITTENT, and INTERMITTENT FEVERS, DISEASES OF THE BLOOD, LIVER, KIDNEYS, and BLADDER, these BITTERS have been most successful. SUCH DISEASES are caused by VITIATED BLOOD, which is generally produced by derangement of the DIGESTIVE ORGANS.
Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins, cleanse it when it is foul, and your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood healthy, and all will be well.
These Bitters are not a gilded pill, to delight the eye or please the fancy, but a medical preparation, composed of the best vegetable ingredients known.
They are Alterative, Tonic, Diuretic, Sedative, Diaphoretic, and Gentle Purgative.
"The life of all Flesh is the Blood thereof."—Purify the blood and the health of the whole system will follow.

GREAT SUN-SUN CHOP. 12w

"Ingenio Stat Sine Morte Decus."
ROCKY MOUNTAIN BITTERS
IS a very superior Regulating Tonic, imparting vigor and strength to the constitution—a thorough
PURIFIER OF THE BLOOD,
a regulator of nervous force, and a powerful sustainer of health against the encroachments of disease.
The invalid and convalescing seeking restoration, and yearning for the healing virtues of some magic balm, will find in these Bitters a hidden mysterious power, which QUIETLY RESTORES, yet restores to reveal to the senses anything but taste and color.
It is a pleasant Bitter, free from all nauseous properties odor, entirely vegetable, being mainly grown at the base of the mountains from which they derive their name, and is particularly adapted to all forms of
DYSPEPSIA OR INDIGESTION,
manifesting themselves by the following symptoms: headache, nervousness, loss of memory, low spirits, giddiness, dimness of sight, dullness of hearing, and ringing noises in the ears, eructations, of belching of wind, tightness of breathing, weight and oppression of the chest, uneasy feeling about the heart, palpitation, &c.
Also for Liver Diseases, Disorders of the Kidneys, Restlessness and loss of Muscular Power, these Bitters will be found almost a specific; and as a preventative of
FEVER AND AGUE
or a restorer of the natural powers of the system, when broken down by continued ague attacks; it has no equal.
CAUTION.—There have been, and still are several parties manufacturing and selling so-called "Langley's Bitters," many of which are worthless. As a guide against such, I would say that in 1866, I secured my copy-right, in the United States Court, a trade mark and name, "Rocky Mountain Bitters," and all Bitters of my manufacture are put up in dark, long neck, quart bottles with red label printed with gold; also, direction label, bearing my seal and directions printed in red, with a red cap and my seal printed in gold, over the cork. Beware of all others, and ask for "Rocky Mountain Bitters."

TERRIBLE DISASTER ON THE MISSISSIPPI.—Steamer Stonewall caught fire Wednesday evening at a point a little below Nealy's Landing, 125 miles below St. Louis, from a candle which the deck hands had while they were engaged in playing cards. The steamer was run on a sand bar, the pilot supposing that the passengers could wade ashore. At the end of the bar there was a large slough; the boat was run on the bar but two feet, and the shallowest point about her had five or six feet of water. She had hay on board, burned like tinder, and all attempts to extinguish the fire were useless. The last seen of the captain, Scott, he was floating down river on a log. The people at Nealy's Landing attempted to assist the unfortunate passengers. One man saved sixteen persons with a skiff. One man was taken from the wreck so badly burned that he died as soon as he reached the shore. The pilot and carpenter were the only ones of the crew saved.

The Stonewall was valued at $45,000; insured $30,000. She had 800 tons of freight, including 270 cattle, horses and mules. The books and papers of the boat were lost, together with the cattle and other freight. There was no explosion. A number of persons died after reaching the shore from the effects of exposure in the water. Captain Shaw had stopped off this trip, and Capt. Thomas Scott was in command of the boat. The conduct of the officers and passengers is said to have been heroic. The alarm was given at half-past six o'clock, and in ten minutes the bow was a sheet of flame. Of eleven women on board but three were saved. But one yawl was seen, and that was taken possession of by some deck passengers. The boat grounded 200 yards from shore. There were a party of cabin passengers, one hundred and fifty deck passengers, and sixty of the crew, —in all about 250 souls, of whom only fifty were saved.

The scene on board was heartrending in the extreme. The flames spread with wonderful rapidity under the action of a strong wind, and the passengers in wild terror crowded the forecastle, until they sprung overboard in a mass, and drowned each other in their desperate struggles to free themselves. Others would jump into the water and whirl around in the strong current for an instant, and then disappear forever. Mr. Fulton jumped overboard and attempted to swim ashore, but coming in contact with some mules he swam to and climbed on the wheel of the boat. While there the steam-pipe burst, and the wheel revolved three times; he clung to it, however, and was finally taken ashore in a skiff.

Charles Williams, a deck hand, says he tried to smother the fire with a blanket, when it was discovered, but the wind blew so strong he failed. An effort was made to get her engine to play on the fire, but the crowd of frenzied deck passengers rushed with such irresistible force upon the men having it in charge, that they were obliged to give it up. Williams then threw overboard a bale of hay, and getting on it drifted to the stern of the boat, where he encountered her yawl containing six men and a woman. He was taken on board, but having no oars they could not stem the current. Williams put ashore, and the remaining men made another attempt to reach the steamer, using the seats of the yawl for paddles, but the tide was too strong and they were carried down stream and seen no more. Williams thinks there were not more than thirty persons saved. It is hoped many were able to reach the shore at different points down the river, and that further information will show that the loss of life has not been so terrible as at present supposed.

The Strafford Town Agricultural Society held its third Annual Fair, Oct. 20 and 21. The Fair was a decided success. The Hall of Austin Academy was used for the exhibition of fruit, products of the farm, and ladies' department, and the Common in front for the exhibition of teams and stock. The cattle show was good, 146 head being on exhibition. Their splendid Town Team was made up of about 60 yokes of fine cattle, a great many of which were bought on the grounds by men from other towns who came for the purpose. It was estimated there were two thousand people on the grounds at times. But few towns could compete with "Strafford" in their Agricultural shows. The second day was entirely taken up with trotting, there being seven races. There was great excitement all day, and the betting ran high. The first prize for horses without regard to locality was won by a horse from Biddeford, and the second by G. Hall's from Barrington.

The Salmon Falls Dramatic Club have been giving a series of entertainments at Village Hall, Salmon Falls, to large audiences.

Last week, Post 17, G. A. R., Dover, attended the first burial service that they have been called upon to perform since their organization—the funeral of Geo. E. Buzzell. They made a creditable appearance in point of numbers, and marched with the precision of veterans, as most of them truly are. The Strafford Guards, Capt. Wallace, volunteered to perform escort duty, and music was furnished by the Dover Cornet Band, W. J. Newell, Leader.

The Young Men's Christian Association of Dover have opened new rooms over the store of C. H. Trickey, with appropriate exercises.

In Webster, as Mr. Edmund L. Burnham of Contoocookville was driving down Sanborn's Hill in his wagon in company with three children, the oldest of whom is about eleven years old, something gave way about the wagon or harness, and the horse started off at a furious pace. Mr. B. was thrown out almost at the first, and the three children followed at intervals of a few rods. Not a bone was broken or a serious injury inflicted on any of the four. The horse ran two miles and had the right thill only attached to his harness when found. The number of pieces into which the wagon was stove, is roughly estimated at fifty. The horse was not hurt. Burnham has not undertaken to recover the fragments, thinking, as we do, that the party was very fortunate to escape unhurt.

As was predicted, the favorable prospect of railroad communication between Wolfeborough and "the rest of mankind," has already awakened quite a spirit of enterprise among the citizens. Several dwellings are being contracted for to be put up this fall, and others are in prospect next spring. The railroad is now considered to be a fixed fact, and it is expected that within a twelvemonth the iron horse will come.

Mr. George Clark, of Manchester, gathered 120 bushels of carrots from a patch of ground, 23 square rods. Carrots weigh 50 pounds to the bushel, making the crop weigh in all 6,000 pounds or three tons. The yield is equal to 21 tons to an acre within a fraction. They are worth about $25 per ton, or $515 for the crop from an acre. Who says New Hampshire farming cannot be made profitable?

The horse of Samuel Alexander of Windham ran away with him, on the 26th, and Mr. A. was thrown from the wagon, breaking a leg near his ankle, so the bone protruded two inches.

☞ Hon. Moses Wingate, of Haverhill, Mass., celebrated his 100th birthday on the 25th Oct. He joined the Free Masons in 1803. Mr. Wingate is nephew of Judge Wingate, late of Stratham. The family are remarkable for longevity. The centenarian has always been temperate—and now has but part of a glass of wine daily.

A NEW BOOK.—We have received No. 1, of a valuable new book, entitled "New Hampshire in the Great Rebellion: containing a History of the several New Hampshire Regiments, Biographical Novelties, incidents and Anecdotes connected with the war, of 1861-65. By Maj. Otis F. R. White.

It is to be sold in numbers, by agents only, who will canvass every part of the State; and it is intended to complete the work in 10 numbers, of 48 pages each; price 30 cts. per number will have one or more engravings.—The present number has portraits of Gov. Smyth and Gen. Bedel. It must be a popular work in New Hampshire.

The American Agriculturist is one of the best and most popular papers in this country, or any other. The publishers state that they have 1700 exchanges, and that their engravings in each monthly number cost $1000. Yet while prepared at a cost exceeding that of the $4 and $5 magazines, the American Agriculturist, owing to the large patronage it enjoys, is supplied at $1.50 per annum, or four copies for $5, and at still less to large clubs. And those subscribing now, get the paper from date of subscription to the end of 1870 at the price of a year. The Publishers are Orange Judd & Co., 245 Broadway, N. Y. City. Mr. J. F. Shores, jr., is Agent in Portsmouth.

☞ In the election of Senator in Tennessee, the House of Representatives was exactly divided between Johnson and Cooper, and the latter got his majority of four in the Senate. The Speakers of both branches voted for Johnson, and Senator Cooper voted for himself. The Tennessee papers describe the scene of rejoicing when the defeat of Mr. Johnson was announced, as being wild and enthusiastic.

Andrew Johnson himself, being sanguine of his election, was badly unnerved by the result. He retired to his room in the hotel where he resides, and was visible only to his most intimate friends, who called to condole with him. But even then his privacy was invaded by an impromptu procession halting beneath his windows, cheering wildly for the newly-elected Senator, and bearing banners inscribed "Moses under a Cloud," "The Real Dead Duck," "How about the Pocket Constitution?" "Swingin" round the Circle," and other mottoes.

The Richmond Dispatch says:—"The fate of Mr. Johnson is well merited. We should be far better off had he never lived, and we trust we have seen the last of him."

☞ A Tennessee correspondent of the Worcester Spy, speaking of the Senator election, says: "Cooper is personally a first rate man too, a firm and consistent Union man from the beginning of the secession movement, and an honest man and a gentleman, one whose record is clear in all respects."

The Shivering Season.

It is impossible to suppose that any human being can consider an attack of Fever and Ague a light visitation. And yet thousands act as if such a calamity was of no consequence; while thousands who are actually suffering from the distressing complaint neglect to adopt the certain means of cure. It ought to be known in every locality subject to this scourge, or which is infested with remittent fever, or any other epidemic produced by malaria, that HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS taken in advance or at the commencement of the unhealthy season, will fortify the system against the atmospheric poison which generates these distempers. This admirable invigorant combines, with purely vegetable, rarer medicinal virtues than any other tonic at present known, will break up the paroxysms of intermittent or remittent fever, or any other epidemic produced by malaria. Such is the universal testimony from districts where periodical fevers have been combatted with this powerful vegetable prophylactic. Its a thievish neighborhood wise men bar their doors and windows yet strange to say if the same neighborhood happens to be pervaded by aerial poison they seldom take the precaution to put their bodies in a state of defence against the subtle enemy. Shivering victims endeavoring in vain to warm your blood under over the fire, or consuming with the fever that follows the chill, remember that HOSTETTER'S BITTERS is an absolute, speedy and infallible specific for your distressing malady.

Holloway's Ointment and Pills.—PILES.—Do not suppose that every form of this complaint is incurable. The worst hemorrhoidal cases are not beyond the remedial reach of HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT. Not unfrequently constipation is an accompaniment of the disease, and when this happens, it should be relieved with small doses of HOLLOWAY'S PILLS. Sold by all Druggists.

THE LATEST DISCOVERY

In Medication.

The great difficulty which physicians have been laboring for centuries to overcome, has at length been obviated. A vegetable Cathartic and alterative more efficient than any mineral preparation of the same class, and as agreeable to the taste as ordinary jelly, is now offered to the sick in the form of a Lozenge.

DR. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S

is the most important medicinal novelty that modern chemistry has produced. It contains two botanical extracts, perfectly harmless in themselves, but embodying all the remedial properties of mercury, and destined in this pleasant form to supersede and banish from general use, the nauseous pills and portions of which that dangerous excitant is the main ingredient. More than

One thousand experiments

were made by the inventor of this precious remedy before it was brought to its present state of perfection. The Lozenge is harmless in its operation, and altogether the medicinal taste of its curative components has been so refined by chemical art, their virtues remain as active and potent as ever.

In Dyspepsia, Biliousness Constipation, Sick or Nervous Headache, Piles, Dropsy, and the irregularities to which the female frame is subject, this medicine will be found infinitly more effective than any of the horrible and disgusting compounds usually administered in such cases. As an aperient, they have no equal either among adverdised preparations or the prescriptions of the regular pharmacopoia.

It is guaranteed that no one who has once tried DR. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S Liver and Stomach Lozenge, will ever again take a purgative powder, or draught or pill.

Who are so often afflicted with throat diseases, will find a sure remedy in this Balsam. Lozenges and washes sometimes give relief, but this Balsam, taken a few times, will insure a permanent cure.

Will all those afflicted with Coughs or Consumption, give this Balsam a fair trial, they will be pleased with the result, and confess that the sure remedy is found at last.

CONSUMPTION.

DR. SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP for the cure of Coughs, Colds and Consumption.

DR. SCHENCK'S SEA WEED TONIC for the cure of Dyspepsia and all the Debilitated Conditions of the Stomach.

DR. SCHENCK'S MANDRAKE PILLS for Diseases of the Liver, or to act as a gentle Purgative.

All of these three medicines are often required in curing Consumption, though the Pulmonic Syrup alone has cured many desperate cases. The Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills assist in regulating the Stomach and Liver, and help the Pulmonic Syrup to digest and assimilate through the blood vessels, by which means a cure is soon effected.

These medicines are conscientiously offered to the public as the only safe, certain and reliable remedies for Pulmonary Consumption, and for all those morbid conditions of the body which lead to that fatal disease. Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia are often forerunners of Consumption, and when they manifest themselves they require the most prompt attention.

The Pulmonic Syrup is a medicine which has had a long probation before the public. Its value has been tested by a period of more than thirty-five years, in all of which time its reputation has constantly increased, and the most obstinate skepticism can no longer doubt that it is a remedy which may be used with confidence in all cases which admit of a cure.

If the patient will perseveringly follow the directions which accompany each bottle, he will certainly be cured, if his lungs are not too much wasted to make a cure possible. Even in cases supposed to be incurable, when friends and physicians have despaired, the use of the medicine has saved the life of the patient, and restored him to perfect health.

Dr. Schenck himself was cured in precisely such circumstances, and many others have been equally fortunate by judiciously taking a timely use of Dr. Schenck's remedies.

Dr. Schenck does not say that all cases of Pulmonary Consumption are within the reach of medicine, but he emphatically asserts, that often when patients have the most alarming symptoms, such as a hollow cough, raising of matter, night sweats, and general debility, even to such a degree that they are obliged to lie in bed, and when they are given up by their physicians, they may still be cured. No medical treatment can create new lungs, but when the lungs are very badly diseased, and to some extent decayed, a cure may be effected by Dr. Schenck's medicines.

Also in Scrofulous diseases these medicines are equally efficient. Dr. Schenck has photographs of hundreds of persons who have been cured, cured with running sores, and now all healed up. This shows its purifying properties, which must be good to heal cavities in the lungs.

In the treatment of Consumption, it is of the utmost importance to give vigor and a healthy tone to the system. Hence it is necessary to strengthen the appetite of the patient and improve the digestion. Proper nourishment is required, together with such means as will make the food easily digestible. The articles most suitable for the diet of consumptive patients are designated in Dr. Schenck's Almanac, which are distributed gratuitously. In general, the most nutritious articles are to be preferred; but the digestive organs must be strengthened in order to make either food or medicine serviceable. This requirement is met by the Sea Weed Tonic, and for this purpose it was designed.

When the digestive powers are put in good order, the food has its proper effect, the system of the patient is invigorated, and the lungs begin to exercise their functions in a healthy and healthy manner. Then the healing powers of the Pulmonic Syrup will complete the cure.

Pulmonary Consumption is almost always complicated with Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint. Schenck's Mandrake Pills are intended to remove obstructions from the liver, and to rouse it to action. They have all the efficacy which is ascribed to calomel or "blue mass," and are warranted not to contain a particle of any mineral poison. These pills cure the the most obstinate costiveness, sick headache, piles, billious affections, and all other diseases which arise from a torpid or obstructed condition of the liver. One box of these pills will prove the efficacy of the medicine.

In Consumption, the Sea Weed Tonic and Mandrake Pills are invaluable auxiliary medicines. They relieve the sufferings of the patient and assist the Pulmonic Syrup in effecting a cure. They have been found useful in advanced stages of Consumption, where the lungs were almost entirely destroyed, and all symptoms, according to the judgement of physicians, indicated speedy death. Lives of patients who were actually in a dying condition have been preserved for months by the use of Schenck's three great remedies.

DR. SCHENCK'S Almanac, containing a full treatise on the various forms of disease, his mode of treatment and general directions how to use his medicine, can be had gratis or sent by mail by addressing his Principal Office, No. 15 North Sixth Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

☞ British Brig Elsinore, Moore, sailed from this Port 27th instant bound to Maitland, N. S.,—met with head wind and put back for a harbor. In coming into the harbor, misstayed and went ashore on Clark's Island, where she bilged and filled full of water—and was sold at Auction on the 29th as she laid, without reserve, by William H. Hackett, to J. L. O. Coleman, of this city, junk-dealer, for $328.

☞ The Assembly of the C. B. B.'s at Congress Hall on Thursday evening, was in every sense a success. The music, the quantity and quality of the attendance, and the time the dancers had, were all good; and the Club have decided to hold dancing parties through the whole winter. The next one takes place Tuesday evening, Nov. 9, in Congress Hall, when the music will be furnished by Cushing's Quadrille Band (5 pieces), and the order of dances be furnished by the ladies, five of whom have charge of the entire arrangements; the floor managers also will be ladies.

New Hampshire Thanksgiving.

GOV. STEARNS, PROCLAMATION.—The President has recommended to the people of the United States, that, in devout acknowledgement of the Divine goodness which has been vouchsafed to them during the passed year, they fitly observe a day of Thansgiving, praise and prayer to Almighty God.

Our own feelings of gratitude to the Giver of all good, no less than the long established custom of our State, prompt us to this grateful service.

God has indeed richly blessed us.

He has saved us from "the pestilence that walketh in darkness, and the destruction that wasteth at noonday."

He has given us the early and the latter rain in their season, the seed time with its promise, and the harvest with its plenty.

He has ordained that peace should prevail throughout the land, to the end that the animosities of civil strife should disappear, the wounds of the State be healed, and our national government be restored to its integrity and strength.

He has inspired the hope that the righteousness which exalteth a nation will prevail among the people, and justice be decreed by those who exercise authority.

He has raised up the down-trodden, granted liberty to the captive, and given his Almighty help to those who were ready to perish.

And while He thus enriched us with earthly blessings, He also continues to us the exceeding spiritual blessings of the Gospel of His Son, Jesus Christ.

I do therefore, with the advice of the Council, appoint Thursday, the eighteenth day of November next, a day of Public Thanksgiving and Praise to Almighty God, our Heavenly Father.

And I recommend that the people of this State on that day assemble in their respective places of worship to commemorate with grateful songs and praise the loving kindness of God, and to offer their prayers for a continuance of Divine mercies to the children of men.

☞ Mr. Morrison has this week given a three-days' Musical Institute at Newburyport, in which Miss Gates, Barnabee, the Germania Orchestra, and a chorus of two hundred voices took part—all with good success.

☞ A brief article on Dancing, which appeared in the Chronicle a few days since, written by one of our reporters, expressed the opinion that a certain teacher of the art calisthenic, is equal in proficiency to the veteran Lamprey himself. Now although the item was complimentary to Mr. L., yet we think it is hardly to be expected that any younger and less experienced teacher, can be considered as competent as one who has devoted so many years and so much expense to the finish of his profession. Mr. Lamprey is known and esteemed as among the most thorough teachers in the land. It is honor enough for the younger men to follow where he leads.

☞ The Newburyport Lyceum flourishes. Lyceum everywhere but in Portsmouth.

From the Portsmouth Journal.

EASTERN RAILROAD IMPROVEMENTS.—We stated a few weeks ago that the Eastern Railroad had purchased a large lot of land between the Concord railroad track and the North Mill Pond, near Sagamore Mill, and contemplated the erection of a number of buildings thereon for the better accommodation of their business at this station. We have recently seen a ground plan of the proposed structures, and find a very considerable amount of work laid out for the next season.

The plan provides for the erection on the land north of the Concord railroad track, a building 100 by 40 feet to be used as a Welding shop, Machine, and Blacksmith shop and Engine House; Well and Tank House, 30 by 40 feet; Coal Shed of 1000 tons capacity, 100 by 40 feet. Wood shed for 300 cords of wood, 100 by 40 ft. Car shed for six cars, 240 by 26 feet; Snow-plow House, 70 by 26 ft.; and an Engine House, three-fourths of a circle 220 ft. in diameter, with a turntable in the centre 50 ft. in diameter, and will have accommodations for fifteen locomotives.—When these buildings are completed the present engine house and some of the other buildings will be removed.

The Company are now improving the grounds in Railroad Avenue, by the removal to the southward of the restaurant opposite the depot, and adding to their open grounds a part of the land upon which it stood. The Company have recently purchased the house and lands occupied by Capt. Nathan Godfrey, to enable them to make this change, which will add much to the neatness of the surroundings at this point.

"LE CERCLE."—Is the name of a new field and parlor game recently patented by Mr. C. B. Barlow of this city. This game contains some of the principals of Croquet, and is superior to that from the greater diversity of play offered, and can be set on a ground half the size usually used for Croquet. The game can also be set on the carpet without tacks or nails and is played in the same manner as the outdoor game. The inventor has made a favorable disposition of his patent, and it will soon be introduced to the public.

BEARDING THE LION.—In a jam attendant on the arrest of a drunken marine, at the Temple, in this city, on Tuesday evening, City Marshal Johnson lost a watch with part of the chain attached.

THE WELL-KNOWN AND SKILFUL PILOT of the Emerald, Mr. Daniel Marden, has resigned that position. Mr. James Barr, of this city has been assigned to the duty.

TESTIMONIAL.—At a regular meeting of the Portsmouth Philharmonic Society, held October 21st, the following testimonial was read and unanimously adopted. Mr. Smith was formerly a member of the Society.

The members of the Portsmouth Philharmonic Society cannot forbear publicly expressing their grief at the loss of one of their number—Mr. D. Curtis Smith of North Hampton. A genial, kind-hearted friend and companion, a thorough musician—loving sweet sounds, as he loved his friends, with all his soul. If this be the testimony of a friendship of a few years, what must be the lost to his family? He cannot be replaced, but his memory is dear to us as we recall his pleasant face and his countless kindnesses. We bid him good bye for a little while—the grave never claimed a nobler sacrifice.

IRON MANDRAKE SYRUP

Is an excellent combination of IRON with MANDRAKE and vegetable tonic.

The Mandrake acts on the Liver and prevents the bracing effects which Iron has on many other preparations; while the vegetable tonic strengthens the stomach, and promotes Digestion of Food and facilitates the absorption of Iron into the blood.

Is the great vegetable substitute for Calomel to act on the Liver.

In Freeman's Mandrake Syrup it is combined with Iron and Vegetable Tonics, and forms the most perfect Spring Medicine.

It purifies the blood and imparts IRON to it.

It acts on the Liver and removes foul humors from the body. It is a most excellent remedy for debility, especially for mothers who are worn down by nursing infants, and for all persons whose blood is pure, and who need iron and a strengthening medicine.

RAILROADS AND FARMING.

REMARKS OF SENATOR CRAGIN AT THE STATE FAIR.

Concluded from Yesterday.

I have not time to trace more fully the early history of railroads in this country. I will only glance at results as we now see them. In these last 40 years, and mostly within 30 years, we have constructed more than 33,000 miles of railroads in this country, at a cost of about $1,500,000,000. This enormous sum was expended by a young country, in providing means for its development. This was mostly done before the late terrible war, and yet, within the last eight years, the people have been able and willing to loan their government and States, for patriotic purposes, a sum double the cost of all the railroads; and to-day capital is five times more abundant in proportion to population than it was 30 years ago.

The railroads have done much to develop the resources of the country, and enrich the people. The operation has been to bring the productions of millions of acres and thousands of work shops in general circulation, and wonderfully increase the wealth of the nation.

A few illustrations will give some idea of this progress, occasioned in a great degree by the increased and cheaper means of transportation. Pennsylvania coal was very little used as fuel before 1820. The quantity delivered from the fields in that State, from 1820 to 1840,—20 years,—was 6,847,179 tons. From 1840 to 1860,—20 years,—77,776,961 tons. Last year it is estimated that nearly 10,000,000 were taken out. The production of coal in Pennsylvania has paid for all the railroads in that State many times over.

In 1860 there were about 6,000 miles of railroad in the ten cotton States, which cost about $150,000,000. The value of cotton produced and brought to market in twenty years before that time, was about $3,000,000,000, or about twenty times the cost of the railroads. In the Western States the results are still more marked. Railroads have opened the way into the wilderness, and immense sources of wealth have been found.

Look at Chicago, the great central grain market! In 1852, with only 200 miles of railroad in Illinois, and 20 in Wisconsin, Chicago received only 5,873,141 bushels of grain. In 1860, eight years after, with railroads leading in all directions, she received 40,000,000 bushels. This grain was worth more than $20,000,000 in Chicago. But for railroads much of it would not have paid for transportation.

The increased shipment of wool point in the same direction. In 1860, less than a million pounds of wool were shipped from Chicago. In 1867, more than 12,000,000 pounds were shipped from that city. I recollect being in the interior of Wisconsin in 1851, before railroads had been built there, and wheat was worth only 32 cents per bushel. The cost of transportation to Milwaukee was more than the value of the wheat.

New England has about 4,500 miles of railroad, built at a cost of about $140,000,000. This is a large sum, and yet the lands in the vicinity of these roads have increased, by a money value, more than the cost of the roads. The enterprising men of Boston were among the first to discover the importance of railroads, and they have expended large sums of money in their construction.

It would be hardly possible to overestimate the advantages Boston has derived from railroads. The tendency of rapid and cheap travel and transportation everywhere, has undoubtedly been to concentrate business and population in the large towns. The area that furnishes supplies for a large city is greatly enlarged by railroads, and hence a larger population can easily subsist. If the city is benefited, so are the more distant farms, for they are practically brought near, and they can readily find a market for products which, before the building of railroads, would hardly bear transportation.

A French journal truly says: "Wherever a large centre of consumption is formed, the neighboring farmers are the first to profit by it. This law is infallible ,and allows of no exception.' Railroads tend to equalize distance and values, and to bring the people into closer and more intimate relations. The farmer receives more for his productions, and his property is rendered more valuable. The manufacturer enlarges his operations, and finds a wider market; and commerce gathers its fruits from more productive and more extended fields.

Railroads have greatly aided the diversification of industry in New England, which has done so much for the prosperity of all classes of her people. Manufacturing towns and villages have sprung up in all directions, and become centres of consumption for farm products, and centres of influence for social, moral, intellectual and political elevation.

Wealth has grown much more rapidly than population, and the capacity to purchase and enjoy has been enlarged; so that the people of New England, today, are better fed, better clad, better sheltered, better educated and better governed than any other equal number of people, on the same space in the whole world.

New Hampshire has 641 miles of railroad, and the total amount of capital expended is about $14,156,898. That these roads have benefited our State more than that amount, no man can doubt. It would be safe to say that our lands have increased in value more than $20,000,000 since the first rail was laid in this State. Our manufacturing interests have been greatly enlarged and benefited by the cheaper and more expeditious means of transportation. A fact stated to me a few days ago illustrates the benefit of railroad transportation in this State. A friend of mine in Grafton County has recently sold 150 cords of poplar wood to be delivered near Boston, for $21 per cord. The cost of cutting and transportation will be about $10 per cord,—leaving a net profit on the whole of $1,650. Without railroads this wood would be almost worthless.

The manufacturer also makes money. By the aid of an ingenious machine and a little labor, he is enabled to convert a cord of this wood into simple articles which bring him $200. It seems hardly creditable that 150 cords of poplar wood, simply by adding labor, can be converted into $30,000 cash. This is only one example. Raw materials all over our State have been made valuable by railroads. The example of the poplar wood shows us how much better it would be to manufacture our raw materials at home, and transport the manufactured articles.

At this time there is considerable interest in this State for building new railroads, and I hope it may culminate in success. Many towns are voting to loan their credit to a certain extent, for the purpose of aiding the construction of railroads passing through or near their territory. The wisdom of this policy is beyond question. No better investment can be made. They may not receive large dividends from the companies, but they will find their advantage in the increased value of property and products, and facilities for travel.

It is estimated that the tonnage of all the railroads in this country in 1867 amounted to 75,000,000 of tons, having an aggregate value of $10,472,250,000. This sum is equal to about six times the cost of all the roads, and about four times the national debt. The tonnage amounts to about 4,000 pounds per head for the whole population, and has a value equal to $280 per head. The aggregate gross earning of the roads for the same year are placed at $400,000,000,—a sum equal to more than $10 per head for every man, woman and child in the whole country. These earnings were derived very largely from freight traffic; and this fact shows not only the vast productive powers of the American people, but also the wonderful manner in which railroads have contributed to develop the industrial and material interests of the country.

By a study of these statistics one perceives at a glance the rapidity with which production and commerce are enriching the nation.

David A. Wells, Special Commissioner of the Revenue, estimates that our productions this year will amount to the enormous sum of $7,000,000,000,—a sum almost equal to three times the national debt. A nation of such increasing and unbounded resources has surely no occasion to repudiate its public obligations, or complain of their burden.

The Pacific Railroad, about 2000 miles long, chartered in 1862 and finished in 1869,—though actually built in about four years, and just after an exhaustive war,—shows not only the wonderful energy of the American people, but also the wisdom of the government, by whose aid, in part, it was constructed. By this road, and others which must be constructed, the carrying trade between Europe and Eastern Asia must pass through the United States; and the vast mining interests of the Rocky Mountains and the Pacific regions will be developed, and bring almost countless wealth to the nation.

I have said that other railroads must be built to the Pacific. This I fully believe. Probably a Northern and Southern road will be constructed. It is of vast importance to New England—to all the North-western States—to Oregon—to the territories of Washington, Montana, Idaho and Dakota, and Canada (sometime to be a part of the United States), that the Northern Pacific Railroad should be speedily constructed.

It presents the shortest and best route across the continent, and brings us many miles nearer Asia. It passes for nearly the whole way through territory extremely rich in agricultural and mineral resources, the sale and development of which will add thousands of millions to the wealth of the nation. Let New England men show their usual sagacity, energy and liberality, and this great work will be constructed, without government subsidy, within the next ten years.

LAZY FARMERS.—Laziness prevents a man from getting off his horse to put up the first rail that gets knocked off the fence, and through this lazy neglect a whole field of corn is seriously damaged.

Laziness keeps a man from driving one nail when one nail would do, and finally costs a carpenter's bill for extensive repairs.

Laziness allows a gate to get off the hinges and lie in the mud, or stand propped by rails, or a stable or barn to leak and damage hundreds of dollars worth of provender.

Laziness, in short, is the right and proper name for nine-tenths of the excuses given for bad farming. But by far the most prolific of the many wastes that are due to laziness is the waste of ignorance. But this waste is in itself so great, and has so many ramifications, that we shall have to defer its discussion for another time.—Exchange.

THE FAIRY'S RESCUE

BY ANNETTE BISHOP.

Good luck for me!
There's a humble-bee
Rolling the clover;
Hay-seed fly over
And catch him for me.

I must take a ride to-day
O'er the waves of blooming hay,
Up the hill-side, in the glen Live two little, elvish men.

Their beards are white, their beards are long,
Their hands are big, their hands are strong,
They've got my baby in their den,
The hateful, hateful elvish men!
They rode on a long-tailed dragon-fly,
And they soared low, and they soared high!
They snatched her up
From a buttercup
And carried her off
With squeal and scoff.

They'll make her toil, they'll make her slave,
Their hoards of blossom-dust to save;
They'll harness her with beetles, too,
To drag their acorn-cups of dew.
Get up, humble-bee!
Or I'll tickle your furry thigh
With this beard of golden rye—
Get up, humble-bee!

Buz! buz! hum! hum!
Here I come!
I've got her! the hateful elvish men
Shall never, never find her again.

I stormed their den with my humble-bee;
With his big sharp lance he fought for me.
We tore their walls of rotting bark
We chased them into their dungeons dark;
With strong pine needles we barred them in,
There they shall stay till they rue their sin.

I found my darling with smutty wings,
And spotted with cruel nettle stings;
But I've swung her through the waterfall mist,
And a cleaner darling never was kissed.
I'll put her to bed in the grass down deep,
And set the crickets to sing her to sleep.

FARM PROVERBS.—Do not keep more live stock on your farm than you can keep well.

House all things as much as possible—animals, utensils and crops.

Sell when you can get a fair price, and do not store for rats and speculators.

The more comfortable you can keep your animals, the more they will thrive.

A good cow is a profitable machine—the more food she properly digests, the greater the profit.

A few roots daily to all stock, are as welcome as apples are to boys and girls.

WITNESSES EXTRAORDINARY. — The case of Staples vs. The Portland and Kennebec Railroad company, to recover $10,000 damages for alleged injuries by an accident, began before the Supreme Court in Belfast, Me., on Thursday. A peculiar and interesting feature of the trial is, that the plaintiff and several witnesses are deaf mutes, who were returning from a convention of the deaf and dumb when the accident occurred, and their evidence is received by signs through an interpreter of the deaf and dumb alphabet.

PRESERVING POSTS.—A. C. M., Coldwater, Iowa, says; "I saw an inquiry in your paper how to make timber last. Now I have a secret which I will give you for the benefit of my race, that will make timber last longer than iron, at the expense of half a cent a fence-post: Take boiled oil, thicken it with pulverized charcoal, and cover the timber with it."—Prairie Farmer.

—The Hartford Courant says Emerette Campbell, a school teacher in Manchester, Ct., compelled a little girl named Wheeler, eight years old, to stand on the floor for five hours, because she was deficient in her geography lesson. The girl went home at night in a high state of nervous excitement, was seized with brain fever, and died the second day after.

—Samuel J. Whitton, of Proctorsville, Vt., lost his factory during the late flood, and is said to have suffered to the extent of $20,000. Nothing daunted, he went to Greenfield, Mass., to get his old partner, C. W. Shattuck, to aid him in starting again; but when he got there he found that Shattuck, too had lost his mill!

—An epidemic has attacked the forest trees of Pittsylvania County, Virginia, and it is probable that all the trees will die. The chesnut trees were first attacked, and now the oaks and other trees are dying.

—A woman in Iowa thinks she has done her duty towards the converson of the world when she devotes to missionary purposes the produce of one hen, which she calls her missionary hen.

—"Mammy," said a precocious little boy, who, against his will, was made to rock the cradle of his infant brother, "if the Lord has any more babies to give away don't you take 'em.

—A quaker once hearing a person tell how much he felt for another who was in distress and needed assistance, dryly asked him, "Friend, has thou felt in thy pocket for him?"

—Florida papers note the advance of the temperance movement in that State. Societies are forming in all parts of the State and public opinion is gradually coming to their support.

DODD'S NERVINE ONCE MORE.
THE STANDARD REMEDY for billiousness with the medical profession is the Anti-Bilious Pill of the American Pharmacopœia. And its reputation has been well enough deserved. But it is a Pill, nevertheless, and most people of sensibility feel something about as big as a musket ball in their throat whenever a pill is spoken of. DODD'S NERVINE AND INVIGORATOR acts efficiently on the biliary organism; it irritates neither stomach nor intestine in all its operation; and what is VERY IMPORTANT, as all good nurses know, it is MOST AGREEABLE TO TAKE, being as pleasant to the palate as any delicate wine. We all know how it is with Cod Liver Oil. In a pure state it is excellent for certain conditions of debility, and particularly in tendencies to Consumption; and yet many of the best physicians decline to prescribe it, because it so dreadfully sickens the patient. That, they say, makes it do more harm than good. With Dodd's Nervine all this becomes obstacle. For sale by all Druggists. Price $1. o24w

WHAT ARE
DR. J. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA Vinegar Bitters.
THEY ARE NOT A VILE FANCY DRINK, Made of Poor Rum, Whiskey, Proof Spirits, and refuse Liquors, doctored, spiced, and sweetened to please the taste, called "Tonics," "Appetisers" "Restorers," &c., that lead the tippler on to drunkenness and ruin, but are a true Medicine, made from the Native Roots and Herbs of California, free from all Alcoholic Stimulants. They are the GREAT BLOOD-PURIFIER and LIFE-GIVING PRINCIPLE, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the system, carrying off all poisonous matter, and restoring the blood to a healthy condition. No person can take these Bitters according to directions and remain long unwell. $100 will be given for an incurable case, provided the bones are not destroyed by mineral poisons or other means, the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair.
FOR INFLAMMATORY AND CHRONIC RHEUMATISM, AND GOUT, DYSPEPSIA, or INDIGESTION, BILLIOUS, REMITTENT, and INTERMITTENT FEVERS, DISEASES OF THE BLOOD, LIVER, KIDNEYS, and BLADDER, these BITTERS have been most successful. SUCH DISEASES are caused by VITIATED BLOOD, which is generally produced by derangement of the DIGESTIVE ORGANS.
Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins, cleanse it when it is foul, and your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood healthy, and all will be well.
These Bitters are not a gilded pill, to delight the eye or please the fancy, but a medical preparation, composed of the best vegetable ingredients known.
They as Alterative, Tonic, Diuretic, Sedative, Diaphoretic, and Gentle Purgative.
"The Life of all Flesh is the Blood thereof."—Purify the blood and the health of the whole system will follow.

"Ingenio Stat Sine Morte Decus."
ROCKY MOUNTAIN BITTERS
IS a very superior Regulating Tonic, imparting vigor and strength to the constitution—a thoro' PURIFIER OF THE BLOOD,
a regulator of nervous force, and a powerful sustainer of health against the encroachments of disease.
The invalid and convalescing seeking restoration, and pining anxiously for the healing virtues of some magic balm, will find in these Bitters a hidden mysterious power, which QUIETLY RESTORES, yet refuses to reveal to the senses anything but taste and color.
It is a pleasant Bitter, free from all nauseous properties odor, entirely vegetable, being mainly grown at the base of the mountains from which they derive their name, and is particularly adapted to all forms of
DYSPEPSIA OR INDIGESTION,
manifesting themselves by the following symptoms: headache, nervousness, loss of memory, low spirits, giddiness, dimness of sight, dulness of hearing, and ringing noises in the ears, eructations, of belching of wind, tightness of breathing, weight and oppression of the chest, uneasy feeling about the heart, palpitation, &c.
Also for Liver Diseases, Disorders of the Kidneys, Restlessness and loss of Muscular Power, these Bitters will be found almost a specific; and as a preventative of
FEVER AND AGUE
or a restorer of the natural powers of the system, when broken down by continued ague attacks; it has no equal.
Being stimulating, (but not intoxicating), they refresh and invigorate both mind and body, heighten the sensibility, clear and sharpen the faculties, and bestow alacrity and cheerfulness of spirit.
CAUTION.—There have been, and still are several parties manufacturing and selling "so-called" "Langley's Bitters," many of which are worthless. As a guide against such, I would say that in 1865, I secured my copy right, in the United States Court, a trade mark and name, "Rocky Mountain Bitters," and all Bitters of my manufacture are put up in dark, long neck, quart bottles with red label printed with gold; also, direction label, bearing my seal and directions printed in red, with a red cap and my seal printed in gold, over the cork. Beware of all others, and ask for "Rocky Mountain Bitters."

Improvement of Seamen.

It is an encouraging sign for the friends of seamen—those who regard them as men, having the same rights, and with the same feelings as other men—that their condition under our laws is beginning to attract the attention of the public press; for the subject needs but to be thoroughly ventilated to have the abuses swept away.

In giving his views before the Congressional Committee to inquire into the decadence of our Ship-building and Navigation, in session at Portland recently, Capt. Ryan of that city said that both officers and men in our merchant ships are inferior to what they were years ago; and gave as reasons therefor that the men were inferior because they were picked up among the refuse of foreign nations; and that so long as officers were amenable to courts controlled by lawyers on shore for everything they did at sea, nothing like discipline could ever be maintained. His remedy for the latter trouble was to have a court composed of practical men—that is, old shipmasters—to try all sea offences; and to introduce navy discipline into the merchant service.

The Portland Press thereupon comes out in a temperate but thoroughly democratic article, asserting what I have before asserted, that the customs of the sea have nothing in common with republicanism; and that "if American law and American usages are good enough for all races and colors on land, they are good enough on the longest voyages and in the remotest seas." The Press decidedly objects to the sea-captains' court for trying offences committed at sea; so do I. A prejudiced court cannot be a just one; and men who, like Capt. Ryan, consider sailors as at best but poor machines, would not be apt to regard with favor any of that class who considered themselves men—and free men.

Capt. Ryan does not give any plan for inducing Americans to become sailors, nor to improve the foreign seamen who man our ships; he only says that our sailors are the refuse of foreign nations—in which, with all due deference to his experience, I must pronounce him mistaken, for the foreign seamen in our merchant navy compare favorably with their countrymen who sail under the flags of their respective nations, —and making laws to force into the mire men already robbed of every right, will never improve them.

I can tell Capt. Ryan and the Congressional Committee how to improve the character of our seamen. Do them justice; that is all that is required. Annul the laws that declare a man to be a slave as soon as he becomes a seaman; declare that "the laborer is worthy of his hire" at sea as well as on shore, and that he shall get his wages when he has honestly earned them; do this and the sailor will be improved. Thousands of Americans are willing enough to go to sea; but they are not willing to be reduced to absolute slavery—to be, body and soul, at the mercy of men who, according to Capt. Ryan himself, are far from being faultless.

In opposition to Capt. Ryan's theory is that of the Secretary of the Navy, who in a recent order for "making the navy popular with seamen, and overcoming the difficulty of obtaining men," suggests more indulgence of the seamen, and directs that they shall be allowed to draw one-fifth of their pay each month, if they so desire. He also condemns the frequent forfeiture of seamen's pay by summary court martial; says that "while those officers who indulge their men" to a reasonable extent "make the service popular, those who unnecessarily restrain them" "shut the doors of the Navy Department against that class of seamen most valuable to it;" and suggests that commanding officers give to men of good conduct, every indulgence "compatible with the performance of the necessary duties and the maintenance of discipline on board their ships."

This is a move in the opposite direction from that advised by Capt. Ryan. Mr. Robeson, instead of trying to elevate the character of seamen in the navy by making harsher and still more degrading rules for their government, advises that they be treated more like human beings, that the "class of men most valuable" to the navy may be induced to enter it. And his plan is founded on common sense; for the only reason why the ocean does not draw as respectable and trusty a class of men to its labor as any industry on shore, is that on shore the laborer is a man, while at sea he is a dog. Some day we shall get rid of the lingering barbarism — the serf-and-noble system — which makes him so; which robs and tortures him, and makes floating hells of our ships, furnishing a good argument against democratic institutions wherever they bear our dishonored flag; and then the sailor will have a chance—what he has never had yet—to rise from the moral and social slough he is and always has been in.

And the man who takes the heavy legal yoke from the mariner's neck will do a thousand times more to elevate him than ever has been done by all the Seamen's Friend Societies in the world put together. PAKEHA.

The Shivering Season.

It is impossible to suppose that any human being can consider an attack of Fever and Ague a light visitation. And yet thousands act as if such a calamity was of no consequence; while thousands who are actually suffering from the distressing complaint neglect to adopt the certain means of cure. It ought to be known to every locality subject to this scourge, or which is infested with remittent fever, or any other epidemic produced by malaria, that HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS taken in advance or at the commencement of the unhealthy season, will fortify your system against the atmospheric poison which generates these distempers. This admirable invigorant—harmless, agreeable, and possessing extraordinary medicinal virtues than any other of its present known, will break up the paroxysms of intermittent or remittent fever in from forty-eight hours to ten days. Such is the universal testimony from districts where periodical fevers have been combatted with this powerful vegetable Chologogue. In a thievish neighborhood wise men bar their doors and windows yet strange to say if the same neighborhood happens to be pervaded by aerial poison they seldom take the trouble to put their bodies in a state of defence against the subtle enemy. Shivering victims endeavoring in vain to warm your blue hands over the fire, or consuming with the fever that follows the chill, remember that HOSTETTER'S BITTERS is an absolute, speedy and infallible specific for your distressing malady.

THE LATEST DISCOVERY

In Medication.

The great difficulty which physicians have been laboring for centuries to overcome, has at length been obtained, perfected and tested, and a curative more efficient than any mineral preparation of the same class, and as agreeable to the taste as ordinary jelly, is now offered to the sick in the form of a Lozenge.

DR. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S

is the most important medicinal novelty that modern chemistry has produced. It contains two botanical extracts, perfectly harmless in themselves, but embodying all the remedial properties of mercury, and destined in this pleasant form to supersede and banish from general use, the nauseous pills and portions of which that dangerous excitant is the main ingredient. More than

One thousand experiments

were made by the inventor of this peerless remedy before it was brought to its present state of perfection. The Lozenge is harmless in its operation, and altogether the medicinal taste of its curative components has been extinguished by chemical art, their virtues remain as active and potent as ever.

In Dyspepsia, Biliousness Constipation, Sick or Nervous Headache, Piles, Dropsy, and the irregularities to which the female sex are subject, the Lozenge will be found infinitly more effective than any of the horrible and disgusting compounds usually administered in such cases. As an antibilious specific and general aperient, they have no equal either among advertised preparations or the prescriptions of ordinary practitioners.

☞ It is guaranteed that no one who has once tried Dr. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S Liver and Stomach Lozenge, will ever take again take a purgative powder, or draught or pill.

CONSUMPTION.

DR. SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP for the cure of Coughs, Colds and Consumption.

DR. SCHENCK'S SEAWEED TONIC for the cure of Dyspepsia and all the Debilitated Conditions of the Stomach.

DR. SCHENCK'S MANDRAKE PILLS for Diseases of the Liver, or to act as a gentle Purgative.

All of these three medicines are often required in curing Consumption, though the Pulmonic Syrup alone has cured many desperate cases. The Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills assist in regulating the Stomach and Liver, and prepare the Pulmonic Syrup to digest and search through the blood vessels, by which means a cure is soon effected.

These medicines are conscientiously offered to the public as the only safe, certain and reliable remedies for Pulmonary Consumption, and for all those morbid conditions of the body which lead to that fatal disease. Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia are often forerunners of Consumption, and when they manifest themselves they require the most prompt attention.

The Pulmonic Syrup is a medicine which has had a long probation before the public. Its value has been through a period of more than thirty-five years, in all of which time its reputation has place itself on increased and increasing, even skepticism can no longer doubt that it is a remedy which may be used with confidence in all cases which admit of a cure.

If the patient will perseveringly follow the directions which accompany each bottle, he will generally come out a HEALTHY man, if not too wasted to make a cure possible. Even in cases supposed to be incurable, when friends and physicians have despaired, the use of the medicine has saved the life of the patient, and restored him to perfect health.

Dr. Schenck himself was cured in precisely such circumstances, and many others have been equally fortunate by judiciously making a timely use of Dr. Schenck's remedies.

Dr. Schenck does not say that all cases of Pulmonary Consumption are within the reach of medicine, but he emphatically asserts, that often when patients have the most alarming symptoms, such as a violent cough, creeping chills, night sweats, and general debility, even to such a degree that they are obliged to be helped off from they are given up by their physicians, they may still be cured. No medical treatment can create new lungs, but when the lungs are not badly diseased, and to some extent destroyed, a cure may be effected by Dr. Schenck's medicines.

Also in Scrofulous diseases these medicines are equally efficient. Dr. Schenck has photographs of a number of persons who have been nearly covered with running sores, and now all healed up. This shows its purifying properties, which must be done to heal cavities in the lungs.

In the treatment of Consumption, it is of the utmost importance to give the stomach a healthy tone in the system. Hence it is necessary to strengthen the appetite of the patient and improve the digestion, so that nourishment is required, together with such means as will make the food easily digestible. The articles most suitable for the diet of consumptive patients are designated in Dr. Schenck's Almanacs, which are distributed gratuitously. In general, the most nutritious articles are to be avoided, but the digestive organs must be strengthened in order to make either food or medicine serviceable. This requirement is met by the Sea Weed Tonic, and for this purpose it was designed.

When the digestive powers are put in good order, the food has proper nourishment, the system of the patient is invigorated, and the lungs begin to exercise their functions in a normal and healthy manner. Then the healing powers of the Pulmonic Syrup will complete the work.

Pulmonary Consumption is almost always complicated with Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint. The Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills remove obstructions from the liver and restore its healthy action. They have all the efficacy which is ascribed to calomel or "blue mass," and are warranted not to contain a particle of any mineral poison. These pills cure the the most obstinate costiveness, sick headache, piles, bilious affections, and all other diseases which arise from a torpid or obstructed condition of the liver. One trial of these pills will prove the efficacy of the medicine.

In Consumption, the Sea Weed Tonic and Mandrake Pills are invaluable auxiliary medicines. They relieve the sufferings of the patient and assist the Pulmonic Syrup in effecting a cure. They have been found useful in advanced stages of Consumption, where the lungs were almost entirely destroyed, and all symptoms, according to the judgement of physicians, indicated speedy death. Liver of patients who were actually in a dying condition have been preserved for months by the use of Schenck's three great remedies.

DR. SCHENCK'S Almanac, containing a full treatise on the various forms of disease, his mode of treatment and general directions how to use his medicine, can be had gratis or sent by mail by addressing his Principal Office, No. 15 North Sixth Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

S. J. COURT,—Judge Bellows.—The case of State vs. Edward B. Stover, for manslaughter, occupied the attention of the court the whole of Thursday, and was given to the jury Friday forenoon about eleven o'clock. The jury, after remaining locked up till Saturday morning, were then discharged, being unable to agree. The case was afterwards disposed of by the respondents offering the plea of guilty of assault and battery, which was accepted by the County Solicitor, and Stover was sentenced by the Court to pay a fine of $100 and costs of prosecution.

The next case on trial was that of the State vs. Kent, for an assault in attempting to stop a runaway debtor (for whose arrest Sheriff Joy had the proper papers,) by the sound of pistol shots. The question submitted to the jury was whether this debtor had reasonable grounds to be frightened by the reports of the pistol, and the jury decided that he had, and therefore rendered a verdict of guilty. This case was on trial from 11, A. M., Friday, till 10 A. M., Saturday, when it was given to the jury. The sentence upon the verdict was a fine of $50.

The next case in order upon the criminal docket was that of the State vs. Frank A. Lincoln for embezzlement. As soon as the trial of their case began the counsel for the respondent demurred to the indictment, and their demurrer being sustained by the court, the case was taken from the jury. The question as to the indictment is to be submitted to the Full Bench at the next Law Term at Dover, the third Tuesday of December next.

No other case being ready for trial, the Court adjourned at 12, M., to 10:30 A. M., on Monday.

YORK COUNTY ITEMS. — The York Manufacturing Company of Biddeford has declared a dividend of one hundred dollars per share, (ten per cent, $1000 being the par value,)—making twenty per cent which this corporation will have divided among its stockholders during the year 1869, besides laying up something in addition to swell the surplus fund.

Thomas Quimby of Biddeford having been elected Superintendent of the Portland and Rochester Railroad, has resigned his office as County Commissioner of York County, and Cornelius Sweetser, Esq., of Saco, has been appointed to fill the vacancy.

The tin trumpet won by the Triumph Fire Engine Company of Biddeford, from the Pacifics of Augusta, at the trial of Oct. 2nd, is really a novel affair, ten feet in length, and ten inches in diameter.

PERSONAL. — Tennyson is Idyll-ing away his time on a second series of poems.

Brigham Young has 5,000 pounds of wife and children.

Mrs. Grant wears lace collars.

Liebig has lost lots of money.

Eugenie has seventy-three travelling companions.

Cruikshank is one of the workers in the temperance cause in England.

Parepa travels with three hundred and nine pieces of baggage.

Mrs. Chas. A. Barry, the contralto singer at Trinity Church, Boston, is likely to accept an engagement to sing in one of the largest Episcopal churches of New York.

☞ One means by which the expenses are being rapidly reduced in the Navy Department, is the fitting up of all vessels of war with full sails. This change is now nearly completed and orders have been sent to all the squadrons to cease the use of coal altogether, except in cases of necessity, and even then a full report of the reasons must be sent to the Department. If these are not deemed sufficient the cost of the coals used is to be charged to the officer ordering it to be burned. Aside from saving expense, however, the design of the order is also to restore the knowledge of managing sailing vessels, to which little attention was given by our steam marine during the war.

From the Portsmouth Journal.

RAMBLES ABOUT PORTSMOUTH.

SECOND SERIES.

The second volume of "Sketches of Persons, Locations, and Incidents of Two Centuries," the publication of which was announced by the former editor of this paper but a few months before his death, in the summer of 1868, is now in the hands of the binder and will be issued to the subscribers in a few weeks.

Like the first volume, this work presents the historical researches of the author in a series of chapters or "Rambles," each of which has a unity of its own, representing some single group, or train of events, or series of family portraits. The success of the first series, and its kind reception by the public induced the author to continue them with little if any change in their character, and they occupied his thought almost up to the closing hours of his life. It is not only his last work, but his last days so far as his strength would allow were occupied and solaced by a careful revision and preparation of it for the press.

The first series closed with ramble 84, and was issued to the public May 1, 1859. The very next number of the Journal, for which they were originally prepared, contains an other, the beginning of the second series and they have appeared from time to time since then, and show the same industry, diligence, and conscientious regard for historical accuracy, noticible in the first volume.

This second and concluding volume is accompanied by a sketch of the life and character of the author by his life-long friend, W. H. Y. Hackett, Esq. This biographical sketch of a dozen pages relates many pleasing incidents in the history of the life of his deceased friend, and shows to the reader how he firmly and successfully shaped for himself a life and character independent of surrounding circumstances, almost unmoved by the enterprise and fashions of the times in which he lived. The work appropriately closes with a personal reminiscence of the author, entitled "Fifty years in a Printing Office'"—giving his own and the world's progress during his connection with the Portsmouth Journal, and which covered almost the entire period of his active life.

We have received subscriptions for a large portion of the edition printed. Those wishing copies should send in their names at an early day; as the work has not been stereotyped, no additional copies can be furnished after the edition is exhausted.

The subscription price will be $2 25—to non-subscribers $2 75. Five copies for $10 00.

Subscriptions received at the Journal office; by CHARLES G. BREWSTER, 16 Tremont St. Boston; by Messrs. COLE & LAMBERT, at the office of the American Steam Fire Proof Safe Co., 300 Broadway, New York; by Charles W. Coxe, Esq., Insurance Agent and Broker, Southeast corner of Fifth and Walnut Streets, (up stairs,) Philadelphia.

NOVEMBER.

Hillsides brown with skeleton trees;
Ground with ruddy wind-strewn leaves;
Meadows gleaned of yellow sheaves;
Now begins November.

Whirling gusts of chilling rain
Dash against the window pane,
Birds delay their flight in vain,
Driven by November.

Purple hills with shimmering haze;
Golden incense, breathing praise;
Loveliest of all the days,
Summer in November.

ENGAGEMENTS.—The classification of engagements according to their duration gives us several interesting types. Some engagements are of a short but rapturous kind; others are of a protracted and Platonic character. Some are contracted for a fixed term of years, as the engagement of a minor to marry when he attains his majority, or of a widow to wed after two years' inconsolability. Others are terminable after an indefinite period, when a fellow of the college engages to marry as soon as he gets a living, or where a young lady promises to make her lover happy when he can show that he is able "to maintain her in the style to which she has always been accustomed, and to supply her with the comforts and refinements which she has a right from her position in society to expect."

Other engagements may be considered as terminable at pleasure, such as those projected between officers of small means and the notorious flirts of a garrison town, which it is pretty well understood are only designed to last until the regiment is moved to fresh quarters, or till Providence provides the fair coquette with a more handsome or more substantial lover. These, with many others which it is nonecessary to enumerate, are cautious species of engagements differentiated according to the nature of their duration. But the division of engagements with which society is most familiar, and the one which will occur to all parental minds as the most important, is the simple division of them into Short and Long. The genuine old-fashioned long engagement, of that life-long type with which our mothers and great-aunts were familiar, has happily almost ceased to exist.

Any woman belonging to the professional ranks of the middle class, who is more than fifty years old, will be able to recall several instances of men, generally fellows of colleges, who when young contracted engagements which they were unable to fulfil until they had reached that time of life at which it is not very usual, or very seemly, either to marry or to be given in marriage. Such instances of life-long engagements were by no means rare fifty years ago. The College Fellow of 25 having engaged himself to a young girl of 20, and having no sure expectation of patronage outside of his College, could not then, as now, cut himself adrift from his academical ties, and start forth to make his fortune independently by tuition, journalism, or the public service. Such extra academical means of making use of an academical education were then comparatively unknown or unpromising.

The avenues whereby a gentleman of liberal education could enter the salaried sphere of existence were then comparatively few, and still almost confined to the "three liberal professions." The really well-paid schoolmasterships were then very few; there was no Haileybury, no Bradfield, no Radley; there were no professorships at King's College, London, and no inspectorships of schools. The young Fellow who had taken orders had nothing to look to but a college living, and so he waited on, perhaps for ten, perhaps for twenty, or even thirty years, until his youthful ardor had cooled down into a quiet, bookish sort of attachment, and his betrothed had come to look forward to her marriage rather with pride than passion, as the event which would one day give her the privilege of humbly helping that learned man in his labors, or at least secure her the monopoly of nursing his declining years.

Such long engagements as this are now extremely rare; one scarcely ever hears of a couple being engaged twenty years, and the friends of a young fiancee are generally rather disgusted if she remains unmarried so many months. Any engagement which lasts over two years is now called a long engagement, and one which extends to five years is reckoned a melancholy and very middle-class affair. Long engagements, in fact, even in the modern sense of the term, are confined almost entirely to the middle ranks of the community. They are nearly as much a middle class institution as early dining or Dissent.

New Publications.

The Radical for November, has 11 articles besides notes and notices. Among them, At One; the Essential Difference, by Mary G. Darling—and Artifically Fabricated Sins and Duties, by C. H. Whipple, Boston; C. H. Morse, publisher.

Coach Maker's Journal for November; monthly $2 per year; Philadelphia.

THE MISSISSIPPI RIVER DISASTER.—A St. Louis despatch says the steamer Rubicon had arrived there from below. She brought up John H. Lyon, second engineer of the Stonewall, and a young woman of St. Louis, who was rescued from a floating spar. Lyons reports having seen several charred bodies on the wreck, but adds very little to the information obtained.

—Letters have been received in Washington from Yokohama, Japan, via San Francisco, only four weeks old.

MIXED.

Oh, Absalom! my son! my son!
His hair was white as snow;
He stole a pig and away he run
To the bay of Biscay, O.

The boy stood on the burning deck,
And smoked his pipe of clay,
And bet his money on a bob-tailed nag,
When the moon had gone away.

I'm lonely since my mother died,
The ice is round her still—
So I'll peel a bag of taters, O,
With the sword of Bunker Hill.

It is the hour when from the boughs
I kissed my Molly Ann,
So run, Elisjah, and hurry up Pomp—
Yes, or any other man.

Oh what are the wild waves saying?
I cried the long night through;
And a voice replied far up the height,
A little more cider, too.

The harp at nature's advent strung
Is coming through the rye;
Then kiss me quick and go, my honey,
Said the spider to the fly.

My Willie's on the dark blue sea,
With five hundred thousand more;
And my days are gliding swiftly by
To the old Kentucky shore.

☞ At the municipal election in Baltimore, Wednesday, there were 12,000 votes cast for the democratic candidates, 6120 for the republicans, and 750 for the workingmen's; total 18,879. At the municipal election last year the total votal was 16,053, of which 2958 were for the republican ticket, 659 for the independent candidates and 12,466 for the regular democratic nominees.

☞ The recent rumors that Alonzo Hayward, of California, a director of the Bank of California, had failed were unfounded.

—A man who gets to his office late in the morning, is not a man of the period, for he is behind his time.

—The first question that disturbed man was the woman question and it bids fair to be the last.

HARPER'S MAGAZINE.

HARPER'S MAGAZINE, apart from the illustrations, contains from fifty to one hundred per cent. more matter than any similar periodical issued in the English language.

"Unquestionably the best sustained work of the kind in the World."

Critical Notices of the Press.

The most popular Monthly in the world.—New York Observer.

We must refer in terms of eulogy to the high tone and varied excellences of HARPER'S MAGAZINE—a journal with a monthly circulation of about 72,000 copies, of whose pages are to be found some of the choicest light and general reading of the day. We speak of this work as an evidence of the culture of the American people, and the popularity it has acquired is merited. Each Number contains fully 144 pages of reading matter, appropriately illustrated with good woodcuts; and it combines in itself the racy monthly and the more philosophical quarterly, blended with the best features of the daily journal. It had great power in the dissemination of a love of pure literature.—Trubner's Guide to American Literature, London.

It is one of the wonders of journalism—the editorial management of HARPER'S. * * * All the periodicals which the Harpers publish are almost ideally well edited.—The Nation, N. Y.

We can account for its success only by the simple fact that it meets precisely the popular taste, offering a variety of pleasing and instructive reading for all.—Zion's Herald, Boston.

THE GIANT OF GIANTS.

BY DR. C. D. GARDETTE.

There were giants manifold in the wondrous days of old,
And their dread careers of crime,
Have been told, in prose and rhyme,
On many a marvellous page,
From startled age to age.

In the One Great Book we read of many a dreadful deed
By sons of Anak wrought,
And yet all these are naught,
Beside the record tell,
Of him whose acts I tell.

The giant I describe is the worst of all his tribe;
And the havoc he has wrought,
And the ruin he has brought Unto men is deadlier far
Than the utmost woe of war.

This ogre whom I sing, is the most despotic king!
That was ever known to reign
Over mind and heart and brain,
And his mark is on the graves
Of a million million slaves.

From his right of vassalage he spares nor sex nor age;
He bursts the bonds of life
'Twixt the husband and the wife,
And bows the reverend head
Unto shame beneath his tread.

From grandsire down to son his baleful will is done,
And the generations mourn
The day that he was born,
And pray, but all in vain,
For the crushing of his reign.

He is full of sleights and shifts, and hath wonderous gifts and gifts,
Which at festivals and feasts
Transform mankind to beasts,
And his diabolic spleen
Makes the murderer's weapon keen.

Ah! no end of want and woe to his fiendish power we owe,
And the world is draped in black
In the shadow of his track!
For the world is still in thrall
Of the GIANT ALCOHOL!

N. Y. Ledger.

FISH is, of course, in hot water, an element out of which he could not enjoy an hour's existence. He has succeeded in padlocking the Sun, but the other papers scourge him unmercifully. It would be as difficult for him to tell where to seek for real friends as it was for Calmet and Herder and other geographers to determine the exact locality of the Garden of Eden. That the gold excitement increased his wealth, I cannot believe, for he is even now unable to pay his workmen on the Erie Railway.

He has a large and expensive Opera House to take care of, three or four private establishments to manage, one or two steamboat lines to keep in running order, two theatres, a passenger railway line, a magnificent ferry, a line of omnibuses, a line of cabs, a valuable stud of horses, a regiment of servants, clerks, messengers, private watchmen, &c., and a corps of friends who must be a severe drain upon his exchequer.

A few days ago he was summoned to appear before the Grand Jury, but he failed to come. Jay Gould was also summoned, but, like his partner, remained invisible. What will come of this and the Erie Railway strike, and the unpleasantness with the Times, and the trouble with the President, it remains for Time to disclose. Certain it is, however, that the man who bullied Vanderbilt, frightened Drew, captured Wall street and fascinated Jay Gould, will not be undone without a struggle which shall make him famous the wide world over.

Corbin is still in retirement, and the rest of the gold cabal are pursuing the even tenor of their devious way, with, seemingly, no apprehension of being brought to grief. If the proposed investigation of the conspiracy which so nearly plunged the business community in ruin is held, and the guilty parties are ever summoned to hear a righteous sentence pronounced, it is not wicked to hope that it could be uttered in the solemn words of the English judge who sent the counterfeiter back to jail as a preliminary to a longer journey. Said he: "Willam Higginbotham Fitz Lawrence, I trust that through the merits and mediation of our Blessed Redeemer, you may experience in the world whereto you are going, that mercy which a due regard for the credit of the National finances forbids you to hope for here."—New York Letter.

—The economy of old ladies who have never tasted of the sweets of matrimony is proverbial. One of this class, a resident of a down-east village, was seen on several occasions to carefully gather up and put away for safekeeping all the Democratic papers which she could lay her hands on. Upon being asked the reason for this species of frugality and her apparent affection for this kind of publications, she replied that she used them for making soap, assuring her listener that they were superior to wood ashes for that purpose, inasmuch as they were all pure and unadulterated lye.

—Why is the relief to a besieged city like the birth of a child? The long expected succor has come at last.

—It has been asked, "When rain falls, does it ever get up?" Of course it does—in dew time.

DODD'S NERVINE ONCE MORE.
THE STANDARD REMEDY for biliousness with the medical profession is the Anti-Bilious Pill of the American Pharmacopœia, and its reputation has been well enough established. But it is a Pill, nevertheless, and most people of sensibility feel something about as big as a meeting house coming into their throat whenever a pill is spoken of. DODD'S NERVINE AND INVIGORATOR acts efficiently on the biliary organism; it irritates neither stomach nor intestine in all its operation; and what is VERY IMPORTANT, as all good nurses know, it is MOST AGREEABLE TO TAKE, being as pleasant to the palate as any delicate wine. We do not know how it is with Cod Liver Oil. In a pure state it is excellent for certain conditions of debility, and particularly in tendencies to Consumption; and yet many of the best physicians decline to prescribe it, because it so dreadfully sickens the patient. That, they say, makes it do more harm than good. With Dodd's Nervine all this becomes obstacle. For sale by all Druggists. Price $1. o214w

WHAT ARE
DR. J. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA Vinegar Bitters.
THEY ARE NOT A VILE FANCY DRINK, Made of Poor Rum, Whiskey, Proof Spirit and refuse Liquors, doctored, spiced, and sweetened to please the taste, called "Tonics," "Appetisers" "Restorers," &c., that lead the tippler on to drunkenness and ruin, but are a Pure Medicine, made from the Native Roots and Herbs of California, free from all Alcoholic Stimulants. They are the GREAT BLOOD-PURIFIER and LIFE-GIVING PRINCIPLE, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the system, carrying off all poisonous matter, and restoring the blood to a healthy condition. No person can take these Bitters according to directions and remain long unwell. $100 will be given for an incurable case, provided the bones are not destroyed by mineral poisons or other means, the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair.
FOR INFLAMMATORY AND CHRONIC RHEUMATISM, AND GOUT, DYSPEPSIA, or INDIGESTION, BILIOUS, REMITTENT, and INTERMITTENT FEVERS, DISEASES OF THE BLOOD, LIVER, KIDNEYS, and BLADDER, these BITTERS have been most successful. SUCH DISEASES are caused by VITIATED BLOOD, which is generally produced by derangement of the DIGESTIVE ORGANS.
Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins, cleanse it when it is foul, and your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood healthy, and all will be well.
These Bitters are not a gilded pill, to delight the eye or please the fancy, but a medical preparation, composed of the best vegetable ingredients known.
They are Alterative, Tonic, Diuretic, Sedative, Diaphoretic, and Gentle Purgative.
"The Life of all Flesh is the Blood thereof."—Purify the blood and the health of the whole system will follow.

"Ingenio Stat Sine Morte Decus."
ROCKY MOUNTAIN BITTERS
IS a very superior Regulating Tonic, imparting vigor and strength to the constitution—a thoro'
PURIFIER OF THE BLOOD,
a regulator of nervous force, and a powerful sustainer of health against the encroachments of disease.
The invalid and convalescing seeking restoration, and yearning for the healing virtues of some magic balm, will find in these Bitters a hidden mysterious power, which QUIETLY RESTORES, yet refuses to reveal to the senses anything but taste and color.
It is a pleasant Bitter, free from all noxious properties odor, entirely vegetable, being mainly grown at the base of the mountains from which they derive their name, and is particularly adapted to all forms of
DYSPEPSIA OR INDIGESTION,
manifesting themselves by the following symptoms: headache, nervousness, loss of memory, low spirits, giddiness, dimness of sight, dullness of hearing, and ringing noises in the ears, eructations, of belching of wind, tightness of breathing, weight and oppression of the chest, uneasy feeling about the heart, palpitation, &c.
Also for Liver Diseases, Disorders of the Kidneys, Restlessness and loss of Muscular Power, these Bitters will be found almost a specific; and as a preventative of
FEVER AND AGUE
or a restorer of the natural powers of the system, when broken down by continued ague attacks; it has no equal.
Being stimulating, (but not intoxicating), they refresh and invigorate both mind and body, heighten the sensibility, clear and sharpen the faculties, and bestow alacrity and cheerfulness of spirit.
CAUTION.—There have been, and still are several parties manufacturing and selling so-called "Langley's Bitters," many of which are worthless. As a guide against such, I would say that in 1865, I secured my copy-right, in the United States Court, a trade mark and name, "Rocky Mountain Bitters," and all Bitters of my manufacture are put up in dark, long neck, quart bottles with red label printed with gold; also, direction label, bearing my seal and directions printed in red, with a red cap and my seal printed in gold, over the cork. Beware of all others, and ask for "Rocky Mountain Bitters."

TUESDAY, NOV. 2, 1869.

NOVEMBER ELECTIONS.—Seven States are to hold their annual elections to-day, though in only three of them is a governor to be chosen. Partial or complete State tickets are to be voted for in five of the States, while in New Jersey only a legislature and in Illinois only the members of a convention to revise the constitution are to be chosen.

The only New England State to vote on Tuesday is Massachusetts. It elects a Governor and a full State ticket, a legislature and various county officers. There are three tickets in the field. Last year, Claflin, Republican, had 132,121 votes; Adams 63,266.

The legislature elected last year is composed of 38 republicans and 2 democrats in the Senate, and of 223 republicans and 16 democrats in the House. A special election is to be held for a member of Congress for the seventh district to fill the vacancy caused by the transfer of Hon. George S. Boutwell to the Treasury Department. The candidates are: George M. Brooks, republican, and Leverett Saltonstall, democratic. The vote of the district in 1868 was, for Boutwell 13,214; for Saltonstall 6218.

The most important, perhaps, of the State elections is that of New York. For Governor, last year Hoffman, Democrat, had 439,301; Griswold, Republican, 411,455—Hoffman's majority, 27,946.

The present legislature contains 17 republicans and 15 democrats in the Senate, and 76 republican and 52 democrats in the Assembly. An entire new legislature is now to be chosen. Eight supreme judges retire this year by expiration of their terms, and there exists three other vacancies by reason of the death or resignation of as many judges. The judges are all elected by districts. The most important questions to come before the electors of the State, however, are those of the adoption or rejection of the new constitution. This instrument was framed by a convention assembled in 1867, whose sessions extended into the following year. The vote will be taken for or against the new judiciary article, making an important change in the mode of selecting judges; for or against the suffrage article, repealing the property qualifications for colored men; for or against the article imposing a uniform rule for assessing and taxing property; and for or against the new constitution, excluding the articles thus excepted.

In New Jersey, there is to be an election of one-third of a Senate and an entire House of Assembly. Of the members of the Senate who retire, five are republicans and three are democrats. Of those whose terms do not expire there are four republicans and nine democrats. The present House is made up of twenty-eight republicans and thirty-two democrats.

Illinois is to hold local, municipal and county elections on Tuesday, and is also to choose members of a convention to revise the constitution. They are to be elected from the representative districts which chose to the present House in the legislature fifty-eight republicans and twenty-seven democrats. There is no State ticket, and no general election except for the convention.

Wisconsin will vote for Governor and other State officers. There was no election for State officers last year. In 1867, the Republican candidate for Governor was chosen, receiving 73,637 votes to 68,873 for his opponent. President Grant received 108,857 votes last year; Seymour, 84,710. The present legislature, which is to be replaced by another, is composed as follows: Senate there are 19 republicans and 14 democrats; House 68 republicans and 32 democrats.

The state canvass in Minnesota is complicated by a third ticket,—that of the "temperance" party. For Governor in 1867, the Republicans polled 34,870 votes; Democrats, 29,543. President Grant had 43,542 votes, last year, and Seymour 28,072. The present legislature consists of 16 Republicans and 6 Democrats in the Senate; 38 Republicans and 9 Democrats in the House.

Maryland is to choose a State Controller, half a Senate, and a whole House of Delegates. The present legislature is unanimously democratic. The Republicans threw 30,438 votes for President, last year; Democrats, 62,357.

A CREDITABLE APPOINTMENT.—Hon. Lot M. Morrill has been appointed United States Senator from Maine, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of William Pitt Fessenden. Glad of it. Senator Morrill has been true to his party, in all cases, and voted for the impeachment of Andrew Johnson.

The News.

Gen. Belknap took the oath of office as Secretary of War on Monday.

The public debt decreased $7,633,882,75 in October, making the total decrease of the debt since the first of March, $62,332,070,65.

The American ship J. P. Whitney was lost during a severe storm in the Indian Ocean, on the 8th of April. Thirty-two of the crew perished. The captain and eight men secured a small boat, with which, after twelve days of intense suffering from want of food, they reached a group of islands where they were kindly received and remained until an opportunity occurred for reaching Bombay.

THE EXECUTION of Pike, next week, will be witnessed by only a favored (?) few. In accordance with the law but twelve persons will be admitted to the State Prison grounds for this purpose. Sheriff Morse has had several hundred applications for cards of admission, and he will admit but one member of the Press, who is to report for the Associated Press. All the High Sheriffs in the State want tickets, and it seems that they should be accommodated, if hanging is to be a part of their official duties.

If hanging must be done it should be done well—and the officials should learn how it is done, that they may all know the modus operandi, if called upon. The relatives of the doomed man will be admitted, as provided for by the law. The gallows to be used in this case is being built in this city and will be tested thoroughly before being put to its fearful use at Concord. We are informed that the statement that Pike was overcome when told that he would not be reprieved is untrue. He received the announcement calmly and stated that he was not disappointed.

Sorts.

Moving for a new trial—Courting a second wife.

An editor in New Jersey brings delinquent subscribers to his counters in lively order by publishing obituary notices of them. When they have paid up arrears, he contradicts the report of their death by saying they were only "dead beats."

The fashion for coats this fall will be a good deal like those of last fall, particularly with those who are compelled to wear last fall coats.

☞ Pike is to be hanged next Tuesday, and the people of New Hampshire are to observe Thanksgiving the week after!

—Col. Francis Hill, of Exeter, Me., a man now about 80 years old, took up wild land and commenced farming about 60 years ago. He lives on the same farm to-day, and in that time has never bought a pound of flour or meal of any kind, a kernel of corn or grain, a potato or apple, a pound of butter or cheese, of pork, beef or mutton, or any other nameable thing which farmers in Maine ordinarily produce from their farms. He has one of the best farms in his town, and works it yet himself; and is seen often guiding the plough and turning as straight and handsome a furrow as any young man in the land could do.

HOW TO ADVERTISE. — Everybody knows that fortunes are made by advertising, but it is not everybody who knows how to advertise. When you do advertise, do so with a nerve—go it strong. Business is like architecture—its best supporters are columns; advertise persistently; don't take it by fits and starts; keep pegging away and you are bound to get a hearing. If you are worthy of patronage, don't be afraid to tell it. If you have cheap goods let the people know it. Talk right out like a man, and don't be afraid of hurting somebody's feelings, or spending a few dollars too much.

CYCLAMEN PERSICUM. — What a charming plant is this for window culture! indeed we know of none possessing so many admirable qualities. Of neat, often showy foliage, low close habit, seldom subject to disease, and never to the attacks of insects, even if it never bloomed, it would prove attractive. But when we add to all this the beauty and fragrance of the neat, pure white or rosy-tipped flowers, we have a combination of beauty which we cannot find elsewhere. The plant is of the easiest culture; grows freely in common soil.—Journal of Horticulture.

A MUSICAL FRIGHT.—A few weeks since the Alleghanian Vocalists and Swiss Bell Ringers, through their agent D. G. Waldron, Esq., secured the Methodist Church in a western town, for the purpose of giving the first concert of the kind ever advertised in the place. While the troupe were singing that descriptive Quartette—"The Ship on Fire," and as usual the tenors made the ventriloqual cry of fire! fire! fire! the old Sexton of the church seized the bell-rope, hanging down in the "singing seats," and pulled away with might and main; men, women and children screamed fire! alarmed the whole neighborhood, and it was a full half-hour before quiet was restored.

This little incident, says a western paper, has advertised the Alleghanians everywhere, and nightly they are called upon to repeat this distinguished Quartette, which the old Sexton wished to extinguish.

THE WAY TO BLANKET HORSES.—But few persons comparatively understand how to apply a blanket to a horse to prevent him from contracting cold. We frequently see the blanket folded double across the rump and part of the animal's back, leaving those parts of the body which most need protection, entirely exposed to the cold.

Those parts of the body of a horse which surround the lungs require the benefit of a blanket, in preference to the flanks and rump. When we are exposed to a current of cold air, to guard against any injury from contracting cold, we shield our shoulders, neck, chest and back. If these parts be protected, the lower part of the body will endure a degree of cold far more intense, without any injury to the body, than if the lungs were not kept warm with suitable covering. The same thing holds good in the protection of horses. The blanket should cover the neck, withers and shoulders, and be brought around the breast and buttoned or buckled together as closely as a man buttons his overcoat when about to face a driving storm. Let the lungs of a horse be well protected with a heavy blanket, and he will seldom contract a cold, even if the hindmost parts of his body are not covered.

Many of our best teamsters protect the breasts of their horses by a piece of cloth about two feet square, hanging down from the lower end of the collar. This is an excellent practice in cold weather, as the most important part of the animal is constantly sheltered from the cold wind, especially when travelling toward a strong current. The forward end of horse blankets should be made as closely around the breast of a horse as our garments fit our bodies. Most horses take cold as readily as men, if not blanketed while standing, after exercising sufficiently to produce perspiration. So long as the horse is kept in motion, there is little danger of his suffering from cold; but allow him to stand for a few minutes, without a blanket to protect his shoulders and lungs, and he will get cold sooner than men.—Exchange.

"SHERIDAN'S RIDE."—A correspondent of the Philadelphia Bulletin thus describes the circumstances under which Buchanan Read put into poetry the story of Sheridan's Ride:

In October, 1864, I think it was—at any rate it was on the day the news reached Cincinnati of General Sheridan's Ride—Murdoch was breakfasting with Buchanan Read, whose guest he was. The poet-painter was then living in Cincinnati. On that evening there was to be a benefit for Murdoch. The distinguished actor said, during breakfast:

"Read, you ought to have written me something new for this evening."

Read was looking over a New York paper, which contained an account of Sheridan's Ride. He replied by reading it aloud, and added:

"Murdoch, there is the material in this for a poem and picture."

"Bah!" answered the actor, "what's that to me, when I have not the poem for to-night?"

"I'll write it for you now," said Read.

"What if you do? It is to late to get it up properly."

"Never you mind!" said Read, "you shall have the poem in time to study it for the evening."

Read went to his room, told his wife to send him some hot coffee, and not allow him to be disturbed even if the house should burn down. In a little over an hour he came to Murdoch and read to him the poem as it stands. The actor was delighted, and instantly prepared it for his evening reading, while Mrs. Read, whose bold, beautiful handwriting is well fitted for the purpose, prepared a written copy of the verses, to guard against any tricks the reader's memory might happen to play him.

MERIT SOON NOISED ABROAD.

It is but six years since ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM, was first offered for sale. Its good qualities were soon made known at home, and very soon its fame was noised far and near; now it is sold in nearly every Drug Store in the United States—NORTH, EAST, SOUTH and WEST. No similar medicine stands higher with the people. It is well known on the Pacific coast, and liberal demands for it from San Francisco, Sacramento in California, and Portland, Oregon; even from Australia, large orders are recorded for it. And throughout Canada, it is well and favorably known, and sold everywhere.

Read what Captain Foster writes:

PORT BURWELL, March 23d, 1869.

Messrs. PERRY DAVIS & SON,

SIR:—I am pleased to notify you of the benefit which I have received from ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM; having been troubled with a cough for several years past, the Balsam was recommended to me. I immediately procured it, and found it to relieve my cough more readily than anything I ever tried. My wife has also used it with most satisfactory results.

THE LATEST DISCOVERY

In Medication.

The great difficulty which physicians have been laboring for centuries to overcome, has at length been obviated. A vegetable Cathartic and alterative more efficient than any mineral preparation of the same class, and as agreeable to take as ordinary candy, is now offered to the sick in the form of a Lozenge.

DR. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S

is the most important medicinal novelty that modern chemistry has produced. It contains two potent agencies, perfectly harmless in themselves, but embodying all the remedial properties of mercury, and destined in this pleasant form to supersede and banish from general use, the nauseous pills and portions of which that dangerous excitant is the main ingredient. More than were made by the inventor of this peerless remedy before it was brought to its present state of perfection. The Lozenge is harmless in its operation, and altogether the medicinal taste of its curative components has been extinguished by chemical art, their virtues remain as active and potent as ever.

In Dyspepsia, Biliousness Constipation, Sick or Nervous Headache, Piles, Dropsy, and the irregularities to which the fairer sex are subject, the Lozenge will be found infinitely more effective than any of the horrible and disgusting compounds usually administered in such cases. As an antibilious aperient and general aperient, they have no equal either among advertised preparations or the prescriptions of the regular pharmacopoeia.

☞ It is guaranteed that no one who has once tried DR. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S Liver and Stomach Lozenge, will ever again take a purgative powder, or draught or pill.

The Shivering Season.

It is impossible to suppose that any human being can consider an attack of Fever and Ague a jovial visitation. And yet thousands act as if such a calamity was of no consequence; while thousands who are actually suffering from the distressing complaint neglect to adopt the certain means of cure. It ought to be known in every locality subject to this scourge, or which is infested with intermittent fever, or with the diseases produced by malaria, that HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS taken in advance or at the commencement of the unhealthy season, will fortify the system against the atmospheric poison which generates these distempers. This admirable invigorant—harmless, agreeable, and possessing rare medicinal virtues than any other tonic at present known, will break up the paroxysms of intermittent or remittent fever in from forty-eight hours to ten days. Such is the universal testimony from districts where periodical fevers have been combatted with this powerful vegetable Chologogue. In a thickly populated neighborhood, when men bar their doors and windows yet strange to say if the same neighborhood happens to be prevailed by aerial poison they seldom take the trouble to fortify bodies in a state of defence against the subtle enemy. Shivering victims endeavoring in vain to warm your blue hands over the fire, or consuming with the fever that follows the chill, remember that HOSTETTER'S BITTERS is an absolute, speedy and infallible specific for your distressing malady.

"Facts are stubborn things," and it is to facts alone that it is desired to direct the attention of the readers of this article.

Many years of severe and thorough practical trial have demonstrated beyond the peradventure of a doubt the fact that the medicines prepared by me, and known as SCHENCK'S MANDRAKE PILLS, SCHENCK'S SEAWEED TONIC, and SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP, have proved extraordinarily successful in the cure of diseases of the pulmonary organs, or what is usually termed Consumption.

I am fully aware that there are many persons whose prejudices rule them so completely that "proofs strong as Holy Writ," would fail to convince them of the efficacy of my remedies, and that there are others who, under similar circumstances, could be prevailed upon to admit their merits, simply because such an admission would prove detrimental to their particular personal interests.
